Mayor Hannon's Mid-Term Recommendations

• No Changes In Assessments

• Municipal Spending Cuts

• More Open Space Acquisition

• Cultural Development Program

MAYOR WALTER J. HANNON

By DICK MATTULINA

Mayor Walter J. Hannon pledged Tuesday night that there will be no changes in residential property assessments in 1973.

In his mid-term address, delivered in the City Council Chamber the Mayor reaffirmed his opposition to 100 percent valuation and called the city's present assessment system "full, fair and accurate."

Hannon outlined plans for 1973 including:

- A four-point program to reduce municipal spending.
- A commitment to acquisition of open space.
- A "Spring Offensive" to clean up the city.
- Establishment of an Historic Zoning Study Committee.
- A city-wide cultural development program.

Arthur H. Tobin was re-elected City Council president, becoming the first man in Quincy's history to receive four consecutive one-year terms.

Mrs. Josephine Carnali was re-elected clerk of council committees for her fourth term. She is the first woman to hold that job.

The mayor asked that taxpayers' suits for 100 percent revaluation be dropped because the system "can mean disaster for our community.

"Court-ordered revaluation will automatically increase the tax burden of the homeowner by shifting a greater share of taxes from the business and industrial community to residential property owners," he said.

The elderly, veterans and widows would suffer most in lost abatements, he said, but "all homeowners and rent payers will be hurt."

In an effort to reduce municipal spending, Hannon said he will require department heads to "roll back general expenses and capital costs requests to 1970 levels."

The $1.4 million anticipated federal revenue sharing funds for 1973 will also "be applied directly towards keeping the tax rate down," he said.

He said he will initiate an analysis of license fees and pledged to work for corrective legislation regarding taxation of new developments.

Hannon said these measures will add to a belt-tightening campaign begun in September including:

- Elimination of non-emergency overtime.
- Establishment of a Citizens Capital Improvements Committee.
- Establishment of a Citizens School Building Needs Committee.
- Establishment of a city budget director.

Tobin To Get Major Senate Post

Senator Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] reportedly will be named vice-chairman of the senate's powerful Ways and Means Committee.

State House sources say that the appointment by Senate President Kevin Harrington will be made shortly.

Tobin, who is 42, will succeed Frank McCann [D-Cambridge] as vice-chairman of what is the most powerful committee in the Senate, and by doing so will assume a major role in party and Senate leadership.

McCann will become chairman of the new Post Audit and Oversight Committee which will serve as the Senate watchdog on spending.

Tobin will be a member of that committee also.

The Quincy Democrat has been in the Senate only 18 months, succeeding James R. McIntyre who resigned to become Senate counsel.

McIntyre had moved up to Majority Whip in the Senate before resigning.

State House sources believe that Tobin will follow in McIntyre's footsteps and also become Majority Whip.

Tobin, who is chairman of the Quincy Democratic Committee, Tuesday night, was re-elected president of the City Council for his fourth one-year term.

And, according to the State House sources, Harrington tapped Tobin for his new committee post because he was impressed by his leadership of the council and because of his work with the Democratic party in Quincy.

Harrington, they said, was looking for a "young, energetic Democrat with experience in local government and with leadership qualities."

Quincy Census To Start In February Or March

The book that lists the residents of Quincy of voting age is going to be a lot thicker this year.

Now that the voting age has been lowered from 21 to 18 the book will list all residents over the age of 17.

Census takers will start making their rounds sometime in February or March, the City Clerk's office said this week.

And don't call it the "police listings" anymore.

The count has been taken by Quincy citizens hired especially for the job for the past three years.

Christine Simpson, David Kaplan Quincy's Prince, Princess

Christine Simpson, 9, of 17 Townsend Ave., Braintree, and David Kaplan, 11, of Charles St., Quincy, are the Princess and Prince of the Christmas Festival program of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Announcement of the winners was made by Joseph Whiteman, chairman of the event.

They'll be off for Florida any weekend after April 15 for three days and two nights at Disneyworld, accompanied by a parent, as guests of the Association membership.

Trailside Museum To Recycle Christmas Trees

Museum Director Robert Stanhope, said the trees will have their boughs removed and they will be used to construct a new deer blind on the reservation. The main trunks will be reduced to wood chips that will be utilized during the spring planting season.

Trees should have all decorations and tinsel removed and should be taken to the Trailside Museum on Canton Ave. in Milton, adjacent to the MDC ski slope. A member of the museum staff will assist people with their trees.

The recycling will not only assist the museum staff in the construction of a much needed deer blind, but will also eliminate the need to cut living evergreens for the construction.

The Trailside Museum will also be participating in "Museum Goers Month" during January. Visitors will receive a free pass good for free admission at any one of these locations: The New England Aquarium, The Museum of Fine Arts, The Children's Museum, The Museum of Transportation, The China Trade Museum, The Museum of Science and Drumlin Farm.

John Provost Joins Survival Staff

Survival announces that John C. Provost has joined the staff of the Quincy based youth service program.

He attended Survival's Redirection Residence where he received his training from January 1972 until November 1972.

Provost will be in charge of courts, probation and prison programs at Survival. If any South Shore resident is having drug difficulties which have resulted in legal involvement, they are urged to contact him at 471-7100.

Quincy Remembers Harry Truman

ENTERING First Parish Church to participate in ecumenical memorial service for former President Harry S. Truman are Congressman James Burke, former House Speaker John McCormack, Henry Nicholson, Truman's favorite secret service man for 6 1/2 years, and Mayor Walter Hannon. It was from these steps that President Truman spoke to the people of Quincy on his visit in 1948.

IN MEMORIAM - A layman and clergymen of three faiths took part in the memorial services for President Harry S. Truman at United First Parish Church. From the left, City Council President and Senator Arthur H. Tobin; Rabbi David Jacobs of Temple Beth-El; Rev. Robert H. Blute of St. Ann's Church; and Rev. John R. Graham of the United First Parish Church.

By PAUL HAROLD

Quincy paused last week to remember President Harry S. Truman with an ecumenical memorial service at First Parish Church, the Church of the Presidents from where Truman spoke to the people of Quincy in 1948 on a campaign stop.

The ecumenical service began with an organ prelude by Mrs. Gale Harrison. Rabbi David Jacobs of Temple Beth-El gave a reading, followed by an eloquent tribute by Rev. John Graham, minister of the First Parish Church. Rev. Robert Blute of St. Ann's Church read a memorial prayer and led the congregation in a recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

His motorcade crossed the Neponset Bridge around 7:20 a.m. and proceeded up Hancock St. to the steps of First Parish Church.

Despite the earliness of the hour an estimated 7,000 people gathered in the square to hear the President.

On the speaker's stand with Truman were: Mayor Charles Ross; William Flynn, chairman of the Democratic City Committee; Paul Dever, Democratic nominee for Governor; Charles Sullivan, nominee for Lieutenant Governor; Francis Kelley, nominee for Attorney General; David Concannon, nominee for Congress accompanied by his seven year old daughter Kateri and Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin.

Truman spoke for only about five minutes, elaborating on what he considered the main issues of the campaign, checking Communism and finding peace.

Mayor Ross presented him with a copy of the book, "300 Years of Quincy", as a souvenir. The Mayor then introduced Truman to his wife, as well as Mrs. Mary Shipsley, Quincy Democratic State Committeewoman, Timothy Daly and James Daly, first cousin to Maurice Tobin.

Before he left, the President toured the First Parish Church and the crypts to see the tombs of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams. He was escorted by late city historian William C. Edwards and his son William, Jr.

The President's motorcade, made up of nine cars, then made its way down Quincy Ave. to Weymouth Landing. Preceeding it were four state police motorcycles, four Quincy police motorcycles, two cars of secret servicemen and two buses of reporters.

Mrs. Truman and Margaret had originally planned to visit Quincy with the President, but had to cancel because of a change in schedule.

Truman's visit coincided with a similar visit made by Franklin Delano Roosevelt 12 years earlier in 1936.

Despite Truman's last minute visit, the Quincy voters went to the polls the next week to give Dewey a plurality.

Truman's visit made him the sixth President to visit Quincy. James Monroe came in 1817 to meet with John Adams. Theodore Roosevelt was here around the turn of the century; William Howard Taft in 1912; Calvin Coolidge in 1919. Franklin Roosevelt stopped in Quincy on two occasions, once on June 19, 1933 and again on October 21, 1935.

Quincy High Band Returns To Warm Reception

By TOM HENSHAW

The Quincy High School band was due back home Wednesday after an eventful five days in Dallas, Texas, during which it got national exposure on television in the New Year's Day Cotton Bowl parade.

But a special surprise was reserved for the final day for the returning ambassadors of good will.

The rival North Quincy High School band, which goes to Dublin, Ireland, for the St. Patrick's Day parade next March, was scheduled to serenade them as they debarked from their plane at 2:08 p.m. in Logan Airport.

And, for the first time in the memory of an old inhabitant, possibly for the first time since the schools split in the early 1930's, the North Quincy band was planning to play the Quincy High marching song.

Plans for the reception at Logan went like this:

Four buses were to leave North Quincy High around 1 p.m. with the members of the North band. They were to be escorted by State Police onto the airport apron and march out to the plane for the greeting.

Two buses were to depart from Quincy High about 1 p.m. with 24 Quincy High cheerleaders and as many parents of band members as wanted to make the reception.

Members of the City Council and the School Committee were invited to take part in the reception, which was to be video taped by the school's library services department.

The Quincy band also was presented with a resolution, introduced into the City Council Tuesday night by Council President Arthur H. Tobin, commending the band for the honors it brought to the City of Quincy.

"The commentator on television mentioned that the Quincy band came the farthest of any band in the parade," said Tobin. "He told a little story about it. It made us feel pretty good. The kids did us proud."

Tobin's office as state senator helped to arrange the reception at Logan Airport in which the North Quincy band was permitted to greet the returning Quincy kids at the plane.

Meanwhile, members of the Quincy band were savoring the events of the past five days.

They attended a New Year's Eve dance, sponsored by the Cotton Bowl Council for members of all bands in the parade, which was also attended by actor William Conrad [he's Cannon in the TV show of the same name].

During their free time, some of the band members visited the famed Nieman Marcus Department Store in Dallas and a real frontier rodeo in nearby Fort Worth.

But the most heartwarming event was entirely unplanned.

The hospitality at the home was such that the band went back that night [Friday] for an impromptu serenade of the nursing home's residents, almost all of them over 80 years old.

Like Councillor Tobin said. The kids did us proud.

No Changes In Residential Assessments In 1973

● Negotiation of a two-year union contract.

The proposed Historic Zoning Study Committee would be geared toward insuring "the long-term preservation of our city's architectural and historic assets," he said.

The mayor promised to support efforts in the fights against alcoholism and drug abuse centered in Quincy Hospital's Faxon House and the office of drug coordinator John Mahoney.

He said he "would like to see the City of Quincy develop more in the way of cultural activities, especially during the spring and summer months.

"My office is going to begin to examine this approach and we hope a program will come from it that Quincy citizens can enjoy," he said.

Hannon said "the problems that Quincy will face in the next several years are bound to be complex, but they can be solved if there is an inherent sense of honesty."

"Facts must be faced and decisions courageously made, based on what is good for the people and what is best in the long run for the welfare of our City," he said.

Now They Know It In Texas, Too

If you think you noticed something different on the banner that was carried by the Quincy High School band on TV in the Cotton Bowl Parade, you're right. There was.

To the old wording, "City of Presidents" was added "Quincy, Mass."

"We never had to worry about such identification before," said a school department spokesman. "Everybody around here knows it's Quincy. But they don't in Texas."

Or in Ireland, either.

The North Quincy High School band will take a similar banner [in red and black instead of blue and white] to Dublin when it marches in the St. Patrick's Day parade next March.

What is it they say .... Tomorrow the world!

Quincy residents watching the Cotton Bowl Parade on TV New Year's Day were a bit surprised at first to hear the Quincy contingent referred to as the "Golden Eagles".

It was no mistake though. The commentator was referring to the all-girl color guard from Quincy, Ill., which was marching a short distance ahead of our Quincy "Presidents".

Incidentally, the Q.H.S. band travelled the fartherest of all the bands participating in the Dallas parade, and seemed to get more TV time than any other band. Certainly good advertising for Quincy.

AND SPEAKING of Quincy, Ill., it's among the 17 communities in the United States with the name Quincy. The others are located in the state of: California, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Most of them were named after John Quincy Adams, but pronounced "Quin-cee" instead of "Quin-zee".

THE TRIBUTE was for Harry Truman, but the center of attraction at the memorial service at Quincy's First Parish Church last week was former House Speaker John McCormack.

Sitting next to McCormack was Congressman James Burke, former Mayor James McIntyre and Mayor Walter Hannon. Appropriately enough they sat in pew number 54, the Adams family pew.

H. HOBART HOLLY, President of the Quincy Historical Society, reports that the society has gained 100 new members since last year, bringing the total membership to about 450.

There are two reasons for the surge in membership. One is the recent acquisition of the Adams Academy property. The other is the work done by First Vice President, William O'Connell.

Former Executive Vice President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, O'Connell, an antique collector and historian in his own right, has been on the phone for the last couple of months drumming up interest and support [and members] for the society.

HISTORICAL SIDELIGHT: When President Truman visited Quincy in 1948 he was welcomed by Mayor Charles Ross. After the speeches were ended the Mayor was surprised to learn that the President had been accompanied by his name sake. Truman's press secretary came up to the Mayor and said, "Charlie Ross, meet Charlie Ross."

- U.S. To Pay Kennedy Center Bill
- Nixon, Kissinger Keep Tight Rein

WASHINGTON – The Supreme Court may soon issue a ruling that could revolutionize public service advertising on television and radio.

In the past, public service ads rarely have gone beyond the rumblings of Smokey the Bear or the antipollution appeals of Woodsy the Owl.

But the days of the soft-sell in public service ads may be numbered. For 14 months environmental and consumer activists have been pressuring TV and radio stations around the country to run tougher ads in the public interest.

Many ads have actually been prepared but rejected by TV and radio stations. One ad prepared a year ago had the Rev. Billy Graham advising consumers not to buy phosphate detergents. Another more recent ad has actor Burt Lancaster hurling broadsides at the drug industry.

In his ad, Lancaster takes several drug companies to task for peddling aspirin that is unrecommended and overpriced. Lancaster advises bluntly: "Next time you get a headache, use your head and buy the cheapest aspirin you can find."

Station managers are understandably reluctant to run such ads free of charge. But even when consumer activists have offered to pay to get the ads on the air, the men behind the media have turned thumbs down.

The Supreme Court, however, may compel the stations to run the ads. Before the Court are basically two questions: Does the first amendment apply to broadcasters and, if so, does it allow broadcasters to ban controversial ads?

Indications are that the court will rule in favor of the consumer groups. If so, we may all soon be seeing Burt Lancaster giving the drug industry headaches.

– Footing the Bill –

The Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts has discovered a unique way to handle its enormous construction cost overruns.

Kennedy Center executive board members, who for months had been frantically searching for funds to pay the center's debts, finally arranged last fall for the center to be made a United States agency.

A confidential memo of a recent board meeting outlines the details. The memo states, "The Department of Justice has now determined that the (Kennedy) Center is a 'United States agency.'"

This means, according to the memo, that the Justice Department will now "deal with the matter of unpaid construction costs and delay damage claims from the general contractor...and some 24 subcontractors." The memo adds: "Unpaid construction costs and damage claims total about $4.5 million."

The official memorandum also describes the reaction of the Kennedy Center trustees. The trustees, says the memo, "were in a high state of elation when they heard the news."

Small wonder. Not only will the Justice Department settle the $4.5 million construction debt, but the U.S. Park Service will shell out another $2 million to pay for maintenance and other operating costs.

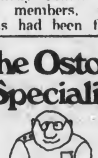
The Kennedy Center may be for the arts, but there is nothing refined about the price tag.

– Down on Henry –

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai apparently has changed his mind about Henry Kissinger. In the past, Chou has praised Kissinger to visitors for his role in negotiating the detente between Washington and Peking. But recent visitors have reported that Chou is disappointed in Kissinger over his handling of the Vietnam truce. This could hurt Chinese-American relations.

Meanwhile, in Washington, President Nixon and Henry Kissinger are keeping such tight rein on the Vietnam truce negotiations that the top State Department experts don't know for sure what's going on. The more they learn, however, the more appalled they are. One top expert told us that Kissinger tried to handle too much by himself without the strong support he should have requested from the State Department. With the proper back-up, they say, he could have avoided the imprecise language that has led to a breakdown in the talks.

As for the impact of the bombing on the North Vietnamese, intelligence reports claim that Hanoi correctly anticipated that President Nixon would renew the bombing of Hanoi. As early as December 4, according to the intelligence reports, they started evacuating school children from Hanoi.



– Around the U.S. –

U.S. MEDICAL CRISIS – Medical bills have been skyrocketing so high that the public is demanding action. We have received complaints from middle-class working people, who have spent their whole lives saving up a small retirement nest-egg only to have their entire savings wiped out by a 60-minute operation by a high-priced doctor. We have heard from citizens in remote areas out West as well as minority groups in the inner cities. All complain that they are cut off from adequate medical service. President Nixon, we've learned, will soon propose the establishment of a paramedical corps to provide emergency help to ghettos and remote communities.

BUCKLEY FACING AXE – William Buckley's popular TV show Firing Line has only one chance in 10 of returning to public television next fall. Buckley got the word personally from his friend Henry Loomis, chairman of the Corporation of Public Broadcasting, last week. According to a recent survey, more than a hundred program directors of educational stations around the country rate Buckley's show "essential" to their programing. But Buckley, out of favor in the White House, is considered "too much a personality," according to Republicans who control CPB purse strings.

UNPUNISHED POLICEMEN – A spot check of police brutality cases at the Justice Department reveals what could be a disturbing trend. Over the last year, the FBI has referred more than 200 cases to the Justice Department, but the Justice Department informs us it has successfully prosecuted less than a half dozen of these cases.

Disagrees With Fellow QCA Members On Revaluation

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I would like to comment on a news article which appeared in the local news media on December 22, 1972 and entitled "QCA Statement Backs Mayors Tax Program".

As a current paid up member of the QCA [Quincy Citizens Association] I have backed this organization on many issues. However, I am also a member of the QTR and I have to disagree with the QCA statement that 100 per cent revaluation would have a disastrous effect on small homeowners, particularly the elderly and veterans. I believe this statement is false and I believe no more than 10% of the small homeowners particularly the elderly and veterans of this city would be hurt by 100% revaluation – if at all.

I also believe that I could go almost anywhere in this city, pick out at random, some taxpayers and prove that these people have extra income coming in from sources other than normal weekly pay checks!

All those politicians who keep "pushing" the phrase people on fixed incomes are hurt by this and by that. When you really think about it -- everybody is on a fixed income – in a sense.

As for sending [railroading] over assessed taxpayers to the State Appellate Tax Board to get relief I think these people are wasting their time going to the board, considering that it usually takes up to 2 or 3 years before your case is heard. Also if you do not have a lawyer present with you to argue your case for you, then you could legally be "twisted to bits".

I personally know of an individuals case about 1½ years ago, whereby his 4-family Quincy home was slightly gutted by fire and was in the process of being renovated when his assessment was doubled. He went to the State Tax Board with a lawyer whom he had already paid hundreds of dollars in legal fees and he lost.

The QTR [Quincy Taxpayers Revolt] because of their honesty, charisma, fortitude, endurance, highly developed organization and having one of the finest legal minds in the state representing them, have shown that they are being accepted by over 51% of the citizens of Quincy and are rapidly becoming a new "Voice of the People".

I hope to see more and more taxpayers attending our public meetings in the months ahead and also proudly display our new bumper stickers on their car bumpers for all to see.

I would like to close by saying that the QTR was born out of the pain of despair for honest government and a quest for equality in taxes and justice for all the citizens of Quincy.

A 'Thank You' From Senior Citizens Activities Director

Editor, Quincy Sun:

We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation to you and members of your staff for the publicity you have given our Quincy Senior Citizen Activities during the past year.

I'm sure that the publicity played a most important part in the success of the various programs that were enjoyed by more than 6,500 senior citizens during the past twelve months.

Thank you once again and we wish you all a very healthy, happy and successful year ahead.

●Question Of The Week
'WHY GREAT AND GENERAL COURT?'

Why is the state legislature of Massachusetts called "The Great and General Court"? This question came to the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone from a caller who was confused about the rather elaborate title of the Massachusetts' House and Senate.

Voter Information Phone staffers looked into the question and found that the title came directly from colonial days.

The Massachusetts Bay Colony began as a trading company. The freemen or stockholders in the company chose a governor, a deputy governor and 18 assistants who managed the company affairs. Four times a year there was a "great and general court" of freemen of the company and at these meetings the freemen plus the governor and six of his assistants would make the laws and ordinances "for the good and welfare of said company, and for the government and ordering of said land and plantation..."

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP Phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880, outside the Boston metropolitan area callers should dial the toll-free number 1-800-882-1649.

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Thousands of assigned risk car owners in Massachusetts are being bilked of up to $200 each by scheming brokers who routinely charge for certain extra policy features without telling their customers.

At this time of year when motorists are renewing their car insurance the Consumer Protection Division and the Criminal Division of my office caution consumers about understanding fully any insurance applications they may sign.

Both of these divisions are conducting full-scale investigations of assigned risk insurance brokers for possible larceny–charging for insurance that is not written; consumer fraud; insurance law violations and "kickbacks" to auto dealers.

The Consumer Protection Division urges assigned risk motorists to go directly to the Assigned Risk Bureau for their insurance rather than to insurance brokers who persuade them to sign blank applications and possible add "roll-ons" to their policies.

These "roll-ons" or "extras" may include motor club membership and auto accident income protection plans, which the consumer may not want nor have need of. Some motorists have paid up to $200 for these extras without being told what the money was for. In another case a woman was taken for almost $400.

Massachusetts law requires brokers "to notify all assureds in writing of exact insurance coverage and names of companies covering risks; however many people are not informed of this and are not provided with a copy of their policies.

Consumers should not sign any documents until the broker has specified in writing what the coverage is and what it will cost. In addition they should insist on receiving a copy of their policy even though they may be financing their insurance.

BRAND NEW YEAR

Ding-Dong!
New Year Bells,
Are joyfully clanging
And swinging as the Dying echoes of Father Time
Re-echoes ... bursting forth
In loud-cries of the New-born Babe of '73.

All over the globe, folks
Shout and dance with glee
As they approach the
Time tick of its Birth-coming,
Raising a toast to their Lips in celebration, dissolving
Old broken vows, and Resolving new-potion promises.

Days come and go
While Time marches on ...
Many a pledge has been broken,
But as the old saying goes:
"It's better to have tried and failed, than not to have tried at all."
For the "prize of action,"
Is Effort-Power.

'Laugh Down The Hurt Walls'

The accumulation of hurts between husbands and wives...or between any two people...can destroy a happy companionship...make each suspicious...fearful of further hurt. A series of hurts can create a "hurt wall" between you...and until that "hurt wall" crumbles you'll live together under great strain. You'll act cold and indifferent. You'll be accused of things that aren't true...that you have another interest...that you've gone frigid or impotent...that you're "sick"...lack feelings. The truth is that the "hurt wall" has been built...and as more hurts continue the wall will be erected higher and higher.

Sam and Joanie had been married four years...all four marked with misery...because Sam liked to play cards. Several nights a week the telephone would ring..."We're getting up a little game...come on over". Nearly always Sam went. Joanie kept feeling more and more hurt. The pattern continued even after Samuel Jr. was born...and Joan's lonely evenings became unbearable. Then Joan began to get a baby sitter and go out evenings. The gulf between Sam and Joan increased. Sam continued to play cards...the "hurt wall" kept getting higher and higher. Sam couldn't see why she had become cold...didn't laugh...didn't want sex...acted so old and unhappy.

At last under counseling...the walls began to crumble. They crumbled for two reasons...first...Sam stopped responding to the calls from his friends. They agreed upon one evening a week which was understood to be his "card night". They resolved the problem so that the same "hurt" didn't keep recurring.

Secondly...they talked about the old "hurt wall"...got so they could joke about it...laugh about it. Sam would say..."Ole Jim's still going out on his wife to the card games"..."saw Ralph yesterday at the Post Office...he lost sixty dollars at cards Monday night"..."really stupid isn't it...honey?" "Remember when I was just as stupid?" The "hurt wall" had crumbled...because the "hurts" had ceased...and now they could laugh about the things that once hurt.

I heard a young minister addressing a group of ministers recently on the subject of humor. He thought and said that most ministers can use a little more humor when it's genuine and not just trying to be funny. He gave a formula which I thought great. Trauma + Insight + Time = Humor.

The trauma is the "hurt"...cards...other girl/man...money...silence... yelling...criticism...lack of affection...any "hurt" that you experience repeatedly. It must stop. It's trauma to your emotional life.

Time will heal hurts...when there is insight which comes from talking...understanding...reasoning...asking why?...answering why?...thus resolving the problem. Then you can laugh about those "terrible nights alone"..."the loss of money at cards"..."the verbal battles"..."the awful silences we used to have. Trauma + Insight + Time = Humor. The result of crumbled "hurt walls".

Commemorative Stamp Folders Now Available

The 1972 Commemorative Stamp Folders, described by Postmaster George K. Walker "as the best way to begin a stamp collection" is now available in all post offices in the Boston Postal District.

A new stamp honoring stamp collecting is also available. It features the first U.S. postage stamp issued 125 years ago.

"We are again pleased that we can make available these attractive Mini-Albums, which this year contain see-through mounts that will allow budding collectors to keep the stamps in their original condition", Walker said.

He said the albums also show a reproduction of the first U.S. postage stamp issued in 1847, containing a likeness of Benjamin Franklin, first Postmaster General.

Tobin Endorses Proposed Cerebral Palsy Clinic

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin has endorsed "with great enthusiasm" plans to convert a garage at 105 Adams St. into a cerebral palsy walk-in clinic.

"The benefits to the victims of cerebral palsy and the improvement in the appearance of the building make this project necessary."

Tobin registered his support in a letter to Arthur Ciampa, executive director of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area Inc.

He said the garage "is currently being vandalized and needs to be altered in order to avoid becoming a blight.

"Any construction, alteration or remodeling will serve only to enhance the general appearance of the building and the immediate neighborhood," he said.

Quincy Firefighters Aid Fire Stricken Families

This time the visit was a happy one.

Members of Firefighters Local 792, AFL-CIO, played Santa Claus for the seven children of the Fantasia and Kuja families who lost their Christmas presents in a fire that damaged their home on Dec. 22.

Local President William Lowry, Vice President James Kelly and Secretary Thomas Gorman brought a turkey, a basket of fruit, toys for the younger children and a dress set for an older girl.

Lowry and Kelly, both assigned to Central Headquarters Ladder One, were at the fire, too.

Robert Noonan, an auxiliary firefighter, arranged for Santa's visit to the children of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Fantasia and Mr. and Mrs. David Kuja, who range in age from one year to 14 years.

The Fantasia and the Kujas have been living in the rear of the building while awaiting repairs to the damaged front rooms of the two-story duplex at 102 Phipps St.

Meadows Students In Project EXUS

Students at Broad Meadows Junior High School are deeply involved in Project EXUS [for Expressing Us], the goal of which is to brighten the school's corridors through care, effort and creativity.

One effort will be to cover the hallway leading to and from the gym with art work reflecting athletics. Another will be free passes to rock concerts to be awarded for the best posters contributed to the anti-litter campaign.

The project is coordinated by Paul Grossman and Noreen Guest of the School's Spirit Committee and Student Advisory Board.

OPEN CAMPUS: A STUDY IN RESPONSIBILITY

By KEVIN FOLEY

Certainly the largest issue at Quincy High over the past three years has been that of Open Campus.

Open Campus is a program in which a student has the alternative of doing something else during his study periods other than report to a study hall. He may have the option of leaving the school grounds or he can just go somewhere within the school.

After much debate, Quincy High finally got Open Campus on an experimental basis in 1970. This was not until a lot of debate by the School Committee, and an unsuccessful student strike which almost lost the student body the chance for Open Campus. A few students abused the privilege, and the school was forced to drop the Open Campus program.

In 1971, a restricted Open Campus program was finally agreed upon between the student body, the school administration, and most importantly, the School Committee. In the restricted program, certain areas were declared off limits to students during the school day. When the school started receiving complaints from neighboring merchants whose stores were plagued with students during school hours, Open Campus was once again sure to perish.

Under the guidelines of the original Open Campus proposal, the Open Campus program must be accepted yearly by the School Committee. Under the direction of Quincy High's principal, Lloyd Creighton, the proposal was re-drafted and re-submitted to the School Committee in August, 1972. The School Committee had reservations about re-instating the program due to it's unsuccessful history. While under "pressure" from various groups in the city, the School Committee surprisingly voted in favor of the Open Campus program. But the problem does not end here.

Adhering to the promise that Open Campus would not cost the city one penny, the School Committee refused to allot the money necessary to pay for a full-time Open Campus coordinator. They also restricted Open Campus to the school grounds in an attempt to alleviate outside complaints.

Under the changes that the School Committee made in the Open Campus proposal, the school must prove that Open Campus will still work before re-instating the program, or something similar in its place. A committee has been set up in the school to try to solve the largest problem that now faces Quincy High - how to control over 2,400 students all at once in an Open Campus situation.

As I see it, Open Campus per se is dead at Quincy High School. However, I am not saying that I am against Open Campus. If grade school children were given Open Campus, I doubt if there would be any problem by the time they reached high school. It has always been human nature to take what is offered and try to take more. This is what happened with Quincy High's Open Campus program.

It is humanly impossible to ask someone to adapt to an Open Campus situation overnight.

Space Program Goes On Trial

By LISA COOPER

On Wednesday, Dec. 20, 1972 in room 307 of Quincy High School, a trial by jury was held. The American Space program was the issue being debated.

Judge Lori Carbanaro, a sophomore student, presided. At 8:20 a.m. the prosecution called its first witness, Russell Rayner, a physics teacher, to the stand.

Mr. Rayner said he thinks we should, "evaluate the best ways to spend our [taxpayer's] money." The money used to pay the employees of N.A.S.A. should be put towards science research, employing top scientists which eventually aid many more people than the space program.

Being an experienced teacher, the court established that Mr. Rayner is qualified to present factual information which would not be questioned.

When the defense lawyer, Rick Hennessey, questioned the prosecutions second witness, Terry Roberts, a student, there was an objection by teacher, Charles MacLaughlin [for the prosecution]. He stated that the witness was called to the stand as a student, only required to give her opinion, not factual information. The objection was overruled.

Third witness for the prosecution, Karen Ryan, a student, said she feels that man should take care of all his priorities here on earth first. At that, the defense proceeded to present information regarding a particular plastic invented within the space program which would help patients who suffer an irritating disease. There was an objection by the prosecution that the information was taken from a biased magazine. It was overruled. The prosecutions fourth witness was Carolyn Wencek, a QHS senior, who voiced similar opposition.

The court took a brief five-minute recess before the defense called up their four witnesses. Marilyn Silverstein, a junior at QHS, believes the Space program came about due to man's inquisitive nature. The second witness, Linda Smith, student, explained that in her opinion, the Space program is beneficial because man is learning so many new things. This was followed by a brief conference with the judge.

The third witness, John Chrusciel, head of the Quincy High Science Department, said he regards the space program as essential to the discovery of new techniques. He claims discoveries would be made up to 100 years later if it wasn't for the space program. He said that all the money spent is merely a drop in the bucket towards all the new inventions.

On the whole, it was extremely well organized. The students who participated were well informed and showed genuine concern and interest regarding the positions they held in the trial. All statements made were backed up by evidence researched by students.

Former Quincy High School graduate John Provost has been named to the third team of the Associated Press' All-America squad.

Although only a sophomore, the 5-11 180 pound Holy Cross student has been a starting cornerback this year, and has led the nation in interceptions with nine.

Two years ago, John was a member of Quincy's only undefeated team in history, as he played both cornerback and halfback.

Let's hope that more of Quincy's athletes will make good in the college ranks in the years to come!

Latin Lives At Quincy High

On Dec. 19, 42 members of the Latin Club celebrated a combined initiation ceremony to the Junior Classical League, a national organization involved in the studies of the classics.

The Roman Holiday of the Saturnalia was also celebrated.

Included in the initiation were six students from Quincy Point Junior High School, who travel along with others faithfully each day to the senior high for a Latin One class.

The new members were crowned with laurel wreathes and appropriate signs were hung around their necks as they were chained together in slave fashion and led singing songs in Latin to the Three Season's Restaurant for further ceremonies.

The highlight of the entertainment was provided by some returning members who presented the short play "The Julius Caesar Caper". Participating in the comedy about a Roman private eye were Scott Critcher as Flavius Maximus, Jeffrey Bonish as Brutus. Calpurnia was played by Mary Cronin, Brian Coombs played the part of Claudius and Mark Antony was portrayed by Jack Eisan. Also in the play were Judy Ryan as the secretary and Thomas O'Connell as a soldier.

Officers elected for the coming year are Jeffrey Bonish, president; Roberta Ferguson, vice-president; Judy Ryan, secretary; Jack Eisan and Patricia Desmond, Aediles, and Gayle Tardif, treasurer.

There are three games contained in any single game of chess. The opening game, the middle game, and the end game.

However, before a player learns the last two mentioned, he must learn the strategy involved in the opening; for, if he doesn't, he will never play the game long enough to see the middle or the end.

The strategy to opening the game is simple. Control as many of the central squares in the board as possible. The central squares are considered the K-4 and Q-4 squares on their respective sides of the board. The following opening was named after a Catholic Bishop that created it. Its purpose is to control those central squares.

RUY LOPEZ

	White	Black
1.	P - K4	P - K4
2.	KT - KB3	KT - QB3

The first two moves by White and Black are considered excellent opening moves for the following reasons:

1. open lines are immediately created for two pieces [King Bishop and Queen]

2. by developing these pieces the player is almost ready to castle his king to safety.

3. each player exercises control of the squares Q-5 and KB-5.

4. the knights are now developed for attack and also protection of pieces.

To continue -

	White	Black
3.	B - KT5	P - QR3
4.	B - K4	KT - B3

This of course is just one opening of many controlling the central squares.

To see how important it is to control in this way play a game against a friend as white and follow through.

Then play another with an opening like P-KN3, P-QR4 as your first moves and see how well you do.

Complete Text Of Mayor Hannon's Mid-Term Address

As one year draws to an end and another begins..I am taking this opportunity to report to you, the citizens of Quincy, on the accomplishments and problems of your City government and this administration during the past 12 months. This first year, as your Mayor, has been for me a time of mixed blessings. Never does a day go by when in the space of a few short hours you can have a feeling of great accomplishment only to be taken back by a new and more serious problem than the last.

COURT ORDERED REVALUATION WILL HURT TAXPAYERS, RENT PAYEERS

No problem has been more difficult than the matter of taxes and finances in our community. Today, with cities and towns so dependent upon an unfair property tax, all decisions become dominated by our attempt to minimize tax effect. Also, since 1965 when a 10 taxpayers' suit for 100% revaluation was filed and now recently when a similar suit has been filed, the threat of court-ordered revaluation has hung over our City.

These two suits and the most recently filed suit can mean disaster for our community. Court-ordered revaluation will automatically increase the tax burden of the homeowner by shifting a greater share of taxes from the business and industrial community to residential property owners. Those who will suffer the greatest are the elderly over 70, the veterans, and widows who now receive substantial abatements and those of limited and fixed incomes.

But make no mistake about it - all homeowners and rent payers will be hurt. I do not want to see the property tax distribution of this City determined by a court based upon a law which is unfair and unjust. As a member of the legislature I have worked to change this unfair law by amending the constitution of the commonwealth but, unfortunately, to no avail.

These citizens, who have innocently signed a petition for lower taxes have been hoodwinked into being part of a suit to revalue this City at 100%. I ask these same people to now direct their energy to helping this administration fight this suit in the court as I and the past administration have been doing successfully for the past seven years.

On behalf of the homeowners of this City, I ask today that this suit, calling for court-ordered revaluation, be withdrawn.

NO RESIDENTIAL ASSESSMENT CHANGES IN 1973

Because properties are now fairly valued through the equalization program, there will be no residential assessment changes in 1973. I repeat, there will be no residential assessment changes in 1973. If your property was not reassessed this year, it is because the Board of Assessors believe its value was a full, fair and accurate one. There is no reason to believe it will change in 1973.

The decision to equalize taxes was not an easy one, but the decision was made knowing that the alternative was 100% of value. I again reaffirm my total opposition to 100% of value.

I was fully aware of the financial problems of 1972 when I took office a year ago today.

My Department Heads have been more than cooperative in the past 12 months. Men such as Alexander Smith, who have to live with the fiscal problem on a day to day basis, time and again have reminded me of the financial plight in our City. Therefore, on September 15, my office issued a directive that all budgets were to be frozen. All purchase orders must be personally cleared by me. This has been done and done successfully.

Our job now is to keep Quincy's expenditures to an absolute minimum and to do everything possible to reduce ongoing City spending. We have already taken several steps to stop unnecessary spending.

For example, we have:

1. Stopped non-emergency overtime expenses.

2. Established a Citizens Capital Improvements Committee which reviews and recommends cuts in City department requests for capital expenses.

3. Established a Citizens School Building Needs Committee to review and make recommendations on school capital construction needs.

4. Established the position of Budget Director in the Mayor's Office at no City cost to review and reduce current expenses and to establish a more efficient budget review process for 1973 and the future.

5. Negotiated and settled union contracts for a two-year period, rather than one year, at a fair and equitable level so that we can financially plan ahead more intelligently.

These steps are beginning to show results and, when continued and intensified, will help keep taxes down. But we must do more. Therefore, I shall take the following steps in the coming weeks and months to fight the cost of City government:

STEPS TO FIGHT COST OF CITY GOVERNMENT

1. 1973 City Budget - I am requiring City Departments to roll back general expense and capital costs requests to 1970 levels.

2. Federal Revenue Sharing - All funds, estimated today at 1.4 million dollars over the next 12 months, will be applied directly towards keeping the tax rate down.

3. License and fees - I shall initiate an analysis of charges for licenses and fees in Quincy in order to assess costs for various inspections and licenses and more directly on users rather than the tax rate.

4. 18 - Month Budget - State law now requires that local fiscal years begin July 1 of each year. One aspect of this legislation froze all assessments for an 18-month period. In effect, such complexes as State Street South and Kemper Insurance would pay no additional taxes for a year and a half. These two buildings paid $730 thousand dollars in taxes to Quincy for the year 1972. I have helped develop legislation which has been filed to correct this so that we can properly assess these buildings as well as all other new developments.

I have also worked with local Mayors and Selectmen in the past few months to see that necessary corrective legislation is put into effect so that the first transitional year will impose no extra costs on cities and towns.

Although finances have dominated our activities for these months, there are several areas in which, I believe, specific accomplishments have been made to provide better service for your tax dollar.

After extensive personal efforts on Beacon Hill, Legislation authorizing the county to purchase the Wollaston Golf Course for open space recreation was passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Sargent. We now look to the completion of negotiations between the County Commissioners and Golf Club so this facility will become public domain.

We were also able in 1972 to have lighting fixtures installed at Adams Field. These lights will triple the utilization in this area rather than necessitate the construction of additional facilities. This past year also marked the dedication of 50 acres of open space at the Black's Creek marsh and acquisition of 17 acres of marshland in Houghs Neck. Both projects were assisted by federal and state financing and will permanently preserve vital open space resources for our community.

TO CONTINUE COMMITMENT TO QUALITY OPEN SPACE

We shall continue our commitment to provide quality open space recreation facilities. In the near future, I shall submit, to be assisted through federal funds, the following park and recreation programs:

1. The acquisition of Squaw Rock in Squantum.

2. The acquisition of approximately 10 acres of open space and beach area in Germantown.

3. The acquisition of open space and beach area at the end of Mound Street in Quincy Point.

4. Physical improvements and upgrading of Faxon Park.

I will ask the Council to pass a bond issue to finance these worthwhile programs.

SPRING OFFENSIVE PLANNED TO BEAUTIFY CITY

In the coming year, I will make every effort to make our City cleaner and more attractive. Every citizen wants the streets in his neighborhood to reflect the quality of his own home and environment. In 1972, we purchased three new street sweepers giving us a total of five, hardly enough for a City our size. This year I would like to see greater public involvement in making our City more attractive. Therefore, I shall ask civic and scout organizations, national guard units and the garden clubs of this City to join with us in a "Spring Offensive" to beautify our City. If we work together to plan and organize the upkeep and beautification of our community, we can do a better job than ever before.

ESTABLISHMENT OF HISTORIC ZONING STUDY COMMITTEE

In order to provide even greater protection for the beauty and attractiveness of our historic areas, I am asking the City Council to establish a Historic Zoning Study Committee to review our historic areas and sites and make recommendations to the City Council on the establishment of zoning methods to insure the long term preservation of our City's architectural and historic assets.

Of all of our Federally assisted programs, the one that has proven most beneficial is the HUD program. This program has worked successfully in the Wollaston and North Quincy areas. One area where important improvements have occurred during the last year is in Quincy Point. Here, through Federally assisted Neighborhood Improvement Project $1/2 million dollars has been directed to home loans and grants and nearly $3/4 million dollars is being expended on streets, curbs, sidewalks and trees to upgrade Quincy Point to continue to make it one of our finest neighborhoods.

I look to the Federal Government to continue this type of neighborhood program so that we may offer this service to other sections of our City because these Federal dollars accomplish needed public works and provide direct assistance to Quincy homeowners.

HUMAN SERVICE PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

As well as improving, upgrading and maintaining a physical quality of life in our community, we have worked on and developed programs for better human service in our community. 1972 saw the establishment of an alcoholic detoxification and rehabilitation center at the Quincy City Hospital, I am proud of my role in helping to initiate this project with a $225,000 grant from the State Department of Public Health. This program is helping to deal with a serious sickness.

Faxon House, to date, has helped over 240 people. I look ahead to and will support efforts at greater public education regarding the problem of alcoholism. Alcoholism attacks a person and not only destroys himself but the whole framework of his family life, his job, his home and children.

We are proud of Faxon House and the people who worked so hard to make it a reality.

One of the most serious problems facing our youth today is the drug problem. When I first assumed office, I suggested that significant efforts would be made by this administration in the field of drugs. Today we are fortunate to have Mr. John Mahoney coordinating city-wide action on this problem. We are making great strides with the cooperative efforts of Survival and the Police drug units in combating this menace.

Our City has been noted for many years for its fine educational system. Certainly now we can least afford to neglect this asset because times seem difficult.

We must never let our school facilities fall into disrepair and let our quality education suffer as some neighboring Cities and Towns have done.

Two new buildings have been built at North Quincy High, the Little Building and the Teele Building. Both have proven successful. Is this an answer to overcrowded high schools?

TO CAREFULLY REVIEW CLASSROOM NEEDS

I shall ask in 1973 for the School Building Needs Committee to carefully review all aspects of our classroom needs, bearing in mind the decrease in school population and the closing of many of the parochial schools in the near future. The Committee will, in turn, make recommendations to my office and the City Council for a permanent solution to the overcrowded conditions.

In South Quincy, construction of the Lincoln-Hancock School is proceeding on schedule. This much needed facility will include space and programs developed cooperatively with community groups. This is to be Quincy's first involvement in the community schools concept and my office shall stand ready to assist both the School Department and representatives of the community in the months to come.

CULTURAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM PLANNED

Involvement in community activities builds the spirit of a City and becomes an important element of that community. I would like to see the City of Quincy develop more in the way of cultural activities, especially during the spring and summer months. My office is going to begin to examine this approach and we hope a program will come from it that Quincy citizens can enjoy.

MORE HOUSING FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

Quincy can be proud of its 2,000 senior citizens housing units. More should be added this year as I shall break ground for Senior Citizens Housing at Clay Street.

In April of this year, Fenno House will be completed and is a credit to our City and we congratulate the Wollaston Lutheran Church on this project.

These two new facilities will add 300 more needed units.

Although our City is beset with problems, it is not a time for despair. Undoubtedly, there will have to be changes, new formulas for instance, to bring about better State and Federal cooperation in financial assistance to our City. But to forecast the failure of the American system is to assume that the brain power and resourcefulness of our vast number of educated citizens have been exhausted.

The basic ingredient that makes possible a successful government and a satisfying life for the citizenry is fundamental honesty.

AN INHERENT SENSE OF HONESTY

The problems that Quincy will face in the next several years are bound to be complex, but they can be solved if there is an inherent sense of honesty. We are dependent on the effectiveness of religious teaching and a dedicated determination to distinguish right from wrong. We must be guided by a national conscience. The old cliche "Tell them what they want to hear" can no longer be used by modern politicians. People today are well educated and intelligent and must be told the facts as they are. People are tired of being spoonfed by politicians.

This is not a time for pessimism or for optimism but for realism.

We need, as always, words of caution and constructive criticism. Facts must be faced and decisions courageously made, based on what is good for the people and what is best in the long run for the welfare of our City.

WOLLASTON

How to Become Wealthy—4

A Priceless Gift: The Joy of Work

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS And Loan Association of Quincy and Hollyoak
8-5 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursday

It comes as no surprise to learn that the authors of self-help books for financial success are unanimous on this: Work.

We think of several persons who have talked to us at times of projects they have in mind and for which they seem to have special capacities. Each time we encounter them and ask how their project is coming along, they offer excuses or explain delays that reflect an apparent unwillingness to get to work on it.

Carlyle defines genius as "an infinite capacity for hard work." Henry J. Kaiser's working mother left him a legacy in this priceless advice: "Henry, nothing is ever accomplished without work. If I leave you nothing else but the will to work, I will have left you the priceless gift: the joy of work."

If you have heeded the advice of these experts in previous columns — if you have decided you really want to become wealthier, if you have found an idea that overwhelms you, and if you are eager to get to work on it — now is the time to acquire additional knowledge about the field in which your thoughts are engaged.

A personal study program or special courses to increase your knowledge will develop your enthusiasm for the project and enhance your desire to put it in operation.

It may be that you recognize deficiencies in your own background which will require the help of others if you are to become successful. Such partnerships have often proved fruitful as persons teamed up their competences. Now may be the time to consult with these carefully selected individuals and sound out their interest in your proposal.

If at this point you decide to do no more than investigate some of the self-help literature mentioned in these columns, this too is a positive action that may be meaningful for you.

Among the inspirational books which may be found at your public library are Napoleon Hill's Think and Grow Rich, W. Clement Stone's Success through a Positive Mental Attitude, William H. Danforth's I Dare You!, Alex F. Osborn's Applied Imagination, Louis Binstock's The Power of Faith, Dorothea Brande's Wake Up and Live, and Norman Vincent Peale's The Power of Positive Thinking.

Others that may be available include Edwin Clarke's The Art of Straight Thinking, George S. Clason's The Richest Man in Babylon, S. I. Hayakawa's Language in Thought and Action, Alex F. Osborn's Your Creative Power, Fulton J. Sheen's Life Is Worth Living, and the autobiographies of Benjamin Franklin and Andrew Carnegie.

You may find in one of them the spark that ignites.

On The Screen

By Vincent Puleo

Peter O'Toole 6-3, 140 Pounds

Warner Bros. is preparing a documentary on the life of the late JIMI HENDRIX. The film will include previously unreleased footage on HENDRIX... The Greek motion picture theatre business is in financial trouble. Local TV serials have resulted in a 70% drop in theatre attendance... If the situation worsens, Greek exhibitors and distributors may be forced to close down better than 40% of the theatre's in that country...

A new star on the horizon, singer-actress MARA LYNN BROWN... MARLON BRANDO is one of the principal owners in an Honolulu based lobster farming business... ALBERT FINNEY is being wooed for the lead role in the film version of LADISALS FARAGO'S novel "THE GAME OF FOXES"... "1776" is breaking box office records nationwide. At N.Y.C's. Radio City Music Hall, "1776" did a hefty $1.3 million plus it's first month... And locally the response has been just as enthusiastic... Massive queuing lines; capacity business; happy fans...

Starlet LINDSAY WAGNER [sounds political] snared the femme role opposite TIMOTHY BOTTOMS in "THE PAPER CHASE". And more besides this important... She also had her option with Universal Pictures extended. Last year she was picked up by Universal, and signed to a one year pact... The option to renew rested with Universal with the proviso she showed "promise". Since she did in that space of time, Universal has extended its option on her for an unlimited duration... I have a hunch the tag LINDSAY WAGNER is going to set more than one marquee on fire... An actress to watch...

According to director RICHARD ATTENBOROUGH "YOUNG WINSTON" is not a conventional epic, but rather "one best described as the first truly intimate epic"... If the name BERNIE CASEY rings a bell amongst sports fans who see his name on top of the marquee as star of "HIT MAN" it should. The actor was a one time starter for the Los Angeles Rams... CASEY has appeared in a number of other movies as well; "TICK...TICK...TICK", "THE GUNS OF THE MAGNIFICENT SEVEN" and the recent "BOXCAR BERTHA"...

For all the raves DIANA ROSS has received for "LADY SINGS THE BLUES", co-star BILLY DEE WILLIAMS seems, at least to this columnist, to have gotten lost in the shuffle. And I think this is an injustice... His portrayal is four star all the way. In fact I'll go right out on the proverbial limb by predicting stardom for him... Those who saw him in this flick, and in TV's "BRIAN'S SONG" as GAYLE SAYERS, will understand my limb climbing. WILLIAMS is a superlative actor. One of the better of the new crop around...

The reason "AVANTI" is a wacky earthy comedy is because it boasts the top comedy-writing team in the business today [or any day], BILLY WILDER and sidekick I.A.L. DIAMOND. For those seeking the utmost in fun, escapist enjoyment, won't want to miss the JACK LEMMON starrer... Good holiday fare... Odds and ends on "AVANTI": Co-star JULIET MILLS "beefed" up for her role of a well padded English girl zooming from her customary slim 97 pounds to a curvaceous 123...

A pat on the back to WILL GEER for his earthy, mountain man performance in "JEREMIAH JOHNSON"... "SOUNDER" producer ROBERT B. RADNITZ FEELS "there is no reason why a film that children are to see can't be made quite as artistically as an adult film"... And to that I say "aye"... Thinking out loud and wondering when you're going to see "THE GETAWAY", "THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE", and "PETE 'N TILLIE"?... TROY DONAHUE is still with us [for better or worse]. He's been signed to topbill "THE LAST STOP". And maybe one of these days, he'll become an acceptable facsimile of an actor...

Isn't PETER FALK'S "COLOMBO" one of your better character pieces around today? I think so... And the "GREAT GATSBY" casting chase is finally over, After months of interviewing scores of actors and actresses for the film version of F. SCOTT FITZGERALD'S classic American novel, Paramount Pictures have decided on the twosome of ROBERT REDFORD and MIA FARROW... KIM NOVAK, a lady we haven't seen on the screen for a year or three...

But...should be seeing very shortly... RITA HAYWORTH was originally cast [as told in this column months ago] in "TALES THAT WITNESS MADNESS". All went well for the first week... Depending on whose version one believes, Miss HAYWORTH [1] walked off the set, [2] left the set because of illness, or [3] was fired for walking out on the production... Whatever her reasons for not being affiliated with "MADNESS", KIM NOVAK was immediately signed as her replacement... This will be her first film since the big bomb of several years ago when she co-starred with CLINT WALKER in "THE GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY"...

Peeking behind the scenes: for a total of 89 days, PETER O'TOOLE arrived on the "LA MANCHA" set two hours early in order to undergo the makeup transformation that converted him into the doddering old man in his seventies... And speaking of O'TOOLE, yup he's really 6 foot 3, with slightly less than 140 pounds stretched over his lean, wiry body...

North At Malden, Quincy Hosts Chelsea

North Quincy's basketball team, defending Greater Boston League champion, is off and running again and Tuesday played a vital game at Somerville seeking its third straight GBL win and fourth in a row overall.

Friday the Raiders will play at Malden and next Tuesday will host Quincy.

Meanwhile, Quincy, which has played only one league game and won it at Malden, hosted Revere Tuesday, will be home to Chelsea Friday and go to North Quincy Tuesday.

Bob Nolan's North quintet followed up an easy win over Chelsea with an impressive 73-55 decision over Everett last week.

"Our defense was super and the shooting was excellent," Nolan said. "This was a real good win but we have two tough games coming up with Somerville and Malden and the game at Somerville is most important. If we are going anywhere we will have to win that one."

North took a 12-5 first period lead at Everett, led, 29-22, at the half and opened up a big 51-34 bulge in the third period.

Jamie Doherty and Ken Masters had 19 points each and Peter Quinn added 11.

Earlier in the week the Raiders made a fine showing in the holiday festival in Brockton.

North dropped a disappointing 59-55 decision to previously winless New Bedford in its first game but rebounded for a 77-72 win over defending state champion Lexington in the consolation game. Brockton's host team won the tourney with a win over Lexington opening night and then defeating New Bedford in the title game.

These games will not count in North's record but are considered important in Nolan's eyes.

"This was real pressure basketball and many of our players had no tourney experience and these games will help them considerably," the Raider coach said. "Also playing two nights in a row helped because that is what the kids will do if they make the state tournament again."

In the loss to New Bedford poor foul shooting was costly as the Raiders three times had one-and-one situations when the score was tied or North was down by a point. But they could get only a single point and wound up with just 19 for 31 from the foul line.

Doherty had 22 points and Marsters 13 to spark the North attack.

The win over Lexington, the tourney's top-seeded team, healed North's wounded pride.

"Our pride was hurt against New Bedford and we didn't play the kind of ball we knew we could play but against Lexington we did what we expected and were able to beat their zone press.

"We went into a man-to-man coverage, something we hadn't done for two years and it made the difference."

Marsters led the way with 22 points, Doherty had 20, Bob Morton 16 and Quinn 11.

North, Quincy In GBL Title Fight

The Greater Boston League, which by its performances this year shapes up as one of the strongest schoolboy track leagues in the state, is up for grabs.

Thanks to Medford's 44-42 win over previously unbeaten Revere, Revere and Somerville are tied for the lead with 3-1 records and North is right behind with a 2-1 mark. Quincy also is in the chase with a 1-2 mark.

There are no league meets this week with the annual State Coaches Meet Friday at Northeastern University starting at 4:30. Both Quincy and North Quincy will have several entries in this meet. The next set of league meets will be Jan. 13 at Medford with Quincy meeting Chelsea and North facing Medford.

In last week's win over stubborn Chelsea, in which North scored 14 points in the last two events, Lee Watkins won the 50-yard dash in 5:08 and ran the first leg for the winning relay team which turned in a brilliant time of †:51.1 just after Medford had nipped Revere with a 2:51.8 in the relay.

Jack Reynolds won the hurdles in 6:02, an excellent effort, Jack Pomerole won the 300 in 35.9, his best time, Sophomore Mark Canavan won his second straight 600 and Burt Bray remained unbeaten in the shot put with his third straight win. Bob McCormack was nipped by two feet in the mile despite a fine 4:42.8.

The final two events were the dash and relay and North swept the dash with Dave Ashmanskas and Paul Doherty finishing behind Watkins and then the relay team of Watkins, McCormack, Pomerole and Reynolds won.

Earlier in the week Bob Gentry's Raiders were edged by Revere, 45-41, as the Patriots repeated their earlier performance against Quincy in the high jump and hurdles.

Despite a 6-foot jump, North had to be satisfied with a third place as Revere's Kerry Leppo won. In the Quincy meet the Presidents' ace, John Johnson, also jumped six feet but was only third as Leppo won. In the hurdles Leppo also won, as he had against Quincy.

North's McCormack won the mile, Canavan the 600, Pomerole the 300 and Bray the shot put. The relay team of Canavan, McCormack, Pomerole and Reynolds also won to stay unbeaten.

Tom Hall's Quincy team, which was idle last Saturday, had lost earlier in the week to Somerville, 49-37.

Ray Lawyer remained unbeaten in the 50-yard dash, Johnson won the high jump and placed second in the hurdles, Mark MacLeod won the 600 in the league's best time of the year, 1:22, and Marty Swirko stayed unbeaten in the 1000. Two weeks ago he had turned in the league's best time in this event.

The relay team of Pete Ramponi, Steve Oriola, Swirko and MacLeod won, thanks to a fine anchor leg by MacLeod. He started the final leg trailing by 10 yards but won by 15.

COMMON COLD DEBATE

Recently, the big toe - a part of the anatomy which usually gets little attention in the headlines - became news in medical circles. Israeli researchers reported that they found a cure for the common cold by chilling the big toe with a refrigerant chemical. According to the doctors, the sudden chilling dries up the nostrils and cures colds. This method has not been tested here as yet.

Unorthodox new "cures" for the common cold have popped up throughout the ages. Some have been on the off-beat side, such as wearing garlic around the neck, sniffing smelling salts and standing on one's head.

One of the most controversial cold cures in recent years is the claim by Nobel Laureate Dr. Linus Pauling that large doses of vitamin C can prevent and cure the common cold. Other studies have found Dr. Pauling's theory debatable and have questioned the preventative or therapeutic effectiveness of vitamin C. The debate rages on - and so does the common cold.

Up And Down Season For Quincy, North

By TOM SULLIVAN

This has been an up and down season for the Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams, each usually following up a fine performance with an extremely disappointing effort.

Both coaches hoped that last Friday's tremendous performances would be repeated last night when Quincy faced Somerville and North met defending Greater Boston League champion Revere at Boston Arena.

Friday night Quincy will face Malden at 6:30 and North will take on Medford at 9. Monday night it will be North vs. Somerville at 6:30 and next Wednesday it will be Quincy vs. Revere at 6:30.

Quincy Coach Bob Sylvia shuffled his lines in an effort to bolster the Presidents' weak attack and the changes paid off handsomely as Quincy bombed Chelsea, 7-0.

"We needed more balance between our lines in scoring," Sylvia said. "We shifted centers Ted Wiedemann and Al Lancione. It worked because both those lines did some good scoring."

Paul Campbell had a great day with four goals, scoring the first and winning goal in the opening period and following up with one in the second period and two in the final session.

After only a 1-0 first period lead, the Presidents scored three times in each of the next two periods. Bob Boyle and Wiedemann scored in the middle period while Chuck Crews scored in the finale.

"The thing we did well today was head the puck up ice," Sylvia continued. "We were bringing the puck into the offensive zone well and had time to set up.

"Everyone is capable of beating everyone else in this league and if we can come up with some consistent performances we could get some help from the other teams and move up in the standings."

Following that impressive win the Presidents were 2-2-1 in the GBL.

North Coach Ron Erikson was delighted with the Raiders' 5-2 win over Everett.

"We haven't scored like this in two years," Erikson said. "We needed a win like this because we now face two tough teams in Revere and Medford. We have a young team that has trouble getting up for games but today they came here really ready to play and showed the kind of hockey they are capable of."

Co-Captain Steve MacKay scored the hat trick to spark the big win. His first goal in the opening period tied the score after Everett had scored the game's first goal.

In the second period Jim Mullaney put North ahead, 2-1, and after Everett's second score, Mullaney scored again and North was ahead to stay.

"MacKay played a strong game but this was a team effort because everyone got into the game and kept the enthusiasm alive for the whole three periods," Erikson explained. "We had a chance to play everyone and this is the kind of experience we need. We hoped for more aggressiveness and we got it today."

Quincy let Everett jump away to a 2-0 lead and bowed, 4-1, with Campbell scoring the Presidents' only goal in the second period.

"There is something wrong that I can't put my finger on," Sylvia said. "The kids work hard in practice in scrimmages and look good. But once the real thing starts, they tighten up or something. I feel we have a good club but I question whether the kids believe in themselves."

North saw winless Chelsea jump away to a 4-0 lead, then outplayed the Red Devils but lost, 5-4, in a game which Erikson said "disgusted" him.

"I'm disappointed and disgusted and I hope the boys are," he said. "I obviously had the team over-rated at the start of the season. There will be some changes made and I just hope the mental attitude of the players will improve."

After Chelsea scored three first period goals and another at the start of the second to make it 4-0, Ken Graham scored the first of his two goals and then quickly added his second.

Chelsea scored the clincher early in the final period and then Mullaney and MacKay scored for North to cut the gap to 5-4, the final score.

Reds Roll Along In St. Joseph's Hockey

In St. Joseph's Hockey League action last week at Shea rink, the Red team remained unbeaten with a 9-3 win over the Golds.

Scoring for the Reds were Mike McNally with two goals and three assists, Lloyd Allen with two goals and four assists, Dick Brunstrum with two goals and three assists, Hal McLarnon with a goal and two assists, John Duffy and Paul Galligan with a goal apiece.

Scoring for the Blues were Mark Walker with two goals and an assist, Paul Veneziano with a goal and two assists, Dick Kellyard and Paul Chella with a goal apiece.

Quincy Twins In Mitchum Movie 'The Friends Of Eddie Coyle'

Thirty-five would-be movie actors, hopeful of a part in a movie being filmed throughout the Boston - South Shore area, [The Friends of Eddie Coyle, starring Robert Mitchum] recently zeroed in on the casting office of Talents Unlimited on Boylston Street in Boston.

The 35 were from Carole McCole's Model Agency and were interviewed by Paramount's casting director, Vic Ramos, for "The Friends of Eddie Coyle" starring Robert Mitchum.

As of this date, six of the 35 have been used in the filming, Cathy Bailey and Linda Andrews of Abington, Donna and Debbie DeBartolo, identical twins, from Quincy, Martha Joyce Manley of Braintree and Kevin Manning of Stoughton. All of these with the exception of Kevin Manning are students at Carole McCole's Modeling School.

Carole and her Abington School director, Sue Riordan visited the filming of the bowling alley scene on Morrissey Boulevard last week. Three of her girls were being used in the segment.

She said she found Robert Mitchum to be "a regular guy". He posed, uncomplaining and gave out autographs to all who asked in great humor. "He seemed to thoroughly enjoy himself throughout the filming and the long waits while the scenes were set up," noted Carole. "He talked and joked and listened while we thoroughly enjoyed ourselves."

The book, "The Friends of Eddie Coyle" was written by George V. Higgins of Hingham. Mr. Higgins was born and raised in Rockland where his father, John Higgins, was principal of Rockland High School. His mother still teaches in the Rockland School system.

Along with supplying people for the current film, Carole McCole's models have appeared in the recent TV commercial for the South Shore Plaza's Italian Festival.

With two schools, one in Abington and headquarters in Weymouth, Carole says she will never run out of talent to supply the needs of the media.

Affluent Society Causes Big Solid Waste Problem Says McDonald

Disposal of solid wastes generated in increasing amounts by an affluent society is the biggest operational problem facing municipal government today, says Norfolk County Commissioner George B. McDonald of Quincy.

And the logical unit of government to handle the problem is the county, McDonald told a meeting of the Southeastern Association of Boards of Health at the Holiday Inn in Randolph recently.

The county, he said, is "a governmental subdivision firmly established and unlikely to be substantially modified in the foreseeable future by various proposals to subdivide the Commonwealth along other lines.

"At least, the very real problem of solid waste disposal could not be delayed while anticipating possible changes. In any event, a well-planned system along county lines could easily be merged in a state management plan should it be evolved in the future."

Brownell Opposes MBTA Parking Fee Increase

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has registered "unequivocal opposition" to a suggested increase in parking fees for the Quincy Center MBTA garage.

Brownell said he was informed that the MBTA was considering an increase in fees from 50 to 75 cents per day.

In a letter to MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelley, he said "Quincy residents have already experienced an unprecedented tax increase this year.

"An increase in MBTA fees only adds to the heavy financial burdens they are now carrying. It is my hope that you will seek out feelings in the community before you decide to increase MBTA costs," he said.

S. Quincy MBTA Exhibit At City Hall

MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelly, announced that an exhibit of maps and drawings of the proposed extension of the South Shore Line from Quincy Center to South Quincy is now available for public viewing at the Quincy City Council Chambers.

The exhibit, suggested by Councillor Theophilus McLelland, will remain on display until a second public informational meeting, similar to the first meeting and discussion Dec. 18, is held. The date for the second meeting has not yet been set.

To be available during the exhibit are brochures that briefly describe the MBTA's preliminary planning for the extension and South Quincy Station and the proposals of the Massachusetts DPW for the access ramps to the station from Rtes 3 and 128, the rerouting arrangements for Centre and Penn Sts., and a 1,500-2,000 car parking garage.

Kelly said the MBTA is exhibiting the preliminary plans and drawings prior to holding a second public informational meeting so that all concerned public officials and citizens will have a better understanding of the proposed South Quincy Extension Project.

An official public hearing, required by the U.S. Department of Transportation, will be held sometime in the late winter or early spring in connection with filing an application for a federal capital facilities grant for the project, Kelly said.

Cambridge Woman Gets Principal Planner Post

Miss Nancy Cynamon, 29, of Cambridge has been named to the $14,300 post of Principal Planner by Mayor Walter J. Hannon. Effective Jan. 22.

Her appointment was recommended by Geoffrey Davidson, Director Planning, Programming and Development for the City of Quincy.

The post, Davidson noted, is established under and will be completely financed by the Federal 701 planning program.

"There will be no cost to the city," he said.

Davidson said Miss Cynamon will bring both urban design and physical design strength to the Planning Department staff and will be an asset working with community groups.

She has a master's degree in city planning from the graduate School of Design at Harvard University and has had experience in the field of professional planning since 1969.

She currently is working on a research project as an independent consultant. Prior to that she was with Educational Planning Associates of Boston.

Lawrence Perette President Quincy Municipal Credit Union

Other new elected officers of the organization are: Harold Carroll, vice president; Patrick Sullivan, treasurer and John E. Green, clerk of the corporation.

Five members were also elected to the Board of Directors: Thomas Maloney, Patrick Sullivan, Rocco Marella, William Phelan and Richard Koch.

The Quincy Municipal Credit Union now located at 1120 Hancock St., Quincy Center, was organized by members of the Quincy Fire Department in 1937. In early 1951 because of its successful growth the members of the credit union elected to have it expanded so that membership was opened to all other city departments. There are now 3,033 members.

Through the years there has been continuous financial growth with current assets of more than $3,000,000. Among the services provided by the credit union in addition to interest on deposits, are new and used automobile loans, home repair loans, and personal loans.

Perette said, "The Quincy Municipal Credit Union looks forward to 1973 as being another successful year of progress and every effort will be made to provide the best of services for the financial needs of our members."

Expert To Help Form Chamber Policy On S. Quincy MBTA

Charles D. Baker III, a former assistant secretary of transportation, has been named to a task force to develop the South Shore Chamber of Commerce policy on the proposed South Quincy extension of the MBTA.

Baker, who is president of Harbridge House, Inc., a Boston-based management consulting firm, was in charge of policy and international affairs for the Department of Transportation. He left the post nine months ago.

The newly created task force has been designated to help the Chamber probe the impact of the proposal to extend the MBTA to the Southeast Expressway by way of South Quincy. The Chamber generally favors the extension.

"Baker has an international reputation as an expert in transportation matters," said Chamber President John Blake, "and we believe that his counsel will help us develop a thoughtful analysis and policy relating to this rapid transit proposal."

Baker said additional task force members will be named within 10 days.

Water Rate Hike; $300,000 For 6,000 New Meters

HELPING HANDS – Sixth grade pupils at Montclair School are raising money to aid victims of Managua earthquake, by selling such items as books, brownies and cupcakes. Here with them is Mrs. Patricia Mahoney, one of the teachers heading up the project.
[Quincy Sun Photo]

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy lost more than $100,000 in 1971 through waste, defective equipment, and unrealistic rates in the Water Department, says the city's Capital Improvement Committee.

It recommends spending $300,000 for 6,000 new water meters and a hike in water rates and installation and repair costs to match those of surrounding cities and towns.

The Capital Improvement Committee, chaired by John J. Lydon Jr., reported this week the results of a study of the Quincy Water Department. Some of its findings:

- About half of the 20,336 meters in use in Quincy give inaccurate readings due to deterioration of the meter through lack of care.
- Two out of every five meters are more than 40 years old; three out of every five meters are more than 17 years old.
- Quincy's industrial rate is 32 cents per 100 cubic feet, compared to 53 cents in Braintree, 81 cents in Dedham, and $1.05 in Cohasset.
- Quincy charges $20 for repairs [$50 if digging is required] which often means that they are made at less than full cost. Nearby communities charge full costs.

New meters, suggested the Lydon report, might increase the revenue from water users by as much as 100 per cent.

At least that's the average figure that turned up in a sampling of 18 different meter routes throughout the city.

Said the report:

"An example of actual increase in percentage of revenue resulting from new meter installation was performed by adding a minimum of three bills at 1972 rates issued before and after installation of new meters.

"The percentage if increases are from a low of 41 per cent to a high of 212 per cent with an average percentage of increase of 102 per cent."

In defense of the metered water system against proponents of the flat rate system, the report said:

"The general laws of Massachusetts require cities and towns deriving all or part of their water supply from the Metropolitan system [and Quincy does] to equip all water services with meters.

"It is only just that the consumer should pay in proportion to the amount of water used. The careful consumer benefits, the careless consumer is penalized. The poor actually pay more, through taxes, where meters are not used.

"With the additions of lawn services and swimming pools the water meter becomes even more important as a device to measure accurate consumption of water. Waste is diminished, resulting in financial savings to all."

The Quincy City Council, under the direction of Councillor Edward S. Graham, has been studying water meters for almost a year. Graham is an advocate of flat rate billing instead of new meters.

The Lydon report also recommended "a program of preventive maintenance and cleaning of pipe be initiated in conjunction with the new meters being installed.

"Otherwise, the city will be faced with the same deterioration of meters it now has, caused mainly by corrosive elements entering the meters thereby making the meters inaccurate."

The study compared Quincy's rates to those of two other MDC water users, Boston and Milton, five that have their own town water supplies, Braintree, Cohasset, Scituate, Weymouth and Dedham; and one with a private water company, Hingham.

- Industrial rates range from a low of 38 cents per hundred cubic feet [plus an annual charge for fixtures] in Scituate to a high of $1.05 in Cohasset. Quincy's rate: 32 cents.
- Domestic rates range from a low of 38 cents per hundred cubic feet in Scituate and Dedham to a high of 86 cents in Hingham and Cohasset. Quincy's rate: 40 cents.
- Installation costs are $60 for the first foot plus 75 cents for each additional foot in Boston: $4 a foot in Braintree; $10 a foot in Milton; and full cost of job in Scituate, Weymouth and Dedham. Quincy charges $200 for the first 40 feet and $5 a foot thereafter.
- Seven of the eight charge full costs for repairs while Milton's bill for repairs is the same as the charge for installation. In Quincy, it's $20 without digging, $50 with digging.

The report recommended "immediate matching in rates for industrial and domestic usage of water along with installation and repair cost to be equalized to compare with surrounding cities and towns."

Montclair Sixth Graders Aid Managua Victims

The three sixth grade classes at Montclair School this week are selling pastries, books, magazines and chances to raise money for the victims of the devastating earthquake in Managua, Nicaragua.

The chances are being sold on mobiles and posters that have been donated by sixth grade teachers and students. The drawing will be held Friday.

The sixth graders are also accepting donations for the earthquake victims with the money to be turned over to CARE.

Teachers who have been working with the youngsters on the project are Mrs. Helen O'Rourke, Room 6; Mrs. Patricia Mahoney, Room 7: and Miss Louise Keefe, Room 15.

There's more to Senator Arthur Tobin's recent appointment as vice chairman of Ways and Means Committee than meets the eye.

Talk at the State House is that Ways and Means chairman, Senator James Kelly, may not seek re-election next session. And if that's the case, Tobin would be in line for the chairmanship of what is considered the most powerful and prestigious committee in the upper chamber.

TOBIN'S PREDECESSOR, Thomas Burgin, also served on the Ways and Means Committee.

★★★

IT'S GOING TO BE the "Shipyard District". That's what insiders are saying about the proposed new Second Norfolk District [state representative]. The seat is presently held by Rep. Clifford Marshall. As drawn up, the new district will include the area around the shipyard, where a number of the yard workers live: Quincy's Ward Two, two precincts in Ward Three, two Braintree precincts [E. Braintree] and one Weymouth precinct [N. Weymouth].

Presently the district is comprised of Wards Two and Three in Quincy.

Under the new plan [if approved] Quincy will still dominate Quincy Point that is.

Braintree was the real loser under this re-districting. The town is split into three districts, but will probably only end up with one representative [presently it has two]. East Braintree will be put into the Quincy dominated district while Braintree Highlands is joined to the Holbrook dominated district.

While Quincy will naturally control the district in voting strength, a field of two or three candidates from Quincy running in the primary could give a Braintree candidate a chance to win the seat.

SPEAKING of Quincy Point, James Papile of the well-known Quincy Papile family, is telling friends he will run for the Ward 2 City Council seat.

And that should touch off speculation chain reaction like this: If Papile is thinking of going for that seat, present incumbent Clifford Marshall will run for council at-large. And if Marshall is considering running for council at-large, then Arthur Tobin will not seek re-election. [Okay, play it again. Sam.]

★★★

JILL WALKER, James McIntyre's secretary in the Senate Counsel's office is leaving today for London, to attend her brother's wedding. The visit will also be a homecoming for her. She was born in England.

★★★

"JOIN THE QUINCY CITIZENS' Association" bumper stickers are beginning to show up around the city. The publicity campaign is the brainchild of QCA's new president, William O'Brien of Montclair.

★★★

When he's sworn in, he will be the third lawyer on the School Committee. The others are Paul Kelly and Harold Davis.

★★★

JOSEPH SHEA, executive secretary to Mayor Hannon, informs us that re-painting of the city seal in the council chamber is the work of James McGurl of Squantum.

The seal appears to be made of plaster, and a close examination of it reveals the name of the artist, Americus Zottoli, 1937.

McGurl, by the way, is a member of the Quincy Art Association, and his work can be seen around city hall. As a matter of fact, a few of his paintings are on display in the Mayor's office.

★★★

THE RECENT RENOVATIONS to the council chamber include new drapes. The gold color and design were the choice of Josephine Carnali. As clerk of committees for the City Council she spends a lot of time working in the chamber

★★★

The convention will be held in Springfield in July to choose five Vice Commanders from the 12 candidates.

If Comer is elected, he'll be in line to run for State Commander in two or three years.

And his position as commander of the Suffolk County American Legion will certainly give him an edge.

LOUIS CARUSO, former Quincy political candidate, is recuperating at his new home, 44 Newton Ave., East Braintree, following surgery. He's not expected to return to his city cemetery department job until March.

★★★

SMILE DEPT: Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, who was honored Sunday by parishioners on the occasion of his 30th anniversary in the priesthood likes to tell about the little boy who came to church for the first time.

"Do you know how to genuflect?" he was asked. "No", the youngster replied, "but I do a nice somersault."

- Meat Prices Going Up-Again
- Lotteries Stimulate Illegal Gambling
- Unsung Whistle Blower Heroes

WASHINGTON — The Price Commission somehow seems incapable of holding down the price of meat.

The Agriculture Department recently claimed that beef prices, over a four-month period, had gone down half-a-cent a pound. This must have startled housewives who paid more, not less, for beef during the same four-month period.

In the Pacific Northwest, for example, beef prices jumped 10 to 40 cents per pound in a two-month period. A Seattle housewife, shopping for an average steak, now must shell out two dollars a pound. Hamburger meat costs about one dollar a pound.

The Price Commission has quietly investigated spiraling meat costs. Yet its investigators claim they found no evidence of unfair or unwarranted price increases.

One excuse for higher meat prices is that the sale of wheat to the Soviet Union has driven up feed grain costs. Another excuse is that there are simply fewer cattle to satisfy the national appetite for beef.

But the excuses don't square with the USDA figures which show cattlemen getting lower, not higher, prices for their beef.

Sources at the Agriculture Department suggest that some of the big meat packers and retailers have been skinning the customers as well as the beef. There is so little competition, my sources say, that the big meat dealers can get away with jacking up prices. And they can always find excuses to justify it.

But the feed-grain rise and the cattle shortage undoubtedly will affect the meat market in the future. Housewives can expect another nationwide meat price increase later in January.

— Whistle Blowing —

Whistle blowing is a hazardous occupation, when it's done by reformers seeking to protect the public. When Ernest Fitzgerald and Gordon Rule blew the whistle on military waste, for example, the Pentagon retaliated against them. These cases made the front pages, but there have been some unsung whistle blowers who also deserve public recognition.

In Texas, biologist Richard Baldauf — the environmentalist in residence at Texas A&M — published a scathing report on the environmental dangers of building a dam at the mouth of the Trinity River.

When Baldauf continued to speak out against the project, university officials began to harrass him. They couldn't fire him outright because he had tenure. So they assigned him to teach a course at Uvalde, Texas, and another course at College Station, Texas. The two sites are more than 200 miles apart. He got so tired of driving back and forth that he finally gave up and moved to Kansas City.

In Mississippi, another biologist, Jim Williams, stirred up citizens in the sleepy town of Columbus against the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway. He took to the stump and told his neighbors that the waterway would turn the picturesque, lush area in the northeast corner of Mississippi into a muddy ditch. Because of his crusading, Williams was told not to come back to his teaching job at the Mississippi State College for Women.

In Georgia, Jim Morrison, the public relations chief for the Georgia Game and Fish Commission, mobilized the commission to oppose stream channelization, which can ruin streams and kill fish. As his reward, angry politicians demanded that he be fired. Within six months, the political pressure was so great he was told to resign.

This is what happens, all too often, to citizens who dare to stand up and speak out.

— Behind the Scenes —

POTENTIAL WASHOUT — The contingency plans for bombing the dikes along North Vietnam's Red River have been updated. If President Nixon renews the bombing of North Vietnam and the dikes are hit, flood waters could wash out much of the country's ricelands. So far, the dikes have been spared for humanitarian reasons. Meanwhile, Air Force intelligence claims that North Vietnam now has 240 Soviet-build MIG fighter planes. The North Vietnamese have been using them sparingly, however, against American planes. In combat, the MIGs apparently are outclassed. The Air Force claims 177 MIGs have been shot down since they began arriving in North Vietnam.

LOTTERIES BACKFIRE — Several states have now adopted lotteries to help raise funds and reduce taxes. The advocates have argued that legalized gambling will stop illegal gambling and strike a blow at the Mafia. However, an unpublicized study of legal gambling in six states shows that it doesn't curb illegal gambling at all. Instead, the study discloses that state lotteries actually stimulate illegal gambling in some areas and that the Mafia has started to use the official winning numbers as the payoff for their own illegal numbers games.

WHITE COLLAR CRIME — We have been critical of Attorney General Richard Kleindienst for shutting his eyes to white-collar crimes. We contended that the law and order which Kleindienst preached should apply to business executives as well as street criminals. It is only fair to report, therefore, that Kleindienst has now ordered his subordinates to crack down on white-collar crimes. He has stressed that the Justice Department should enforce the laws against the rich and respectable as well as the poor and unpopular.

BLACK POLITICS — Black leaders have just completed a postelection survey of their gains in the South. Of 79,000 elected officials in the 11 Southern states, only 1,158 are black. There are 102 predominantly black counties in the South, yet blacks control the county commissions of only five. Despite this poor showing, the number of elected black officials in the South increased by 33 per cent in 1972, and blacks generally are encouraged that they eventually will find the solution to their problems in the ballot box.

Veterans News

The Veterans Administration urges all World War II, GI insurance policyholders to take a second look at the type of policy pay-off they have selected for their next of kin.

VA warned that too many widows of World War II policy holders are penalized following their husband's death upon finding he had selected an option providing small monthly payments over 24 or 36 months. Oftentimes that selection was made over 25 years ago and never updated by the veteran.

World War II policyholders who wish now to switch to lump sum payments, should ask VA for Form 29-336 and select Option 1. Simply mail that form to the VA Insurance Center where he makes his payments, VA said.

Economic Stabilization

This column of questions and answers on the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about wages and prices.

Q - How long does a landlord have to make a refund to a tenant after the IRS notifies him that he is violating the rent control regulations?

A - If all or part of an increase is determined to be illegal, the landlord has 30 days to refund this amount to the tenant.

Q - I signed a lease on Jan. 1, 1972, and my landlord did not raise rent at all during the year. He now wants to raise rent five percent next year--twice the automatic 2½ percent increase allowed under the rent regulations. Can he do this?

A - Yes. This automatic 2½ percent annual increment may be accumulated. This means that if a landlord did not take advantage of it one year, he may use it the following year.

Q - If I raise my tenants' rent only 1 percent early in 1973, can I raise their rent by the remainder of the automatic 2½ percent increase later in the same year?

A - No. This automatic increment may be used only once in any 12-month period, regardless of whether all or only part of the total allowable increment is used in the increase.

Q - I raised my employees' wages by 5.5 percent in Dec. 1971, and I want to give them a similar increase now. Do I increase wages by 5.5 percent of what I'm currently paying or by 5.5 percent of what I was paying before last year's increase?

A - You may increase their pay by 5.5 percent of current wages and salaries.

Q - Can a person apply for a ruling or determination from the IRS based on hypothetical facts?

A - No. A request for a ruling or determination may not be based on hypothetical facts. For details on how to apply for an Economic Stabilization ruling or determination, write your Internal Revenue district office and ask for IRS Publication 3009, "IRS Rulings and Determinations", or IRS Publication S-3041, "Inquiries and Determination Requests". They're available at no charge.

Q - If a doctor leaves a salaried position in a hospital and enters private practice, how does he determine his base price?

A - In this case the physician would follow the rule for new products or services. A person beginning a new service after November 13, 1971, may charge a price for his service which represents a computation based on the average price charged for the same or similar service in a substantial number of transactions in the marketing area.

Q - Is a private physician entitled to increase his fee for an office visit?

A - Yes. A physician may increase his fee for a particular service to reflect an increase in the cost of that service, provided that the increase in the doctor's total annual revenue does not exceed 2.5%, and does not cause the base period profit margin to be exceeded.

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Consumer's rights and industry's faults have filled news pages, pamphlets and air waves for the past several years. Laws have been passed and regulations established telling the business community how to act.

However, consumers should remember that they too are obligated to be ethical and considerate in their dealings. My Consumer Protection Division reminds Massachusetts consumers to:

1. Read all contracts carefully before signing. In certain instances consumers have signed contracts after only half-reading them or without reading them at all. Afterwards they have filed complaints against companies for failure to live up to commitments which the businesses were not obligated to perform under the terms of the contract.

2. Handle merchandise carefully. Consumers should remember that stores have a right to refuse to accept damaged merchandise for which a credit or refund is sought.

3. Pay bills when they are due. If unable to do so, consumers should inform the merchant. An agreement involves two parties and specific obligations. Intentional delinquency or indifference to bills can jeopardize a consumer's credit rating.

4. Fill out credit applications accurately and honestly.

5. Point out mistakes made in your favor. Cashiers must make up shortages out of their own pockets. Recently a New York discount house conducted an experiment in which twenty customers were deliberately overcharged 40 cents and another 20 were undercharged the same amount. Eighteen of those overcharged called the error to the attention of the cashier. However, of those undercharged only two reported the mistake.

6. Buy carefully--merchandise return policies are determined by individual companies. Consumers should learn what these policies are before purchasing an item they may have to return.

'Kick Your Bad Habits'

"I'm on my last pack...when I finish these I'm through with the stinkin' things," said a young businessman, determined to kick his cigarette habit by the beginning of 1973.

Convinced that her proneness to messiness in her home was degrading to her, and terribly annoying to her husband, a South Suburban housewife had decided to kick her habit of a littered house. She'd always copped out with..."I want my house to look lived in." Her husband said..."It did...by a bunch of pigs."

What bad habit do you want to kick? This is the time to do it...at the beginning of a new year. One lady weighed in this week at 148 pounds. She promised me that she'd stay on her diet and weigh 140 at her next appointment in two weeks. One man who had been a real grouch has promised his wife...and himself...that he'll kick his bad habit of hurting his family with his grouchiness. I've encouraged several patients recently to kick the habit of ignoring their alarm clocks in the morning...to hit the deck at the time they have assigned. I've also encouraged mothers...and wives...and husbands to stop calling...Let the alarm clock do the dirty work. You can kick the habit of laziness in the morning.

A real victory is being waged by a woman I know who has a poison tongue...which she had used almost daily against her husband. She's nice to him when she wants something from him...but within an hour she'll cut him to ribbons with her vicious verbal attacks. She's been known to transfer her poison tongue to her poison pen...both come from her poison mind.

In fact all these bad habits come from...or are sustained by the mind which has been poisoned to produce behavior which is beneath the dignity of each individual...which degrades oneself and others. It's false to say..."Let me be...this is the way I am." That's an unworthy excuse for your bad habit. You can kick your bad habit.

But how? How do I quit smoking...quit overeating...quit the messiness...morning laziness... poison communication. Four necessary steps: First...feel a need to change. The lady with the poison tongue had lost every friend she'd had. When she saw that she needed friends, she determined to kick her habit. Excuses...blaming must cease...recognized need takes over...then one can kick the habit.

Secondly...have something better to turn to. The reward for the person who kicks the cigarette habit is better health...no more chest pains...reduction of ugly phlegm...and all this within a week. One begins to feel he is master of his life...when one kicks the habit.

Thirdly...stay with the "better way" until it becomes your way of life. For example...you can't keep your kitchen clean for just one day and then slip back to your messy habit. Stay with it until it becomes your new way of life. Anything worthwhile takes effort...personal discipline of your reasoning mind. Allow sufficient time for the results. Don't expect immediate results...it'll take some doing.

Lastly...if you stumble and repeat your old habit...start again. You may have setbacks...don't let that discourage you. You can kick any habit you decide to kick. The whole thing rests with your mind.

How Many Bills Filed?

"How many bills were filed this year in the Massachusetts legislature?" asked a caller to the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Last year's volume ran around 7,622 bills, yet 1973 threatens to break all records according to the League.

The LWV Voter Information Phone gave the caller more information. 7,596 bills were filed by the Dec. 6 pre-session deadline, but that will not be the final figure. Additional bills will be filed by the Governor and more will be admitted under late-filing procedures. The legislative leaders will be less receptive toward late-filed bills because of the increasing volume, but this session seems well on its record breaking way.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP Phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880. Outside the Boston metropolitan area callers should dial the toll-free number 1-800-882-1649.

Rev. Ronald Cebik To Become Co-Pastor Quincy Point Church

The Quincy Point Congregational Church departs from what is considered normal in church administration Feb. 1 by taking on the equivalent of a co-pastor to help the Rev. Bedros Baharian.

And the new pastor will live in Braintree.

The Rev. Ronald J. Cebik will be the preaching minister and will handle parish administration while the Rev. Mr. Baharian oversees parish finances and devotes most of his time to the Senior Citizens Center at 1000 Southern Artery.

The church also has an assistant pastor, the Rev. Philip J. Mayher, who ministers to the young folks and runs the church school.

The Rev. Mr. Cebik's parsonage will be at 15 Parkside Circle, Braintree, near the Braintree Dam and some three miles from the church.

"The need for a minister to live next door to the church is fast disappearing," says the Rev. Mr. Baharian, "as transportation and communication gets better."

The Rev. Mr. Cebik, whose wife is expecting their first child in April, is currently serving as interim pastor of the First Congregational Church in Weymouth.

A native of Stratford, Conn., he [like the Revs. Mr. Baharian and Mayher] is a graduate of Andover Newton Theological Seminary. He has served parishes in Cornwall and Danbury, Conn., since his ordination in 1961.

NURSES WANTED!!!

"Nurses wanted", the ad says. The full-page appeal which appears in a great number of medical publications is yet another reminder of one of the nation's serious health personnel problems.

Why are registered nurses in short supply - when their numbers, according to government figures, have been multiplying at a faster rate than the population? Despite the unprecedented growth of health workers within the past decade, the demand for medical care has fast outpaced our manpower resources.

As the situation stands today, the country is still short 150,000 nurses. Also contributing to the shortage have been the profession's high dropout rate.

The reasons most frequently cited by nurses themselves have been low salaries, difficult working conditions, and the lack of scope of their duties. Fortunately, medical authorities are working hard to improve all of these areas.

Trying To Change Things

Student Leaders Draft 'Rainy Day Proposal'

By PAUL GOSLIN

Anyone who can make school a bit better to attend should be greeted with the praises of both students and faculty.

The student leaders at North Quincy H.S. have taken on this significant task. They have written what they call the "Rainy Day Proposal". It is in reality six different proposals dealing with everything from student tutoring services to minor elective courses.

Certain parts of the proposal will be in operation within the next few weeks, but other parts will have to be further clarified before they become operational.

The first part of the proposal has established minor elective courses for the students at North. These courses are intended to offer "a relevant curriculum [to] stimulate social concern by helping the individual understand the nature of our government, economy, society, and culture."

These courses, which will be offered in additon to the regular curriculum, will be on a voluntary basis on the part of both teachers and students. No points will be awarded for participation, no marks will be given, and no attendance will be taken. The course will be developed by the teacher involved and a board of students, teachers, and administrators will oversee the program.

The second section sets up a tutoring assistance program which will be run by the Junior Class at North. Everyday in one section of the building junior students will be available to assist ninth grade students with their subjects. In the future sophomores and seniors may participate in the teaching part of the program.

The third part deals with the school boundaries. Presently students are limited to a small area in the back of the building to go out and have a cigarette or socialize in the good weather. The present area will be enlarged to accommodate the large number of students who use this area.

Part Four would enact a limited "Cut System". The proposal requested one cut per class per term. It stipulated that the teacher must be notified in advance and the decision was ultimately up to the teacher. This part is still in discussion.

The fifth section establishes a Social Health Program. One day a month a "Health Day" would take place. Special speakers will be invited, films will be shown, rap sessions will be held and discussions will take place. Some days will be used for field trips to hospitals and drug centers. The students involved hope to be able to raise funds for special charities. In the future a drug and social health education will be held.

Part Six is the most controversial part of the entire proposal. It must be brought to the Quincy Education Association for approval. In this part, teachers would write self-descriptions and student opinions in the form of per-cent of answers of certain questions would be determined. These things would be made available to students so that when they choose a course they may also pick a compatible teacher. This type of information is important to the aim of student-centered learning.

With the exception of this last part and the cut system, North will see the changes in the near future.

It seems that the "Rainy Day" is a great step forward in the co-operation and interaction of students, teachers, and administrators at North Quincy High School.

By JACKIE BANGS

The latest endeavor of the North Quincy Concert Choir was the production of "Amal and the Night Visitors", an opera by Gian-Carlo Menotti.

Produced by Maurice Carbonneau, a music teacher and director of Concert Choir at NQHS, the opera portrays the trek of three biblical kings who, on their way to the Christ child, encounter the crippled boy, Amal, and his widowed mother.

In the true spirit of Christmas, young Amal is returned the use of his leg by a miracle evidently due to the birth of the Christ child. Amal leaves with the kings to bring a gift of the crutch to the newborn child.

Playing the three kings are Paul Goslin, Richard Meredith and David Poutree. The principal characters are played by Kathy Cronin as Amal and Jill Casey as his mother. In the dancing segment of the play, the dancers are played by Robert Sheridan and Dianne Dunn. The page to the three kings is played by Joseph Smongeski.

The opera was presented to the public on Dec. 29 to a capacity crowd in North's auditorium, and the cast received a standing ovation.

Also included in the presentation were selections of Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" sung by the Girl's Concert Choir and selected Christmas carols by the Concert Choir. It has also been presented to Atlantic Junior High students and North Quincy students.

A Student's Evaluation

No. 1 Education Priority Should Be Motivation

By MARK PETRACCA

The reflection upon and observation of situations, values, and opportunities of a functioning society is one of the most important criteria for the improvement of society.

It is with this philosophy that I shall attempt to evaluate the educational opportunities of the Quincy Public School System, in light of how it has treated me in the last 12 years.

My one general observation about those opportunities is that, education to aspire, is available in the Quincy Public Schools. Talking not from what has been handed to me by the faculty or administration throughout my 12 years, but from what I have seen necessary to grasp, I find an unlimited supply of resources available for the students' use.

Opponents of my overview, tell you that not all possible areas of curriculum are used, not all educational innovations are being fully utilized, and not all possible use of funds is being accomplished.

I have no quarrel with these arguments. The system is, obviously, far from perfect. But the important factor in education slips by the realization of most of my opponents; that being, student attitude.

I tend to think that, realistically, no one could deny that we do have the resources for almost any innovative course under the sun. Of course, not everyone's wish can be satisfied, nor do we have an infinite supply of funds to meet the material requirements for some new ideas.

However, the combined resources of material, physical, and mental assets can indeed provide a superior level of education for every student.

This fact of superiority can be seen in the achievements of individuals who have the desire to excel. From all levels of athletics, business, science, math, history, english, foreign language, speech, and student government, students in the Quincy schools have excelled.

Why then do we have such a disparity in educational achievement? My answer refers to the most important factor in achievement, that of student attitude. It is with this factor that I rest any responsibility for any lack of achievement by students in this school system.

It is not proper to end this analysis here, without offering a solution to the problem.

One must remember that the changing of an attitude is not a spontaneous action. It could very well be that all the young people in Quincy will suffer from this lack of motivation, but that doesn't mean we shouldn't institute steps immediately to help future generations.

I would suggest, in conclusion, that the number ONE priority for the future innovations should be that we achieve motivation. The opportunities for achievement are here in the school. It is up to the school and the community to provide motivation for the students that will perpetuate a boundless desire for knowledge.

The parish of St. Mary's, the city of Quincy, and friends from as far away as New York honored Rev. John J. McMahon Sunday on the 30th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Bishop Joseph F. Maguire of Brockton, former pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy, hailed Fr. McMahon as a "completely dedicated" priest.

"To know we have a priest such as this among us is a great consolation," he added.

Fr. McMahon has spent the last eight years, first as administrator, now as pastor, at St. Mary's Church, Crescent Street, West Quincy.

About 450 guests attended Sunday's testimonial buffet dinner at the church hall for Fr. McMahon, who was ordained Jan. 6, 1943 in Boston's Holy Cross Cathedral by the then auxiliary Bishop Richard J. Cushing.

Fr. McMahon received a Senate citation from Sen. Arthur Tobin [D-Quincy], a silver Paul Revere Bowl from Mayor Walter J. Hannon, and a toy bank from Mrs. Gerald Killcommon on behalf of the parishioners.

He also received a gift of money from the testimonial, which was the purpose of the toy bank.

Also in attendance were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John E. Mullarkey, the Rev. James Lonergan and the Rev. William Donovan, all of St. Mary's; Bishop Joseph F. Maguire of Brockton; the Rev. Joseph Deacon of St. Mary's Church, Scituate.

County Commissioner George McDonald; Joseph Shea, the mayor's secretary; City Clerk John Gillis; City Treasurer Robert Foy.

Several telegraphed greetings were read from clergymen who could not make the dinner, including the Most Rev. James Mahoney, vicar general of the New York diocese and a frequent visitor to St. Mary's parish.

A native of Brockton, Fr. McMahon was graduated from Boston College in 1938 and entered St. John's Seminary the same year. He served parishes in Canton, Lowell, Weymouth, Dorchester and Plymouth before coming to St. Mary's.

We can't pull the plug on people who want a better way of living.

It's easy to say we have all the appliances we'll ever need. And all the electricity we'll ever need to run them. Easy for the "haves". But how about the "have-nots"?

Today, urban renewal and redevelopment programs are bringing new hope to thousands of New England families. And with it new standards of living.

This means more of the little everyday conveniences most of us take for granted. More refrigerators. More ranges. More washers and dryers. All requiring more electricity.

That's why we're working now to provide the kind of generating facilities that will best meet these growing demands and still satisfy our common environmental concerns. It can mean a better way of living. For all of us.

People like you working to make life a little better.

Between the Covers

The reviews for this column are by Miss Linda Beeler of the Inter-library Loan Department. She very wisely selected several titles to begin with that many people should read after their holiday indulgences.

Number one on the list is LIVING WITH YOUR ULCER, by Theodore Berland and Mitchell A. Spellberg [St. Martin's Press. $5.95] This covers all aspects of ulcers: what they are, where they are and why they are; danger signals to watch for and the pros and cons of various medications [brand names are given]. The book tells how your ulcer should affect your daily life, and includes as a special appendix "The Ulcerous Gourmet" which features tasty recipes to relieve the drabness of the usual ulcer diet.

If bulges are your problem we offer SLIMNASTICS by Pamela Nottidge and Diana Lamplugh [St. Martin's Press. $4.95] which is a new approach to the problem of weight control, consisting of graded exercises, diet and beauty care. Courses to suit everyone from teenagers to grandmothers are planned to be enjoyable and progressive at every level!

If you think a vegetarian diet would be uninteresting, do yourself a favor and read THE GEORGE BERNARD SHAW VEGETARIAN COOK BOOK [Taplinger. $5.95] It is by Alice Laden who was Shaw's long-time cook and housekeeper. She presents the favorite vegetarian dishes of this famous playwright. Many elegant desserts, as well as tasty natural food main courses, are described, accompanied by numerous witty drawings.

Tired of the rush? Curl up with a good book: IN SEARCH OF DRACULA; a True History of Dracula and Vampire Legends, by Raymond McNally and Radu Florescu [New York Graphic Society. $8.95] Two scholars, Boston College faculty members who specialize in Eastern European history, reveal the findings of a ten year investigation of Prince Dracula. They delve into the history of both the real and the fictional Dracula and analyze vampirism in all its forms: legend, literature, film - and reality. The story of the most fearsome living vampiress of all time, Elizabeth Bathory, is told in gruesome detail.

Our first book on a timely subject is THE LAYMAN'S GUIDE TO ACUPUNCTURE, by Yoshio Manaka and Ian A. Urquhart. [Wetherhill. $6.95] Two leading authorities present a concise introduction to the concepts underlying the 5,000 year old science, various treatment procedures, and some interesting recent experiments testing the empirical results of acupuncture according to scientific standards.

THE WAKE [Doubleday. $5.95] by TV personality Steve Allen is a frequently humorous but essentially sad story of the emotions which emerge as long separated family members gather at the wake of their eighty-six year old mother. Each character subconsciously seeks love and understanding, but all attempts at communication end only in frustration and bitterness.

AFL-CIO Seeks Scholarship Applicants

All seniors in public and parochial high schools in Massachusetts are invited to participate in the scholarship awards program conducted by the Massachusetts State Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

There are $20,000 in scholarships, including a $1,000 scholarship in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy and a $1,000 scholarship named in memory of Francis E. Lavigne, former Director of the Massachusetts State Labor Council.

Other awards given by affiliates of the council are in amounts ranging from $100 to $500.

High school seniors must file application in their respective high schools prior to March 21. An examination will be given in all high schools April 4. The examination is comprised of a series of questions dealing with the subject of labor in the United States. The two-hour examination will also include an essay about Labor and related matters.

John A. Callahan, Director of COPE and Education for the Massachusetts State Labor Council is expecting substantially more senior boys and girls to participate in the 1973 awards program than have in the previous years. Callahan noted a greater interest on the part of young people seeking financial aid to help defray the costs of higher education.

Examination study kits are being forwarded to high schools throughout the state during January and all seniors contemplating participation should notify the proper authorities at their school.

World War II's 'Blue Ghost'

Quincy-Built Lexington Comes Home In New Role

Known as the "Blue Ghost" in World War II - the ship that couldn't be sunk - she will observe her 30th birthday at the same pier where she was commissioned Feb. 17, 1943.

Commanded by Captain Charles C. Carter, USN, a native of Pasadena, Calif., the aircraft carrier, now used to train pilots, was given a warm welcome by the Boston Naval Base Band and boats of the Boston Fire Department as she entered Boston Harbor. Lexington town officials and Quincy Mayor Walter J. Hannon extended greetings.

Mayor Hannon presented a Paul Revere Bowl to the ship on behalf of Quincy residents. The carrier was built from the keel up at the then Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard and launched in 1942.

On board the carrier when she arrived were 36 military dependents including 11 children ranging from 11 months to 12 years of age.

The Lexington will be in Boston for an 11-week stay. While in drydock, she will undergo underwater hull refinishing, partial installation of cooling equipment for central air conditioning, replacement of rudder post bearings, internal preservation, repair and installation of other ship's equipment which cannot be done during normal underway or at Pensacola, Fla., during in-port periods. The carrier has been a training carrier for naval aviators out of Pensacola, her homeport on the Gulf Coast.

Total cost of work to be done on the Lexington is $1,300,000 and is expected to consume 174,000 man hours.

The LEXINGTON tradition is deep, starting in 1775 with the first LEXINGTON, an 86-foot brig, to today's 910-foot carrier. There have been five ships named LEXINGTON.

Prior to 1942, LEXINGTON was a name primarily linked with the Revolutionary War, and the farmers of that town who fired the "shot heard 'round the world".

While the fourth LEXINGTON [CV-2] fought off the attacking Japanese planes in the South Pacific, a hull, destined to be a carrier, sat in the Fore River Shipyard. When word was received concerning the sinking of CV-2, 23,000 workers at the shipyard united and, in a telegram to Frank Knox, then Secretary of the Navy, requested that the designated USS CABOT be christened LEXINGTON. The telegram explained that in 1925, the CV-2 was built at the Fore River Shipyard and that the loss of that ship was personal to those who had worked on her and were still employed there.

On the following day a "permission-granted" telegram was returned. Four months later, one year ahead of schedule, the new carrier slid down the ways, her builders eager to avenge the death of her namesake.

LEXINGTON attained that revenge in her many wartime exploits. By war's end, she had destroyed more than 850 enemy planes, sunk 300,000 tons of Japanese shipping and damaged another 600,000 tons. The LEX became the symbol of the carrier fight in the Pacific. To the allies, she was a vital link in the Free World's fight; to the enemy she was the "BLUE GHOST" - the ship that couldn't be sunk.

After the war, LEXINGTON was placed in the Reserve Fleet at Bremerton, Wash. With the new Communist threats in the Far East in the early 1950's, LEXINGTON was recommissioned in August, 1955. Complete with a new angled flight deck and other modern improvements, LEXINGTON returned to her old battlegrounds with the Seventh Fleet, to help preserve world peace.

From 1955 to May 1962, LEXINGTON alternated between Far East deployments and West Coast carrier qualifications for fleet pilots.

On July 23, 1962, LEXINGTON departed San Diego, rounded Cape Horn, and entered Atlantic waters for the first time since her commissioning in 1943. She was the first carrier to conduct flight operations in the stormy waters off the Horn.

QUINCY-Built USS Lexington [CVT-16], now a training aircraft carrier, steams to Boston for an 11-week stay and a $1,300,000 overhaul.

On Oct. 1, 1962, LEXINGTON was redesignated CVS-16. Now she was an anti-submarine aircraft carrier, but her mission was training pilots for the fleet.

The Cuban missile crisis in late October, 1962 sent her to the Florida coast. As negotiations proceeded, in an attempt to ease the Cuban tension, LEXINGTON continued to operate off the Florida coast until the crisis finally relaxed.

Since 1962, LEXINGTON has had one primary mission - the qualification and training of carrier pilots. So important is the mission, that on July 1, 1969, at the Boston Naval Shipyard, LEXINGTON was again re-designated. As CVT-16, she is the U.S. Navy's only training carrier.

Today the LEXINGTON is one of the primary public affairs ships in the Navy. LEXINGTON operates a civilian guest cruise program which acquaints members of civic, professional, educational, military, and religious organizations from all over the country [and a few foreign countries] with every facet of shipboard life.

Rarely does LEXINGTON go to sea without one or more groups of visitors aboard, and during in-port periods she opens her gangways, daily, to throngs of local visitors who are escorted through selected areas of the ship.

The ability of naval aviators to originate their "strikes" from a floating, mobile landing field and then return to it in a pre-arranged location, makes them unique among modern-day fliers. During their basic training at NAS Pensacola, the students spend many long, hard hours preparing for this duty. LEXINGTON provides them with an opportunity to put into practice what they have learned. Their arrested landings aboard this carrier are the high point of their training and successful completion gives them great confidence.

Here at Pensacola, LEXINGTON is under the operational control of the Chief of Naval Air Training. The ship conducts carrier qualification landings and launchings for basic students in the T-28C "Trojan", a propeller-driven training aircraft, and the T2B/C "Buckeye", a multi-engine jet trainer. In addition, LEXINGTON provides day and night carrier qualifications for the A6 "Intruder", A4 "Skyhawk", A7 "Corsair II", and the B2B "Hawkeye" aircraft for fleet replacement pilots training for both the U.S. Atlantic and Pacific fleets.

Approximately every three weeks LEXINGTON crosses the Gulf of Mexico and operates in the vicinity of Corpus Christi, Texas, where she is under the operational control of the Chief of Naval Air Advanced Training. There, advanced students are qualified in the TF9-J [F9F-8] "Cougar", a single-engine, swept-wing jet trainer, the TA4-J "Skyhawk", a jet aircraft; the S2A [S2F] "Tracker", a twin-engine propeller-driven, anti-submarine aircraft.

The importance of LEXINGTON'S mission can readily be understood when one considers that already almost half of all naval officers are pilots, and that the demand is increasing. Each year she qualifies an average of 2,000 new pilots. LEXINGTON became leader of the world in the number of arrested landings on April 29, 1966, when she became the first carrier to reach the 152,000th mark. She has not given up that lead having passed a historic 250,000th mark and is well on her way to the 300,000th landing.

In addition to her primary mission of conducting carrier qualifications, LEXINGTON is prepared to render aid to natural disaster victims, as the training carrier has done in the Gulf of Mexico area. She is capable of providing medical and sanitation assistance as well as foodstuffs and other supplies to stricken communities in case of any unusual emergency.

By discharging her responsibilities as a training carrier for fleet and future fleet pilots, LEXINGTON fulfills her role in building a strong foundation on which to support the United States' foreign policy.

As evidenced by her roles in Formosa, Laos, Cuba and now Pensacola, LEXINGTON is a can-do and a will-do ship. Her modern-day "Minutemen" have proven themselves worthy descendants of the illustrious Massachusetts patriots whose battleground gave LEXINGTON her name.

Clear, Sand Sidewalks After Snow , Help Save Your Letter Carrier

Postmaster George K. Walker appeals to customers of the Boston Postal District to clean and sand their sidewalks and stairs as soon as possible after a storm to reduce the hazards associated with inclement weather.

"These injuries cause lost work time, disabling injuries, and also a tremendous amount of suffering to the letter carrier, in addition to financial loss to the Postal Service and to the taxpayers," he said.

The cost in New England alone last year was well over $120,000, with approximately 1,400 carriers injured.

"Please be kind to your mailman if you care to have your mail delivered. Thank you for your cooperation," Walker said.

Brownell Asks More Shipbuilding For Quincy, State

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has filed a resolve with the state legislature asking the President and Congress to "take all possible steps necessary and proper to curb the decline in shipbuilding in Massachusetts."

Brownell said that Massachusetts has not received its fair share of government shipbuilding contracts and he is deeply concerned that the Boston Naval Shipyard is to be phased out.

"If this is allowed to happen," he said, "the Port of Boston will be relegated to becoming a fishing hamlet and the shipbuilding industry in Massachusetts will suffer irreversible decline."

In addition to the problem with the government, Brownell said, men are quietly being laid off at the General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy despite the fact that the yard has received a major private contract.

The Brownell resolution asks the President and Congress "to take appropriate action to stabilize, promote and insure the continued existence and prosperity of the shipbuilding industry in Massachusetts which is vital to both our economy and national defense."

SANTA AND THE DEMONS

The demons wanted to take over Christmas because they didn't want any of the kids to get any toys. So they had to find a way to stop Santa from giving the toys to the kids. One guy said, "let's kidnap Santa. No," said the captain. Then the captain spread the word to lock all doors and windows so Santa wouldn't be able to give the kids toys. Santa heard their plan. He didn't forget about about the chimneys so he climbed to the rooftops and delivered all the toys down the chimneys.

Quincy, North Now In Role Of Spoilers

This is getting to be a frustrating season for Coaches Ron Erikson and Bob Sylvia of the North Quincy and Quincy hockey teams.

Both coaches had high hopes at the start of the Greater Boston League season but now it seems each team can only play the role of spoiler.

Friday North will face Malden at 9 p.m. and Quincy will meet Medford at 6:30 at Boston Arena. Wednesday, North and Quincy will clash for the second time at 6:30. The rivals played to a 1-1 tie in their first meeting.

Erikson had visions of the Raiders really coming into their own following a 5-2 win over Everett and a 1-1 tie with unbeaten Revere but the team dropped a 5-2 decision last Friday to Medford.

North trailed by only a 2-1 count after two periods but the Mustangs scored three times in the final period for the three-goal margin.

Medford scored twice in the final two minutes of the opening period and made it 3-1 early in the final session.

"We made some key mistakes and they capitalized on them," said Erikson. "In the last period we had problems clearing our zone and that cost us. This was an important game as we could have moved into fourth place with a win. We know we can play good hockey now but we must shoot for consistency."

Monday night North again did a complete turnabout as it edged Somerville, 3-2, to even the score for a heartbreaking last minute loss to the Highlanders in their first meeting.

Robbie Henderson scored the first of his two goals at 2:42 of the opening period, converting passes from Dave Noonan and Steve McKay. Somerville tied it up at 10:53.

Jim Mullaney again gave the Raiders the lead at 6:42 of the middle period with Ken Graham and Henderson having assists, but again Somerville knotted the count later in the period.

Henderson scored the clincher at 1:18 of the final period with McKay and Mike O'Hanley setting it up and goalie Jim Fatseas, outstanding throughout the game, held the Highlanders off the rest of the way to insure North's second win.

It has been a mighty disappointing season for Sylvia and it hit a new low Friday when the Presidents were bombarded by Malden, 10-3, by far the worst defeat ever for a Sylvia-coached team.

The Presidents trailed by only a 4-3 score at the end of two but Malden poured in six goals in the final 12 minutes.

"We have never had a team beaten like that and I don't know what the effect will be on the kids," the Quincy coach said. "It might have seriously hurt us as a team or it might have the reverse effect and clear the air of our problems. I think they'll bounce back. They will have to, as our next two games are with Revere and Medford."

The Presidents played league-leading Revere Wednesday night.

"We have a lot of young players who are going to get playing time from now on," Sylvia went on. "We used a lot of them against Malden. I think we will be playing looser from now on and we'll look upon ourselves as spoilers."

Malden took a 1-0 lead in the first period and made it 3-0 with two goals in the first two minutes of the middle session.

Quincy bounced back to tie it up when Al Lancione scored at 2:26 with an assist for Jim Starkey, Bill Bennett scored on a solo dash at 3:00 and Starkey converted John Prescott's pass at 3:35. It was one of Quincy's most explosive stretches in some time. Malden regained the lead, then the roof fell in during the final period.

Earlier in the week North turned in one of its better performances to hold defending champion and undefeated league leader Revere to a 1-1 tie.

After two scoreless periods highlighted by Dave Messina's remarkable work in goal, the Raiders took the lead at 4:22 of the final period when Mullaney converted Graham's pass.

But the high scoring Tom Guarino, thwarted time after time by Messina, cracked the tough North defense with a low shot from the deep slot that just eluded Messina's right skate at 8:12.

The tie, following an impressive 5-2 win over Everett, delighted Erikson.

"Messina was just outstanding, it's not possible to have a better game than he had," the North coach said. "Our kids covered extremely well. We didn't give them much but what we did, Dave stopped cold." Messina had 27 saves, many of them spectacular. Perhaps the best was on Guarino, one of the league's best, in the last period and he also had a beauty on Bob White, off a three-one Revere break.

"We are only 1-3-2 after this game but we could well be 3-1-2," Erikson pointed out. "The only game we feel we should have lost was to Malden [7-0], but we easily could have beaten Somerville and Chelsea."

It was another rough night for Quincy, which bowed to Somerville, 4-2, on two last period goals by the Highlanders.

Paul Campbell scored for the Presidents at 6:36 of the opening period with Starkey and Lancione, to tie the count. After Somerville regained the lead, Ted Wiedemann again knotted the count for Quincy at 2:58 of the middle session on a pass from Sean Polley. But Somerville iced it with two goals in the finals.

The Presidents showed all the mechanics of sound hockey but again were unable to score when they had the chances.

"I'm at a total loss for an explanation," a disappointed Sylvia said. "Everything seems all right. The talent is there, we know, and the spirit seems to be there and then a game starts and—nothing.

No Tears For Finnegan; North Drops Two

By TOM SULLIVAN

If ever a coach had a reason to sit down and cry it was Quincy's Marty Finnegan.

Then, just before last week's Revere game, Bill Kiggen, 6-5 center, re-injured his knee which kept him out of action a year ago, and Jim McKinnon also suffered a knee injury as they joined Marvelle on crutches for the Revere contest.

With this trio sidelined for several more games [Kiggen could be out for the season] much of the Presidents' punch also went.

But, Finnegan isn't the kind of coach to sit down and cry over his misfortunes. Instead, he and his players began to regroup and change their tactics a bit and, instead of playing dead, they walloped Chelsea, 84-57, last Friday after giving Revere a great game before losing.

North Quincy, which lost two close decisions last week, goes to Revere Friday and has an open date Tuesday.

Quincy was well in front, 47-33, at the half but Chelsea's Tony Taraskiewicz had thrown in 24 points. Amorosino, Quincy's junior varsity coach, suggested that the team go into a diamond zone, with a man-to-man defense on Taraskiewicz.

Mark MacLeod took care of the rest as he held the Chelsea star to two baskets and two foul shots in the third period and his mates added eight points to their lead.

John Reggiannini topped the scorers with 28 points, followed by Ken Furfari with 18, Phil Iovanna with 11 and Ray Papile with 10.

Meanwhile, North Quincy had a disappointing night as it squandered a 15-point lead and lost to Malden, 63-59, its second loss in a row after three wins in a row including two in the Greater Boston League.

North led, 35-20, at the half but the usually potent defense faltered in the third period and Malden had a hot shooting hand to outscore the Raiders, 26-12 and trail by just one.

Malden shot 13 for 16 in that period.

The Raiders out-scored Malden from the floor, 25 baskets to 23, but for the third game in a row missed many one-and-one chances from the foul line which again cost them.

While this was happening in the final period, Malden was hitting on nine of 10 from the line to insure the win.

For North John Stevens was top scorer with 17 points, while Ken Marsters had 14. They were the only Raiders in double figures.

The Presidents earlier in the week, playing their first game with Kiggen and McKinnon joining Marvelle on the bench, refused to quit as they easily could have and gave Revere a great game before losing, 57-53.

"There was naturally a pyschological letdown losing two more players just before the game, but we'll just have to regroup as best we can," said Finnegan.

"The boys certainly didn't quit and they won't quit in any game. They really scrapped all the way and if some of those shots fell it may have been different. But that's the way this game goes. I can't fault this team, everyone gave me 100 percent and I am proud of them."

Finnegan hailed Iovanna, Furfari and Mike Cullen in particular for their performances. "Iovanna gave us a good game, Furfari hustled all night and Cullen, just up from the jayvees, played very well," the Presidents' coach lauded.

Furfari had 14 points, Iovanna 12, MacLeod and Reggiannini 11 each.

North, playing at Somerville's "snakepit" suffered its first loss, a last second 58-57 heartbreaker.

Tied, 57-all, with 39 seconds to play, Somerville missed a foul shot. Going for the rebound, North fouled and this time Somerville hit for the winning point.

"They just shot better than we did, that's all," said Coach Bob Nolan, who saw a 22-game regular season win streak snapped. "We had our chance to win in the final minute but missed three one-on-ones. We had only three for 12 in the last period.

"But I'm not disappointed. It was a great defensive game. It was very well played and I have no regrets."

Statistically, the Raiders had a good night from the floor with 24 for 55 but had only nine for 18 from the foul line. North out-rebounded the home club, 27-15, limiting it to four offensive rebounds.

Pete Bellotti led the scoring with 16 points, followed by Jamie Doherty with 14, Marsters with 13 and Stevens with 10.

Quincy, North Track Teams Back In Action

The Quincy and North Quincy track teams will resume Greater Boston League competition Saturday after a day off last week in favor of the annual State Coaches' Meet.

Bob Gentry's North team with a 2-1 record, faces Medford and Tom Hall's Quincy club, 1-2, meets Chelsea at 9:30 a.m. at the Medford High cage.

North is just behind Revere and Somerville [3-1 each], while Quincy is still in the running as it has been shown that anyone can beat anyone else on a given day.

Last week neither Quincy nor North fared well in the coaches' meet at Northeastern with the only points coming when North finished second in the two-lap relay.

Munson Named To All-Star Team

LARRY MUNSON

Larry Munson, a University of Pennsylvania senior from North Quincy and co-captain last fall of the Quakers' varsity lightweight football team, was named to the ECAC all-star team and also received All-American mention.

A guard and linebacker for the lightweight squad, which plays the same Ivy League schedule as the varsity team and had a 6-3 season, Munson, who weighs 150 and stands only 5-6, was one of the club's outstanding performers throughout the season.

His high school coach, Carl Leone, who took over when Jack Donahue retired and who is now Quincy's coordinator of athletics, called Larry "an outstanding lineman".

"He weighed only about 140 and was a real 'watch charm' guard," Leone said. "He was a starter as a senior and was also with me as a sophomore and junior. He was a great little player."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Munson [he is clinical psychologist for the Quincy school system and also is associated with Dr. Charles Djerf], Larry is an excellent student and plans to attend medical school.

On The Screen

By Vincent Puleo

Franciosa Does Own Stunts Even When It Hurts

"SOUNDER" sensation CICELY TYSON was named Best Actress of the Year by the National Board of Review. Can an Academy Award nomination be long in coming?... And of the same film, singer TAJ MAHAL [no that's not his real name, but rather reel] is a native son of New England... A new wrinkle in this year's Cannes Film Festival [May 10-25]: an International Film Poster Exposition... Don't know what film posters have to do with judging the quality of entry movies, but the Cannes folk always think up new ideas to drum up publicity...

For the curious, the most critically reviewed porno attraction to date has been "DEEP THROAT". Practically all of your name reviewers have in one form or another gotten their claws into this controversial flick... For all the press ink, BRUCE DERN and WARREN OATES are still in the "due proper recognition" class. Household names they ain't... FARLEY GRANGER fans can catch him in a rare screen appearance in the soon-to-be released "THE SERPENT"...

You go back a decade or three if you remember WILL GEER touring the States with HELEN HAYES in the distinguished A.P.A. repertory company... For 20 years ANTHONY FRANCIOSA has been one of a handful of stars who insisted on doing his own "stunts". As the villain in "ACROSS 110TH STREET" he almost did his "last" stunt... In a scene with actor PAUL BENJAMIN the script called for him to end up falling down several stairs. FRANCIOSA did...hit a wall...and was unconscious for almost five minutes... When he came to, he insisted on finishing the scene, then saw a doctor... Undaunted FRANCIOSA says, "I will continue doing all my own stunt work in future films"...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: "You lose some of the time what you go after, but you lose all of the time what you don't go after," NATHAN LEE MORGAN, author and script writer... LOU GOSSETT is a perfect delight as the manservant in "TRAVELS WITH MY AUNT"... SAUL CHAPLIN isn't called "Mr. Music" without some awe by Hollywood folk. He has won three Academy Awards as either musical director or associate producer of three highly touted Tinseltown productions: "AN AMERICAN IN PARIS", "SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN SISTERS" and "WEST SIDE STORY"...

Child star KIRBY FURLONG, formerly of TV's "JAMES STEWART SHOW", has been signed to play LUCILLE BALL'S nephew in the upcoming Warner Bros. tuner, "MAME"... The new JACK LEMMON starrer "SAVE THE TIGER" world premiere's February at N.Y.C.'s Coronet Theatre... "HOWZER" is another of those sensitively packaged youth pics which, with the right promotion, could be a hit "sleeper". The ROYAL DANO topliner deals objectively and sympathetically with the treatment of runaway youths...

And now recognition for films that, though not box office clouters, are still "artistic" hits. The National Society of Film Critics will give awards to motion pictures that have had durable impact on, if not on the public, then themselves-the critics... Pictures which are being considered for recognition this year are: "MY UNCLE ANTOINE", "BAD COMPANY", "J. W. COOP", "THE GREAT NORTHFIELD MINNESOTA RAID", and "FAT CITY"...

Isn't VIRNA LISI one of the most beautiful women on the screen today? I think so... Combining careers, actor JOE COSCIA [now filming "DEATH OF A SNOW QUEEN" with JOANNE WOODWARD] is also hairstylist for the Broadway musical "PIPPIN" and two television series, "TO TELL THE TRUTH" and "SOMERSET"... And ROSS HUNTER was recently awarded the LOUELLA O. PARSONS plaque for presenting the best Hollywood image to the world... Funny Titles Dept: On the drawing boards at Warner's "DINKY HOCKER SHOOTS SMACK"...

Being readied for reissue, the D. W. GRIFFITH silents and DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS no talkie classic, "THE MARK OF ZORRO"... ROBERT WAGNER is slam-banging the English ratings with his "COLDITZ" teleseries. So much so, NBC and ABC are contemplating running WAGNER'S adventure TV show here in the States... And from Angry Film Production [yup, that's the studios name] "SECRET DIARY OF A WOMEN'S PRISON". Filmed in living "anger" I'm sure...

PAUL NEWMAN has the stuff of what makes up a good director. In his third directing stint, "THE EFFECT OF GAMMA RAYS ON MAN-IN-THE-MOON MARIGOLDS". NEWMAN puts it all together as a director, allowing the story and players to mesh harmonizingly with simplicity and minimum of restraint... DAVID L. WOLPER'S "THE OFFICIAL FILM OLYMPIAD" is scheduled for world release this May in 12 international locales...

STEVE McQUEEN'S teleseries of many moons ago "WANTED DEAD OR ALIVE" is being distributed for syndication. Look for it to pop up on either channel 38 or 56... Thinking out loud and wondering if WOODY ALLEN will be taking a film crack at Dr. DAVID REUBEN'S "ANY WOMAN CAN"?... And from Denmark, "THE SENSUOUS TEENAGER"... CHARLES BRONSON'S next film is one "BLACK CIRCLE"... And look for AL PACINO to score big in "SERPICO"... And what of LANA TURNER? Is the sex goddess of the 40's in retirement? Just wondering...

You Can Earn More In 1973 While Getting SS Benefits

Starting in 1973, people who are working while getting social security benefits can earn more but never lose more than $1 in benefits for each $2 earned, according to Frank Culkin, social security district manager in Quincy.

"The more you earn, the higher your total income will be," Culkin said. "Under the new social security law, social security payments will be reduced by $1 for every $2 earned over $2,100 in a year."

Previously, monthly payments were reduced by $1 in benefits for every $2 earned between $1,680 and $2,880 in a year--and by $1 for every $1 earned over $2,880.

"People 72 and over will continue to get their full social security benefits regardless of earnings," Culkin said. Under the new law, people under 72 can earn as much as $2,100 in a year and get their full social security benefits. Different rules apply to people getting social security disability benefits if they work."

In addition, starting in 1973, full benefits can be paid for any month in which an employee's wages are not more than $175--or he didn't perform substantial services in self-employment. Previously, the monthly limit was $140.

"Also, starting in 1973, only your earnings in the months before you reach 72 will be used to figure what benefits are due you for those months," Culkin continued. "Before, earnings in the entire year you reached 72 were counted in figuring benefits due you for months before you were 72."

Another feature of the new law assures that the earnings exemption for people getting social security payments will go up automatically in future years as earnings levels increase, culkin said. The first year there can be an automatic increase is 1975.

Social security pays monthly benefits to eligible retired and disabled workers and their families--and to families of deceased workers who were insured under social security.

General Dynamics President Says:

'Shipyard To Stay Open; The Future Is Optimistic'

By TOM HENSHAW

The Fore River shipyard is here to stay.

But it's going to be rough for a while.

Succinctly, that's the word on the yard from Hilliard W. Paige of St. Louis, the president of General Dynamics Corp.

Paige spoke last week at a news conference that introduced P. Takis Veliotis as president and general manager of the Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics.

"We are now optimistic about the future of this yard," said Paige. "All thoughts we ever had about not being able to keep the Quincy shipyard open are behind us.

"We are determined not only to keep this yard open but we also intend to make Quincy the leading shipyard in this country for the design and construction of liquified natural gas [LNG] ships."

The Fore River yard last September landed contracts to build three 125,000 cubic meter LNG tankers for Burmah Oil Tankers of New York. They were the first such contracts awarded in the United States.

Paige said negotiations are now underway to build more large LNG tankers for El Paso Natural Gas of Texas and Globetik of London, England and several other firms both foreign and domestic.

The Burmah contracts, Paige said, "came about a year later than we had first hoped [and] we have been disappointed in not being able to capture the short-term work ... to tide us through the months immediately ahead."

General Dynamics, Paige said, devoted intensive efforts and about $1.5 million to get contracts for six large crude oil carriers to protect the yard's skilled work force until the LNG tankers could be started.

"But delays in working out the very complex details involved finally stretched negotiations to the point where the resultant delay in the start of these ships would have impacted our primary goal, the deliveries of LNG ships."

For the past six months, Paige said, the company has been trying to land Navy contracts for two submarine tenders but, due to funding difficulties, the Navy has been unable to award the contracts.

Efforts to acquire short-term work continue, Paige said, but if those efforts are not successful "we will be forced to reduce our work force between now and next April to about 2,000 employees." Current employment is about 5,000.

"By next June," Paige continued, "as we complete our engineering and begin our construction of the LNGs, we will begin a gradual buildup of employees reaching about 4,000 employees during 1975.

"We will do everything we can to transfer displaced employees into other jobs within the corporation – particularly at our Electric Boat Division [in Groton, Conn.], 90 miles down the road, which is hiring at present."

Paige said that General Dynamics was limited in its efforts to land contracts for crude oil carriers by the fact that 225,000-ton tankers are the largest size that will fit through the Fore River Bridge. That's small in the current market.

WHEN THE Quincy-built USS Lexington [CVT-16] arrived at the South Boston Annex of the Boston Naval Shipyard for repairs, Quincy Mayor Walter J. Hannon presented a Paul Revere bowl to Captain Charles C. Carter, USN, commanding officer. Edmund W. Del Prete [center] of Rockland worked on the ship over 30 years ago and participated in the welcoming ceremony. The Lexington will observe her 30th birthday Feb. 17, at the same pier she went into commission in 1943. The ship will be in Boston for an 11-week stay.

Pruning Continues

Hannon Cuts $1 Million From Budget

Mayor Walter J. Hannon's budget pruners have gone over the $1 million dollar mark in their efforts to chop the frills out of the city's 1973 budget.

And there's another two weeks' work with the scissors to come.

Just before the pruners gathered to work over the Park and Forestry Departments' budget bids Tuesday night, Budget Coordinator William S. Grindlay placed the total cuts at $1,158,826.

A half million dollars of that figure was cut from the City Hospital budget and the mayor said his advisors will take two more runs at the hospital on Jan. 22 and Feb. 1.

The schedule for the next two weeks includes:

Jan. 22 - Public Works and City Hospital.

Jan. 23 - Public Works and Civil Defense.

Jan. 25 - Police.

Jan. 26 - Fire.

Jan. 29 - Zoning Board and Recreation.

Jan. 31 - Library Board.

Feb. 1 - City Hospital.

The Mayor is required by law to submit the budget to the City Council by Feb. 15 and, says Coordinator Grindlay, "we'll be on time."

City Council Delays Stand On S. Quincy MBTA Station

The Quincy City Council has placed on the back burner a bid by Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia for a formal vote of opposition to the proposed South Quincy MBTA Station.

LaRaia noted that most members of the Council have expressed opposition to one or more aspects of the proposal, which is currently moving toward the public hearing stage.

Nevertheless, the Council voted 7-2, with LaRaia and Councillor Albert R. Barilaro in opposition, to send the resolution on to its Committee on Transportation.

The resolve also proposes that the station "be established in the area abutting Route 3 and Union Street in Braintree, thereby serving commuters from all areas of Southeastern Massachusetts."

LaRaia listed four reasons for his opposition to the station:

● Quincy already has done its share by providing three stations on the mass transit line to the South Shore.

● Making dead end roads of Penn and Center Streets will contribute to the traffic problems in the area.

● Developments of the wetlands near the Raytheon building might be in violation of the state wetlands act and would certainly contribute to existing flood problems.

● The city would lose valuable tax land area as well as facing an increase in its MBTA assessment.

Windbreaker Almost Ready At N. Quincy MBTA Station

A windbreaker and an enclosure for the comfort of waiting passengers should be completed at the North Quincy MBTA station by Jan. 24 according to MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelly.

The windbreaker is being installed on the upper level next to the bus lane while the enclosure is being erected on the parking lot level. Work began Jan. 10.

Kelly made the disclosure in a letter to Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] who had earlier expressed concern for the protection of MBTA patrons waiting for trains at the station.

An individual donating a pint of blood not intended for a specific patient establishes a credit of two units of blood for a member of his family to be used within a year of the donation.

A bright economic outlook for 1973 and 1974 was forecast by John Dwyer, executive vice president of State Street South and others who spoke at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's "Forecast '73".

The breakfast-program was held last week at the Sheraton Tara Motel in Braintree. An estimated 300 people attended.

Panel members in addition to Dwyer were Ralph Tedeschi, president of Angelo's Supermarkets, and William Lamborghini, president of the Weymouthport Corporation, developers of the condominium complex in Weymouth. Moderator for the program was Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank.

Despite the 8.6% unemployment rate in Quincy, Dwyer said that all indicators show that 1973 will be a good year for wholesalers and retailers and will surpass levels reached in 1972. He went on to say that the impact [job wise] from State Street South would not be felt in the area right away because a majority of the jobs are transfers from the Boston office.

Tedeschi foresaw the coming year as a good one for supermarkets, but pointed out that as compared to most businesses, supermarkets operate at small profit level. As a matter of fact, he explained, in good years supermarkets realize a one per cent profit as compared to 5-8% profit in some hardware items. Currently, he said, supermarkets in the area are making a profit of only 9/10% on food items.

Pearce predicted that a good supply of building funds would be available, with a rate of 7¼ to 7½% for residential construction loans. He also expected the supply of funds to continue with an estimated 10 to 12% growth rate of savings bank deposits.

An extraordinary year for condominiums was predicted by Lamborghini, who noted that the units were beginning to become popular in the New England area. The complex his company built in Weymouth, he said, passed the $1 million mark in sales in less than two months.

"It is a fact," he said, "that today the size of the ship we can build and, thus the long range future of this yard, is limited not by our yard facilities, but by the spans of that bridge.

"Today, while we are working on the first generation of LNG tankers, we are in excellent competitive position. But we may fall behind in the next generation of these ships, which will inevitably be larger, unless that bridge is widened."

The State Department of Public Works is examining the possibility of widening the span of the bridge, which was built more than 35 years ago, and a consultant's report is expected next summer.

Rep. Clifford Marshall was named an assistant majority leader last week and two days later, Speaker David Bartley called on Marshall to preside over the House during part of the debate on the end the war resolution.

Incidentally, Marshall was appointed to the important Rules Committee while keeping his seat on the Committee on Counties.

* * *

THE OTHER QUINCY representatives also got their committee assignments last week. Joseph Brett was renamed chairman of the Urban Affairs Committee. Thomas Brownell was named to the Judiciary Committee and freshman representative William Delahunt to the Election Laws Committee.

* * *

FRANK DiCESARE OF Quincy Point wants there to be no question about it. If the council seat in Ward Two is vacated by Marshall, he will definitely be a candidate for councillor.

There had been talk that DiCesare's company had been against his candidacy, but they've given him the green light to run for city council if he wants.

As far as the state representative's seat in Ward Two is concerned, DiCesare says he's not interested.

* * *

THE SPECULATION CORPS hears that three Houghs Neck Residents will be among the field of candidates for councillor in Ward One. Being mentioned are Robert Denvir, Leo Kelly and John McNally.

Denvir is past president of the Hough's Neck Community Council. McNally was a candidate for state representative in the special election held in 1971 to fill the seat vacated when Arthur Tobin moved up to the Senate.

Kelly is currently president of the Houghs Neck Community Council and was a candidate for council in 1971.

Incumbent, Councillor Edward Graham says he will definitely seek re-election.

* * *

JOSEPH SHEA, executive secretary to Mayor Hannon and Peter O'Neill, assistant to Speaker David Bartley, were among the Quincy residents graduating from Suffolk University this semester.

* * *

DEBORAH BUCKLEY of Germantown is the new secretary in Mayor Hannon's office. Hired under the emergency employment program, she was previously working in Headstart.

* * *

MARION ANDREWS, director of senior citizens activities, was recently presented three yellow roses by the St. Ann's Senior Citizens Club.

Mrs. Andrews helped organize the club, and each rose represented the three years the club has been in existence.

BY THE WAY, Mrs. Andrews son, Ralph [Gus] Andrews is the head basketball coach this year at Catholic Memorial H.S. in West Roxbury.

* * *

JOSEPH GILDEA of Montclair, former vice chairman of the Park-Recreation Board, is an outspoken proponent of the plan to acquire the Mound St. property in Quincy Point for a beach.

"It could be developed into one of the finest beaches in the city," he says.

HATS OFF to the Quincy Auxiliary Police Dept.

Since 1968 they've saved the city more than $219,000, volunteering more than 10,000 man hours in 1972.

There are 50 members in the department, headed by Kenneth Walsh of South Quincy.

The Quincy Auxiliary Police also sponsor the Renegades Drum and Bugle Corps. It is the only drum and bugle corps in the U.S. that is sponsored by an auxiliary police department. And they've recently organized a junior drum and bugle corps.

The senior unit meets Sundays in the Vo-Tech cafeteria and Thursday nights at the Commonwealth Armory in Boston. Junior corps meets Monday and Wednesday nights in the Q.H.S. cafeteria.

* * *

HISTORY REPEATS itself. "Mayors from Quincy and Boston met recently and reported that purchase of Squaw Rock was in the final stages."

The above report does not refer to the meeting held last week between Mayor Hannon and Mayor White, but rather to a similar meeting which took place in 1952.

The 1952 meeting took place between Quincy Mayor Thomas Burgin and Boston Mayor John Hynes and was arranged by Atty. Joseph McDonough of Quincy who was then a candidate for state senate.

Let's hope last week's meeting will be more successful.

* * *

Nice to report that George A. Wilson, former Quincy High School principal, is out of the hospital and back on the job as secretary of the Quincy Kiwanis Club.

- Army Wars On Drugs
- Double Dipping In Treasury
- Cosa Nostra Wrong Term

WASHINGTON – The Army, alarmed over the sudden rise in drug addiction among troops in Europe, has adopted stringent measures to catch drug users and pushers.

But the new measures, in turn, have alarmed civil rights lawyers who fear many innocent soldiers may be caught in the antidrug dragnet.

We have uncovered one document, for instance, which was issued last month by Gen. Anthony Daskevich in Stuttgart, Germany. He recommended that commanders develop informers and reward them for information. The general also suggested volunteer undercover patrols to be established to follow up on the informers' tips.

"Cars entering the post will be checked and searched at random....Volunteers will search buildings...stem to stern," wrote General Daskevich. The general urged his unit commanders to conduct frequent shakedown inspections and to bust pushers and users to the lowest rank as soon as evidence is available.

To handle known drug users, the general recommended the removal of the suspect's pass privileges, his driver's license, his civilian clothes, even the key to his room. If the suspect is married, wrote Daskevich, "he should be required to move into the barracks where he can be watched."

Such measures, the general insists, pose no threat to innocent soldiers. But civil liberties lawyers charge that innocent soldiers have already been hurt by some of the extreme methods used to catch the guilty.

Double Dippers

For years, we have criticized retired officers for double dipping from the federal treasury. The practice began nearly a decade ago when Congress passed the Dual Compensation Act. Thanks to this law, more than 78,000 retired military personnel today collect part of their pension and draw civil service pay at the same time.

Double dipping has helped create a military spoils system, which encourages rigged recruitment, preferential treatment, unfair hiring and promotional practices.

Retired militarymen frequently alert friends about to retire of job openings in the federal government. In some cases, jobs have been held open for months awaiting the retirement of ranking military officers. In other instances, new jobs have been created solely to fit the needs of retiring officers.

But among the worst abusers of the law are some 70 flag officers now working in the civilian government. Some of them collect more than $50,000 a year from their combined military retirement and civilian pay.

The juiciest double-dipping deal we have come across involves retired four-star Air Force Gen. Jacob Smart, who is now an assistant administrator at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He collects around $58,000 a year, including more than $22,000 in retirement benefits.

Other double-dippers include Lt. General Alfred Starbird, now a civilian at the Pentagon, Lt. Gen. Ben Davis, now at Transportation and Brig. Gen. Frank Elliot at Agriculture.

One general is so overpaid, he voluntarily has cut his own salary by $14,000 a year. He is Gen. Jackson Graham, now chief of the Washington area Metro Authority, who accepts less than $38,000 of his authorized $52,000 salary. With $17,000 a year in retirement benefits, Graham would become the most lucrative double-dipper in the country if he accepted his full salary. Graham tells us that's a distinction he can do without.

Behind the Scenes

IS HANOI HOPEFUL? – North Vietnam's master negotiator, Le Duc Tho, has been surprisingly moderate in his private conversations in Paris. He has echoed Henry Kissinger's October statements that a cease-fire agreement is attainable and that only a few remaining problems need to be ironed out. This is opposite to the attitude he was expected to take. A secret intelligence analysis had suggested that he would be grim and uncompromising as a reflection of Hanoi's anger over the bombing. Nevertheless, the intelligence reports from Paris say Le Duc Tho has been the model of reasonableness in his private conversations with diplomats.

THE WRONG 'THING' – It now appears that the famous underworld informer Joe Valachi never meant to say "Cosa Nostra," which means "our thing," in describing the underworld crime syndicate. We recently saw the old FBI records of Valachi's initial interrogations. What Valachi repeated throughout the questioning was the phrase "Causa Nostra," which means "our cause." The agent who questioned Valachi confirmed to us that the term "Cosa Nostra," now a popular English idiom, was the result of a typographical error.

STARS AGAINST NIXON – Liberal movie stars Warren Beatty, Jack Nicholson and Julie Christie are so outraged over President Nixon's failure to end the Vietnam War that they are considering measures to embarrass the President publicly. Jack Nicholson has told us he will troop up to Capitol Hill next month in hopes of convincing Congress to impeach the President. Nicholson insists he will follow through with the lobbying effort if a Vietnam settlement is not reached by February 20.

● QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Can You Speak On Bills?

Can Massachusetts citizens speak on behalf of proposed legislation? The answer is yes, according to the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone.

The question was brought up by a caller concerned about a particular bill before the legislature. The League indicated that there was indeed a way for him to speak on behalf of the bill.

There is a public hearing held by the assigned legislative committee on all bills. These hearings are open to the public, and citizens may listen and/or testify. To learn the date of the hearing before a particular committee, interested citizens should call their own state legislator, the House or Senate clerk at the State House, or the Voter Information Phone.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP Phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Heartfelt Thanks To A Great Quincy Fire Dept.

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Our many heartfelt thanks to the Fire Department of Quincy for the job well done in extinguishing a fire at 102 Phipps Street on December 22, 1972, and for their generous act of playing Santa Claus for our seven children who had lost all hopes of Christmas in the fire.

Their swiftness in putting out the fire and their act of generosity with the presents, turkey and fruit basket will never be forgotten by our families. Our hats go off to the members of Firefighters Local 792. The people of Quincy should realize what a great bunch of guys and what professional men they are.

Criticizes Council President

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Arthur Tobin [D-Quincy] reportedly will be named vice-chairman of the senate's powerful Ways and Means Committee. Senate President Harrington tapped Tobin for his new committee post because of his leadership of the council and because Of His Work With The Democratic Party In Quincy!!!

When Joe Brett, a lifelong Democrat ran for the office of Mayor of the City of Quincy, our able leaders of the Quincy Democratic Party could not be found.

Quincy is controlled by Democrats and they were afraid of Helping Joe Brett!!

Arthur Tobin has been elected to another term as President of the City Council. If someone else were elected instead of Tobin the tax situation between the QTR and the City of Quincy would have been different!

A different City Council President would have favored the Quincy Taxpayers Revolt and stood up for the Rights of the Taxpayers of Quincy!!!

Appreciates 'Wonderful' Coverage Of Quincy Band Trip To Dallas

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I want to thank you so very much for the wonderful coverage you have given the "Quincy High School Band" before and after their trip to Dallas.

It gives people such a great deal of pleasure to have a paper write about the good things done by good boys and girls instead of always the bad things.

It is certainly a paper to have delivered and to read in the home.

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

"Fly-by-night" travel agencies have lured and entrapped many unsuspecting Massachusetts residents, particularly in the academic community, with advertisements of exotic vacations at charter flight group rates.

In many instances these consumers have been stranded with no return tickets or no bookings on flights.

To prevent individuals from being "taken in" in the coming vacation seasons, my Consumer Protection Division has proposed legislation requiring that travel agencies engaged in arranging charter flights be licensed and bonded by the commissioner of public safety.

According to the bill a person who wishes to engage in the charter flight business must first file a financial statement with the state auditor. After the auditor examines the information and determines that the potential agent is financially solvent, he would submit the application to the commissioner of public safety. If the commissioner finds that the person meets the requirements, he would grant the agent a one-year renewable license.

The bill provides penalties if the agent is unable to perform commitments to customers. Before going into the charter flight business the agent must post a bond of $25,000, which would be used to reimburse travelers should they suffer a loss due to unfulfilled promises.

In the past some agencies charged travelers for round-trip tickets. However the agents bought one-way tickets, pocketed the remainder of the money and hoped that they would have enough to buy return tickets for the travelers at the end of the vacation period.

However, often vacationers would arrive at airports for return flights only to find that reservations did not exist. They were then forced to pay commercial air fare home.

According to the terms of the proposed legislation violations on the part of the agent would result in the loss of the license to arrange charter flights. In addition violations would be punishable by up to six months in jail, a fine of up to $5,000 or both.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'To Talk Or Not To Talk'

"My life is an open book," said Frank. "I've done a lot of things...some I'm proud of...some I'm not. When I blunder, I try to rectify it, talk it out, then get on with living. I have nothing to hide." Not many people can say that. Frank's wife, Ruth, couldn't. Frank doesn't know where he stands with Ruth...because she doesn't talk. "Fifteen years with her and I still don't know what she feels," he said. He longs for good dialogue with Ruth...but she won't talk. The marriage is in jeopardy.

Often it's the man who won't talk. Until a person realizes the seriousness of his/her silence, it's not likely to change. The refusal to talk is insulting to the other person, whether so intended or not. It's a form of rejection...creates a serious gulf between two persons. It usually is a sign of personal insecurity, perhaps irresponsibility in the relationship. How do you like a doctor who won't talk with you?...a waitress?...a hair dresser?...worst of all is the husband/wife. Communication is essential to any relationship.

People who won't talk often have other symptoms of relationship sickness. "No-Talkers" are often loners...find it difficult to be with other people...usually have few or no friends. The "No-Talker" often gives the impression that he/she is disapproving of the person he/she is with. For a husband/wife to have to live with this is devastating.

Reasons often given for the condition are not very satisfying. "I was ignored as a child"..."I was made to keep quiet as a child"..."My parents never talked"..."I was an only child and no one talked with me"..."Don't tell everyone your private business". Usually, however, the "No-Talk" person doesn't give a reason...maybe doesn't even see that he has a problem. Whatever the cause, it can be overcome.

How? First and foremost the "No-Talk" person must become aware of the seriousness of the dis-ease. You don't fix a flat tire until you become aware that the car isn't rolling properly. One doesn't fix the "flat life" caused by not talking until one becomes aware that his/her life isn't rolling. Usually a person doesn't discover this alone. It's usually the partner who forces the issue...by storming angrily...by having an affair which he/she may hope will be discovered...some way to get the message across before the complete erosion of love takes place. Somehow the "No-Talk" person must become aware of the seriousness of the dis-ease of not entering into wholesome dialogue with the partner.

Secondly...recognize what the "No-Talk" way of life does to oneself. It makes one dull...people shun this person because they are uncomfortable around them...they shrivel instead of grow. They become more and more withdrawn...the world passes them by. It can errode their whole being.

Thirdly...when a person become aware of the seriousness of the dis-ease...and the devastating results to themselves and others...then start talking. Start by asking questions. Ask two questions of ten different people. See how much you learn...how much you'll have to talk about.

By the time you've finished asking two questions of ten people, you'll have begun to talk more easily. If you don't...better get some professional help.

St. John's CYO will meet today [Thursday] in the rectory to finalize arrangements for their dance to be held at the Quincy Armory Friday.

The "Techniques" will provide the main music for this dance, and "The Formations" will be the back-up band.

Many letters of appreciation were received by the CYO for their various apostolic projects last month. The State Welfare Office commended them for their program in which underprivileged children were taken on a shopping tour and given the opportunity to purchase gifts for parents or family. Medfield State Hospital expressed the happiness the patients of the Quincy Ward received at the party given by the CYO. Servicemen, elderly, shut-ins, enjoyed the gifts, caroling and cards sent to them.

Saturday, Jan. 27 will be Theatre Night for the CYO, when they will view the performance of "Godspell".

Members of the CYO who wish to volunteer an hour a week for the new program of visitation with the elderly are asked to contact Michelle Cheney, President.

The third annual CYO Variety Show is being scheduled for the end of April. Members are asked to submit their skits to Michelle Cheney or Fr. Joseph Connolly as soon as possible.

Graduate fellowships are awarded to young men and women for a year of graduate study in a country other than their own. They must be 20 through 28 and have a bachelor's degree. Open Letter To School Committee

'Is It Fair To Deprive 2,400 Students Of a Valid Educational Experience?'

Dear Sirs:

As you are well aware, there is no Open Campus program of any kind at Quincy High School, presently.

There is currently a proposal program which is a much watered down version of the original and which provides little educational advantage over and above a traditional school.

What is difficult to understand is why the original program with minor changes was not adopted again. It is understandable that any changes which cost additional money would be prohibitive, but a full Open Campus program can be instituted with little or no expense. Granted it will not be perfect, but then again the traditional system is not perfect either.

The best information we have indicates the following:

- The Quincy High School Administration is in favor of a full Open Campus program.
- The majority of the faculty is in favor of a full Open Campus program, provided certain minor changes like a daily homeroom period are instituted.
- The vast majority of students are in favor of the program.
- The majority of parents are in favor of the program.
- The community in general has been supportive.
- Following Open Campus last year, the evaluative study for the State Department of Education, which you all have copies of, said that attendance was better for those on Open Campus than those not on Open Campus.
- Those on Open Campus had less unsatisfactory conduct marks than those not on Open Campus.
- Grades in English and Social Studies [the only subjects which all students take] were higher and there were less failures for those on Open Campus than those not on Open Campus.
- There was less drop-out potential for those on Open Campus than those not on Open Campus.
- Studies in other communities indicate that vandalism and theft decreased sharply during Open Campus.

In essence, statistical data showed Open Campus in Quincy to be a beneficial experience and that teachers, administrators, students, parents and the Community at large are supportive. This coupled with the fact that an educational system besides academic skills is supposed to teach and provide for responsibility leads us to request that the Quincy School Committee grant a full Open Campus program.

We understand that there are students who abused the privilege of Open Campus and that certain rules about "off-limits" areas were not adhered to by some. Is it fair, however, to deprive 2,400 students a valid educational and life experience for what a small number did?

The current proposal which would not allow students to manage their time for themselves, to buy a newspaper or a book in Quincy Square, to go to the Thomas Crane Library can hardly be labeled maximum education.

All the resources of the community should be accessible, not just those from the Court House to the Southern Artery.

We hope that you will at least respond to this letter, and better still, permit the institution of a valid and beneficial Open Campus program.

Sincerely,
Concerned Quincy High Students

Accompanying this letter is a petition signed by over 600 students and over 40 members of the faculty and administration. The petitions said that the undersigned favored a full Open Campus program.

In the case of the faculty petition it spelled out certain requirements such as a daily homeroom; attendance sheets, no additional "policing" duties and street disciplinary action for those breaking Open Campus rules.

Biology Studies Topical

By EMILY GOLDSTEIN

For example, before the Christmas vacation, the Biology classes of Mrs. Jeanette Mohnkern, Miss Catherine Smith, Mr. Dana Smith and Miss Janet Kornmyer learned to distinguish between the various types of evergreen trees.

Each student used a key to identify the trees. They answered questions, such as "which tree makes the best Christmas decoration, and why?

Students also compared the cone size and shape of the various trees.

As a supplement to individual study, mistletoe, holly and hemlock were displayed on a bulletin board in the room. Index cards explained where these traditions originated and how they evolved.

How Do You Feel About New Electives?

Students were asked their opinion of the new elective program in English and Social Studies.

[Comments - English and History Electives]

SCOTT CRITCHER: "I take Law and Social Responsibility and I think it is a good course and it should be a year-long course. I don't think students should get a loss of quality points "for electives".

JANICE SILVER: "I think electives are more gratifying than regular classes".

BILL FERRAZZI: "I take Satire and Nature of Comedy and think it is better than a regular English class."

DEBBIE COHEN: "I think electives should be less than the semesters because the subject gets boring."

DAVID KLEIMOLA: "I take Sports Lit and I like it."

January Graduation ?

By LISA COOPER

In Quincy High School, seniors are required to have earned within the three high school years, at least 60 "diploma" points, in order to graduate.

For most students, this task is not extremely difficult, considering that in order to remain in school each is required to take at least three major subjects each year [i.e. English, Math, History], and gym.

These major subjects, which meet for 45 minutes, five days out of the "6-day cycle" are worth exactly five diploma points each. Thus, the below average student, taking the minimum required courses, earning 45 points for his majors and 4.5 diploma points for gym, will not graduate as he is short 10½ credits.

An average QHS student takes four major subjects per year or three majors and one or two electives [i.e. Art, Photography, Shop] and gym, enabling him to fulfill his 60 credit requirement.

The above average student who is planning to pursue his education beyond high school, usually takes five or six majors per year sometimes earning his 60 diploma points at the completion of his junior year. This student will graduate in June with the same status of having "satisfactorily completed the prescribed courses", as the average student. This leaves the student with one question; [isn't it worthless] why must he continue into his senior year considering he already has enough credits to graduate? A college bound student can be out working [possibly as an apprentice to a career or profession he wishes to pursue] to help pay for that college education.

Quincy High does not graduate its seniors at the end of their junior year, or January of their senior year, but this can be done. A few other high schools throughout the state, provide seniors who are eligible [those who have fulfilled their requirements] with the option of graduation in January or June.

Dance Jinx Ended!

For many years QHVTS dances have been unsuccessful.

Over the past three years, there were four dances. Only one dance made any profit. Even at this dance few students attended, and even fewer danced at all. Teachers who were willing to give up their free time to chaperone were hard to come by.

But the Senior Class of '73 was determined to have a good dance before we left QHVTS this May. We believed we could "change the bad image of QHVTS dances."

On Saturday night, Jan. 6, Quincy's Senior Class sponsored their first dance of the year. Through the efforts of many seniors, along with the enthusiastic support of both Junior and Sophomore Classes, the dance was a success. Not only did the Senior Class make a sizable profit, but more importantly, everybody danced and enjoyed themselves.

"Horizon" entertained all by playing many old Rock 'n Roll tunes, and also many current songs.

Special thanks must also be given to many QHVTS teachers for their cooperation and assistance in helping to make the dance successful.

We, the Senior Class of '73 are proud to say we'll be having more dances. We're confident that they will be even bigger and better than our first dance.

Our next dance is scheduled for Saturday Feb. 3, at 8 p.m. We hope all will attend.

WOMEN HEAR BETTER

Joking about it, a scientist told the New York Times: "Husbands cannot seem to hear their wives speak, except for such phrases as 'Dinner is ready'. And at night, wives can hear a dripping faucet that is inaudible to husbands."

Seriously though, women do have a slight edge in hearing according to research at the University of Minnesota Hearing Research Laboratory. Studies showed that women's hearing is less affected than men's by low-frequency roaring and rumbling noise and is more sensitive to high-frequency sounds.

One possible explanation is that boys and men are exposed to more noises - power mowers, auto engines, outboard motors, gunfire - and may suffer some hearing loss as time passes. Another possibility is that women have stronger middle-ear muscles than men.

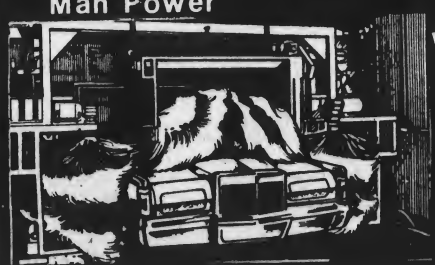
Brownell Suggests Establishment Of Seawall Maintenance Program

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has recommended that Mayor Hannon establish a permanent program of seawall protection, maintenance and repair.

In a letter to the Mayor, Brownell said the program should "set priorities for needed seawalls" and "engage in a regular surveillance, repair and maintenance of existing seawalls.

"For too long, our City has taken a patchwork seawall approach to protecting valuable shore line from heavy flooding, high tides and erosion," he said.



"It is my hope that you will make every effort to implement my suggestion as soon as possible."

Medicare 'Carry Over' Helps 1972, 1973 Deductible

Under the "carry-over" rule of the medical insurance part of Medicare, doctor bills for October, November, and December may in some cases count toward the $50 annual deductible for both 1972 and 1973, according to Frank Culkin, Social Security manager in Quincy.

"The medical insurance part of Medicare helps pay for doctor bills and a variety of other medical expenses of almost everyone 65 and over. Before payments from Medicare begin, the patient must meet the annual deductible–the first $50 of covered medical expenses accumulated in a calendar year.

"The carry-over rule helps the Medicare patient who might otherwise have to pay the $50 deductible twice in a short period of time, Culkin said. "Once at the end of one year, again at the beginning of the next year. Under the carry-over rule, doctor bills for October, November and December which can be counted toward your $50 deductible for 1972, can apply to the deductible for both 1972 and 1973."

Even if a Medicare patient hasn't met the 1972 deductible before October, he should send in all of his medical bills for covered services for the last three months of 1972, according to Culkin.

"The 'carry-over' amount will be credited to your deductible for 1973," he said.

The bills should be sent in with a Request for Medicare Payment form, available at most doctor's offices and all social security offices. They should be sent to Medicare, P. O. Box 2194, Boston, Mass. 02106, the health insurance organization that handles medical insurance payments in the South Shore area.

The medical insurance part of Medicare pays 80 percent of the reasonable charges for covered services after the deductible has been met. The program is funded by individual premiums matched by the Federal Government.

The medical insurance supplements Medicare hospital insurance for people 65 and over, funded by social security contributions. Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Veterans News

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q - How long do I have to convert my National Service Life Insurance policy?

A - NSLI five year term insurance can be converted at any time while in force. Term policies with numbers prefixed by "W" cannot be kept in force if they expire after the insured's 50th birthday, and they must be converted before they expire.

Q - An extra large dividend put me over the income limit this year. Will this cause my VA pension to be discontinued?

A - No. As long as this income could not have been anticipated and was of a non-recurring nature, it will have no effect on your pension.

Q - What should I do if my VA benefit check is not delivered on time?

A - You should wait long enough for the mails to clear, then write the VA regional office which has your file. Include your name if you're a veteran, or the deceased veteran's name if it is a death claim, and your claim number. Do not write to the Treasury Department, as this will result in further delay.

Q - A veteran's widow receiving pension died on June 15 and had in her possession a VA check for the month of May. Is this check payable to anyone?

A - The check must be returned to the disbursing office which issued it. It may then be paid, upon submission of a claim to the nearest VA office, to any children entitled to VA death benefits, or, if no eligible children, then to the person or persons who bore the expense of the last illness or burial.

According to most reports, there are very few white infants available for adoption, but Victoria Salkmann [pseud.] says THERE IS A CHILD FOR YOU. [Simon and Schuster. $6.50] This is a true story told with fictitious names of a middle class white family who adopt a black child. It is a very moving story of the conflicts and doubts that arose in the family and with friends and neighbors and of the endless obstacles the adoption agencies force one to hurdle.

A blistering attack on the operation of our national intelligence system is made in Patrick McGarvey's CIA: The Myth and the Madness. [Saturday Review. $6.95] He is harsh in his appraisal but cites his reasons well with shocking examples of what he believes are their mistakes. Exciting reading!

Life on a farm and with the neighbors in "Clabberville" in western Massachusetts is described with humor and touches of sadness by a young graduate school drop-out and ex-movement activist, Mark Kramer, who has been in hiding in an old farmstead for four years in MOTHER WALTER AND THE PIG TRAGEDY [Knopf. $5.95] Parts of this have appeared previously in the "Phoenix".

Lovely color photographs and a brief text bring the Amish people to life with all the human qualities of contentment, companionship and happiness that underlie their belief in hard work and a simple life style in THE GENTLE PEOPLE: a Portrait of the Amish, by Donald M. Denlinger and James A. Warner [Grossman. $20.]

The story of the 35 million people who left Europe to come to live in America is colorfully related by Philip Taylor in THE DISTANT MAGNET; European emigration to the U.S.A. [Harper. $14.] He explores their individual motives, expectations, backgrounds and difficulties as well as the general social trends which have come out of this mass movement. Excellent photographs spark the text.

Ladies who can sew should reserve this book and get an early start on birthday and Christmas gifts for children. Wobbly Woo and Wobbly Winnie is a rag doll with unstuffed legs so it can sit easily and even have its legs crossed. It is a doll with two faces, Woo's on one side, Winnie's on the other. Then there are Dippy and Dilly Dolphin, Chicky Chick, Oliver Owl, all stuffed toys and Jock McThistle, a glove puppet. Simple directions for making them will be found in SOFT TOYS MADE EASY, by Brenda Morton [Taplinger. $6.95]

For history and marine biology buffs THE COD, by Albert C. Jensen [Crowell. $7.95] is a highly interesting book. It covers the natural history of the cod and the methods used to capture it from Viking days to the modern hatcheries and doesn't overlook its impact on the social and economic history of New England and its place in lore and literature. No recipes!

S.S. Women's Caucus To Hear TV Hostess Sunday

"Women speaking openly and really listening to each other, encourage others to speak openly and to listen. This is the momentum that leads to responsible action."

That is what South Shore women will be doing Sunday at 2:30 p.m., at Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd, Quincy Point.

Martha Stuart, writer, producer and hostess of a national television program, will show her film, entitled "Women", which she produced in order to show women sharing experiences, thoughts, insights and feelings, and to work toward eliminating the handicap many women feel because of traditional perceptions of the female role. Following the film, she will lead a discussion and rap session.

This program is being sponsored by the South Shore Women's Caucus, which was formed due to the response to "Quincy Women's Day", last October.

"Women" is just the first in a series of programs designed to interest, and to help all women in the South Shore area. Future topics are: politics and legislation; education and employment counselling; education of young children - sex stereotyping in the schools; a new look at women's health services; and the new State Office of Child Care.

Many women have been made to feel that any man you really talk to is either your father, or your husband, or your lover, and pretty soon he's thinking, "Why in hell doesn't she ask me how I feel?" She simply replies, "Yes, it's all right to think about yourself; yes, it's all right to disagree and find out about things; yes, it's all right to make your life better and here are some ways that other women like you are doing just that".

BLINK! BLINK!

How would you like to be a traffic light? It's fun sometimes. You think it's safe. Well, it's not! I'll tell you a story about me. One cold night I was making my lights go from red to yellow to greem. I thought it was fun, but the street was slippery. People would not pay any attention to me and did not see me and bumped me.

If I was a snow shovel, I would feel lonely sometimes. I would only feel needed when my owners used me. When my owners used me, I would be happy because on ice it feels like a back massage. How to Become Wealthy—5

"You Can Develop a New Personality"

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Holbrook
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Authors of self improvement books emphasize that complete changes of personality and character are possible by an act of will. If to be successful a person must have certain attributes, it is reasonable to suggest that he do what he can to acquire or strengthen them.

Can a person really do something about his personal deficiencies? Can a person in poor health, for example, do anything to acquire physical vigor?

William Danforth, founder of the Ralston Purina Company and the Danforth Foundation, gives an affirmative answer as he tells of his early childhood, when he lived, sallow-cheeked, and hollow-chested, in malaria-infested swamp lands. One day his teacher challenged him: "I dare you to be the healthiest boy in the class." It was enough to trigger Danforth into a new outlook concerning his health and how to achieve it. The result was that throughout his long life he never lost any time because of sickness.

Danforth admits that his associates in later years thought him to be a health faddist because he preached temperance, regular exercise, moderate diet, adequate rest, and good posture. His success formula is a square with sides marked Mental ("Think Tall"), Social ("Smile Tall"), Religious ("Live Tall"), and Physical ("Stand Tall").

Danforth maintained that he could detect a person's total psychology by his walk and posture. An interesting experiment is to try the Danforth square on yourself; an almost immediate psychological lift is experienced as you walk erect, smiling, and confident toward the day's challenges.

"Inspirational books are tremendously instrumental in changing lives," observes wealthy business executive W. Clement Stone, "and there is no book with more inspiration and motivation than the Bible."

He firmly believes in the validity of the Biblical admonition that "what things soever you desire, when you pray, believe that you receive them and you shall have them."

"It has helped countless thousands to develop physical, mental, and moral health," says Stone. He cites the case of John D. Rockefeller, who had to retire at age 57 because of ill health but lived to the ripe age of 97 through a positive mental attitude and wholesome living.

Good health is an important requisite for the demands of new life goals, the self-helpers insist. They rule out intemperance in drinking, eating, and smoking in an overall program of self-development. Proper hygiene habits must be observed. Periodic medical checkups are in order.

A sense of getting somewhere, of using present routine chores as stepping stones to better things, can work wonders with one's outlook toward life and attitude toward others. A genuine interest in people, their problems and anxieties, and an effort to be helpful can deepen the sense of making one's life worthwhile. Participation in community or public service activities will enrich the personality and add to working experience and capacity.

Nolan Wins 100th; Quincy Hit By Injuries

North Quincy Basketball Coach Bob Nolan last week gained the 100th victory of his career and was presented the ball to put in his showcase.

Delighted as he was to reach this milestone, Nolan is concentrating on the second half of the season as his Raiders, losing three of their last four games, are in danger of not qualifying for the state tournament.

North, 17-0 in regular season play a year ago, went to the South's Division 1 finals last year before being eliminated from the state tourney by Catholic Memorial. North's final record was 20-1.

The Raiders started out this year as if they were going to roll to another Greater Boston League title or close to it but going into Friday night's game at Medford they are 4-3 [3-3 in the league] and must win eight of their remaining 10 games to make the tournament.

Tuesday North will play at Chelsea.

Meanwhile, Quincy, hit hard by injuries and further hampered last week by illness, hoped to even its GBL record at 3-3 Tuesday at Medford. The Presidents, 2-5 overall, will host Everett Friday and entertain Malden Tuesday.

North lost to Revere for the first time in 10 years last Friday, 52-48, at Boston Garden in a preliminary to the Celtics-Atlanta game. North has an 18-1 edge over the years between the two rivals.

North led, 20-19, at the half but fell apart in the second half despite a 20-point performance by Jamie Doherty.

"It had to end some time," Nolan said. "They just outplayed us in every respect, out-rebounding and outrunning us. Our offense was very flat. This was the first time this year we scored less than 50 points and it seems every time we go under 60 we lose. We shot poorly."

The Garden has been a graveyard for several years for North, which finally shook the long jinx last year when it won two state tourney games there.

Earlier in the week North had pounded Quincy, 70-35, in what was probably its best all-around performance of the season.

Although thrilled by his 100th win, Nolan admittedly was embarrassed by the huge score and, although Quincy Coach Marty Finnegan refused to use the absence of three starters, all on crutches, as an excuse, Nolan mentioned them and told Finnegan he was sorry about the final margin.

"That was a tremendous display of high school basketball, both offensively and defensively," Finnegan said in praising the Raiders.

At halftime North led, 27-14, and took a huge 48-18 bulge into the final period. Nolan cleared his bench but North still added to its margin.

Doherty had 18 points, Ken Marsters 14 and Bob Morton 10 for North, while John Reggiannini had 18 for Quincy.

Ed Millers's North junior varsity nipped Quincy, coached by Joe Amorosino, North's jayvee coach the last four years, 47-44, in overtime after trailing, 32-26, at the end of three periods.

Friday, with Finnegan home ill, Amorosino took over the Quincy varsity reins for the first time and, using an effective freeze, just missed upsetting Somerville, which pulled out a 32-31 win as a last second Quincy shot just missed.

The Presidents were really hurting for this game. In addition to the loss of Mike Marvelle, Bill Kiggen and Jim McKinnon due to injuries, Reggiannini and Ken Furfari, their offensive leaders, had missed practice because of the flu and Phil Iovanna was still groggy as an aftermath of the same ailment.

"I'm so proud of these boys because they showed such self-discipline and patience and a lot of courage in following my directions and playing the game I wanted," Amorosino said. "And I'm sure Marty will feel the same way.

"He and I had talked about a possible slow-down during the day and I decided to use the freeze when I saw how sick some of our players were.

"I was very proud of the way the boys kept coming back from five and six-point deficits. And it was great the way they played after that crushing loss to North Quincy."

With the scoring naturally limited due to the freeze, Reggianni was high man for Quincy with nine points and Ray Papile had seven.

Magnarelli Paces Little Loop

Local 513 swept to a 4-0 victory over the Brett Club Saturday to maintain its seven point lead atop the Quincy Bowling Little Loop. The Local bowlers are now undefeated in their last 12 strings.

Dick Magnarelli, the Local 513 captain, rolled the weekly high individual three with a pinfall of 313 to take over the individual scoring lead by a margin of 00.6 over Frank Miceli. Magnarelli's average is now 100.8.

Tony Alessi's high individual single of 132 and his 310 for three strings kept the Quincy Elks in second place over the Burke Club. Davis Club got the high team three [1,330] and high team single [489] to hold fourth place.

Trubiano Receives Two Awards At Rochester

Lou Trubiano, a senior at the University of Rochester, N.Y., received two awards this season at a post season banquet for the football team.

The awards were "Greatest Contribution to Offense" and "Stinger of the Year". [Stinger award goes to the player making the most outstanding plays during the year].

Trubiano was a three-year starter in the defensive backfield, before moving to Offensive fullback in mid-season due to injuries to some of the players.

Trubiano was used mainly as a blocking back, but still managed to lead the team in rushing against Trinity, Lehigh and Saint Lawrence. Earlier in the season while playing in the defensive backfield he had three interceptions.

The former North Quincy High School athlete is a Dean's List student majoring in English and a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

He plans to attend a graduate school of Journalism. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Trubiano of 81 Thornton St., Wollaston.

Paul O'Brien collected the fourth Farina score while Jerry Smith, John and Paul Andrews got the goals for Bersani which dropped into a tie for second place with Blackwood Pharmacy.

Derringer's rose up out of the league's second division to pin a 3-1 defeat on Blackwood on the strength of two goals by Paul Barry and a single by John Reardon. Jeff Harrison had the Blackwood goal.

The Quincy Sun also racked up its first victory of the season, 3-1, over Johnson Motor Parts. Kevin Whelan, Richie Boyle and Timmy Sprague scored for the winners while Kurt O'Sullivan had the Johnson goal.

Hayes Optimistic Over Team

Junior High-Freshman Hockey To Open

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy and North Quincy junior high-freshman hockey teams [as well as the high school junior varsity team], scheduled to open their seasons on Dec. 15, have been biding their time due to the late opening of the new Revere rink, where all games are slated to be played.

Up until last week the new rink still was not ready and the local teams were due to open against each other yesterday [Wednesday]. The Quincy and North junior high-freshman teams were to play first, followed by the junior varsity game. This year all Quincy jayvee and freshman games will be played on the same bill as will all North jayvee and freshman contests.

Friday the Quincy teams are scheduled to play Somerville, the frosh at 5 p.m., and the junior varsities at 6. Wednesday North and Chelsea are due to play at the same times.

Last year Ken Hayes' Quincy junior high-freshman team was unbeaten during the regular Greater Boston League season [6-0] but lost in the playoff finals for a final 7-1 record.

"I am optimistic about this team because the boys have worked very hard and many are back from last year's strong team," Hayes said. "I just hope we get to open the season soon, the long wait has been tough on the kids."

Quincy's "blue" or first line includes Bill Hammil, Sterling ninth grade; Frank Guest, Broad Meadows ninth grade, and Mark Giordini, Broad Meadows seventh grade. The first defense includes John Mitchell, Central eighth grade, and Nick Cyr, Sterling ninth grade, and the number one goalie is Jeff Nord, Broad Meadows eighth grade.

The "green" or second line comprises Jack Powers, Broad Meadows ninth grade; Paul Gustafson, Central eighth grade, and Brian Flemming, Central ninth grade. The second defense unit is made up of Larry Calley, Central eighth grade, and Brian Watts, Central seventh grade, and the second goalie is Gerry DuBois, Point ninth grade.

The "red" line has Dave Lewis, Central seventh grade; Dennis Bertoni, Sterling ninth grade, and Brian Bertoni, Sterling seventh grade.

Also ready to play on the "red" line are John Yaxter, Broad Meadows seventh grade; Walter Pimental, Point ninth grade, and Paul Higgins, Point eighth grade.

Jeff Gavin, Central seventh grade, will see service on defense and reserves include Rick Boyle, Broad Meadows eighth grade; Dan Higgins, Point seventh grade; Tom Bamberry, Broad Meadows eighth grade, and Pat Bamberry, Broad Meadows seventh grade.

"Guest was our leading scorer last year with 10 goals," Hayes said. "He should lead the league this year. His wingers are both great playmakers. This season we have three sets of brothers, the Bertonis, Higginses and Bamberrys.

"I believe we have the best defense in the league in Mitchell and Cyr, who played together last year, Calley, who has improved a great deal, and Watts, one of the best seventh graders who knows how to handle himself.

"Due to the fact the MDC gives preference to youth hockey, we have to practice at 5:45 and 6:15 in the morning at Neponset or Shea rinks. It is hard to expect seventh graders to get up so early, play hockey and then go to school.

"This is the best bargain in hockey, considering that parents must spend up to $100 for each boy to play in youth hockey. Although we can't offer as many games, I believe our league offers better competition. Even with these early hours, the boys have responded well with the help of understanding parents.

"Our only weakness is in goal but we have been working both Nord and DuBois hard and they should be ready for North Quincy on the 17th."

The North Quincy squads, like Quincy, have also been waiting to start their seasons.

Raiders, Presidents In Wins Over Medford, Chelsea

The North Quincy track team stayed in the thick of the Greater Boston League championship race last Saturday with a 48-38 win over Medford to stay a half-game behind Revere with a 3-1 record.

North, tied with Somerville, stayed on the heels of Revere, which walloped Malden, 60-26, to make its record 4-1.

Quincy also stayed within striking distance by defeating Chelsea, 48-38, to make its record 2-2.

Saturday morning North will face Malden and Quincy will take on Medford at 9:30 at the Medford High cage. Then only one meet will remain - The Quincy-North clash on Jan. 27.

Bob Gentry's North team, his strongest in years, continued to set league records last week despite the loss of some boys due to college entrance exams.

Bob McCormack set his third record of the season when he moved to the 1000-yard run and won in 2:25.9. Bob had previously set a record in the mile and also in his leg in the relay.

The big star for North was Jack Reynolds, who won the hurdles and high jump and also anchored the winning relay team.

In the two-mile, sophomore Art Barrett, who has been coming along strong after joining North midway in the cross-country season last fall, won his first race.

In the mile Bob Mackey had the race won when he fell just before hitting the finish line and had to be satisfied with third place.

In the 600 Mark Canavan broke the league record with a 1:22.5, effort but finished only third, showing the terrific competition in the league.

North remained unbeaten in the relay, the event which decided the meet as Lee Watkins, McCormack, Jack Pomerole and Reynolds won in the record time of 2:47.

Tom Hall's Quincy team was minus several boys through flu and the college exams but clinched the win, as did North, with a relay victory.

Incidentally, this was the second time this year both local teams won by the identical score.

Ray Lawyer remained unbeaten for the Presidents in the 50-yard dash and Marty Swirko, switching to the 600, stayed undefeated with a fine 1:22.9 effort. Marty usually runs the 1000.

Steve Nolan, running the 1000 for the first time, won that event, while John Johnson and Sophomore Art DiLoreto tied for first in the high jump. Johnson also placed second in the hurdles.

Big Dave Sten won the shot put and the relay team of Pete Ramponi, Nolan, Dave DiBona and Swirko clinched the win.

Jordan's 26 Points Paces Atlantic-North

Warren Jordan poured in 26 points and Mike Kelly added 12 as Atlantic-North Junior High ninth graders walloped Sterling, 64-28. Jordan got 12 of his team's 26 points in a third quarter that broke the game open.

Jimmy Duggan was high for Sterling with eight points.

Atlantic-North's eighth graders also won big, bombing Sterling 34-9 with the McGinley brothers, Jim and Walt, getting eight and seven points respectively.

Broad Meadows Junior High's ninth graders edged Point, 24-21, despite 11 points by the losers' Dwight Anderson. Chuck McDermott had 10 for Broad Meadows.

The eighth grade team from Broad Meadows overcame a 14-point performance by Point's Ed Daily to win 25-21. Lyle Morrissey and Jack Uhlar had eight and six points for the victors.

Point's seventh graders won, 10-7.

Quincy To Have Three Teams In Ruth Loop

Quincy will have three teams in the expanded South Shore 16-18 Babe Ruth League during the 1973 baseball season.

Two of the Quincy teams, Raso Construction and Vin Smyth Club, will play in the league's South Division with teams from Braintree, Hingham and two clubs from Weymouth.

The third Quincy team, Quincy Oil, will be in the Central Division with Randolph, Milton, Stoughton, Hyde Park and a third team from Weymouth.

The league was founded only last year with eight teams in a single division. With 10 expansion teams already in the fold, the league will have six teams in each of three divisions for 1973.

The league treasurer, John L. McDonnell of 249 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, points out that there is still room for six more teams, two in each division. New teams can join any time before May.

The next meeting of league officials will be held Tuesday [Jan. 23] at 7:30 p.m. at the Quincy Police Station.

QUOTABLE, QUOTES: Director FEDERICO FELLINI expressing what motivated him to make "FELLINI'S ROMA": "I wanted to tell the story of a city. My city... To talk about its life, so varied and diverse...its many enchanting moods...its treasured, intimate moments. The secret joys which make Rome distinctly Rome... And at the same time to capture on film a portrait that will become increasingly obscure and complex the deeper one probes."...

What is Rome? For FELLINI a seesaw labyrinth of memories, reality and fantasies... He was first introduced to the city of the seven hills when still a young man in the 30's when Italian cinema was experiencing an outgrowth of American cinema, one inauguration of Cinecitta... It was the era of MUSSOLINI; a period where thousands of extras roamed the oleander-lined streets, dressed in historic armor, helmets, boots, swords... The period of such colossal costume pictures, "SCIPIO, THE AFRICAN" and "THE IRON CROWN"...

FELLINI'S Rome, the one he first experienced in 1938 has changed greatly since then. And yet "FELLINI'S ROMA" is tinged, honestly, with a pervading skepticism which, if we are to believe his filmed premise, is and always has been the scar of this city...a burden Romans have learned to live with...handed down unconsciously from generation to generation... A box office and critical success at the Cannes Film Festival and the cities it has since played in in Europe, "FELLINI'S ROMA" has established its place in the hearts of Stateside critics and viewers alike... For the picture is not only a visual portrait of FELLINI'S first love, but rather a single portrait of all great cities...

"LAUGH-IN" gagscribers have been ordered to cool it with the shows lambasting Cleveland as a "sick and dull hicktown". Oh well, there's always Youngstown, Ohio... Television is climbing and climbing. According to the Television Bureau of Advertising, November was a peak viewing month with blurry-eyed viewers small tube watching a record 7 hours 4 minutes per home per day... RODDY McDOWELL is back aping. McDOWELL will be back in the fifth Ape yarn, "BATTLE OF THE PLANET OF THE APES"...

A tip of the ole' beret to two people behind the scenes: JOSE ANTONIO SANCHEZ for his fantastic make-up artistry on MAGGIE SMITH in "TRAVELS WITH MY AUNT" and CARL ANDERSON, the production designer who spent more than a year in capturing the authenticity and flavor of BILLIE HOLIDAYS "LADY SINGS THE BLUES". STELLA STEVENS has had it with the "sex symbol" bag. The young lady from Hot Coffee, Miss. plans on placing her charms behind the camera-as a director...

"HIT MAN" co-star PAMELA GRIER is a cousin of former football great ROSEY GRIER... Odds and Ends: A remote section of Los Angeles known as "Africa, U.S.A." was once the filming site of the MGM-TV series "DAKTARI"... The brothers CORMAN, GENE and ROGER, yield an average output of 10 flicks a year via their New World Pictures company... And what's VIC MORROW doing these days?... Tho not the box office bait she once was, ELIZABETH TAYLOR has no need to worry for employment. Her next job, as the star natch', is "ASH WEDNESDAY"...

JIM BROWN is signed, sealed and delivered for United Artists "I ESCAPED FROM DEVIL'S ISLAND"... With its highly charged sexual scenes, the "LAST TANGO IN PARIS" could be the most controversial film released in 1973. Starring MARLON BRANDO, the motion picture will also keep his star afloat as controversial X-raters are sure $$$ box office lures... Producer PHIL D'ANTONI of "FRENCH CONNECTION" fans enjoys shooting in N.Y.C. 'cause of "the frantic quality of the city...and the abundant supply of performers and technicians"...

"TSAR TO LENIN" is one of the most important, extraordinary adventures in documentary history lensed to date. For historical buffs, a "must"... PATRICK WAYNE may never escape the long superstar shadow of his father JOHN. But he's trying...the young WAYNE will head the cast of "SEA CREATURES"... SERGIO LEONE'S "ONCE UPON A TIME IN THE WEST" is setting a marathon pace for long runners. In Hamburg, Germany the picture just completed its 103rd week running...

ADAM WEST is finally getting over his "BATMAN" identity crisis. WEST is now an in demand actor for serious dramatic roles. Ditto RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN who had to restart his career in England several years ago to "escape" his "DR. KILDARE" image. "RAY CHARLES IN THE HOLY LAND" will be TV released in May to coincide with Israel's 25th anniversary as a nation...

Quincy, North Hockey Teams Out Of GBL Title Race

It is all over for the Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams as far as the Greater Boston League championship is concerned and all that remains for the rivals are to try for a winning season and capture wins over each other in their next two games. They tied, 1-1, in the first game.

It is going to be rough for each to attain a winning mark as the Raiders took a 2-5-2 record into last night's game with Quincy, while the Presidents had only a 2-6-1 mark.

Friday night at Boston Arena Quincy will face Everett at 9 p.m., followed by North's game with Chelsea. Monday it will be North vs. Everett at 6:30, followed by Quincy vs. Chelsea. The next Quincy-North meeting will be Feb. 9.

And North's hopes were also dashed when it absorbed a 5-0 defeat at the hands of Malden.

"I don't know how to explain it, but we continue to have trouble scoring and we have defensive lapses that go against us something horrible," Sylvia said. "Now it is time to get the underclassmen in the game for experience. We want to make sure the seniors get plenty of playing time against North Quincy, of course, but we intend to make some changes with an eye toward the future."

He scored the game's first goal on a pass from Charlie Crews but Medford went on to take a 4-1 lead after a period.

Bob Costello cut the margin to 4-2 in the second period with Pete Janis assisting but Medford had a 5-2 lead going into the final period.

Wiedemann scored twice in the finale with Pete McNally assisting on his first and his second being on a solo dash but in between these two goals Medford added two.

North held Malden, runnerup to Revere in the league, to a 1-0 first period lead but the Golden Tornado put things together in the next two periods.

Earlier in the week Quincy bowed to Revere's defending champions and league leaders, 4-1, with Crews converting Wiedemann's pass for the Presidents' lone goal in the opening period.

QJC Still Eyes Conference Title

Although the Quincy Junior College basketball team had only a 5-8 record going into last night's [Wednesday] game against Bristol Community College, the Collejuns had a 3-2 Mass. Junior College Conference record and Coach Earl Vermillion still has hopes of capturing the championship.

QJC next Wednesday faces a big test at Massasoit Community College and the next night will play at Newton Jr. College.

The Quincy team in its last game nipped Middlesex Community College, 72-71, and Vermillion sees a bright second half of the season.

"Only two of our eight losses were by big scores and the others were by five points or less," Vermillion said. "We lost decisively only to Rhode Island Junior College and Bridgewater State Junior Varsity.

"Rhode Island is one of the top teams in New England and is favored to go to the Eastern Regional Junior College play-offs and possibly to the Nationals.

"I feel we are as good as Bridgewater but just played a poor game and made a lot of mistakes against them."

Of the remaining 11 games, 10 are against teams QJC lost to by close scores and the Collejuns are hoping for some revenge.

"We lost to International Tel and Tel by three points and Grahm by five for our only conference losses and we have to play each twice more," the Collejuns' coach pointed out.

QJC has four players averaging in double figures and three of them had hit 30 points or more in a game.

The best shooter is Jim Hurley, a six-foot freshman from North Quincy, averaging 16 points a game and hitting on 45 percent of his field goal attempts. He didn't play basketball at North.

Green Team Wins First

In St. Joseph's Hockey League action at Shea Rink the previous winless Green Team gained its first win by downing the Gold Team 3 to 2.

Jay Pasionek, after a three weeks absence led the Green scorers with two goals and an assist. Dave Labadie was the other goal scorer. Scoring single tallies for the Gold were John Bagin and John Alfano.

In the second game the Red team came from a 2-0 deficit to defeat the Blue team. Goal scorers for the Red team were Rick Brunstrum with two, Mike McNalley [who leads the league in scoring] with nine goals and 7 assists, James Crowley, Paul DeCristofaro and John Duffy each had a goal. Mark Walker and Dick Kelley had the only Blue scores.

STATE STREET SOUTH, rising out of the moors off Newport Avenue in North Quincy, is beginning to look like what it is intended to be -- a 740,000 square foot operations center for the State Street Bank & Trust Co. When it opens its doors in May, it will house nearly 2,000 State Street employees who will be transferred from intown locations. The 80-acre complex also the New England headquarters of the Kemper Insurance Co. The MBTA's North Quincy station and parking garage are near the top of the picture.

Quincy Savings Bank Plans To Build New Downtown Office

The Quincy Savings Bank plans to build a new three-story headquarters in Quincy Center which would give it more than three times the space of its present main office.

President Charles A. Pearce said today approval is being sought from the Commissioner of Banks to proceed with the plans.

The 39,800 square foot facility of masonry and solar bronze glass would be built on a present vacant site on Hancock St. across from the Quincy Center MBTA station.

The land, located between the Quincy Elks Lodge and Masonic Temple and currently used for parking cars, is owned by the Reardon Realty Trust.

The site would be developed by Spaulding and Slye Corporation of Boston and would have ample off-street parking.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon hailed the planned structure as a commitment to downtown Quincy which would serve as a "catalyst" in encouraging other banks to follow and toward other development in the area.

Pearce declared:

"The Quincy Savings Bank has been in its present headquarters building since 1897, and, in terms of modern-day banking our facilities are out-of-date.

"The primary purpose for this move is to provide better service for our customers and a more pleasant banking and working environment. In addition, our proposed headquarters will enable us to offer customer parking and a drive-up teller's window, neither of which are available presently."

Upon approval of the Massachusetts Banking Department and Quincy City officials, development of the proposed Quincy Savings Bank headwuarters is scheduled to begin in December.

Present architectural plans call for a 3-story, 39,800 square foot building of masonry and solar bronze glass. Present main office has an estimated 12,000 square feet.

A proposed parking area will be to the rear of the building

Brett Revives Idea For Southwest High School

Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] has revived an earlier recommendation for a third high school in the southwest section of the city to relieve the overcrowding in the two existing schools.

"A high school in that part of our city," he wrote to Mayor Walter J. Hannon, "would be convenient for a large number of students who now have to use either public or private transportation for travel to and from school.

"Location of a third high school in southwest Quincy would relieve the overcrowding pressures on both Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and would eliminate the need of expanding either or both of those schools at tremendous costs."

Memorial Service Thursday For Lyndon Johnson

A memorial service for former President Lyndon B. Johnson will be held today [Thursday] at 1 p.m. at United First Parish Church--Quincy's historic Church of Presidents.

The eulogy to the 36th President who died Monday in San Antonio, Tex., of an apparent heart attack, will be given by Rev. John R. Graham, minister.

Other speakers will be Rev. John D. Banks, pastor Bethany Congregational Church, Dr. Robert Nelson West of the Unitarian Association, and Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

Music will be by the North Quincy High School Concert Choir under the direction of Maurice Carbonneau.

A Quincy High School unit will serve as honor guard.

Just four weeks ago--Dec. 29--a memorial service was held at the same church for former President Harry S. Truman.

Quincy Savings Bank Plans New Building

Access to the drive-up teller's window will be through the parking area. The building is being designed by Architect's Design Group of Cambridge. The firm has worked extensively with the City of Quincy to develop a master plan for downtown Quincy. Bank officers and principals of Spaulding and Slye Corporation are working with City officials to secure the necessary development approvals.

Commenting on the project Mayor Hannon declared:

"Since assuming office a year ago, my staff and I have spent a lot of time and effort in working toward developing our Downtown area as a fine place to live, to work, and to shop - a "Total Downtown".

"I am pleased that after many months of meetings with the officials of the Quincy Savings Bank that these fine people have made their commitment toward our new Downtown. This bank has always been one of the leading progressive lending institutions in the City and I trust that the building of this new beautiful home office will be the catalyst in encouraging other banks to follow.

"I have reviewed the architects sketches of the proposed building and feel that this new facility will contribute greatly toward the development of the northern end of our Downtown. The development team of Spaulding and Slye has excellent credentials and a fine reputation in the greater Boston Real Estate community, and we welcome them to the continued development of our City."

The Quincy Savings Bank has been in operation since 1845. Assets of the bank as of Dec. 31, 1972 were in excess of $157,000,000. making it the largest Mutual Savings Bank in the South Shore and the 21st largest savings bank in the state. The Bank has branch operations in North Quincy and South Quincy.

Spaulding and Slye Corporation is a Boston-based real estate developer. Among the firm's developments are the New England Executive Park, a 150 acre office park in Burlington, Massachusetts; Hampshire Plaza, an office-shopping mall covered parking complex in Manchester, N.H.; One Washington Mall, the firm's headquarters, in Boston; and Wellesley Green Condominiums in Wellesley.

Will Help Enhance Downtown

Sawyer's New Store To Have Four Times Greater Floor Space

Sawyer's Campus Shop is moving from Parking Way to larger and modern quarters at 1508 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The location, formerly occupied by Capitol Market, is being extensively remodeled and will open in mid-March, announces Jerry Hurwitz, owner.

The new store, with 8,000 square feet of floor space, will be more than four times the size of the old store where Sawyer's had been located the past 10 years.

"We have confidence that downtown Quincy is a shopping area of growing importance," said Hurwitz. "We feel that we have a particular type of specialty shop that has a niche of its own on Hancock St."

Mayor Walter J. Hannon hailed the Sawyer's move as one that will enhance the downtown area and serve as further evidence of Quincy Center's "tremendous future" as a shopping center.

John J. Cheney, development coordinator in the city's office of Planning and Development, predicted that the new store "will assist us in attracting new and exciting retail units to our downtown area."

John F. Murray, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said his organization "is certainly happy to have a member display the confidence he has in the Quincy Center area."

The return to Hancock St. will be a sort of homecoming for Sawyer's.

The business began with Jerry Hurwitz's father 30 years ago as an Army-Navy store at Hancock St. and Revere Rd., just a few doors from 1508.

It moved out of the city briefly in the early 1960's when a suitable downtown location could not be found, then moved back into the present store at 148 Parking Way in 1963.

Over the years, the character of Sawyer's has changed gradually from an Army Navy store to what it is today a young man's sportswear and specialty shop in which the same young men can buy work clothes, too, if they want.

The new store with its 8,000 square feet of floor space is more than four times the 1,800 square feet at the present store.

"We will retain the same method of operation on Hancock St. that we had on Parking Way and that is popular brands at realistic prices," says Hurwitz.

The new location is now undergoing a complete remodeling under the design of architect Gino Sacchetti of Quincy, vice president of Schultz Woodworking Co. of Cambridge. Sacchetti also designed the remodeling of the Sawyer's Campus Shop in downtown Fall River.

"By moving to our larger quarters on Hancock St. we are showing the faith and confidence we have in the Quincy Center area," says Hurwitz.

"We are delighted over a quality store like Sawyer's expanding here in downtown Quincy," said Mayor Hannon.

"This is the type of store we want in downtown Quincy. It will enhance the area. This is the type of store we are encouraging to locate here. It will be a beautiful store, both inside and outside.

"It will add a lot of class to the area. And it is further evidence that downtown Quincy definitely has a tremendous future as a shopping area."

Enthused Development Coordinator Cheney

"One problem in improving and developing our downtown is convincing the present retailers to upgrade and improve their facilities. This improving will assist us in attracting new and exciting retail units to our downtown.

"Sawyer's, which has been in business over 30 years and in its present location over 10 years, has recognized that Quincy Center is fast becoming the "total downtown", a place to work, live and shop and has made its commitment.

"The new store will be an important part of our new downtown and a catalyst for other retailers to follow".

City Census To Begin On Feb. 1

It's time once again for the people of Quincy, 17 years old and over, to stand up and be counted.

Some 60 or 70 census takers will fan out across the city Feb. 1 to begin counting for the annual listing of residents of voting age.

This year there will be more residents to count.

In the past, the census takers listed all residents 20 years old and older but the age limit has been moved downward since the voting age was lowered from 21 to 18.

The City Clerk's office said this week that the counting is expected to take from two to three weeks, depending upon the weather.

Each census taker will carry as identification a card containing his or her name plus the city of Quincy seal in gold. The card is in a red plastic case

Recent talk has focused on the re-districting of the state representative and state senate districts, but there's another re-districting going on that hasn't made much news - the re-drawing of ward and precinct lines in Quincy.

Presently, the city's six wards vary greatly in population and have been described as unconstitutional - a violation of the one man one vote principle. For example, Ward One with 10,948 voters has one ward councillor, while Ward Three with only 5,340 voters also has one ward councillor. In theory, the people in Ward One are being under-represented, while those in Ward Three are over-represented.

The idea behind the re-drawing of ward lines is to make all the wards of equal population.

So what's it all mean? It means that there's a good chance that the new lines will be ready for this fall's city elections.

Every ward will be affected, Wards One, Five and Six will be decreased while Wards Two, Three and Four will have to be increased.

ADVANCE WORK for Senator Kennedy's recent visit to Quincy and Brockton was done by School Committeeman Harold Davis. Davis served as Ward One chairman in the Senator's re-election campaign in 1970.

And running the whole show, as usual, was Richard Koch, executive secretary for the Park and Recreation Board. This is Koch's 23rd year as area co-ordinator for the Kennedy family. He first got involved as Ward Six chairman for John F. Kennedy when he first ran for Senate in 1952.

ST. BONIFACE'S CHURCH of Germantown will hold its fifth annual minstrel show at Broad Meadows Junior High School auditorium, Jan. 27, 28 and 29. Director is Ed Rooney.

HATS OFF to Tony Cannata and Carmen Leone, custodians at the John F. Kennedy Health Center. Visitors to the building are always impressed by their work.

And don't be fooled, the banisters in the front hallway are only brass. Cannata polishes them daily to such a brilliance that at first glance you'd almost think they were made of gold. [You have to see it to believe it.]

THE RECENT warm spell has people thinking of spring already. Joyce Thompson, secretary of the park department, reports she has received a number of requests for picnic site reservations and permits for use of city baseball fields.

He didn't want to go, and she asked for two good reasons why he shouldn't. He replied that first, all the students hated him and second, all the teachers hated him. And he asked for two good reason why he should go.

Mother replied that first, because he was 45 years old and second, because he was the principal.

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency has reported that China is on the verge of becoming a superpower in intercontinental missiles. The outgoing CIA Director, Richard Helms, told the Senate Armed Services Committee behind closed doors that he was "shocked" to find how close China is to superpower status in the missile field.

It is true that China has been building nuclear missiles. The first missiles already have been targeted against Soviet cities. Helms didn't mention, however, that the United States has developed a defense against Chinese warheads.

The CIA obtained samples of the metal that the Chinese use in their warheads. Our own nuclear experts then constructed duplicates of the Chinese warheads. These were detonated underground in Nevada with X-rays from another nuclear explosion.

Here's how the experiment worked. Two underground explosion chambers were built, connected by a tube. The Chinese warhead was placed in one chamber, and a nuclear charge was set up in the other chamber. The charge was set off, sending X-rays through the tube. The X-rays then detonated the Chinese warhead.

The tests were conducted at various altitudes, which were simulated in the underground chambers, upon warheads of various sizes. The results indicate that the U.S. should be able to throw up an X-ray screen, which would explode oncoming Chinese warheads in outer space.

The X-ray screen, however, doesn't work against Soviet warheads which are made of harder metals. There are also reports that the Soviets have made the same discovery. So the Soviets, too, may be able to detonate Chinese warheads in space.

The Chinese missiles, therefore, may not be as ominous as Helms indicated in his secret testimony.

— Agnew Relieved —

President Nixon has offered to share federal revenues with the cities and states. Yet at the same time, he intends to withhold around $13 billion in Federal funds for city programs. This could increase the growing rot in our great cities.

Here are some of the immediate effects of the executive stranglehold on urban finances: The Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced a freeze on all housing subsidy programs. Important social services can expect cutbacks of nearly one billion dollars. Other cuts in federal aid to mental health will mean that people will be turned out of out-patient clinics. The federal government also intends to punish cities, which haven't completely eliminated welfare chiselers by withholding all welfare funds.

The cutbacks have been the work largely of the Office of Intergovermental Relations, which Vice President Spiro Agnew has headed. Urban officials, therefore, started bombarding the Vice President's office with their complaints. They were told, however, that he is no longer in charge. Agnew had quietly asked the President to remove the Office of Intergovernmental Relations from his jurisdiction.

President Nixon obligingly dissolved Intergovernmental Relations and moved the staff into the new Domestic Council. Insiders say the move was politically motivated. Agnew has his eye on the presidential nomination in 1976 and can't afford to alienate local political leaders. He heaved a sigh of relief when Intergovernmental Relations closed down.

— Behind the Scenes —

SILENT MINORITY — While President Nixon was making points with Chou En-lai in Asia, he was losing credibility with his Chinese-American supporters at home. A prominent Chinese-American, we have learned, quietly pressured the White House to include a Chinese-American translator in the President's entourage to China last February. But the White House ignored the appeal which was made by David Wang, now a European correspondant for Voice of America. After the trip White House aide John Holdridge reportedly explained to Wang: "Frankly , David, we wanted to present the majority of the U.S. in this case and not the minority."

HARTKE HANDSTAND — Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., apparently has broken a commitment with union officials to back Sen. Ted Kennedy's Health Care bill. Two weeks ago, union officials persuaded Hartke to co-sponsor Kennedy's bill. Then Hartke huddled with American Medical Association lobbyists. No one knows exactly what was said. But Hartke emerged from the meeting and told his staff he would no longer support Kennedy's bill. Union officials howled in disbelief. When a staff member told Hartke that union members were saying he had welched on his commitment to him, Hartke angrily fired the hapless aide on the spot. Fortunately, other aides intervened and a cooler Hartke reinstated the staffer. But union lobbyists are still boiling over Hartke's flipflop.

TENNIS MAINTENANCE — Gen. Paul Carleton took over the command at Scott Air Force base in Illinois recently and was aghast to find no warm place to play his favorite sport, tennis. Coming from a hitch in California, Gen. Carleton had developed an interest in the game. Upon his arrival in Illinois, however, the General quickly remedied the situation. He converted an old maintenance hanger into an indoor tennis court. The estimated cost: $2,500.

QCA Voices Concern Over Drinking Water Quality

The Quincy Citizens Association has expressed concern over the quality of the city's drinking water.

QCA officers have asked Health Comr. Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney to inform members of steps being taken to improve the quality of the water.

For more than a year, officers said, "Quincy has been among the three cities having the worst quality of water in Massachusetts.

Praises Senator Tobin For 'Courage' And 'Dedication'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

There has recently been unwarranted criticism leveled at State Senator Arthur H. Tobin [Democrat-Norfolk District]. It is a sad commentary, when any individual verbally abuses a sincere and hard working public official, but it is even more disgraceful when an individual distorts the truth by making disparaging statements that are not factual.

Senator Tobin was named as vice-chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee this January. It is obvious to most citizens in the Senator's district that his well-deserved appointment is a result of six years of recognized hard work in the House of Representatives and 17 months of outstanding service as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Election Laws.

Anyone who criticizes Senator Tobin without recognizing his relentless service and dedication to his constituents has the distorted perception of a muckraker. If someone else were elected as President of the City Council and did side with the Quincy Taxpayers Revolt and 100% revaluation; this someone would have the foresight of a fool and the desire to destroy a city by undermining the economy of the elderly, middle-income and low income homeowners.

Fortunately, Senator Tobin has the interests of the people at heart and has the courage to stand up to the cajoling of the would-be political opportunists and headline seekers at city council meetings. Senator Tobin consistently stands up for the rights of the taxpayers and refuses to sell the people of Quincy short.

I have had the need to call upon the services of Senator Tobin in the past, and not only was I immediately given assistance, but I was treated with the utmost respect and kindness. If a poll were to be taken among the citizens of Quincy, the results would show that Senator Tobin has done more to help the people than those who are sitting back hurling crude, vicious invective. When people heap verbal abuse on our elected officials, just to get their own name in the newspapers, their criticism becomes demeaning, cynical and worthless.

Commends Water Dept. Employees For Emergency Service

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I wish to publicly extend my sincere appreciation for services rendered by Mr. Paul DiSalvo and Mr. Arthur Bruno of the Quincy Water Department.

Friday evening, January 19th, a pipe leading into my water meter burst. Unable to stop the flow of water I called the Public Works Dept. and in a matter of 20 minutes both gentlemen appeared, repaired the damage, removed the meter for repairs and got us back in operation.

There are just as many dedicated, loyal and efficient employees in Federal, State, County, City and Town service as in private industry.

Many citizens are openly hostile to our public servants but how many would swap their "take home" pay checks for those of the average rank and file employee?

Thank you very much for the fantastic coverage given to the Quincy High School Band in conjunction with our entire "Cotton Bowl" extravaganza. Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Students are now registering for second semester courses at private business, career, charm and correspondence home training schools. In an attempt to guarantee that students are not misled or disappointed, my Consumer Protection Division has established a set of regulations which the schools must follow.

Students enrolling in these courses offering them should remember:

● Deceptive claims are outlawed--including false promises of "special offer", "free instruction", or "limited time offer". Courses may not be offered at fictitious "reduced" prices, scholarships must be legitimate and money back agreements strictly guaranteed.

● Students may not be attracted under false pretenses such as help wanted ads that purport to offer jobs--only after applicants complete the necessary training course. Blind advertisements--commercials and brochures deceptively disguising the course--or any other deceptive language have been ruled illegal.

● Sales or advertising claims may not distort the quality of the school or faculty members. Any connection with a state or Federal government agency or any endorsement from a famous person must be valid. In addition, famous personalities advertised as faculty members must provide more than token instruction. Deceptive or misleading diplomas also are illegal.

● No school may mislead students about job opportunities open to them after graduation. Students may not be falsely led to believe that completion of the course will guarantee employment. Furthermore claims of "Earn up to $$$" must be guaranteed specifically.

● A school may not encourage candidates to enroll knowing that students would be ineligible for employment due to physical, educational or material disqualification.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Condemned To Relive Past

My junior high school son came home recently with this statement..."Those who do not remember the past are condemned to re-live it." I asked him where he'd picked this up. "One of my counselors" he said. The school counselor immediately stepped up in my esteem. That's pretty good stuff at any level of education. The earlier we learn this truth, the better. Let's look at this profound bit of wisdom.

The senseless bombing in Viet Nam is an example of not learning from the past. Might does not make right. Brute force does not win out. We'll be re-living this past for a long time I suspect. I felt so frustrated that I telephoned the White House to register my protest against the bombing. A secretary said he'd tell the President that I had called. I just can't forget what we've been doing. It haunts me. I feel terribly thwarted...yet responsible because I am an American. "Those who do not remember the past are condemned to re-live it."

It applies to individuals as well as nations. Here's John...in his second marriage. Would you believe that he's having the same problems with Ann that he was having with Marge in his first marriage? His immature attitudes toward money...sex...children...entertainment...caring for his belongings...getting everything he wants. They've been married just 8 months and Ann says, "Maybe Marge can live 8 years with this "little-boy man...I can only take it for 8 months!" She wants out. John doesn't remember the past, so he's condemned to re-live it. This is true of so many second marriages...and thirds. If only we could remember the past...so we wouldn't have to re-live it.

Or take Jill. She thought it was "so nice to have a man around the house"...to fix screen doors...to stop leaky faucets...to take her out to dinner. Her husband is willing and able to do all these and more. But he's dying for affection. Last month, un-beknown to Jill, he started an affair with an office girl. It happened before...three years ago. "It's not what I want, Doctor, but Jill has been just starving me for love. She hasn't learned a thing...she just won't look at what's happened in the past." So Jill is condemned to re-live it.

Those who refuse to give up their alcoholic behavior...refuse to be adults...keep on being men hating women...women hating men...name your own pitfall of the past...refuse to remember the pain these things caused...they are indeed condemned to re-live the past.

Why do people repeat the errors of the past. Hating...bombing...manipulating...immaturity...they got us in trouble in the past, and if we don't look at the facts we're condemned to re-live the same troubles.

A second reason for repeating the errors of the past is that it's hard to go against the tide. We've been geared to believe that people are for exploiting...particularly if they're black, yellow, red skinned, or economically beneath us. Insecure people exploit and hate other people different from themselves.

I believe that People Are For Loving. He who has learned to love people has profited from the past...will know the rewards of the future.

For People Are For Loving, Dr. Knox's new book, write him sending $3 to 320 Washington St., Norwell, Mass. 02061.

●Youth Speaks Out

● The song "Shaft" was played at the Inaugural Ball. I wonder if that's indicative of the next four years.

● A defendant in the Watergate trial claims he bugged Democratic headquarters "for his Country" - Benedict Arnold made a similar claim.

● The Quincy basketball team with all its injuries may either ask the undefeated girl's team to take over or ask to join a wheelchair league.

● The Prom Committee selected a theme for the Senior Prom. Those students who suggested "We Gotta Get Out of This Place" will be disappointed.

● The UCLA basketball team is going for its 60th in a row. Rumors are flying that they will replace the Philadelphia 76'ers who have lost 45 in the NBA.

● President Nixon was very light on his feet at the Inaugural Ball. It's too bad he can't dance his way out of Viet Nam.

●QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Why Is It Called A Grand Jury?

A caller to the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone asked if grand juries are called "grand" because they have important people serving on them? She had become confused by the rash of newspaper articles on grand juries and wanted to know what they are and how they work.

Research by the Voter Information Phone staff indicated the people on grand juries are indeed important - they are registered voters in Massachusetts.

The main purpose of a grand jury is to hear information and testimony about serious crimes that have been committed and to determine if there is "probable cause" to indict the accused for the crime. The person indicted by a grand jury is not necessarily guilty; the indictment simply permits the case to be tried in court. No serious crime is ever brought to trial without a grand jury indictment.

A grand jury is a group of 23 persons, in each county, chosen from the voting lists. The jury is called "grand" because it has a larger number of people on it than a regular or "petty" jury of 12. Grand jurors are on call for six months.

They have the power to compel testimony from witnesses, who are not represented by attorneys. In secret proceedings [to protect people against unjust accusation], they listen to evidence presented by the prosecution only, investigate the facts, and may only return an indictment with a majority of at least 12 votes.

Grand juries are sometimes called for a special purpose and may sit for an indeterminate length of time while examining evidence such as the grand jury called to weigh the findings of the Massachusetts Crime Commission.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP Phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Bethany Church Votes $93,232 , Elects Officers

A budget of $81,057 for church expenses and $12,175 for benevolences totalling $93,232 was adopted for the present year by members of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center, at the annual meeting Jan. 17.

The benevolence account includes:

$1,000, for the Protestant Social Service Bureau of the South Shore.

$500 to the Columbia Point Christian Center.

$250 for Youth Evangelism.

The congregation will give $4,050 for Christian World Missions; $1,900 to the Massachusetts Conference, United Church of Christ; and $555 to the Metropolitan Boston Association of the U.C.C.

Membership stands at 923.

Moderator Miss Louise B. Forsyth, re-elected to a second term, presided at the session which followed a dessert social hour arranged by members of the Bethany Women's Union.

A memorial service in recognition of the 14 church members who died in 1972 was led by Rev. John D. Banks, pastor.

In his annual report, Rev. Mr. Banks quoted from the words of Harry Emerson Fosdick:

"Grant us wisdom, grant us courage, for the facing of this hour", and said that the words of the hymn come to us with prayerful seriousness, for these are increasingly difficult days for all churches.

"We are part of the 'establishment' and people who really do not know much about us automatically presume that the church is passe. Like the Athenians of Paul's time, 'telling or hearing something new' makes everything old 'irrelevant'. But there is evidence that discerning souls are again starting to dig for 'living water' in the wells of their fathers. I venture the prophecy that the 70's will be a time for revival of Christianity, Bethany should be a channel for the Pentecostal fires."

Rev. Arthur R. Curtis, associate minister, reported on the Christian education activities of the church and urged the parishioners to develop again the "cluster groups" where people can meet in small numbers to see what the Gospel can do for their lives.

The budget reports were given by William L. Lipp, Chairman of the Finance Committee, and Miss Bernice M. Reed, Chairman of the Missionary Committee.

Elected, following acceptance of the Nominating Committee report were:

Does The Kennedy Legend Still Exist? ?

By PAUL GOSLIN

In the state of Massachusetts anyone named Kennedy seems to evoke a reaction of love and admiration. He is part of a long and famous legend in Massachusetts politics. Senator Edward Kennedy is the last bearer of this standard. He came to North Quincy High School on Friday Jan. 12, and the legend stood before many of us for the first time.

If the legend does exist, it showed its outward appearances here. When Senator Kennedy entered the gymnasium the students present rose to their feet to greet him. This reaction is one not common to high school students. As a matter of fact I've never seen anyone receive this type of greeting here at North.

The Senator walked in amongst the local politicians. He stood apart from Quincy's politicians. His carriage showed why he was where he was, as Senator from Massachusetts.

The Senator took the crowd of students and turned them on to his thoughts and ideas. He actually listened to them. The students in turn took up the challenge to make themselves heard. They made their feelings known on the war, amnesty, drugs, and violence in the streets. Through it all the Senator listened and made his feelings known on each.

He was as cool as ice. He joked with photographers and others so intent on helping him out in what they thought of as a "jam". The students ate it up.

When he left, again the students rose. They rose in tribute to the legend. A legend passed on from our parents to the students of today.

John F. Kennedy's "New Frontier" is alive in his brother. It still has the same aura of greatness it had in the early 60's now in the 70's.

Bare Necessity: Space

Students, Officials, Others United On New School, Or 'Massive Overhaul'

By LISA McELANEY

Sometimes, as an associate member of the Quincy School Committee, and one who is relatively active in local affairs, I become extremely frustrated in dealing with the bureaucracies that are supposedly necessary in order to progress.

Of course this feeling is not uncommon to most student activists who feel their opinions are taken tokenisticly.

One very encouraging exception to this rule of student frustration occurred on the night of Jan. 17. It was on this night that the school committee met with five members of the Quincy Student Union to discuss a student - chosen topic, the North Quincy High School accreditation report.

The meeting was well attended and extremely spirited and I left the meeting convinced that everyone; School Committee, students, school faculty and administration and much of the community are united in asking for a new facility, or at least a massive, and I emphasize "massive", overhaul of the existing structure.

Prior to the meeting, I felt that the effort would be a lesson in futility; that the research we students did and the reports given by our department heads, would mean nothing. I was pessimistic because I realize that the school committee has done everything in its power to attempt to find a permanent solution to the serious overcrowding and lack of proper facilities at North.

STUDENT UNION representative Lisa McElaney and School Committee Members Daniel Raymondi and Francis X. McCauley at discussion of North Quincy High School accreditation report and proposed new high school facility.

[Steven Bailey Photo]

The issue had passed from the hands of the School Committee to those of the City Council long ago. The honorable council has two suggested sites under its consideration. If these are deemed unacceptable, our superintendent has assured us that there are alternative suggestions.

However, time is all too valuable, it holds in its grasp the future of many present students and prospective students at North.

While these two proposals remain locked in some obscure sub-committee of the City Council, students are being cheated out of many worthwhile experiences that should exist in any high school i.e. athletic playing fields, an efficient and expanded library and the very bare necessity: SPACE.

Drama Club A Hit With 'Nobody Sleeps', 10 TV Spoofs

By PAUL GOSLIN

The Drama Club at North Quincy High School played its first production of the year Jan. 17 and 18.

The production entailed the one act play "Nobody Sleeps" and 10 spoofs written by students Jim McCarthy and Joe Carroll.

"Nobody Sleeps" was a short story about a robber discovered robbing a house owned by a mystery writer and her daughters. The girls drive the robber crazy with their incessant chatter and curiosity.

The robber, Spike, played by Kevin Verronneau finally breaks down and admits that he is a failure and supports his nagging wife by an early morning paper route. The girls were played by Mary Poole, Beverly Dunn and Andrea Vento. Their mother was played by Robin Koretsky. Tom Goslin directed.

A group of 10 spoofs written by Jim McCarthy and Joe Carroll were presented. They concentrated on the old idiot box and all the stupidity it emanates daily. Getting everything from commercials to TV gameshows the writers had plenty of grist for their writing mills. The spoofs were witty and well portrayed. Jim McCarthy directed.

Addresses Juniors, Seniors

Senator Kennedy Stresses Importance Of 'Getting Involved'

By JIM McCARTHY

Friday, Jan. 12, at approximately 8:45 a.m., Senator Edward Kennedy came to North, to address the Juniors and Seniors of the school and seek student opinion regarding various issues.

He began his talk by commending youth participation in politics and the positive results our efforts achieve. He stressed the importance of "getting involved" and sighted examples of special interest groups which he feels are "Well represented" on the political spectrum. Groups such as those who oppose the war, inflation, and unnecessary waste of the taxpayer's money.

Senator Kennedy then changed his format and began asking questions of the students. He sought their opinions to issues such as redirecting priorities, the justification of the Christmas bombing, the death penalty, the amnesty question, and whether or not it's more important to institute stricter drug laws or provide rehabilitation to addicts.

Finally, he gave individual students the opportunity to ask him questions in an open forum type format.

SENATOR Edward M. Kennedy addresses North Quincy High School students.

Bob Sheridan questioned the Senator's belief in unconditional amnesty. He argues that those who have refused to serve in the armed forces have sacrificed nothing for their nation, while many of those who have served have made the supreme sacrifice.

Senator Kennedy defended his position by reminding Bob of those who are exempted from their supposed military obligation due to college or job. He rationalized that just because someone is financially well off and is able to attend college, is this any more of a justification for him to stay out of the armed forces than the fact that he may feel the war is morally wrong. "We shouldn't punish those who stand up for their moral convictions, for this would stifle the very principal on which this nation was founded," he said. If it were not for men who were bold enough to oppose things they truly believe to be wrong, the United States would never have been conceived.

Next, the question of Lt. Calley arose. Senator Kennedy seemed to feel that this entire controversy should never be. Though such an act as Calley's was intolerable, it will gain us nothing to use him as a scapegoat, he said.

Another student asked what was being done about the growing wave of crime and violence. Though the Senator indicated several inherent law enforcement reforms, he also made the point perfectly clear that the attitude of the people is just as essential to deter this problem. He indicated the tragedy of apathy on behalf of those who refuse to get involved.

The final question asked of Senator Kennedy was from Lisa McElaney. She inquired as to the current Congressional effort to terminate the war. Kennedy's reply was one we've been hearing quite a bit of lately, and that is Congress may stop appropriating funds for the war. He also reiterated that the resistance of the masses to the war is still important.

The entire affair proceeded commendably well. Congratulations to those responsible.

30 Coeds Playing Ice Hockey At North

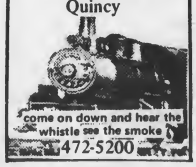
By KEN SHINE

The newly formed North Quincy Girl's Hockey team is off to an excellent start, with a nucleus of approximately 30 enthusiastic coeds.

The girls play at Shea Rink in West Quincy every Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 5 p.m.

The girls have no financial support at all. Thus they are forced to provide their own transportation to and from the rink, hockey sticks, pads, gloves, sweaters, and the use of the rink.

Each girl is selected to play on one of the teams that have been chosen. Regular games are held between the two teams with hope of inter-scholastic competition in the near future.



Coach Robert Troup, a history teacher at NQHS, feels that the girls hockey games are more exciting to watch than the boys, because there is a different atmosphere among the players. The boys are more interested in winning while the girls are just out to have a good time.

The teams to date are Red Raiders: Donna Valenti, Cathy Andrews, Elaine Murphy, Cheryl Doherty, Judy Phipps, Ellen Santry, Nancy Lang, Joyce Coleman, Helen Thompson, Mary Ellen Troy, Carol Veasy, Marie Welch, Lauren Welch, Lauren Snook, Karen Conley and Janet Vickers.

Between the Covers

Do you know Peter Hatcher and Ozzie Hinkle? Who're Carrie, Sara and Anna? Is Small Wolf an animal? Are George and Martha people? If youngsters can answer these questions, they've done a lot of good reading during 1972. If they can't answer, then they've missed some of last year's most colorful characters.

Peter Hatcher, nine years old, has given in to his baby brother, Fudge, in TALES OF A FOURTH GRADE NOTHING by Judy Blume. The battle between the two boys takes place in a New York City apartment, and baby brother's antics--like swallowing Peter's turtle--are pretty hard to beat. Peter's story has some good tips on brother-handling and some very funny scenes.

With a name like Ozzie Hinkle it has to be funny. And it is in THE BIG JOKE GAME by Scott Corbett. Ozzie likes jokes and games so much that he finally falls right into one in which a guardian devil takes him through all kinds of hazards like puns, limericks and riddles.

SMALL WOLF isn't an animal. It's an Indian boy's name and the title of an I-Can-Read book by Nathaniel Benchley. Small Wolf goes to the Island of Hills to hunt, but instead of bears and foxes, deer and moose, he finds white men. So Small Wolf's band must move away from their hunting grounds...again and again and again.

George and Martha are animals, not people! They're friends, hippo friends, who share five stories of friendship with the picture book age child. There are stories about George and pea soup and George and roller skates, Martha in a bathtub and Martha in a mirror. The pictures are just as humorous as the stories.

Carrie, Sara and Anna are three quite different heroines in three very different stories. Carrie stars in UP THE PIER by Helen Cresswell, a fantasy in which Carrie meets the Pontifexes, a family that has been spirited from their world of 1921 into 1971 and want to go back.

Sara is Sara Mayberry of ME AND FAT GLENDA by Lila Perl. Sara is very normal despite her weird parents. But she's lonely, until she meets Glenda who's fat, really fat, and even lonelier. A lively combination of life styles, loneliness and laughs.

WHEN HITLER STOLE PINK RABBIT by Judith Kerr is Anna's story. Anna is nine years old, living in Germany in 1933, and Jewish. All too quickly Anna and her family are forced to flee from Nazism. As Anna moves from her home in Berlin to Switzerland, then to France, then to England, she writes poems about disasters, has nightmares, tries to adjust to homelessness, and misses her pink rabbit.

There are so many more characters to meet in 1973. There's the friendly mutt in DOMINIC by William Steig who sets off along the highroad and, amid new friends and adventures, meets a witch-alligator, the Doomsday Gang, and an invalid pig.

You might prefer to meet Mr. Fast in THE GHOST DOWNSTAIRS, about a man who was willing to trade seven years of his life for a million dollars. This is another story of mystery and the supernatural by Leon Garfield.

Then there are the Herdman's--Ralph, Imogene, Claude, Ollie and Gladys--real horrors, that reign over all the kids in the public school with pinches and punches, threats and thumps. And these are the kids that take over the Sunday School pageant in Barbara Robinson's THE BEST CHRISTMAS PAGEANT WE EVER HAD.

Women, Teenagers Eligible

Quincy Jaycees 23 Years Old, And Very Active

What's new with the Quincy Jaycees on their 23rd birthday?

Well, for one thing, there's women.

And, for another, there's teenagers.

For the first time, women are eligible to join what was once a bastion of youthful male solidarity.

The way was cleared for the ladies when they won a couple of law suits against Jaycee chapters elsewhere in the United States.

As yet, the Quincy chapter has no female members.

"But," says Chapter President Charles J. Leonard, "if any woman wants to join, we certainly have no objections."

Teen-agers were made eligible by the Jaycees National Convention when it reduced the minimum age from 21 to 18.

Again, Quincy has no teen-aged members but the chapter is looking for them.

"We feel that people who are 18 are socially responsible and able to be active in our type of organization," says Leonard.

The next chapter recruiting drive is to be aimed at Quincy Junior College and Eastern Nazarene.

"Out of town students can join the Jaycees in Quincy during the school year and their hometown chapters when they are not in school," says Leonard.

The current active membership of the Quincy chapter is 28, which is small for a city the size of Quincy in which 12 per cent of the population is of Jaycee age. But the 28 are very active.

This being Massachusetts Jaycee Week by official proclamation of Gov. Francis W. Sargent, Leonard sat down the other day and ticked off some of the accomplishments of the Quincy Chapter over the past year.

The Jaycees participated in last July's Sidewalk Bazaar in downtown Quincy, raffling off tickets on a 10-speed bicycle with the proceeds going to send mentally retarded youngsters to a special Olympic meet in Los Angeles.

The chapter also co-sponsored [with the Quincy school recreation department] a special Olympic meet for the retarded at Quincy Veterans Memorial Stadium.

In October, members observed "Help Light the Way Sunday" by getting out and selling candles made by the mentally retarded in their Nauset workshop on Cape Cod.

The proceeds of that sale went into the Mental Health Trust Fund, the chairman of which is Michael Daley of Daley-Care Management Co., nursing home.

The chapter passed up a chance to enter a float in the Santa Parade in November in favor of selling taffy apples from a push cart along the parade route.

There was also a change in the Christmas project.

Instead of selling Christmas trees on Southern Artery, as in the past, the Jaycees raffled off "a case of cheer", raising $875 to provide turkey dinners for 100 needy families.

Members of the Quincy chapter will be at the District Three meeting tonight [Thursday] at 8 p.m. at the Viking Club in Braintree to discuss future projects.

Among those projects are:

- A seminar at state headquarters in Marlboro Saturday [Jan. 27] to take up the problem of venereal disease and how to make the public aware of it's dangers.
- A "Lock it and Pocket" campaign to convince people to lock their cars and put the keys in their pockets in an effort to cut the high rate of auto theft.
- A revival of efforts to establish a Red Ball program in which round red stickers are placed on the windows of children's bedrooms to show firefighters where they are in the event of fire.
- A "Fabulous Fifties" party Feb. 9 at the Fore River Clubhouse, featuring a nostalgic rock band of the period, with the proceeds going to community projects.
- Early in February, the chapter will present a plaque to the police officer judged outstanding in the performance of his duty as part of its police/community relations project.

Next Thursday [Feb. 1] the Quincy chapter will hold an orientation meeting at the Carlton House to explain the purpose of the Jaycee movement to potential new members - especially females and teenagers.

JAYCEES WEEK is proclaimed by Quincy Mayor Walter J. Hannon as he presents a copy of the proclamation to Charles J. Leonard [right], president of the Quincy Jaycees, and John Keeney, chairman of Jaycee Week. The proclamation recognizes that "this organization of young men has contributed tremendously to the betterment of this community throughout the year."

The Senior Scene

Lots Of Activity For 16,000 Seniors

By PUTNAM S. BORDEN
Executor Director
Council On Aging

There are more than 16,000 citizens of Quincy, aged 60 or older. For each, there is a city agency designed to provide information and assistance in meeting their special needs, The Quincy Council on Aging.

Years ago, in the United States, and today, in "less advanced" societies, age was synonymous with wisdom and respect. The elderly played an essential role in the home and the community, providing guidance and wise counsel; settling disputes and, in general, giving direction and purpose to community life.

Unfortunately, advanced technology and social change have drastically altered the traditional role of the elderly in our society.

In our "youth oriented" culture, it sometimes seems that there is no further place for those who have grown old creating what we enjoy today. At age 64, 364 days, an individual is a functioning member of the community. At age 65, we say, "we no longer need you, run along and enjoy your "retirement".

The Quincy Council on Aging does not believe this nor does the City which provides for it's services. We believe that both our elderly and our community have mutual needs and have dedicated ourselves to serving as a catalyst and a focal point through which, these needs can be satisfied.

What is available to you as a senior resident of this community? What existing services can the Quincy Council on Aging provide to you now?

Through the Quincy Council on Aging, you, as a citizen aged 60 or older may obtain:

● Senior Citizen I.D. Cards - these cards entitle the bearer to participate in the special events offered by the Quincy Recreation Department, special sporting licenses for hunting, fishing and trapping [if over 70 years of age], reduced prices at certain theaters, reduced prices at a local bowling establishment, free admission to many school athletic events, participation in adult education programs at minimum charge, and trade discounts at some local business establishments. Most important, it permits joining one of the many Senior Citizens organizations and participating in their activities.

● The Quincy Council on Aging sponsors daily, Monday through Friday, a Hot Lunch Program for Senior Citizens at the Sawyer Tower public housing complex located on Martensen St. A hot, nutritious meal can be obtained at a price of 50 cents. There is also an opportunity to meet new friends.

● For many, particularly those who have been ill or are disabled, transportation is a major concern. The Council on Aging provides direct transportation to doctors, dentists, therapy, etc., for those who request it. In addition, the Council is active in arranging programs such as the recently initiated bus service between the three public housing complexes and the Stop and Shop Plaza at Southern Artery.

● Job Placement - for many, the "joys of retirement" quickly become the deadly boredom of idleness. Yet, how does one go about seeking work when "everyone" wants the young.

Your Council on Aging has established a job placement program for senior citizens because, contrary to appearances, many employers seek the maturity and responsibility which accrues with age.

Our Job Developer, Mr. Edmund Ferry is located each day at the Mass. Division of Employment Security Office, 1433 Hancock St., and his services, considered by many as the most effective in the state, are available to any senior citizen in the community.

● Information - to many, unanswered questions about services, programs, legal rights, etc., are a source of concern and frustration. The staff and Executive Director of the Council on Aging will welcome your questions and will try to find answers to them.

These are the major activities currently conducted by your Council on Aging. At present, services are oriented toward you.

Our future planning, which I shall write about later involves services which you as responsible citizens can provide to meet community needs. I am confident you will all respond.

Quincy will have a VITA Program [Volunteer Income Tax Assistance] this year, announces Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

"We are cooperating with Federal Internal Revenue Service to provide income tax assistance to our senior citizens at no cost.

VITA is a federal program sponsored by Internal Revenue Service designed to train volunteers in all aspects of Forms 1040 and 1040A.

Through the cooperation of the Quincy Council on Aging and The Quincy Public School Department such a training program has recently been completed.

From Feb. 5 to April 13 VITA volunteers will be on duty at City Hall in the City Council chamber from 3 to 5 p.m., and at the Council on Aging office, John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., 7 to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

NEW MOBILE CUSTOMER information center of the Boston Gas Co., arrived in Quincy this week as a new consumer service. From the left are John J. Bacon, vice-president customer relations; Miss Kathy Dugan of Thornton St., Wollaston; Mrs. Patti Molloy and daughter, Jacqueline, of Holmes St., North Quincy; and City Development Coordinator John J. Boston Gas Mobile Information Center Stationed In Quincy

Boston Gas brought its new mobile customer information center to Quincy Tuesday, as part of the company's six-month pilot program to bring the gas company to the customer.

The program began last November when Boston Gas established the office on wheels in three Boston communities: East Boston and the Uphams Corner and Fields Corner sections of Dorchester.

"The purpose of this test program," John J. Bacon, vice president of customer relations, said, "is to make Boston Gas more readily and easily accessible to our customers. The mobile office will be at Quincy Square in front of the Hancock Cemetery, near City Hall, each Tuesday to assist our customers in every way possible.

"It is not our intent to make this mobile office a sales center or a bill payment station; that's not its purpose," Bacon emphasized. "We are here to assist our Quincy customers who have a problem understanding their gas bill or have a question about them. Our trained personnel also will be available to help customers with service inquiries and to answer, or find the answers, to any questions the customer may have about Boston Gas."

Bacon noted that there has been growing interest in the mobile office at the three locations in Boston. "More and more people are taking advantage of this new service," Bacon said.

"It takes time for people to first learn that we are here in the community to help them and then to become familiar with what it is we can do for them."

At each location, including Quincy, the Boston Gas representatives at the mobile office have telephone communications with the main office so that questions from customers can be answered promptly.

"The mobile customer information office is not here exclusively for Boston Gas Customers," Bacon said. "We look forward to meeting anyone who has a question about the company and our services while attending to the needs of customers at the same time.

"This pilot program," Bacon added, "will help us determine how great the need is for more direct contact with our customers, which of our policies and procedures help us give better service and which should be changed. We're here to help and to learn."

Delahunt Bill Would Give Public 'Open Access' To Records

Asserting that "it is a fundamental right of a citizen to know what his government is doing," Rep. William D. Delahunt, [D-Quincy] announces he has filed legislation to "give citizens free and open access" to governmental records.

His bill would clarify the right of access to public records, w d define the scope of public records, and would provide effective remedies if access is wrongfully denied.

Under the bill, the term "public records" would mean "books, papers, maps, photographs, or other documentary materials, regardless of physical form" made or received by any public office holder.

Exceptions would include "material related to internal personnel rules and practices, or policy statements, or investigatory materials."

"If any public official or agency refuses a request for access to information as outlined in this bill, Delahunt said the citizens denied access may seek a writ of mandamus in the Superior Court." The law would also require the official or agency to affirmatively prove that the information requested is not a public record and the citizen would not have the burden of proof as to demonstrating that it is a public record.

"I need not ennunciate the importance of public access to the records of a government put in office by the very same public," he said.

The legislation would establish a nominal charge for reproduction of records.

Calling for the "liberal" interpretation of "public records", the legislation requires that an official prove why he cannot disclose the information.

Wollaston Park Assn. Opposes 100 Percent Revaluation

The Wollaston Park Association has pledged "to cooperate in any way we can to prevent the implementation of 100 percent revaluation in Quincy."

In a letter to City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, officers said their organization considered revaluation a "Pandora's Box".

President Harold A. Nannis and Secretary Dorothy C. Kelly said they agreed with Tobin's contention that revaluation "would be disastrous particularly to the elderly, veterans, widows and small homeowners.

North Needs Comeback Quincy Nurses Injuries;

Can North Quincy's basketball team pull the comeback of the year, win eight of its last nine games and make the state tournament?

"We are going to make a bid for the tournament," Nolan said following last Friday's heartbreaking 83-75 double overtime loss to undefeated Medford. "If anybody is a betting man, bet on us."

The Raiders, unbeaten league champs a year ago but only a disappointing 3-4 in league play and 4-4 overall, started the long haul toward a hoped-for tourney berth Tuesday at Chelsea. Friday they will play at Everett and next Tuesday will be home to Somerville.

Despite what Coach Marty Finnegan called "our best showing in a long time," Quincy lost to Everett Friday, 71-67, to drop its record to 2-7 [2-5 in the league].

The Presidents, riddled by injuries, hosted Malden Tuesday, are home to Medford Friday and play at Revere Tuesday.

North turned in one of its superior efforts against Medford and Nolan said, "Even in defeat you can be a winner.

"Every kid that played chipped in and they won the hearts of the fans and the Medford team. They played one great game. They gave away height on the boards but battled for every rebound."

The score was 62-all at the end of regulation play. Pete Bellotti hit on two foul shots in the final seconds of the first overtime period and the teams went into the second extra session still tied at 68-68. But the unbeaten Mustangs outscored the Raiders, 15-7, in the second overtime to clinch things.

Jamie Doherty continued to be high scorer with 23 points and Billy Shea had 14. Bobby Morton didn't score but was tremendous his work on the boards kept North in the game until he fouled out in the fourth period.

Quincy battled Everett all the way. Trailing by six at the half, the Presidents cut the gap to one in the third period led by John Reggiannini but Everett's Arnie Heavy, who scored 25 points, hit on a series of outside shots to keep his team in front.

Mike Marvelle, one of three Presidents who were on crutches, returned for a brief stint and was lauded by Finnegan, as was Reggiannini, who again paced the scorers with 26 points. Mark MacLeod had 12 points and Ken Furfari 10.

Earlier in the week Medford ran away from Quincy in the first period, 21-6, and went on to a 78-58 win.

"They had much too much depth for us and also were much taller," Finnegan said. "It is hard to beat 10 kids with five."

Reggiannini scored 18, Furfari 15, Phil Iovanna 12 and MacLeod 10.

Dennis, Furey Pace Squirt A's To Win Over Hingham

Sean Dennis and John Furey collected two goals each Sunday as the Quincy Squirt "A" team knocked off Hingham, 6-1.

Neil Shea, Mark Messina and Chuckie Marshall had the other scores.

In non-league action, the Squirts:

• Dropped one to Cambridge, 4-2, with the goals going to Robbie Craig and Scott Richardson.

• Bombed Braintree, 8-1, as Robbie Craig got two goals. The others were by Neil Shea, Mark Messina, Mark Veasey, Tommy Gerry, Chuckie Marshall and Paul McGrath.

Next Sunday [Jan. 28] the Squirts meet Hull at 10:45 a.m. on Rink C, Hingham Arena.

Kustka In Hat Trick As UCT Defeats Wollaston Theater

Kenneth Kustka got the three-goal hat trick and Mike Vantassell added another goal Tuesday [Jan. 16] as United Commercial Travelers beat Wollaston Theater, 4-1, in Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee House League action.

Johnny Marsters scored for the theater team.

Bill Foley had a pair of goals and Charlie Laing a third as Keohane's tipped Shannonaires, 3-1. Mike Pisterino was the lone scorer for Shannonaires.

Next Tuesday [Jan. 30] at Hingham Arena Morrisette meets Wollaston Theater, 6 p.m., Rink A; Shannonaires plays Crestview, 6:15 p.m., Rink C; and UCT tangles with Keohane's, 7:30 p.m., Rink C.

In Track

Quincy Stands In Way Of North

If the North Quincy track team wins its final meet Saturday it will do no worse than tie for the Greater Boston League championship.

But who is the final opponent? Quincy, that's who, and the Presidents would like nothing better then to knock the Raiders out of the title when they meet at 9:30 a.m. at the Medford High cage.

Bob Gentry's North team, the school's best in years, defeated Malden, 53-33, last week to tie Revere and Somerville, all with 41 marks.

Tom Hall's Quincy team, still hit hard by injuries and illness, bowed to Medford, 50-36, to lose any chance it might have had, and its only goal now is to knock off North.

North got off to a slow start against Malden but finished up strong to win going away.

Gentry moved Jack Reynolds to the 300 for the first time and he won in the good time of 34.8. Teammate Jack Pomerole placed second.

North moved into the lead in this event and opened up a safe margin after that.

Bob Mackey must be North's hard luck runner of the season. Two weeks ago he had the mile run won but fell just short of the finish line and had to be satisfied with third place.

Last week he crossed the finish line 20 yards in front but was disqualified for stepping into the next lane.

Bob McCormack won the 1000, Mark Canavan the 600, Lee Watkins the 50-yard dash, Mark Mulvaney the shot put and Jeff Hennessey the hurdles.

Quincy's Marty Swirko, unbeaten in the 600 this year, was out of the lineup and on crutches and several other Presidents again were out of action with the flu.

The President's winners were John Johnson and Art DeLoreto, tied in the high jump; Dave Sten in the shot put, Mark MacLeod in the 1000 and Steve Player in the 2-mile.

Bertoni, Jolley In Hat Tricks For Pee Wee A's

A pair of Brians, Bertoni and Jolley, turned in a pair of hat tricks last week as the Quincy Pee Wee "A" hockey team walloped Columbia, 9-3, and whipped Canton, 5-2, in Bay Colony Association play.

Bertoni collected his three goals against Columbia, drawing an assist in the same game. He also had a goal and two assists against Canton.

Jolley scored three times in the Canton game and once in the Columbia contest.

Other goal scorers against Columbia were Mark Giordani [twice], Dave Lewis, Mike Furey, and Ed Kane. Bobby Hayes had the fifth goal in the Canton game.

Assists in the two games were awarded to Ed Kane 4, Bobby Hayes 4, John Norton 3, Brian Bertoni 3, John Kelly and Mark Giordani.

Mike Storer Scores Two For Pee Wee B's

Don Perdios had a goal and two assists; Dan Cronin, Jim Moore and Dan Sullivan each had goals; and Jack Dunne collected an assist in the victory.

Bantam A's Tie S. Boston

The Quincy Bantam "A" team tied South Boston, 1-1, and beat Scituate, 4-3, in recent Bay Colony Association hockey action.

In a non-league meeting, Quincy also walloped Walpole, 6-2.

Young Presidents Rack Up Two Impressive Wins

The Greater Boston League freshman hockey season was more than a month late in opening due to a delay in the completion of the new Revere rink.

However, it was worth the wait as far as the Quincy junior high-freshman team is concerned.

Ken Hayes' young Presidents, unbeaten in regular season play last year and owners of a 7-1 overall record, are off and running again with impressive wins in their first two games.

Last Friday Quincy rolled over Somerville, 11-6, as Capt. Frank Guest, last year's top scorer, exploded for four goals [he had five in the two games] and added three assists, and Jack Powers scored three goals [to also bring his two-game total to five] and had two assists. Alternate Capt. Bill Hammil had two goals and an assist and Paul Gustafson two goals. Nick Cyr, the other alternate captain, played a fine game.

Earlier in the week Quincy topped North Quincy, 4-2, in the opening game as Powers had two goals, Guest and Mark Giordini one each. Brian Bertoni had two assists, Hammil and Gustafson one apiece.

"I was pleased with the performances in our first two games and the long wait apparently didn't hurt the boys," Hayes said. "Guest and Powers skated and shot very well and our skating and passing were outstanding."

Last night [Wednesday] the North junior high-freshman team and high school junior varsity squad played Chelsea and Friday Quincy's squads will play Medford. The junior high-freshman game starts at 5 and the junior varsity contest at 6.

ASTHMA AND EXERCISE

According to a Denver medical research team which specializes in the treatment of lung diseases, chronic asthma patients do not have to be treated like invalids. Doctors there have found that controlled exercise programs work better than prolonged rest in rehabilitating their patients.

Thirty-nine patients with the allergic type of asthma were divided into two groups. For three months, one group participated only in routine hospital activity and was not allowed any physical exertion. The other group had daily exercise, including one hour of sports such as basketball. At the end of the three month period, the groups exchanged, the exercisers becoming non-exerciser and vice versa.

None of the patients was made worse by the increased physical activity and no increase in asthma medication was necessary. But 40 percent of the exercisers showed measurable improvement in their breathing.

On The Screen

By Vincent Puleo

'The Godfather' Tops 'GWTW' AS Top Moneymaker

The dethroning of one cinema champ, and the crowning of its successor has relegated "GONE WITH THE WIND" to the number two position on the All-Time Box Office Champ List. "THE GODFATHER" is now king of the hill... Less than one year on the market, and already "THE GODFATHER" has established its niche as the NUMERO UNO moneymaker of all time...

Several factors made for clear sailing of "THE GODFATHER" to its number one position in its natal year... The strong reader response of the best selling MARIO PUZO novel whetted the audiences appetite for visual affect. Some timely gangland slayings, the fuss of controversy which lead to the deletion of the word "mafia" from the film, and of course the strong screen presence of MARLON BRANDO...

BRANDO was, is, the "Godfather"... Paramount's starring him in the principle role can only be labeled one of the shrewdest, or if you'd have it luckiest, bits of casting in cinema history... Without him, this would never have been the box office clouter it so developed into... Without BRANDO, "THE GODFATHER" would have been just another gangster yarn...

The following is a compilation of the Top 10, All Time Box Office Moneymakers, including the films' year of release and gross intake... Of the Top 10, only one dates back to the "Golden Era" of the motion picture industry; two others are representative of the 50's, four of the 60's, and the remaining three covering the "New Era" of the 70's... As this columnist wrote last year, by the end of this decade the Top Ten could very well read like a filmlog of the Seventies...

THE TOP TEN: "THE GODFATHER" [1972], $81.5 million; "GONE WITH THE WIND" [1939], $77.03M; "THE SOUND OF MUSIC" [1965], $72 M; "LOVE STORY" [1970], $50 M; "THE GRADUATE" [1968], $48.3 M; "DOCTOR ZHIVAGO" [1965], $47.95 M; "AIRPORT" [1970], $45.3 M; "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS"[1956], $43 M; "BEN HUR" [1959], $40.75 M; and "MY FAIR LADY" [1964], $32 M...

Nine of the Top 10 motion pictures were repeats from last years survey. Missing this turn around is "MARY POPPINS" [1964], $31 M, which slipped to number 12 on the All-Time List... And to give you an idea how fluctuating the Top 10 is, two years ago "MARY POPPINS" had a solid grip on the 8th ranked position, with "THUNDERBALL" notched securely in place number 10 [on this years chart "THUNDERBALL" is holding precariously onto its 14th place on the List]... Two years makes a big difference...

As for how next years Top 10 chart will look, I'll limb climb a bit... "THE SOUND OF MUSIC" will be in second place. The reason? After five years away from the screen it is being brought back this spring. And this means the film is good for at least to $5-8 million more... "MY FAIR LADY" will have slipped several notches. "M-A-S-H" is a scant $900,000 behind and looms as a strong Top 10 bet because of talk of its being reissued... And really going out on a limb, "LOST HORIZON", as yet unreleased, could be good for $35 M or more at the box office. My finer instincts tell me this picture "has it"...

The sexsationally talented DIANA ROSS was named CUE Magazine's Entertainer of the Year, the first of many awards for Miss ROSS I'm sure. No way about it, 1972 was "her" year... Continuing on the awards trail, two "YOUNG WINSTON" alumni came in for some heavy recognition. CARL FOREMAN was named the Show Business Writer of the Year, and SIMON WARD the Film Actor of the Year by the Variety Club of Great Britain...

As of this writing SAMMY DAVIS JR. is 104% sure of having his own situation-comedy with NBC come this fall. Such positivism reminds me of What's-his-names 1000% backing of you know who... And the Price Commission said no to a 10% increase of boxoffice prices for three films: "UP THE SANDBOX", "THE GETAWAY" and "THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE"... Speaking of the latter, "POSEIDON" in its first three weeks of distribution has done better than $12 million in the U.S. and Canada... A whopper of a flick, and the nation's number one box office attraction. A topsy-turvy entertainment plus...

For the curious, CHERI CAFFARO is Women Libs answer to James Bond. Ms. CAFFARO'S next high-jinx caper is "GIRLS ARE FOR LOVING" [and espionage, gunfighting, karate chopping, and seducing]... New one coming soon, "THE FAMILY". Starring CHARLES BRONSON, it is a feature about that "type" of family, not the Ma and Pa Kettle kind... Reunion Time: JIM BROWN and director GORDON DOUGLAS signed to lense "SLAUGHTER 11". Away back in 1964, DOUGLAS directed BROWN in the latter's first motion picture "RIO CONCHOS"...

$200,000 Too High

Ice Rink, Education Plant Killed By Mayor Hannon

That was the day the city opened the bids for the general contract and found that the lowest was $200,000 too much.

After a brief discussion of alternatives, Mayor Walter J. Hannon said the rink is dead.

The low bid was $2,241,300 submitted by J. A. Sullivan of Dorchester.

The facility was to have included the skating rink, a physical education plant and school administration offices.

One of the alternatives would have been to drop the administration offices from the plan.

It was the second time the city had rejected bids for the complex.

Earlier bids were a million dollars more than the amount appropriated by the City Council.

The structure was redesigned and new bids were asked.

Mayor Hannon chose to reject the bids rather than have the facility redesigned again.

QCBPA Gives Financial Green - Light

Downtown Redevelopment Master Plan Study Starts

By TOM HENSHAW

The way has been cleared for a $45,000 downtown re-development study and master plan.

A $3,000 commitment from the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association Tuesday provided the financial green-light for the six-months study by Charles G. Hilgenhurst & Associates.

Until Tuesday, the planned study was $3,000 shy of the needed $45,000.

The Boston urban development counseling firm will formulate a master plan for the orderly redevelopment of downtown Quincy stretching out on and off both sides of Hancock St.

The study will be funded by a $20,000 federal grant to the city from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and a $25,000 commitment from the business community. An additional $4,000 for expenses is also federally funded.

Individual members of the business community have pledged $22,000 and Tuesday the QCBPA board of directors voted to add the $3,000 to make sure that Quincy gets the Federal funds. The federal deadline for raising the matching funds is June 30.

After his board of directors voted the money, the association's executive director, John F. Murray said:

"This is a prime example of mutually beneficial cooperation between the city of Quincy and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

"This type of planning means great things for Quincy in the redevelopment of Quincy Center and in the future economics of the entire downtown area, including the Turnstyle and Southern Artery areas."

Mayor Walter J. Hannon, City Development Coordinator John J. Cheney and Geoffrey Davidson, director of planning for Quincy, appeared at the QCBPA's meeting in support of the study.

"If we don't have a strong downtown area we are going to suffer," the Mayor warned. "I am totally committed to it. We need a strong commitment from the businessmen."

He got it.

The idea of studying the downtown area in order to develop a master plan for its

Ricciuti Has Fingers Crossed

Quincy's Snow Removal Cost Running Far Behind Average

The cost of snow removal in Quincy this year is running well below the five-year average - and that's why Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti has his fingers crossed.

Seems that the least expensive January in the past six years [$5,005 in 1969] eventually turned out to be the most expensive year for Quincy [$473,137].

And the most expensive January in that time [$95,948 in 1968] kicked off the least expensive year [$210,776].

The subject came up early this week as Monday's storm threat failed to materialize and Tuesday dawned clear and cold.

"I recall the winter of 1969 very well," said Ricciuti with a nervous glance at the cloudless blue sky.

"We were doing fine until late February when we got hit by a whole bunch of snow storms, one right on top of the other. There were areas in Quincy where we couldn't get in with a snow plough."

The estimated cost for snow removal [including labor, salt and sand] for the January just concluded is $17,000.

Comparative costs for the past five years:

	January	Full Year
1968	$ 95,948	$210,776
1969	5,005	473,137
1970	54,777	312,422
1971	73,800	313,513
1972	8,073	310,700

Most Aged Widows To Get More S S

Most--but not all--aged widows and dependent widowers will get increased payments from social security starting in February, according to Frank Culkin, social security district manager in Quincy.

"Widows don't have to do anything to get these increases," Culkin said. The increases will begin with checks to be mailed early in February.

"Some of those who get increases may not get as much as they expected," Culkin said. "Questions we're getting indicate there's some confusion about widows benefits."

Under the new social security law, increases will go to 89 percent of the three and a half million widows who get monthly payments based on their late husbands' social security records, according to Frank Culkin.

"About two out of five widows will get 21.2 percent more than they were getting," he said. "About half will get increases ranging from about one percent to 21 percent.

The 21.2 percent increase will be paid to women who started getting widows benefits at 65 or later. "They are women whose deceased husbands did not take retirement benefits until age 65 or over or had died before becoming entitled to retirement benefits," Culkin said. "A widow who started getting payments at 62 will now get 82.9 percent of her husband's benefit. Previously, she got 82.5 percent."

Widows who get no increase under the new law will be mostly sole survivors whose husbands would have qualified for minimum retirement benefits, Culkin said.

The new law also applies to benefits paid to some 3,000 dependent widowers "Like widows, dependent widowers can now start getting reduced benefits at 60," Culkin said.

Quincy Students Paying Less On MBTA Bus Routes

Beginning Monday, students' and children's fares went to a flat 15 cents with free transfer privileges within the suburban division, that is, within the former Eastern Mass bus routes.

Prior to that the youngsters' fares were 15 cents with no free transfer and with a zone fare system.

The MBTA defines pupils as those taking courses toward a high school diploma and children as those from five to 11 years old inclusive.

The one restriction remaining on the fare schedule is that free transfers are not allowed between a suburban route and a rapid transit line or an urban route.

Joy For Two Quincy Families; Anxiety For Two Others

The long wait is almost over for two Quincy families.

For two others, a new wait is just beginning.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stratton of 54 Bowdoin St. were notified Saturday that their son, Navy Commander Richard A. Stratton, is listed by the North Vietnamese as a prisoner of war to be repatriated. He was a prisoner since 1967.

Dr. and Mrs. James Brudno of 3 Buckingham Rd, Wollaston, heard the same day that their son, Lt. Edward A. Brudno, will soon be home. His Air Force Phantom jet was shot down in October, 1965.

They are the happy ones.

For Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bifolchi of 120 Willard St. and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Ricker of 14 Presidents Lane it was just another day. Their sons are still missing.

Air Force Capt. Charles L. Bifolchi disappeared on his 95th mission over Vietnam in January, 1968.

Navy Lt. William E Ricker, a flight surgeon likewise vanished ove. Vietnam on Oct. 28, 1968.

Their names were not on the list of POWS released by the North Vietnamese Saturday.

The wait goes on.

Brett Wants Quincy 'Out' As College Site

Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] has suggested that a proposed South Shore Community College be established, not in Quincy, but farther down the shore around Marshfield, Norwell or Hanover.

Brett's suggestion was contained in a letter to Dr. William G. Dwyer, president of the State Board of Regional Community Colleges.

"As the proposed college is planned to serve the area between Boston and Plymouth," he wrote, "it does not seem sensible to me to locate it on the fringe of the area such as it would be if it is to be located in Quincy.

"To me, it would be more sensible to place it somewhere near the center of the area which it is to serve, perhaps around Marshfield, Norwell, Hanover, etc."

Quincy IRS Office Open Extra Hours To Assist Taxpayers

The Internal Revenue Service will give extra assistance to taxpayers this year, announces Ron Giunta, manager of the Quincy IRS office, 1 Cliveden St., Quincy Center.

Giunta said the taxpayer service will be available Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Cliveden St. office will also be open Friday evenings until 9 p.m. in February and April. There will be 9 p.m. hours also on Monday, April 16 and Tuesday, April 17.

"This extra assistance is in keeping with IRS' theme of 'we want to help'," Giunta said. "The Internal Revenue Service is providing additional help for taxpayers across the nation this filing period and the extra hours' program is one way of doing so."

Giunta pointed out that 40 percent of Massachusetts taxpayers this year will be able to use the new Form 1040A which has been reintroduced. He said taxpayers whose income is only from wages and have no more than $200 of interest income or $200 in dividends may use the 1040A.

The standard deduction has been increased to 15 percent, limited to a maximum of $2,000 or $1,000 in the case of a married person filing separately.

Giunta siad that the amount allowed for personal exemptions and exemptions for dependents has been increased to $750 this year.

He said that persons must file a return if they are single and their gross income is at least $2,050; married [or a single person 65 or older] with gross income of at least $2,800; married where one is 65 or older and have a gross income of at least $3,550 or a married couple where both are 65 or older with gross income of at least $4,300.

Persons may call the Quincy office at 472-9032, 479-5028 or visit the Taxpayer Assistance Office at 1 Cliveden St., for free service in filing a 1972 Federal return.

Ask $121,000 To Study Quincy Coastal Streams

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has requested $121,000 to continue a study of Quincy's coastal streams during fiscal 1974, it has been disclosed by Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton].

The study, which is the first step in a $11 to $12 million dollar flood control project, began in fiscal 1972 with a $20,000 appropriation and continued through fiscal 1973 with a $75,000 appropriation.

revival has been in the works for a couple of years, ever since a Harvard graduate school project team suggested that it was the right time.

With the MBTA extension and improvement of access roads, the Harvard group reported, Quincy has an ideal opportunity to take a step forward to a healthy and viable downtown section.

"We have problems in the downtown area that can hurt us in competition with the regional shopping plazas," conceded planning director Davidson.

"It is generally mediocre in appearance because of its age. Access and traffic patterns can be difficult, even frustrating. It is not the best place to get to and to get around.

"We are trying through this program to develop a series of improvements with public and private funds to upgrade the downtown area and make it a better place to shop and do business.

"If we do not take this step, we can already see what can happen. We are starting to lose businesses, like Kresges. If we sit back and do nothing, we will see more businesses move away.

"When business leaves, we lose tax revenue. And when we lose tax revenue then the area is less attractive to new business. The deterioration spirals. With this program, we are trying to turn the trend around.

The first step was the hiring of Charles G. Hilgenhurst & Associates as the most experienced and best qualified firm to make the study.

Hilgenhurst himself was a key aide to former director Edward Logue of the Boston Redevelopment Administration when the BRA planned the design, engineering and construction of Boston's Government Center.

With a staff of experts drawn from the BRA, Hilgenhurst has done work for the cities of Cleveland and Niagara Falls, N.Y., and with the New York State Development Corporation.

The firm's work with Quincy will begin immediately and take about six months to complete, culminating in a "strategy for development," or a master plan for the organized development of the downtown area.

So, for the next few months, people from Hilgenhurst will be wandering around downtown, taking inventory of its assets and problems, talking with businessmen and civic leaders to determine the direction the city wants to take.

After that, there is the problem of identifying the tools to be used to implement the plan and the sources of funds, in both state and federal programs, that can be used to put the plan in operation.

"There has to be outside money to make these things work," said Davidson. "The plan has to be substantially financed from outside the city, that is, with state and federal funds."

Quincy's Drinking Water 'Excellent'

There is no need to worry about the quality of drinking water insists Water Supt. Owen Eaton and Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti. The pair issued the flat statement jointly, Monday in response to fears expressed by the Quincy Citizens Association.

Officials of the QCA declared last week in the Quincy Sun that "Quincy has been among the three cities having the worst quality of water in Massachusetts" and they asked Health Commissioner Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney what steps have been taken to improve it.

"The quality of Quincy's drinking water is excellent," said Eaton and Ricciuti.

"Bacterial water samples are taken from 31 different spots in the Quincy distribution system every week, more than 120 a month, and are sent to the Lawrence Public Health Testing Station.

"The bacterial count is zero."

Eaton acknowledged that Quincy had been put on the Federal Environmental Protection Agency's list of places where interstate carriers [ships, trucks, etc.] are prohibited from taking on water.

This, said Eaton, was because two of the seven storage tanks in the system were not covered. They have since been covered, he said, and prior to that they were chlorinated every day in compliance with State Public Health regulations.

The city has asked that restrictions be lifted.

"At no time," said Eaton and Ricciuti, "has there been any danger to citizens of Quincy from their drinking water."

Insiders report the City Council will soon take action on the re-drawing of ward lines.

Presently there are six wards in the city, but under a plan being considered, the number will be increased to eight. The City Council will then be upped from nine to 11 members - eight ward and three at-large.

Under the eight ward plan, ward lines will be able to closely follow neighborhood lines and preserve neighborhood identity. This would not be possible with only six wards. If re-districting were done under the six ward plan for example, Quincy Point and South Quincy would probably have to be split because of their small size and the fact that they are next to each other.

With eight wards, each ward would be of roughly the same size, with between 11,000 to 12,000 residents.

Although such a plan would in fact be a charter change, only City Council approval is necessary for it to be adopted.

- Get Set For Washington Reports
- Soviets Pushing Missiles

WASHINGTON — Police fear the slaughter of seven black Muslims in a fashionable Washington home and the two-day shootout at a Brooklyn sporting goods store may be the beginning of a bloody holy war between rival sects.

The seven victims belonged to a sect which has accused the Black Muslim prophet, Elijah Muhammad, of preaching false doctrine. Muhammad preaches hatred against the whites, whom he calls the "devil." The smaller sect has condemned this doctrine and has criticized Muhammad for excluding whites.

The gunmen in both incidents have been linked with the Muhammad loyalists.

Even before this outbreak of violence, both the FBI and the Secret Service had anticipated possible trouble from the Muslims. One classified Secret Service report states:

"Despite leadership statements enunciating a policy of non-violence (and) non-participation in demonstrations, the existence of an organization whose philosophy is directed toward race hatred and whose members are organized into a paramilitary contingent, constitutes a potential for violence."

The total adult membership of the Black Muslim movement, according to the confidential files, runs between 6,000 and 6,500. The Secret Service memos add: "Recruiting efforts are primarily directed to the uneducated, underprivileged Negroes and suspected or known criminals. There is active recruitment within penal institutions."

An FBI summary, stamped confidential, gives this background on the Muslim movement: "the Nation of Islam, an organization for representatives of the black race only, had its origin in Detroit, Mich., in the early 1930s. Headquarters is Muhammad's Temple No. 2, 5335 S. Greenwood Ave., Chicago, Ill., which affords direction to numerous affiliated branches, commonly referred to as Muhammad's Temples or Mosques, located throughout the United States.

"The leader is Elijah Muhammad, self-styled 'messenger of Allah' and the only divinely appointed leader of the black race in the U.S., who controls all policies and programs. Muhammad's teachings stress Allah (God) selected him to lead the so-called Negro out of slavery in North America through establishment of an independent black nation in the U.S.; the white man is the 'devil' and open enemy of the black man; the black and white races must be separate; the white man, his government and religion will be destroyed by Allah through the forces of nature in the 'War of Armageddon', a war between Allah and the 'devil.'

"....Muhammad and other Nation of Islam members have refused to comply with Selective Service laws, stating that they respect the laws of the U.S. provided they do not conflict with NOI laws. They do not believe that government should force them to participate in wars when they have nothing to gain."

'News' From Washington

Now that Congress is back in session, the voters at home can expect a barrage of "Reports From Washington." The representatives will send home solemn accounts of their activities, emphasizing their political conquests and legislative triumphs. Nothing will be said about the votes they lose, the meetings they miss, the deals they make and the junkets they take.

Some of the reports to constituents will arrive by mail. The reports will be printed in ink-splattered printing shops deep in the bowels of Congress, where the tourists are never taken. Photographers are also provided by the taxpayers to record such historic events as the Millville High School's senior class calling on their congressman.

Other reports will be taped for the radio-TV stations back home. Both the Senate and House provide radio and television studios. The TV studios offer an elaborate set, designed to look like a congressional office, with a stunning view of the Capitol dome beneath a bank of cumulus clouds. The studios, of course, charge about one-twentieth what the congressmen would have to pay to a commercial studio.

The taxpayers not only provide print shops and radio-TV studios, at bargain rates, but most Senators and Representatives use part of their federal payroll money to hire public relations men. In many offices, this media man will write all the press releases, speeches, newsletters and radio-TV scripts. Busy legislators merely have to slip down into the basement to the TV studio, assume a suitably solemn expression and read whatever is handed to them by their press aide.

Congressmen justify all this, of course, as their solemn duty to keep their constituents informed. But the real purpose, of course, is to build up their political stock for the next election.

Meanwhile, you may as well enjoy your "Reports From Washington." You are helping pay for them.

At the Moscow summit meeting, President Nixon agreed to allow Russia a numerical superiority in missiles to counter America's technological superiority. Opposes MBTA Attitude And South Quincy Station

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Quincy is growing. And its citizens are awakening to the old philosophy of politics. No longer can the unwanted legislation and actions be taken without question from the Quincy citizenry.

The MBTA has arrived in Quincy. Along with it has come some changes for the good of Quincy. Some results have been detrimental to Quincy. In any event it has given Quincy rapid transit to Boston. But the end of the line stopped at Quincy Square. This end location draws traffic from all of the cities and towns south of Quincy. This use by non-Quincy residents has produced greater traffic problems for Quincy. It also creates an adverse impact on our taxes with its assessments. These two facts alone make it imperative that the MBTA be pushed beyond Quincy Square. But not to South Quincy.

When the news was released about the South Quincy MBTA location there were no plans or information released. At this time I circulated a petition in regards to this location. I found the people were mainly concerned about the traffic and the impact the assessment would have on the taxes. They want the MBTA to continue beyond Quincy Square but they want it to be located out of Quincy.

On Dec. 18, 1972 a Public Information meeting was held at Sterling Junior High School where plans, maps and information were released about the South Quincy MBTA location. With this proper information made available intelligent and responsible evaluation was made of this location. It became evident that this station location was not for the benefit of South Quincy or Quincy as a whole.

This station is located to be an expressway station to service the commuting public from Routes 3, 128, 24, and 95. Very few Quincy residents would avail themselves of this station. This station is designed to relieve the expressway of its traffic problem and solve Boston's internal traffic congestion. Yet Quincy will have to pay the exorbitant price by assessments, loss of land and revenue.

On Dec. 9, 1972 The Patriot Ledger reported that Secretary of Transportation Alan Altshuler acknowledged that there is some local opposition to a South Quincy MBTA station but maintained that the facility will be built. I interpret this as being told that we are coming into your house and do as we please regardless of what you say or want. This is a far cry from Abraham Lincoln's Gettysberg Address which says "government of the people, by the people and for the people." Contrary to Mr. Altshuler's belief there is a great deal of local opposition as well as city wide opposition.

Careful evaluation of the plans shows that one possible good may result from this location. The State in order to locate this station in South Quincy must build on and off ramps near Capen's Bridge to service this station. On and off ramps at this location is necessary for the Upland Road Extension to materialize. Without the ramps the Upland Road Extension may not be effective and probably would not materialize. The Upland Road Extension is vital to Quincy to solve its North-South traffic flow and to relieve the bad traffic problem on local South Quincy Streets i.e. Franklin St., Independence Ave., Kendrick Ave., School St., Water St., Penn St., Liberty St., Trafford St., Pleasant St., Brook Rd, etc.

It appears that the State knows this and is holding the ramps as bait in order to locate the Station in South Quincy. The State blundered years ago when on and off ramps at Capen's Bridge were overlooked. This blunder should be corrected by the State without penalizing Quincy by forcing another unwanted station upon its citizens.

The South Quincy Location presents many problems. No assurances have been given verbally, written or through passed legislation to answer questions i.e.:

1. Is there a guarantee that the entrance and exit to the station be only from the expressway?

2. Can Quincy be exempt free from assessment?

3. Can Penn St. and Centre St. be made throughways?

4. Can Quincy be reimbursed for its yearly loss of revenue by land taking?

5. How about the flooding problem in the area?

6. How about the marshlands and ecology of the area?

Time has come where the people are aware of what is happening in government. No longer will they tolerate officials who will dictate what is to be regardless of the will of the people.

Several months ago I formed a committee to circulate a petition in regards to the South Quincy MBTA location. As chairman of this committee I will direct its energy and resources to fight against this location. Presently MBTA action is stalled due to ecological and waste land laws. But I will pledge my committee to other organizations fighting this location in South Quincy.

Abraham Lincoln said years ago, "Tell the people the truth and the country will be safe."

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Fraudulent check-passers cost American consumers an estimated $1 billion yearly–because the consumers must make up for this loss by paying high prices.

In an effort to help generate public concern over bad check passers, I have joined a newly-formed organization–the Massachusetts Police Fraudulent Check Association–which is focusing its attention on this criminal activity.

A central clearing house will be established so that MPFCA members will have instant access to photos, aliases, finger prints and other information on bogus check passers. Seventy-six percent of those arrested for forging checks have previous records for that crime.

Accurate statistics on the total cost of phony check passing to business and banks are difficult to obtain. However, the following estimates give some indication of the crime's effects.

● The American Bank Association estimates that fraudulent checks cost the business community--which passes the cost along to consumers--from $400 to $1 billion yearly.

● Checks totalling $1,108,000,000 are cashed each week in grocery stores throughout the nation.

● An average of 10.5 checks are returned to supermarkets each week.

● Grocery stores lose an average of $3,000 per year in bad checks.

Even in its infancy, the organization has demonstrated the effectiveness of a coordinated crackdown with the arrest last month of two check-passers.

Sgt. Edward Mossman, MPFCA founder, apprehended the suspects who were subsequently charged with larceny of over $100. The bad checks totalled $563 cashed at the A & P, Stop & Shop, Hanover Liquor Store and Zayre's in the Hanover area.

Mossman credits the fledgling organization for the arrests since it was through the cooperation of more than a dozen police departments that the men were taken into custody. These departments were holding warrants for one or both of the men and their descriptions had been circulated among members of the MPFCA.

'The Intellectual Gap'

"I'd be absolutely thrilled if Dr. Welby's rating would drop so they'd throw him off the air," said Gordon. "You're coming on rather strong," I said. "What's behind that?"

"Because, Doctor, I'm tired of competing with Dr. Welby...my wife is more tuned in to him than she is to me. Her mind seems to be at TV level...no higher. Many a night I've wanted to throw a rock through that thing that cost me a cool $600. She's no kind of companion!"

There must be found an intellectual level where two people can relate to each other comfortably...with mutual respect...desire to learn from each other...eagerness to enter into dialogue. Gordon didn't have this with Gladys. So...he was bored with his marriage.

Perhaps there are many Gordons around. He wanted to talk...so badly that he'd throw out a statement exaggerated out of all reasonableness...just to get some dialogue going. He wanted to be challenged...to have Gladys throw in some new facts...new information which she had learned...to talk. But Gladys had no new facts...her intellectual level was the TV mind. "Is it that Gladys is mentally lazy...that Welby on TV required nothing of her while Gordon expected her to think...and talk...and be a companion to him?" He wasn't sure.

Gladys did do some talking...nothing that met Gordon's needs however. She would make generalizations...and meaningless shibboleths that seemed intended to belittle and deflate the ego of her husband..."You're just jealous that you're not a TV star too"..."You're inconsiderate and selfish"..."You're just a big baby expecting my attention all the time." Gordon reached a point where her name calling didn't hurt him any more...he just felt enveloped in a state of meaninglessness and boredom in the relationship. They both felt the intellectual gap...neither wanted to admit it.

What possible resolution could be found for such a dilemma...the intellectual gap? There are so many Gordons and Gladyses trying to make it together. Sometimes it's the Gladyses who are being bored by the sports mind...TV's Bonanza level addict. The TV level mentality hasn't much to offer the partner with a growing, leaning intellect. Gordon couldn't shrink his experience and learning back to the TV level even if he wanted to. Nor could Gladys suddenly become an intellectual giant.

One suggestion was for Gladys to recognize the gap...and begin to grow intellectually. The best way is experience. We told Gladys...get out and rub shoulders with the real world...get a job...talk to people...become aware of LIFE. Then you'll have something to be interested in...something to talk about. Once the mind is stretched with a new idea it never returns to its former size. Gladys began to stretch her mind.

The second suggestion is for Gordon to recognize that he can't expect to have all his needs met in that one person. He was putting too heavy a responsibility upon Gladys. He began to develop other relationships...which in turn took a lot of pressure off Gladys. She felt more comfortable in her new personal expansion program.

Within weeks these people came to appreciate each other much more...regained respect for each other...bolstered the ego of each other...they talked together. The gap was closing.

Welby's rating dropped in Gordon and Gladys' home...because they found something better...something real...each other.

Why So Many Parkinging Meters?

Why does the City of Quincy have the distinction of being the one city in the United States with the most parking meters?

That's right, you heard it first right here. Our beloved little city, has the unenviable honor of holding this title, one that should make our forefathers jostle in their graves, and make money jostle in the treasury of the city. It's hard to imagine that this small suburb of Boston with a population equivalent to about one 60th of New York City has that many money-hungry little machines.

The most absurd aspect of the meters is the fact that it is probably killing business, but "helping" the city in its budget planning.

Who wants to pay 10 cents to park his car, when all he wants to buy is maybe a pack of cigarettes or a stick of gum? Plus, the fact that the South Shore Plaza with acres and acres of free parking is only a few miles away is also a deterring factor that will take business away.

Granted, parking meters are essential for a small city to survive, but an abundance such as we have is ridiculous and can only harm business as it stands now.

Tutoring Programs Enjoyable, Beneficial

By PEGGI DINEEN

For the past few years there have been tutoring programs set up at the High Schools and Junior High Schools in Quincy.

Students from these schools would spend one or two afternoons a week working as student teachers in elementary schools.

This year at Quincy High one such program is being initiated by the Art Department. Some students taking art courses will go down once a week to the Parker Elementary School. The program is not really to "teach" art, but to help the young students in whatever they want to do from painting to plays or puppet shows.

From experience in a tutoring program that I was part of two years ago, I found that they work quite well. The children in the first grade class I worked in, both enjoyed and benefited from the program, and I know I did.

It was easier for them to talk with me, because I didn't represent the same authority as the teacher, and yet there was enough respect to get work done.

I think that these tutoring programs are one of the really worthwhile activities set up by the Quincy School System, and I hope they are continued in the future.

Non-English Speaking Students Learning With Help Of Volunteers

By NANCY SIDDENS

Unknown to many citizens of Quincy is the fact that there are non-English speaking students in the public school system.

These students are from immigrant families that have moved here within the past few years. Not only are these students bombarded by a new language, but also by new customs, foods, and dress. For this reason many of them feel strange and separate from their new surroundings.

At QHVTS a program has been organized by Mrs. Mary Ann Sofis and Ellis Swartz, coordinator of foreign languages, to help these students adapt to learning enjoyable. Learning could also take place in the form of a conversation or a game.

In some cases volunteers, benefit as much from the program as do non-English speaking students. Volunteers knowing Spanish and tutoring Spanish-speaking students get to learn more and improve their Spanish.

The bilingual students are all ages and speak many different languages. Some examples are Italian, Greek, Polish, Spanish, and Korean. Because of such a high percentage of Greek and Italian speaking students, two bilingual teachers are already employed to help with them. As for the rest, the volunteers at QHVTS are doing their best to help them in their new world. and become part of their new environment. High school students volunteer their spare time to work with them on learning to speak, read, write and understand English better.

Through this they not only learn English but make friends and begin to feel more a part of American life. The volunteer also gains a feeling of achievement by helping someone who needs and really appreciates it He or she also learns of different ways of life while making a new friend.

The materials used in this program are different with each student, depending on what he or she needs most. There are pamphlets on things such as the meaning of traffic signs and the structure of government, or there are magazines which make

Amity Aides To Assist In Foreign Language Studies

The Amity Aide Program is one in which young adults from various countries come to the United States to share their languages and customs with students here.

Each year Quincy receives its Amity Aides in January and they remain until May. There are three aides for each foreign language studied in Quincy. These are German, French and Spanish.

German and French-speaking aides are from Europe but Spanish-speaking ones come from various Latin American Countries. Past aides have come from Honduras and Colombia.

This years Amity Aides have just arrived in Quincy after spending the early part of the school year in various other American cities. They reside with people who have made their homes available to them. These people with the school system show American hospitality to these foreign visitors.

The aides are assigned to the two high schools and five junior highs in the city at various times during the weeks.

They talk with the students in their native languages, helping them to understand the language better. They also speak of their homelands and customs to open up a new world to the student.

In April of this year the second annual International Festival of Quincy will take place. The aides help with constructing booths by giving information on their homeland and many dress in native costumes to sing or dance. Through this exchange of culture with many different lands the festival and amity aide program help work for peace, love, and brotherhood in Quincy and the world.

Morrisette Post Memorial Mass Feb. 19 To Honor Vietnam Veterans

Commander Joseph Greene of Morrisette Legion Post invites the public to participate with members Feb. 19 in the 44th Annual Memorial Mass.

This year the Mass is being expanded to honor returning Vietnam Veterans, Prisoners of War and those Missing In Action.

Post Historian Roger DuFault is formulating plans for a parade and the Memorial Mass. The parade will form at the Post Home, 54 Miller St., West Quincy at 9 a.m. The Mass will be at St. Mary's Church, Crescent St. at 10 a.m., where Bishop Joseph F. McGuire will deliver the sermon.

This year the Mass will be a special one for Peace and Thanksgiving.

The public is invited to help the Morrisette Post make these special ceremonies our way of telling these Vietnam veterans a fond "Well Done" and a sincere "Thank You", said Greene. "Let them know how proud we are of them and don't let them be the "Forgotten Veterans".

"It is hoped each Veterans Post and Fraternal Organization will join with us on this day to honor our deceased veterans and to Thank God for the Peace our returning veterans so richly earned."

This is our 44th Annual Parade and Memorial Service and will not be cancelled for any reason or weather condition.

How to Become Wealthy—6

"Ability to Make Decisions Is the Key"

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Holbrook
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

The development of personal character is not just worthwhile for its own sake—whether for self-respect or to please God. It is essential if one is to become a better and more successful person.

This is the consensus of successful men and women who have related their experience and counsel in self-improvement books.

Nowhere is the character of an individual more evident than in the way he reacts to critical situations that confront him in his lifetime.

Most people have little comprehension of decision-making as a key capacity of persons in positions of leadership. In their own lives they are accustomed to let others make decisions for them.

But think of the demands upon character in the great decisions in American history. We dismiss casually today the fact of the Declaration of Independence and the zeal which prompted it. But the 56 signers, as Christopher News Notes points out, "had a burning desire to secure the God-given freedoms of generations yet unborn; consequently they willingly endured amazing hardships."

"I am well aware of the toil and blood and treasure it will cost us to maintain this Declaration."

William Ellery of Rhode Island made it a point to watch his fellow signers affix their names to the document. "I was determined," he said, "to see how they all looked as they signed what might well be their death warrants."

Many later suffered imprisonment, burning of homes, loss of wealth and property, and ostracism from friends and relatives.

Think of the demands upon character for Abraham Lincoln in signing the Emancipation Proclamation, Robert E. Lee in leaving the Union Army, Harry S. Truman in using the atom bomb, John F. Kennedy in imposing the blockade on Cuba.

Decision making is almost always difficult and the easier course may be to postpone it. But oftentimes a postponed decision means a missed opportunity—the tide in the affairs of men that, as Shakespeare said, leads on to fortune if taken at the flood.

The courage to make decisions is a primary factor in the directions our lives take. If we let decisions be made for us, we drift with the tide. If we steer our own course, we determine our future.

Between the Covers

Miss Carmen Ungar, artist, art teacher, and librarian of our Art Department, has prepared this week's list which is a selection from the hundreds of fine art books available at the Main Library.

A HISTORY OF AMERICAN ART, by Daniel M. Mendelowitz. [Holt. $17.95] This is a large volume of over 700 works, 37 of which are reproduced in full color. It begins with the art of the American Indian and concludes with modern times.

Throughout the book, the author's method has been to seek the general qualities of the times, places and esthetics that characterized them, by examining the works of artists who influenced their own and succeeding generations. It includes painting, sculpture, architecture and furnishings. This book is on the suggested reading list for a course of lectures at the Museum of Fine Arts.

ROCK ART OF THE AMERICAN INDIAN, by Campbell Grant. [Crowell. $12.95] This book has 16 pages of color reproductions and 150 black-and-white photographs and drawings. The text identifies motifs and their probable meanings, correlates them with regional and tribal cultures and migrations, and locates the major sites of rock art.

FRANCIS BACON, by John Russell [N.Y. Graphic Society. $16.50] The author had many conversations with the artist extending over several years. He examines the artist's family and early life and lets the artist speak for himself in order to dispel the image of "Bacon" as a painter of nightmares.

SARGENT WATER-COLORS, by Donelson F. Hoopes. [Watson-Guptill. $17.50] Many critics feel Sargent's watercolors were his greatest achievement. This work has 32 full color reproductions.

BEN SHAHN, edited by John D. Morse. [Praeger—$13.50] This is a biography of the artist, compiled from interviews, lectures, and articles by and about Shahn. Many illustrations are included.

ABSTRACT PAINTING: 50 Years of Accomplishment, from Kandinsky to the Present. Text by Michel Seuphor. [Abrams. $20] In this there are 530 reproductions of which 382 are in full color. It is so well illustrated that it could serve as a directory of abstract painting.

JAPANESE WOODBLOCK PRINTS IN MINIATURE: the Genre of Surimono. [Tuttle. $12.50] This beautifully illustrated book by Kurt Meissner contains 33 color plates and is a collector's item. A surimono is a small, relatively little-known woodblock print of the Tokugawa era. They were produced in smaller numbers and better quality than the ukiyo-e prints as we know them today. The great majority were designed and given in celebration of the New Year.

DISCOVERING OIL PAINTING, by George Cherepov. [Watson-Guptill. $11.95] This text is detailed with step-by-step demonstrations and many fine illustrations.

PAINTING SEASCAPES, by John Raynes. [Watson-Guptill. $10.95] This informative book is quite different from others on how to paint the sea. The artist calls this the "Creative Approach". The first chapter describes all the gear and equipment needed including cases, carrying frames and clothing.

THE ARTIST'S HANDBOOK OF MATERIAL AND TECHNIQUES, by Ralph Mayer. [Viking Press. $12.50] This 1970 revised and expanded edition is so popular it hasn't been on the shelf since it was bought and the waiting list is still long! If you still have your Christmas money, this would be a good investment.

CREATING AND PAINTING IN WATERCOLOR, by Carl Nickel. [Doubleday. $7.95] The artist-author stresses a simplified way of learning and the development of the student's own creativity. There are over 100 demonstrations and over 200 strip-sequence illustrations.

Presidents Game In Loss

Raiders Fight Odds In Tourney Quest

North Quincy's basketball team, fighting big odds in trying to gain another state tourney berth, is two games closer following last week's two wins and Tuesday hosted Somerville in an extremely vital game.

Friday the Raiders are home to Malden and Tuesday will play at Quincy.

Going into Tuesday's Somerville game, North had to win six of its seven remaining games to qualify for the tourney. Despite the odds, Coach Bob Nolan is confident his team can do it.

Last Friday North cut the odds by edging Everett, 73-71, for its second win of the week.

Meanwhile, Quincy, hit hard this year by injuries and illness, succumbed to undefeated Greater Boston League leader Medford, 83-68, at Boston Garden in a preliminary to the Celtics game.

Marty Finnegan's Presidents, refusing to quit despite the many boys out of action, Tuesday played at Revere, Friday plays at Chelsea and hosts North Quincy next Tuesday.

North's co-captains, Jamie Doherty and Ken Marsters, combined for 54 points to spark the win over Everett. Doherty had his best night with 33 points, while Marsters scored 21.

"The scoring of our captains and our entire defensive unit which switched between the diamond plus to a man-to-man alignment, were the reasons for the win," Nolan said. "As I said before, don't count us out, we'll still make the tournament."

Quincy, much smaller than Medford's powerhouse, fell behind, 26-11, in the opening period and Medford never looked back. The Presidents had a fruitful last period as they outscored the Mustangs, 27-14.

Quincy had high hopes at the start of the season before leg injuries sidelined the three top rebounders. Two, Mike Marvelle and Jim McKinnon, are back but are slow in getting back into shape, while 6-5 Bill Kiggen is still out.

"Give our kids plenty of credit, they could easily have quit when the three players were on crutches, but they keep plugging all the time and I'm very proud of them," Finnegan said.

Earlier in the week North got away to a big first half lead and had no trouble topping Chelsea, 78-56.

The Raiders had an 18-9 first period lead and widened it to 40-21 at the half.

Bob Morton had his best offensive game ever as he scored 19 points and excelled on the boards. Doherty had 22 points and Marsters added 12.

Quincy played one of its better games as it topped Malden for the second time, 49-44, thanks to a good night from the foul line and a fine defensive performance.

Quincy hit on 21 of 26 free throws while Malden had 10 for 13. Marvelle, coming along slowly after recovering from a broken ankle and missing most of the season, sank two clutch foul shots in the last seconds to insure the win.

Finnegan hailed the play of Furfari and Reggiannini, and also had good words for Mark MacLeod, Marvelle and McKinnon, the latter returning to full-time action after a knee injury.

Reggiannini and Furfari had 10 points each, MacLeod had nine and McKinnon and Phil Iovanna had eight apiece.

The Presidents' jayvees breezed, 57-20, as Pres Carroll and Mark Dwyer had 10 points each. They improved their record to 7-3.

Eye All-League Meet Win

North Trackmen Take GBL Co-Title

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's winter track team, finishing its best season ever, breezed past undermanned Quincy, 64-22, last week to wind up as co-champion of the Greater Boston League.

Bob Gentry's Raiders posted a 5-1 record to tie Revere, which edged Somerville, 46-40, last week to boast the same record.

"It was a fine season but we now want to win the all-league meet [Saturday at the Medford Cage] and prove we are number one," said a pleased Gentry.

For Tom Hall, Quincy coach, it was the end of a frustrating season. The Presidents started well but the flu and injuries ruined their chances and they finished with a 2-4 mark.

"We had 12 of our boys missing against North including three of our best, Marty Swirko and Mark MacLeod, both undefeated, and Ray Lawyer, beaten only once," Hall said. "I don't want to take anything away from North, because they had a terrific team and I don't think we could have won even at full strength, but we certainly would have scored a lot more points."

Hall explained that North came within a hair of becoming sole league champ as Revere and Somerville nearly tied. A matter of inches kept Somerville from gaining a tie.

At the start of the season Gentry predicted he would have the best relay team in the league and he was right. The Raiders finished undefeated in this event as Lee Watkins, Bob McCormack, Jack Pomerole and Jack Reynolds won against Quincy. "I used juniors in the relay last year and felt sure they would be the best this year," the veteran coach said.

North won all but two events last week and swept three.

Steve Fransoso, Mark Mulvaney and Burt Bray were 1-2-3 in the shot put as Bray suffered his first defeat.

Dick Malloy, Joe Psota and Gary Cunniff swept the 1000 and Reynolds, Fransoso and George Hennesey swept the hurdles.

McCormack won the mile and Bob Crowell was third, Mark Canavan won the 600, Pomerole won the 300 and Paul Doherty took third, Watkins won the dash and Dave Ashmanskas was third.

Canavan and Reynolds tied for second in the high jump, and Art Barrett was third in the two-mile.

Quincy's only winners were Steve Player in the two-mile and John Johnson in the high jump. Actually he and the two North jumpers had the same height but Johnson was declared the winner because of fewer misses.

Steve Nolan was second in the mile, Steve Oriola second in the 300, Dave DiBona second and Arnie Vorrosso third in the 600, Tim Kane third in the two-mile and Johnson third in the dash.

"The most heartening aspect of the meet was that Johnson was the only senior who scored," Hall said. "We had a fine group of sophomores and juniors. Our kids did an excellent job against tough odds with so many missing from our last few meets and everyone put out 100 percent. Now we just have to look toward the spring and hope we stay healthy."

DeIORIO, LYNCH PACE MIDGET B'S

Gary Delorio and Paul Lynch did the goal-scoring at the Quincy Midget "B" team tied Abington, 2-2, Jan. 26 in an Alamo Hockey League game.

Next, Quincy meets Scituate Saturday [Feb. 3] at 9:45 a.m. on Rink Cat Hingham Arena.

Girls Basketball

First Ladies, Raideretters In Fast Start

'Girls' basketball has progressed rapidly at Quincy and North Quincy High schools since being inaugurated a few years ago.

Quincy introduced the sport to the girls during the 1968-69 season when Mary Lou Thimas now coach at Marshfield, led the First Ladies to a 3-2 record.

Gale Palmer took over as coach the following year and has had fine success. The Quincy girls have reached their peak this year and going into this week's games had an 8-0 record and led the Greater Boston League in which they finished second a year ago.

North Quincy started girls' basketball in the 1969-70 season with Margie Bollen as coach. Although not boasting the same success as the Quincy lasses, the Raiderettes have done well.

Barbara Webster took over as coach a year ago, and following a fourth place finish in the GBL, has her girls rolling along with a 6-2 record, including a 5-2 league mark going into this week's games.

Friday afternoon Quincy plays at Chelsea and Malden is at North Quincy, Tuesday Quincy and North play for the second time at the Quincy gym.

"We have our entire squad back this season and the girls have been playing excellent ball," Miss Palmer said. "The only game in which we had any trouble was at Medford and the extreme heat in the Medford gym, I know, hampered us considerably as we nearly lost a big lead."

The veteran varsity squad includes Seniors Debbie Congdon, Cathy Ilacqua, Jean Macchi, Debbie Spillane and Betsy Witt, all three-year players, and Juniors Kathy Bennett, Donna Brickley and Susan Higgins, two-year players.

"We could use a few more inches in height, but the girls' versatility and team work more than make up for this height disadvantage," Gale continued.

The Quincy girls ran their unbeaten streak to eight last week with two wins. They defeated Malden, 49-29, and followed up with a 59-37 win over Medford.

In the Malden game Quincy trailed, 21-19, at halftime but exploded in the last two periods to win with ease.

Miss Congdon and Miss Bennett paced the First Ladies' attack, while Miss Ilacqua also stood out.

Against Medford Miss Congdon scored 25 points, many of her points coming as a result of good passing on fast-break situations. Miss Brickley and Miss Macchni contributed nine points apiece.

The North lasses also added two wins last week. They breezed past Chelsea, 33-13, and trampled Everett, 60-34.

Against Chelsea Debbie Mattson and Dianne Smith had out-standing games, while Leslie Runge and Donna Zenker shone against Everett. Miss Runge and Denise Beregniewitz have sparked the Raiderettes most-of the season.

The North Junior varsity defeated Chelsea, 20-8, sparked by Susan Johnson and Helen Thompson, while it was edged by Everett, 26-20, with Miss Johnson again standing out.

Following wins over Malden, 49-30; Revere, 42-32; and Chelsea, 52-8, the First Ladies pulled away for a 59-38 win over North, giving them a 7-1 record over the Raiderettes in their intra-city rivalry. Quincy then nipped Medford, 34-32, after leading by 17 points, and last Friday ran away from Everett, 47-25.

"We lost Betsy Witt in the first three minutes against North Quincy with a badly sprained ankle, but despite this loss, our girls won with little trouble," Miss Palmer pointed out.

She explained that the scoring is evenly distributed among the squad and said the girls pass the ball well and are aggressive.

"Cathy Ilacqua has the best foul shooting percentage," Gale went on. "At the end of the season the player with the highest free throw percentage is awarded the Coaches Trophy. Cathy won it last year."

Quincy's junior varsity came from behind to squeak by North, 20-18, to remain unbeaten in the series [7-0 for the First Ladies].

Miss Palmer sees Quincy, Revere, Medford and North as the top four in the league and pointed out that Revere, winner over Malden, could again be the spoiler.

The North Quincy girls' only other loss was to Revere, a 48-47 heartbreaker after the Raiderettes had led most of the way. A foul shot with four seconds to go won the game.

North defeated Chelsea, 50-12; Malden, 37-26; Thayer Academy, a non-league foe previously unbeaten, 45-41, and Medford, 41-32.

The North jayvees, like Quincy, have a 3-3 record for the season.

"We ran into foul trouble early against Quincy and were in trouble the rest of the way," Miss Webster said. "Next time [Feb. 6] we promise to give Quincy its best game of the season."

N.Q. Boosters Meet Feb. 7

The North Quincy Boosters Club will meet Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 117 at North Quincy High School. Parents and friends of North Quincy sports are welcome.

ORTHODONTURE FOR ADULTS

According to a prominent Atlanta orthodontist, Dr. Marvin Goldstein, teeth that are crooked, protruding or unduly separated can be improved, even when a person is fully grown.

Dr. Goldstein says, "Protrusion and separation of the front teeth cause more unhappiness to more people than almost any other cosmetic problem. Many young women in their twenties, thirties and forties have had severe protrusion corrected and found new doors opened to them. The improvement culminated in more self confidence and happiness in every occasion and even a wedding or two.

No adult is too old for orthodontic treatment, he says, as long as there is enough bone structure to support the teeth. Irregularities in bite and spacing encourage both decay and gum disease.

One grandmother said this treatment was the most exciting thing that has happened to her in many years and only regretted that she had not had her protruding teeth corrected when she was a "young girl" of 50.

Quincy, North In Win Streaks

Two weeks ago it appeared North Quincy's hockey team was going nowhere in the Greater Boston League but five straight unbeaten games [three wins and two ties] suddenly have thrown the Raiders into contention for a state tourney berth.

Following their three straight wins the Raiders came from behind to tie third place Medford, 3-3, Monday night to run their record to 5-5-4. As ties are considered the same as wins in qualifying for the tourney, they now have an outside chance at making it. Prior to its three wins, North had tied Quincy.

Friday the Raiders play Somerville at 9 p.m. at Boston Arena and Monday, also at 9, they face powerful second place Malden.

Meanwhile, Quincy also had three straight wins and a tie going into Monday's games but Bob Sylvia's Presidents bowed to Malden, 3-1.

Ron Erikson's surprising North team trailed, 3-1, with about three minutes to play Monday but Robbie Henderson converted Ken Graham's pass to score at 8:52 of the last period and Joe Lannan scored a spectacular goal with 1:20 left to tie it. Lannan shot the puck into the top left corner while falling due to the desperation grab of a beaten Mustang defenseman. Mark Hurley and Ken Jago assisted on the play.

North had scored at one minute of the finale on Hurley's goal, with Jago and Lannan assisting, to cut Medford's lead to 2-1.

"These kids have been playing simply fantastic hockey of late and don't count us out of a tourney berth," said an enthused Erikson. In their previous game North had shocked previously unbeaten Revere, 4-2.

Quincy averted a shutout Monday when Al Lancione scored an unassisted goal with about a minute to play.

Condos received honorable mention on the season's first weekly All-East Division II team.

Veterans News

Q - My wife served in the Marine Corps during World War I. She passed away several years ago, but her illness and death had nothing to do with her military service. I hear there is some kind of new law allowing widowers like me to get a VA pension. Is this true?

A - Yes. This is Public Law 92-540. But there is an income limitation for the pension.

Q - My husband was killed in the Army in Vietnam and I would like to enroll in a well known university in Paris, France. Will VA help me do this?

A - Yes. If you are eligible for assistance under the Dependents' Educational Assistance Program, you may now attend approved foreign institutions of higher learning.

Q - My brother is blind from a Vietnam war injury. He's home now but we can't seem to get him interested in living again. Isn't VA doing anything about young men like him?

A - VA recently entered into an agreement with the Blinded Veterans Association for B.V.A. representatives, themselves blind, to augment VA services to blinded veterans.

Q - My husband was totally disabled as the result of an accident while he was in the Air Force. With him and the children to look after, I can't leave home to go to school so I can get a job. Can VA arrange for me to go to school at night or take a correspondence course?

A - Yes. Women in your situation are eligible for education benefits under more liberal rules under the new education law. Please discuss this with the veterans assistance officer at the nearest VA regional office.

Q - As a female veteran going to school full time under the GI Bill, can I claim my husband as a dependent?

A - Yes. Public Law 92-540, signed by the President October 24, 1972, makes educational benefits and all other veteran benefits apply equally to male and female veterans. To take advantage of this benefit, you should apply to the nearest Veterans Administration regional office.

Over 20 Candidates Already Warming Up

8-Ward Plan To Trigger Biggest City Council Fi

By PAUL HAROLD

Quincy's new eight-ward re-alignment is expected to bring out the biggest field of council candidates in the city's recent history.

Although the City Council will not take action on the new ward lines until Feb. 12, more than 20 potential candidates are already twirling their hats for a toss into the political ring.

The historic proposed re-districting unveiled by City Clerk John M. Gillis this week is expected to undergo some change before the plan gets the final go-ahead from the Council.

Gillis warned that the city faces possible court action if it does not change its ward lines on a balanced population basis.

Gillis said the present six-ward set-up is a violation of the "one-man, one-vote principle".

The new eight-wards would become effective for this year's city election meaning the city would have an 11-member council, eight ward, and three at-large.

Currently Quincy has a nine-member council–six ward and three at-large.

The new ward line-up, plus the $3,000 salary recently voted councillors, is expected to bring out the large number of contenders–many of them new political faces.

Political observers also feel that the $25,000 salary voted the mayor will also attract a number of candidates for that office.

"It could be the most eventful political year in the city's history," said one City Hall observer. "There's going to be many, many candidates, you can be sure of that."

The City Council voted Monday night to postpone action on the new ward lines until Feb. 12.

Under the plan presented, many of the city's neighborhoods would be kept together. This would not be possible with only six wards.

The city has been under threat of court order to re-district its wards because the present set up is a violation of the one man one vote principle. For example, Ward 1 with a population of 21,119 elects one councillor while Ward 2 with only 8,861 people also elects one councillor.

The new re-districted wards will be of almost equal size, each with roughly 11,000 people.

Then the new plan was presented to the Council there were no questions, and it is generally believed that the plan will be accepted next week without much trouble.

One area that will definitely be changed before next week's vote, however, involves the precincts in the center of the city: Merrymount, Wollaston Hill, Quincy Center, Merrymount Park and Beechwood Knoll.

The rest of the city is fitted together into neighborhood wards and seems to have taken a definite shape, but these four or five precincts have been more or less left "hanging". One proposal would join Merrymount with the Wollaston Beach area to make up a waterfront district.

RESCUE REWARDED – Eddie Laracy, 13, receives a plaque and a new pair of skates from Jim Triglia of Johnson Motor Parts Co. in recognition of his rescue of a 6-year-old girl who had fallen through the ice on St. Moritz Pond. John Cooney, captain of Eddie's Quincy Youth Hockey Association team, and City Council President Arthur H. Tobin look on. The City Council also awarded Eddie an official city commendation.

'Guess What Eddie Did?'

13-Year Old Hockey Player Honored For Rescuing Girl From Drowning

It might have gone unnoticed if Lori Laracy, 11, hadn't gone home and told her mother:

"Guess what Eddie did?"

What Eddie did was go into St. Moritz Pond near the Shea Skating Rink and pull out Nancy Ruta, 6, of 27 South Junior Terrace, South Quincy, as she was about to drown.

And that's why they honored 13-year-old Eddie Laracy, son of Police Sgt. and Mrs. Richard Laracy of Viden Rd, South Quincy, Monday night at a City Council meeting with a plaque, a new pair of skates, and an official commendation from the city.

The plaque read:

"To Eddie Laracy for your alert and outstanding effort in preventing a tragedy on Jan. 14, 1973, from Johnson Motor Parts Co."

The skates were to replace the pair that he ruined fishing the little girl out of the water.

Eddie was skating with a friend on Jan. 14 and just sat down on the edge of the pond to rest when he heard Nancy fall through the ice and call out for help.

Quickly, he skated the 30 feet to where the girl had gone under. Only her arms were above the surface. He grabbed one of her hands and pulled her out and took her to shore.

There, a man wrapped the little girl in a blanket and took her home and Eddie, thinking nothing of it, went on skating with his friend.

Volunteers Needed To Help At Food Distribution Center

City Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia has issued a call for volunteers to help relieve a serious manpower shortage in the Food Commodity Program, which provides needy families with food supplements once a month.

LaRaia warned that the program, which serves all welfare recipients and others with incomes below certain guidelines, faces the possibility of disruption of services.

The volunteers are needed at the Food Distribution Center, 86 Sumner St., Quincy Point, to fill food orders, stock shelves, carry food bundles and do clerical duties during the five day a month distribution period.

LaRaia Seeks Vote On S. Quincy Station

City Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia has urged the City Council to go on record immediately in opposition to the proposed MBTA station and parking facility in South Quincy.

"Any further delays by the council," said LaRaia, "could be interpreted as a softening of the opposition to the South Quincy station by the City Council."

The Council's Committee on Transportation has before it a resolution, submitted Jan. 15 by LaRaia, which would place the council on record against the station.

LaRaia said he will ask that the resolve be acted upon at the next meeting of the council.

Ecumenical Open House At City Hall Feb. 19

Plans are underway for an ecumenical day of thanksgiving for the end of the war in Vietnam to be held on Washington's Birthday [Feb. 19] in City Hall and, if the weather is right, spilling out into the Square.

Tentative plans also call for a performance by the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and an art exhibit sponsored by the Quincy Art Association.

The Rev. John Graham of historic First Parish Church is expected to be a Protestant representative in the ecumenical services.

Former Mayor Burgin Turns Over Historic Key To Stadium

The "father" of Quincy Municipal Stadium has turned in his key after 35 years.

Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin sent the key to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon in hopes that it will wind up among the momentoes and other trophies connected with the stadium and Quincy athletics.

Burgin noted that the then City Engineer Gerhard F. Schafer, who made the presentation of the key, had commented:

"Now, Mr. Mayor, you can always enter this much needed athletic facility even though the gates are locked."

"I might add," Burgin added, "that I have never abused this privilege."

8-Ward Plan To Trigger Biggest City Council Field

While the ward lines are being completely re-drawn, precinct lines will remain the same and most people will continue to vote at their regular precinct polling places. Under law, the precinct lines could not be re-drawn at this time.

Gillis hopes for Council action as soon as possible so the plan can be sent to the state legislature for approval and become effective for this fall's election. He estimates that it will take six weeks for the legislature to act on the proposal; just in time for the issuance of nomination papers in May.

The re-districting was done by the city clerk and board of registrars and is the first time ward lines have been changed since 1888, the year Quincy became a city.

The plan presented Monday night would divide the city into eight wards as follows:

- New Ward 1 made up of precincts 4, 5, 8 and 9 of the old Ward One. This would include the areas of Adams Shore, Houghs Neck and Germantown.
- New Ward 2, made up of precincts 2, 3, 7 of the old Ward 1 and precincts 1 and 4 from the old Ward 5 composed of Quincy Center, Merrymount, Merrymount Park and Wollaston Hill.
- New Ward 3, made up of precincts 1, 2, 3, 4 of old Ward 2 and precinct 1 of old Ward 3, which is the area around Adams School.
- New Ward 4, made up of precincts 1 and 6 of old Ward 1 and precincts 2, 3, 4 and 5 of old Ward 3, which will join the Hospital-Presidents Hill and Adams St. areas to South Quincy.
- New Ward 5, made up of precincts 1, 2, 3, and 4 of old Ward 4 and precinct 8 from old Ward 5, joining the Forbes Hill area with West Quincy.
- New Ward Six, made up of precincts 2 and 6 of old Ward 5 and precincts 2, 3 and 8 of old Ward 6; Montclair and Wollaston.
- New Ward 7, made up of precincts 3, 5, 7 and 9 of old Ward 5 and precinct 7 of old Ward 6, encompasing the Wollaston Park and Wollaston Beach areas.
- New Ward 8 is made up of precincts 1, 4, 5 and 6 of the old Ward 6; North Quincy, Atlantic and Squantum.

The Council has yet to finalize the eight ward design, but some candidates have already begun their campaigns, not knowing which ward they'll be running from or whether they'll be running against an incumbent or for an open seat.

In the new Ward 1, one half its previous size, observers see three potential candidates from Houghs Neck - Leo Kelly, Robert Denvir and John McNally. William Dwyer of Adams Shore is also being mentioned and incumbent Edward Graham of Germantown has re-affirmed his position to seek re-election.

The new Ward 2 appears to be a hard one to figure right now because this area will be re-arranged before final Council approval is given. As it stands now it will be an open seat, with no incumbent. Being mentioned as candidates from this area are Atty. Matt McDonnell and Geraldine Pleshaw of Merrymount, Atty. Richard Ward and Atty. John McGowan of Quincy Center, and Atty. Warren Powers of Wollaston.

Quincy Point, the new Ward 3, is incumbent Clifford Marshall's district and he has said he will definitely be a candidate for re-election. Seen as possible contenders are James Papile and former Councillor Carl W. Anderson.

The new Ward 4 is set up in such a way that Councillor Ted McLelland's toughest opponent, Peter Gacicia is districted into the neighboring Ward 3, as is Pat DiStefano. Former City Treasurer David Houston and Frank McNally are in the new ward and may consider a bid for ward councillor.

To the chagrin of Councillor Albert Barilaro, his new Ward 5 picks up a Wollaston precinct. Being mentioned as candidates in this ward are John Lydon, the funeral director, and Atty. Tom Hughes.

New Ward 6 is Councillor William Delahunt's ward, but if he runs for council-at-large, as expected, a scramble would develop for the open seat. If the seat does open up, one candidate will be James Vey of Montclair.

The biggest political question mark in the city is the new Ward 7. As it stands now, it is an open seat, with no incumbent. And there are no candidates being mentioned yet.

New Ward 8, Vincent Smyth's ward, is about one half its previous size, but still contains the home precinct of Atty. Dennis Harrington, who is expected to face Smyth in a re-match this year.

AWARD WINNER - Robert A. LeNormand displays his watercolor "Flurries on the Mountain' that won first prize in the Quincy Art Association Juried exhibit at the Thomas Crane Public Library. The Speculation Corps sees Councillor at-large Joseph LaRaia making a bid for Mayor this year. They hear he's already been busy lining up campaign workers as well as financial support.

Another candidate for Mayor in the 1965 primary was James McCormack, former Ward 3 councillor and former state senator.

In a lopsided victory, McIntyre topped the three man field in the primary and in November went on to be elected to his first term as the city's chief executive. LaRaia was runner-up in the primary, with McCormack placing third.

* * *

SPEAKING OF James McCormack, Quincy's other James McCormICK, former school committeeman, may also be a candidate for Mayor this year.

Former vice chairman of the school committee, McCormick was a candidate for Mayor in 1971 and last year ran for the Democratic nomination for Norfolk County Treasurer.

City elections are about eight months off and there reportedly are other candidates for Mayor waiting in the wings.

* * *

IF LaRAIA DOES run, and if Arthur Tobin decides his increased responsibilities in the senate demand his full attention, we may see two vacancies for councillor-at-large.

The vacancies would result in a flurry of candidates, among them a couple of ward councillors who either "want" to move up or "have" to move up because they could have trouble getting re-elected in their single ward.

WILLIAM FLAVIN, soloist at the First Parish Church, will sing the role of Curly in the New England Regional Opera Company's presentation of Carlisle Floyd's "Of Mice and Men".

It will be presented this weekend, Saturday and Sunday at the Loeb Drama Center in Cambridge.

Besides music, one of Flavin's interests is history and he serves as historian for the First Parish Church. He is also a member of the Board of Curators for the Quincy Historical Society.

* * *

Her subject was campaign financing, publicity and issues.

FORMER MAYOR James McIntyre will be the featured speaker today [Thursday] at the MIT Boston Club's luncheon at the Aquarium Restaurant in Boston.

Appropriately enough, he will speak on the problems facing suburban areas.

IN CASE YOU'RE wondering who the artist was who did the painting that hangs in the Elections Department office, it was Elections employee, Irene Herlihy of Houghs Neck.

And another Houghs Neck resident who has his painting displayed in City Hall is William Callahan. Former chairman of the Board of Assessors, Callahan has more than a dozen of his works scattered throughout the offices in City Hall.

THREE GALS from the Tax Collector's office are scheduled to take off this week for a week's vacation in Bermuda: Fran Morrill, Marylow Cahill and Peggy Carloni.

ACROSS THE HALL in the City Clerk's office, Josephine Carnali is busy handling the claims of lottery winners. She's busy everyday, and when the serial number comes out she's "swamped".

HERE'S WHAT WE call a real public servant: Forty-five years ago when the late Charles Ross was President of the City Council, he saved the lives of two women in what was described as "hairbreath rescue".

The women were starting to board the 8:29 train for Boston at the Quincy Adams Station in South Quincy when a Braintree express train came speeding along the track. Ross jumped from the platform in time to drag them from the path of the express train.

THE ECOLOGY MOVEMENT has made its impact on the state legislature. This year all House and Senate bills are printed on 100 per cent recycled paper.

* * *

ONE BILL HEARD in committee last week [H3276] raised a few eyebrows in the State House. The rather unusual proposal would hold all elected officials legally liable for promises made during campaigns.

It is expected that the committee will recommend that the bill ought not to pass. [It'll probably go down unanimously].

- Middle East Peace, Pepsi Style
- War Powers Bill In Making
- Nixon And Forked Tongue

WASHINGTON – Is Pepsi-Cola quietly at work trying to solve the Middle East crisis?

Kendall first suggested to Heykal back in 1971 that he come to Washington for a visit with Kissinger, but Heykal turned down the invitation. Now, we understand, Heykal has expressed interest in meeting Kissinger.

The meeting would be significant. Heykal is known to have the ear of Egypt's President Sadat and could pave the way for a new peace approach in the Middle East.

Kendall, meanwhile, has been able to pull diplomatic strings in Cairo because he is known to be a personal friend of President Nixon. The Egyptian authorities remember that Nixon came to Cairo in 1963 as Kendall's representative pushing Pepsi-Cola.

Avoiding High Noon

Congressional leaders have raised an almighty howl over President Nixon's encroachment on their constitutional authority. We have predicted, however, that the issue would be settled in the backrooms. This prediction already has started to come true.

The settlement of the Vietnam war has increased the President's prestige and has taken some of the steam out of his congressional opposition. He, in turn, has taken Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield aside and has promised to work out a better relationship with Congress.

The President has indicated he will send his top aides, including Henry Kissinger, to give congressional groups regular private briefings. He may also join Congress in supporting, rather than opposing, restrictions on his war-making powers.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott has hinted he would support a war-powers bill. The bill would recognize the President's right to respond to a military emergency. But it would require him to seek a declaration of war from Congress if he wanted to continue military action beyond 30 days.

The White House will take the attitude that the bill isn't aimed against President Nixon but is intended to prevent any future president from conducting undeclared, unlimited wars.

It may be more difficult, however, to settle the great spending battle. President Nixon is still insisting upon his right to impound funds that Congress wants to spend. Congressional leaders claim this violates their constitutional power over the purse.

But this showdown, too, probably will never reach high noon. No issue is too great, if there's any risk of political embarrassment, that politicians of both parties won't settle their differences quietly in the backrooms.

Forked Tongue?

President Nixon in his inaugural address called for more volunteer action and less reliance on the government. Environmental groups had been doing exactly what the President advocated. Yet, astonishingly, the Nixon Administration has been working against citizen participation.

This is documented in an unreleased 600-page government-funded study, which offers the first comprehensive look at volunteer environmental groups around the country.

The trouble is that these groups have brought pressure on the government to crack down harder on industries that have been fouling the environment. Apparently, this wasn't the sort of citizen participation the President had in mind in his inaugural remarks. The 600-page report, therefore, has been kept quiet.

However, we have obtained a bootleg copy. It suggests that government agencies, especially the EPA, are "defaulting on their basic responsibility to aggressively promote citizen participation."

The report cites the frequent complaint of environmental groups that government agencies and private industries cooperate in refusing to release basic information that the volunteers need. Instead, government and industry prefer to swamp the volunteers with information that the report describes as "self-serving."

When useful information is squeezed out of the government, it usually is provided at the last po"ible moment. This is why many environmental groups seem so crisis-oriented. They are unable to act until the last stages of the decision-making process.

Meanwhile, citizen groups are forced to oppose projects until they can evaluate them.

The report also criticizes EPA and other federal agencies for the way they conduct environmental hearings. These hearings often provide the only opportunity for volunteers to participate in environmental decisions. Yet the report charges that hearings usually take place after the basic decisions are made.

The report concludes that despite the many achievements of the volunteers, "we often found a feeling of helplessness...(and) a deep sense of frustration and distrust that extends to the whole governmental process."

Headlines and Footnotes

MURDER UNSOLVED – Almost three years ago, Colette MacDonald and her two children were brutally murdered at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Colette's husband Jeffrey, an Army captain, at first was charged with the murder, but through the efforts of her father, Alfred Kassab, the captain was cleared of all charges. Now, Mr. Kassab is personally pressuring the Justice Department to keep the case open. He tells us that he is sure Justice knows who the real killer is, but is not yet ready to bring charges.

BOY SCOUT SUBSIDY – Troops at Fort Lee, Virginia, were quietly converted into boy scout counselors last summer at taxpayer's expense. Post commander Gen. John McLaughlin ordered dozens of officers and enlisted men of the 96th Civil Affairs batallion to troop up to Camp Brady Saunders in Oilville, Va., to help the boy scouts. The soldiers, we have learned, prepared and served 31,000 meals, built numerous structures and counseled a total of 2,500 boys. The official estimate of costs to the Army: $32,000.

Appreciates Gildea Letter On Water Dept: Employees

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Thank you, Mr. Gildea Sr. for your nice piece in the letter box of the Quincy Sun, commending the timely and efficient service rendered you in your plight with a broken water pipe, by the two employees of the Water Dept.

Having served on the emergency night shift for nearly seven years I understand the predicament you were in. Knowing the two gentlemen in question, I am sure they did a fine job.

Your letter was a far cry from the charges leveled that the Water Dept. workers were a bunch of drunks and that the dept. was a hornets nest. The buzzing around working that we do may have led to the belief that we were hornets. Sometimes when we called the highway men from our truck I used the call Green Hornet to Yellow Jacket. [Our truck was green and their truck is yellow.]

I wonder where the Union Representatives were hiding when these charges were flying around.

Before I finish I would like to state my thought on the reason for so many houses without water meters. When the meters were put in the budget the number of meters requested and the amount received was quite different. You cannot replace a flat tire if you do not have a spare.

As a worker in the Water Dept. for nearly 26 years, I think I have a little knowledge of what has gone on here. Each dept. has a handful of men that have a problem which finally has been diagnosed as a sickness but I could name 20 or more men in this dept. who have worked many days of hard work and many times all thru the night to repair water breaks, pump out flooded cellars etc., and then report at 7:30 the following morning for their usual days work, and this would amount to a 32-hour stretch. I wrote this letter in red ink so it could not be given the so-called white-wash job.

Indiana Newspaper, Professor Seek Comments On McGovern

Readers of Quincy Sun:

The editor of the Muncie [Indiana] Evening Press and I are trying to gather opinions of readers of newspapers in Massachusetts concerning the vote for president in the November, 1972, elections.

We agreed that voters might well have interesting and useful comments on why Massachusetts, alone among the 50 states, cast a majority of votes for Senator McGovern. We thought a collection of ideas at this distant point might lend objectivity to the understanding of a matter which may shed early light on the presidential election of 1976.

Thank you in advance for your ideas. If this letter is printed, it means that your editor thinks the project has a chance of producing useful information.

A 'Thank You' From Bethany Church

Editor, Quincy Sun:

During the past year the Quincy Sun publicized a number of events and services of Bethany Congregational Church which might have interest for the general public and we are most appreciative of this service. The articles in the Sun informed people beyond our own congregation of activities open to them and may have brought wider participation.

In 1972 you reported on our ministers' sermon series based on "The People of the Book", on the Dial-a-Prayer telephone service, our Homecoming Sunday, the special worship services, and the choir festival which involved twelve church choirs. We are grateful for this opportunity to publicize activities to the public.

Thank you!

Mobile home park residents will no longer be at the mercy of park owners if the Massachusetts Legislature passes a bill filed by my Consumer Protection Division. This bill establishes standards for mobile home park operators and provides penalties for any violations.

Due to zoning regulations in certain cities and towns the owner of a trailer must reside in a trailer park. However, a trailer park resident is also a tenant paying monthly rent for a plot of land.

Under present law, park owners may forbid tenants to keep pets, require certain upkeep of the trailer or even designate the utility company tenants must use. In addition, a trailer park owner has the right to evict a tenant at any time, for any reason.

The proposed legislation provides that occupancy may only be terminated for non-payment of rent; substantial violation of any enforceable rule in the park; and violation of any laws protecting the health and safety of other residents. However, the bill gives tenants 15 days to pay any overdue rent or reverse any violations of rules or laws in order to avoid eviction.

The bill requires full disclosure of all terms and conditions of occupancy. Under the measure a park owner may not restrict the prospective or established mobile home owner in choosing a trailer dealer furnishings or seller of fuel.

Many trailer park owners require tenants to pay a fee--up to 35% of the sale price--for the privilege of selling trailers within the trailer park. If tenants refuse to pay the commission, they must remove their trailers from the lot.

Due to the expense and complication of relocating a mobile home, a tenant is almost forced to abide by the park rules. If he refuses, a park owner may evict him.

The bill regulating mobile home parks prohibits charging fees or commissions for the sale of mobile homes. However, if a mobile home owner requests that the park owner sell his home, the park owner may charge a fee not to exceed 10% of the sale price.

VALENTINE'S DAY

Valentine's Day is Designated
As a "special day of love,"
Expressing our innate feelings
For affection: Be it parent,
Spouse, relative, or a
Dear friend; but ...
Cupid outshines them all in Popularity and Demonstration
As "sweethearts", exchange
Tokens of their Love, with Heart-shaped gifts wrapped
With Care and Tenderness.

Brighten and Lighten
Someone's
Heart-beat with cherriness,
Blessed with thoughts of Endearment, as we pay homage
To an Inspiring Message of a Great Martyr, Saint Valentine.

'Our No. 1 Problem....Marriage'

Replying to a woman in a Probate Court who had complained "I'm just not happy in this marriage," the Judge answered her, "Happy! Who's happy?" Was this reply a reflection of his own life...or the conclusion of the evidence he hears all day long in his courtroom? I don't know who counted them, but I am told that 75% of all married people are unhappy. Little is being done to change this condition...as though assuming "this is the way it has to be." I just can't accept that!

Our Number One Problem is the Marriage Dilemma. No longer is it the Viet Nam War...unemployment...inflation...nor even the race question. It's unhappiness in marriage. Many people feel trapped, but unable to get out. Why? Different reasons: "it would kill my parents"...Church rules...financial insecurity...fear of being on one's own. For whatever cause an unhappy marriage is a TRAP.

With continual unhappiness, there follows the awful results of emotional and physical illness...exhaustion...fatigue...loss of sense of manhood/womanhood...loss of life drive...anxiety...depression. Such conditions take their toll. Great unhappiness upsets the social...chemical...organic functioning of the whole personality.

Why can't people be happy in marriage? They can, if...IF they are prepared for marriage. This is the first big IF. Many people aren't prepared...so they bumble along. Like David who grew up in a home where his mother was extremely domineering...told him everything to do...or not to do. His father was silent...turned over his check on Friday nights...drank his beer in the basement. Now at 30...a weak, indecisive man...married to Georgia...both are unhappy because Georgia is looking for him to take his part as a man and no one ever taught or showed him how to do it.

The second IF...if they are personally mature and secure. Persons cannot be the possession of another person. "My husband"..."my wife"...must not mean you own that person as you own your dog...to do your bidding...respond to your commands...provide emotional security for you. There must be maturity in each person which provides sufficient security that you don't have to cling to the partner for survival. This crushes love. Love thrives not by being throttled...but in freedom.

The third IF...if two people want to be together...want to because they like each other...like to do things together...like to talk together. COMPANIONSHIP AS EQUALS...that's the key. If you feel forced to be together...if you feel trapped...it's probable that you're both unhappy in the marriage.

"What can I do about my unhappy dilemma?" It's almost impossible to analyze and counsel oneself successfully. It's wise to seek a good counselor...a competent person who's had enough trouble himself/herself to feel what you feel...and enough successful experience in counseling others to understand and lead you out of your unhappy dilemma.

Or go to a marriage therapy group. More and more people are getting help in the group with a capable leader to guide. We see weekly how happiness is being restored...support felt for new decisions and new courses of action. If for others...why not for you?

"Happy! Who's Happy?" Maybe you can be...if you decide to do something about it.

The association went on record as "vehemently opposed" to 100 per cent revaluation and announced plans for a house-to-house drive for signatures on a petition in opposition to the proposal.

The meeting heard a letter from Ward 1 Councillor Edward Graham read requesting that it join other city groups in opposing revaluation.

The association also heard a report from Senator Arthur Tobin [D-Quincy] on the status of a much-requested study of traffic in the Merrymount neighborhoods. Tobin said his office is giving the matter top priority.

Rep. Tom Brownell [D-Quincy] discussed his efforts in behalf of the repair and replacement of worn-out water pipes in the section, the removal of broken, uncovered pipes on Chickatabot Beach and rats in the swamp.

The group also approved a donation to Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in appreciation for the use of the hall.

'The Amnesty Question'

By JIM McCARTHY

Now that there is peace in Southeast Asia [more or less], a subject long in controversy has suddenly become a reality, pending immediate consideration.

Should we grant amnesty to those who have evaded the draft due to strong moral conviction? After careful, extensive consideration from all sides of this issue, I conclude that I must agree with Senator Kennedy's belief in non-conditional amnesty.

It seems to be that the actual issue in question, is should we punish anyone in any way for standing up for what they believe? After all, such an act would serve to stifle the very principles on which this nation was built. Besides, by temporarily moving to Canada, to immunize themselves from United States' laws, these draft evaders have stood by their moral convictions without causing any harm to anyone and without making any real trouble for the "system". They've taken a peaceful alternative to conceding their beliefs, so I fail to see how they've wronged and deserve punishment.

Certainly our founding fathers took far more violent action against the "evil" which they opposed. Perhaps it's that the beliefs of the draft evaders are wrong; but I refuse to acknowledge that anyone has the right to decide that.

It's been suggested and contended by many that the harm lies in the inequity of the matter. These people feel that it is unfair to those who have made the sacrifice and served in the military, to allow exemption of obligation to a few who have refused to make this sacrifice. These people who feel that way fail to realize however, that others have avoided the armed forces for reasons such as college or job obligations, and nor have they made the sacrifice which the veterans chose to make.

Should we also hold them responsible to this supposed obligation which they have not fulfilled? Fairness must be applied to all if it's applied to any; otherwise, the rationality is blatently contradicted.

Besides, let us consider for a moment which is the more noble, to begin with. To avoid the military because you happen to be wealthy enough to afford college, or because you truly believe that one can never be justified in killing a fellow human being, and that filing as a conscientous objector is a non acceptable compromise of your values? The latter requires considerably more courage and in a way, sacrifice; the kind of courage of conviction our fore fathers seemed to possess.

Though none of us have any authority whatsoever to judge or pass sentence upon an individual strictly for their belief, man has always seemed to exercise the privilege throughout the ages. If I may, I wish to conclude this article with an analogy which I feel applies.

There was once a renowned philosopher and teacher, who was of peasant birth, whose teachings and beliefs were in extreme opposition to those of the existing government. Regardless, he peacefully traveled about, telling the people of a better life. His teachings were not of revolution, or doing any sort of harm; in fact, they were quite the contrary. Despite this fact however, the government still resented him and he was convicted of no more than teaching the peculiar philosophy of love and peace.

Perhaps you're one of those who believe that his defiance of the law and authority, no matter how peaceful it was, can justify his being hung on a cross. In a manner of speaking we still seem to feel justified in giving people their cross to bear, even today.

'Disease' Spreading

Proposed New High School Touches Off Epidemic Of 'Tightwaditis'

By PAUL GOSLIN

There are a myriad of diseases from common childhood maladies to rare curses.

Great biologists have spent years isolating these diseases and finding cures for them. Any lucky and skillful biologist has a chance to win a Nobel Prize and a lot of money.

Not to say that these dedicated men are mercenary but a little dough can be of great help to a starving lab specialist.

Most of the great comedians campaign to wipe out these diseases. They hold telethons during which anyone who is important to show business comes on and asks for money to aid research on the disease. This is gratifying to their hearts and also helpful to their ratings which usually jump 10 points after one of these appearances. All those affectionate disease fans have a way of thanking the stars.

I would like to campaign for one obscure and oft-ignored disease. That is "TIGHTWADITIS!"

It seems that Tightwaditis, or T.W.S., has been spreading fast in Quincy. It is characterized by a severe aversion to spending money on important projects such as the new North Quincy High School, a callous ignorance of pressing needs particularly the space needs at North, and an apathetic attitude toward any initiative action to relieve the problems.

T.W.S. has reached epidemic proportions within the Quincy City Council.

Biologists and chemists are beginning to theorize where it comes from. They have found that most of those afflicted with the disease live outside the North Quincy area, although there has been one exception. The exception is a certain Ward 5 councillor who exhibited symptoms of the disease while commenting to a local newspaper. He displayed extremely tight fists toward the new N.Q.H.S. which led doctors to believe that he had been affected.

Blood tests run on sufferers of T.W.S. have shown great amounts of Quincy Taxpayers' Revolt rhetoric in the blood. Since the findings are common to all those afflicted the doctors have theorized that the rhetoric is part of a bacteria causing the disease.

Specific symptoms other than those directed at the new school are hard to pinpoint. Sick councillors don't appear much different than normal. They still exhibit signs of excessive cheapness which is common to them whether or not they are ill.

They use common characteristic language such as "austerity programs, full assessments" and the like. These are not much different than normal. The one distinctive symptom is that the councillors become violent at the mention of a new North Quincy High School.

If one even mentions the new school the councillors will become very defensive and then launch into lengthy explanations of budgets and priorities and why they are an excuse for putting off a new school.

Exchange Student From Brazil Finds Pace In U.S. 'Much Faster'

By MARY BUCKLEY

In past years it has been customary for North Quincy High School to participate in a student exchange program. The 1972-73 school year is no exception.

There are two foreign exchange students at North this year; one male and one female.

Lucia Muniz de Souza is a 16-year-old from Sao Paulo, Brazil. She came to the United States by way of the International Fellowship Exchange Program. The Fellowship Program asks different countries to send names of worthy foreign students to New York, where they are distributed to schools throughout the country.

The first step that schools then must take is to find a home where the student will be welcome. Lucia has found such a place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bylaska of 8 Berlin St., Wollaston. The Bylaska family also housed an exchange student from Columbia last year.

Since arriving in Quincy Dec. 19, Lucia has progressed well in her studies as a 12th grader at North. She speaks French and Spanish, and fluent English, as well as her native Portugese.

Her course of studies at North includes Legal Education,

LUCIA MUNIZ de SOUZA

College Math IV, French IV, English, and Anthropology. When asked her general opinion of Americans, Lucia said that we move much faster in the United States. We are always in a hurry and always have someplace to go and something to do.

She enjoys attending North, and commented that school life is much stricter in Brazil. Lucia also stated that teachers here do not treat students as their inferiors as they do in Brazil.

Lucia will graduate with the senior class in Veteran's Memorial Stadium in June, and will then return to Brazil, where she has yet to complete one more year of study.

All Church Committees To Meet At Wollaston Congregational Feb. 13

Recently installed officers of Wollaston Congregational Church will hold their first All Church Committees meeting Feb. 1 at 7:30 p.m.

Special commendation was made to retiring officers for their "sterling efforts" of the past year as portfolios were turned over to the new officers Jan. 28.

Rev. Lloyd F. Martin, minister, said the church "looks forward to a new year of opportunity".

He noted the past year was one highlighted by two major events: the publication of Edward B. Whittredge's cantata, "The 91st Psalm".

Opening the church for a unique service to the community by joining forces with the Medfield State Hospital to establish the Quincy Community Care Center.

The new officers of the church are:

Richard S. Kelsay, Church School Superintendent; Miss Carole A. King, clerk; Donald T. Dixon, assistant clerk; E. Herbert Elliott, historian; William B. Riddell, Institutional representative, B.S.A.; Mrs. Rudolph Lofgren, Mrs. Charles A. Collins, Protestant Social Service Bureau.

Robert B. Olson, collector; Arthur L. Brackett, treasurer; Henry W. Gray, moderator; Mrs. Lloyd F. Martin, Miss Deborah Carlson, altar committee; Miss Kathleen Hughes, Christian Education committee; Lawrence S. Carter, Frank C. Wiot, Deacons.

Miss Rachel Allbee, Mrs. Ralph Brown, Mrs. Foster Cleveland, Mrs. Woodworth Jenkins, Mrs. Walter Lee, flower committee; Mrs. Wallis Bean, Miss Carolyn Gray, music committee; Miss Rachell Allbee, Mrs. William Longridge, nominating committee; Mrs. Howard Willard, mission action committee; Ralph Brown, Charles Collins, Mrs. Richard Hawkes, Henry Gray, trustees.

'Tightwaditis' Over N.Q. High Spreads

They're fever skyrockets until the veins pop out in their face. They will often continue for hours and hours on this subject with their veins flashing a deep blue and their eyes bulging out of their heads.

But the symptoms don't only harm the councillors. The outward cheapness has stifled the new high school and indirectly affected the educations of 2,400 students. While our precious education and the facility which we learn in slowly deteriorate, the disease runs rampant. At this rate the disease will soon make it up there with those biggies that I mentioned earlier.

Doctors think that they're on to a cure. Based on the idea that it appears to be a blood disease they believe that the councillors need a shot in the arm. They're feverishly working on this as a long term cure.

The experts believe that a concoction mixing a public outcry for a new high school along with an exhibit of what the realities of life are at N.Q.H.S. should do the trick.

They will need hundreds of people to initiate the outcry. The School Department can donate the exhibit of the school life.

Please, let's stop this dreaded disease before it does any more damage. Donate a demand for a new high school to the cause.

Now, I wonder if Jerry Lewis is busy...

Anthropology Selected By Over 50% Of Students

By JACKIE BANGS

In 1967, with the cooperation of the Anthropology Curriculum Study Project, North Quincy High first offered Anthropology as one of its senior electives.

In the following years to date, more than 50% of the seniors at NQH have elected this course. North Quincy High is one of the few high schools in the state and across the country that offers Anthropology.

The goal of this course is to help the student gain deeper understanding of himself, of his own human nature, thereby enabling him to relate with comfort and hopefully a degree of empathy to a heterogeneous nation and world. An understanding of one's self is certainly a prerequisite to understanding others.

The course is unique in that it is presented from interdisciplinary points of view. The study of man involves both cultural and physical aspects and the students who elect this course study each aspect for half the year.

Under the instruction of Marjorie Bollen, a science teacher, students explore the physical aspects of Anthropology, evolution, genetics and human variation.

Bernard LaCourture, social studies teacher, instructs students to the cultural aspects, Archeology, linguistics and the development of culture.

Once a week, however, the classes are brought together to intergrate the two aspects. The material is presented in a variety of ways. Films, guest-speakers, bone-labs, group discussion and field trips form an integral part of the course.

The course also includes a three-day - live-in at Plymouth Plantation for those brave students who agree to simulate Pilgrim life under primitive conditions. Have you ever tried to wash dishes with sand or ground corn for your supper?

The success of this course is evident in the steady enrollment of the NQH seniors, yet there can be individual success within the larger one.

By looking out at the life of people, familiar or strange, a student can come to sense his own uniqueness and by looking "outward" the student is better able to see "within".

Federal Cutbacks Slow Programs

By PUTNAM S. BORDEN
Executive Director
Quincy Council On Aging

Many years ago, when you, the seniors of our community were young, a definition of the role which the federal government would play in our lives began to take shape.

It was a definition born of a depression era necessity. It was based upon the inability of state and local government, private charities and the business community to effectively deal with the social and economics needs of the nation.

From those bitter years, the definition of the federal role evolved. That role was, essentially, "where great needs exist which cannot be satisfied at the local level, it then become the responsibility of the federal government to make appropriate provisions."

It cannot be denied that the manner in which these needs were handled was not always the most efficient or effective. However, we only need think back to those years past to recognize that, despite the imperfections of the system, necessary services by the federal government were made available.

For the elderly, it meant retirement benefits, medical assistance, subsidized housing, both public and private, education programs, recreational activities and a host of other services designed to provide a better life.

I had hoped, in this column, to outline some of the programs we might consider for the future - programs such as:

Home care for the disabled which would permit the elderly to continue to function, with supportive service, at home.

Expanded nutritional endeavors such as meals on wheels.

Programs in which the senior citizens of our community might render valuable assistance to the educational process and others which, through use of federal funds, the elderly residents of Quincy might be returned to the mainstream of community life. I had hoped to, but ....

In presenting his budget, our President, has, in essence, returned us to the "good old days" of 50 years ago, as regards human services. And, what is particularly disturbing, he has taken dead aim at programs designed to directly benefit the elderly.

He has, by implication identified the senior population with the supposed "welfare cheats", the "looking for a handouts" and all the other scapegoats used to justify reducing federal involvement in providing financial assistance.

Senior citizens are not cheats. They are not looking for a handout. They only ask for what is due a population which has made our country great; dignity, self respect and a decent standard of living.

Now, must we stand around, wringing our hands and bemoaning our fate? Absolutely not! There are many in our community who need assistance and while we may be limited in providing for needs requiring financial resources, we can certainly address ourselves to the problems of loneliness, isolation, and lack of meaningful activity.

We can, by volunteering time and effort, develop people programs which will be every bit as valuable as financial programs.

Through more effective use of our community resources, senior citizens clubs, service organizations, and municipal functions such as the Council on Aging and the Recreation Department, we can identify needs and develop approaches which through minimal financing and maximum volunteer effort, can provide for these needs.

Duggan Brothers Donate Station Wagon For Vital Senior Citizen Transportation

"Transportation," says Mayor Walter J. Hannon, "can be a serious problem for many senior citizens."

Those on fixed incomes, the ill and physically disabled and the many who no longer drive automobiles can be faced with real difficulties when it becomes necessary to travel beyond their immediate neighborhoods.

Through the courtesy of Duggan Brothers North Quincy Garage, an additional vehicle has been made available to the city's Council on Aging.

This new Chevrolet station wagon will be used to broaden the Council's existing transportation program and will be operated by Senior Corps participants, themselves senior citizens of the community.

With two vehicles on the road, the Council on Aging will be able to increase substantially its service to the elderly of the community who need assistance in getting to doctors, dentists, hospitals, therapy treatments, etc.

It will also permit the Council to assist older residents who are eligible to participate in the federal surplus food commodities program.

"We certainly want to thank the Duggan's, Frank, Ambrose and Jim for their concern for our senior citizens," said Putnam S. Borden, executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging. "We know this will be appreciated throughout the city."

"It has direct application in cases involving any crimes committed by use of the telephone such as bomb threats, obscene telephone calls, kidnapping, extortion and organized crime types of cases.

"The preparation of this material was done by Chief Daniel F. McCarthy and Sgt. John P. Gaudet of the Foxboro Police Department. They were assisted by Asst. Dist. Attorney Robert B. Russell of my office."

NOTICE

FUTURE FENNO HOUSE RESIDENTS

In reply to the inquiries I have received, and for the information of those who might think of calling to ask the Building and Construction Trades Unions, "Why is it taking such a long time to build the Fenno House Elderly Housing on Hancock Street in Quincy?", the answer is – I don't know.

The Fenno House is being built by non-union construction workers from outside the area in which we have jurisdiction. I understand that the prevailing community wage rates were first posted, then removed, and now are not being paid, for this job.

In conversations, prior to the start of construction, with the Rev. Frank Bauer, minister of the Lutheran Church which sponsors Fenno House, he informed me that a negotiated contract with another contractor (who was in contractural agreement with construction unions) was terminated and the job was given to the present builder (who was not and is not in contractural agreement with construction unions) because, the Rev. Bauer said, "it was at a cheaper price." This would seem reasonable, except that at that time it was not known by me that the prevailing community wage rates were not to be paid. In any event I hope the savings, if any, are passed on to the residents of Fenno House.

Incidentally, the contractor who first negotiated the contract for the Fenno House and lost it to the present builder, started construction of an elderly housing complex in the same area – exact same type of construction with about 25% more units than Fenno House. This construction was started five months after Fenno House started and even though ledge (rock) was encountered and had to be blasted, senior citizen residents have already moved into this complex and have occupied their apartments since as early as December 1, 1972. Now I wonder, was there really a savings? Maybe the savings was in money, but I believe it was certainly not in the long time Fenno House residents have been waiting for an apartment.

Union construction workers have been accused of many things – rightly or wrongly, but let not the exceptionally long time to construct Fenno House be one of them.

I hope this notice is taken in the manner for which it is intended, which is – with malice toward none and information for all!

SOME GOOD NEWS TOO

"If you are a born worrier, you were born at the right time", a cynic might say in speaking of modern times. But whatever anyone may think of world or economic conditions in this decade, it has also brought us some good news in the health front. Especially in the research area of preventing deadly disease.

For example, medical research has paid off recently in the development of a drug that lowers fat levels in the blood of sufferers with coronary heart disease. Although the drug, clofibrate, did not affect the death rate from heart attacks, it reduced the non-fatal heart attack rate by more than two-thirds in a study of more than 3,000 individuals.

According to the American Heart Association, there are an estimated one and a quarter million cases of heart attacks annually. Life insurance statistics indicate that heart disease is, in fact, the most frequent cause of death today.

North Third, Quincy Low In GBL All-League Meet

The absence of one runner and the weakened condition of another resulted in North Quincy's track team suffering its first loss of the year in the relay and a third place finish in last week's Greater Boston League all-league meet.

Bob Gentry's Raiders, league co-champion with Revere with a 5-1 record, scored 31 points to finish behind Somerville with 34 points and Revere with 33.

Lee Watkins, one of the stars of the previously undefeated relay team, missed the event when he was injured during the 50-yard dash. This, incidentally, also prevented a possible win for him in the dash after he had run away with his trial heat with a brilliant effort.

Bob McCormack, another relay standout, was slowed down after a week's bout with the flu, although he did win his specialty, the 1000.

North's winners were Jack Reynolds in the 300 and McCormack in the 1000.

Burt Bray, with his best effort of the year, 45 feet, 2 inches, led in the shot put until the final throw of the day when he was nipped by a Somerville entry. Steve Fransoso gave North a fourth in this event.

Watkins, after his great trial heat, had to be satisfied with third place in the finals after injuring his foot. Mark Canavan placed third in the 600 and the relay team finished second.

"This was the most evenly-matched league we were ever in and the competition was tremendous," Gentry said. "We really wanted to win the all-league meet to prove we were the best and I think we would have if Watkins wasn't injured and McCormack was at top speed."

Gentry has entered Reynolds in the 300 and high jump, McCormack in the 1000 and Canavan in the 600 in this weekend's state trials.

Quincy, with only a few entries due to injuries and illnesses which ruined its season, scored only three points in the all-league meet as John Johnson took fourth in the high jump and Art DiLoreto placed fifth in the same event.

Johnson finished third in the hurdles but was missed by the judges. "He was in the far lane and they just missed seeing him," Coach Tom Hall said. "The other coaches there agreed he was third but there was nothing we could do. I felt bad for him."

Due to his many sidelined performers, Hall has decided against entering anyone in the state trials. "We will just look forward to the spring now," he said.

● Junior High Spotlight

Atlantic-North Downs Central

Warren Jordan, burdened with four early fouls, came off the bench to sink two quick baskets in the fourth period and send the Atlantic-North ninth grade basketball team on to a 43-37 victory over Central Junior High last Thursday.

Jordan and Mike Kelly each had 12 points for Atlantic-North which was winning its eighth straight game without a defeat. Jack Hatfield had 10 and Paul Kelleher seven points for Central.

Atlantic-North's Tuesday [Jan. 30] game with Sterling Junior High had to be postponed when the Atlantic-North bus broke down.

In other ninth grade action:

Dwight Anderson and Mike Carloni combined to score 22 points in leading Point Junior High to a 28-19 victory over Broad Meadows on the strength of a big 10-point third period.

Anderson had 14 points and Carloni eight while Kevin Donovan was high for Broad Meadows with eight.

Carloni and Anderson were also the big guns Thursday as Point whipped Sterling, 41-31, despite a 14 point performance by Sterling's James Duggan.

Carloni had 11 points and Anderson 10 for Point. Eric Carrea and Anthony Cedrone each had seven for Sterling.

On the eighth grade scene:

Broad Meadows held Point to only four points in the second half in walking off with a 22-9 win. Jack Uhlar had seven points for the winners and Peter DiSalvio had four for Point.

House Passes Bill To Give QYHA Rink Access

Rep. Clifford H. Marshall [D-Quincy] announces the House of Representatives has passed a bill filed by Quincy legislators authorizing the Board of Regional Community Colleges to grant an easement to the QuincyYouth Hockey Association Inc. to provide an access way to their new skating facility under construction behind Dutton's Restaurant.

There was no opposition. The bill will now go to the Senate where it is expected to pass with no opposition.

Marshall has asked Senate Counsel James R. McIntyre, and Senator Arthur H. Tobin to have the Senate attach an emergency preamble to the bill. This would mean that when it comes back to the House and Senate for enactment, the bill will become law as soon as the Governor signs it in lieu of waiting the normal 90-day period.

The Board of Regional Community Colleges supported this legislation.

What'll Quincy, North Do For Encore?

The Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams clash for the third and last time Friday at 9 p.m. at Boston Arena and the question is, 'what will they do for an encore?'

Ron Erikson's North team, thanks to a six-game unbeaten streak [three wins and three ties] kept its state tourney hopes alive until Monday when it bowed for the third time to Malden, 4-0, thus knocking the Raiders out of any tourney possibility. In the three Malden games North was outscored, 16-0, as the Golden Tornado won by 7-0, 5-0 and 4-0 scores.

Meanwhile, also on Monday, Bob Sylvia's Quincy sextet, having one of its most frustrating seasons, dropped a 4-1 decision to Medford.

Ted Wiedemann, super sophomore, one of the few bright spots in the Quincy picture this year, scored the lone Quincy goal with Jim Starkey and Russ Corners assisting.

Despite being eliminated from tourney contention, Erikson was high in his praise for his team. "These kids did a fantastic job after a bad start and it is to their credit they remained in tourney contention so long," he said. "Early losses to Chelsea and Somerville came back to haunt us."

Next Monday North faces Chelsea at 9 and Quincy meets Everett at 9:20 at the Arena.

Last Friday North had to hustle for a 1-1 tie with Somerville which kept its tourney hopes flickering, and ran its unbeaten streak to six.

Underdog Somerville took the lead in the second period but Jim Mullaney saved the night and tied the count with a 15-foot wrist shot.

Quincy tried to emulate North and shock league leading Revere but lost, 4-2, after taking a 2-1 lead into the final period.

Al Lancione scored at 8:59 of the second period and Ted Wiedemann at 11:41 for the 2-1 lead but Revere's Pete Ventola scored his second goal to tie it up and the winner was scored by Tom Guarino, one of the top scorers in the league.

Quincy Gym Team Shows Steady Progress

For many years, while rival North Quincy was excelling under Coach George Golding, Quincy had no gymnastics whatever. The sport was introduced on an informal basis a few years ago. Under the tutelage of Peter Gallagher, things have progressed rapidly until the team, despite a losing record, is proving no pushover for anyone in the strong Suburban League.

A year ago Gallagher had only six boys on his team and the Presidents' first formal team had a 2-6 record but some of the boys turned in excellent individual performances.

"This year I had about 30 boys turn out and we are operating with 16 regular performers," Gallagher said. "We have shown great improvement despite a poor won-lost record. We are in one of the strongest leagues in the state and all other schools have had gym teams for years. Their experience is proving too much for our boys, but we have been beaten badly only once, by North Quincy, which has another outstanding team."

Going into this week's meets Quincy had only one win, a non-league decision over Bridgewater-Raynham.

Despite losing all five league meets, the Presidents were in every meet except that with North Quincy, won by the powerful Raiders, 83.8-64.1, as they won every event.

Priscella has been the outstanding Quincy performer all year and has won or at least scored in four or five events in every meet. He is the team's high scorer.

Campbell has come along well and has scored well in every meet, being the top scorer in the most recent meet, an 84.9-72.2 loss to Weymouth South.

Campbell scored 19.9 points to Priscella's 15.4 and Tom McMahon's 13.7.

"We have received some very heartening performances," Gallagher said. "I'm please with our showings in the league, considering the other teams' far greater experience. Priscella has been truly outstanding and Campbell has also done very well.

"Toy, Bob Gordon and Tom Mahon have been scoring consistently and I was pleased with some of the performances of Durante and Moran. This is the first year for Durante while Moran was out for all season with an ankle injury until two weeks ago and he is coming along. He was the number two scorer last year."

In the North Quincy meet North's Dave Merrill won five of the six events while Dave Sullivan won the other for John Oliva's team.

Oliva, assistant last year, took over for Golding, who resigned to devote fulltime to his administrative duties. The Raiders swept two events. Priscella was the high scorer for Quincy.

Junior-Frosh Icemen Win 4th Straight

The Quincy Junior High-Freshman hockey team appears headed for another first place finish in the Greater Boston Freshman League and takes a 4-0 record into Friday night's game against Chelsea at the new Revere rink.

A year ago the Young Presidents finished on top of the league with a 6-0 record but bowed to Medford in the playoff finals for an overall 7-1 mark.

Last Friday Ken Hayes' Quincy team avenged that defeat by edging second place Medford, 4-3.

Quincy had a 4-1 lead but barely escaped as Medford scored two late goals.

Capt. Frank Guest and Jack Powers scored two goals apiece. Both of Guest's were unassisted. Brian Bertoni, a seventh grader, and Paul Gustafson assisted on Powers' first goal, while Guest and young Bertoni had assists on his second.

Earlier in the week Quincy took a wild 8-7 decision over Revere as Hayes used every one of his 17 players. He had used 15 against Medford.

"We had a 7-2 lead and I used four lines," Hayes said. "Revere came to life and we had all we could do to pull out the win."

Guest scored three times and Powers again had two goals with Powers scoring what proved to be the winner. This was an unassisted goal.

Guest opened the scoring with Nick Cyr assisting, Powers scored the second goal, converting passes from Brian Bertoni and Gustafson; Bertoni scored the next with Powers assisting, Guest scored his second and third goals, Tony Mitchell setting up the second and the third being unassisted; Gustafson added an unassisted goal, Mark Giordini converted a pass from Bill Hammil and Powers scored the winner.

The league was scheduled to end regulation play on Jan. 31 with the playoffs starting Feb. 2 but due to the late opening of the new Revere rink, everything was pushed back. The final games of the regular season are now scheduled for Feb. 21 with the playoffs getting underway Feb. 23. Quincy plays Malden on the 16th and finishes up against Everett on the 21st.

When you plug in a place like Schaefer Stadium, it's a whole lot different than flipping on the family television set. It takes a powerful lot of energy.

That's enough to run all the lights, refrigerators, ranges, washers, dryers and other appliances in 360 homes for a whole year!

New construction like this will mean new additions for us, too, if we are to provide the kind of facilities it will take to meet these growing demands and satisfy our mutual environmental concerns. Like we say, it's a whole new ball game... and it will take teamwork to win it.

Raiders Close In On State Tourney

Two weeks ago North Quincy's basketball team was faced with the job of winning eight of its remaining nine games to qualify for the state tournament again.

Bob Nolan's Raiders cut that difficult chore in half and going into Tuesday's game with Quincy, had to win four of five to qualify.

North will host Revere Friday, rest until Friday, Feb. 16, when it faces Medford's unbeaten Greater Boston League leaders, then finishes up against Brookline and Weymouth North in non-league games.

Meanwhile, Marty Finnegans's Quincy team, fighting against tremendous odds with many injuries and illnesses, keeps plugging away and would have liked nothing better than to knock off North Tuesday. The Presidents play at Somerville Friday.

North kept its hopes alive last Friday when the defense came to the fore to spark a 72-56 win over Malden. This ran its record to 8-4 [7-4 in the GBL].

The aggressive Raiders forced Malden into 36 turnovers, most in the second half, to pull away after a close first half [North led, 30-26, at halftime].

North had a bad shooting night with only 28 of 70 from the floor, but the defense was superb.

"This had to be called a defensive win," Nolan said. "When the offense lets you down, it has to be the defense that salvages the win and that is what happened tonight."

Offensively, Jamie Doherty was again the big gun with 28 points. John Stevens had 16 points, Bobby Morton 10 and Ken Marsters eight. Morton, Doherty and Stevens dominated the boards and Marsters was instrumental in team leadership.

Quincy, which refuses to quit despite the odds, turned in what Finnegan called "our best team effort of the year both offensively and defensively," and toppled Chelsea, 76-57. This raised the Presidents' record to 4-9 overall and 4-7 in the GBL.

Quincy displayed a well-balanced attack which saw John Reggiannini again leading the way with 20 points, Mark MacLeod having 16, Ken Furfari 12 and Mike Marvelle 11.

"This is the balance we had been aiming for all year," said a happy Finnegan.

Earlier in the week North took a giant step toward tourney qualification with a 64-51 win over perennial league power-house Somerville, avenging an earlier one-point setback.

"Our diamond press again worked well," said Nolan, who uses this as his first line of defense. "When [Gary] Foster, their 6-8 giant, went out with an ankle sprain, we were able to switch to a man-to-man defense but the diamond press still did it for us."

Doherty again led the offense with 22 points, followed by Marsters with 15 and Morton with 10, while Doherty and Marsters sparked the rebounding.

A nightmarish second period cost Quincy against Revere, which out-scored the Presidents, 21-4, in that quarter and went on to win, 66-52.

ENC Wins 5th In Row

Despite a rather disappointing season, the Eastern Nazarene College basketball team still has hopes of gaining another NAIA playoff berth and took two big steps in this direction last weekend.

After losing three games in a row by a total of only five points, the Crusaders have won five in a row to improve their record to 11-7.

Wins over King's and Nyack last Friday and Saturday gave ENC a 4-1 Seaboard Conference record, which is the key to another NAIA tourney.

The previous night they posted a "must" win over King's, 95-76, as North Quincy's Ron Bradley had another fantastic night with 32 points and 18 assists. Dave Eads had 19 points, Quincy's Rick Reyenger had 15 points, 13 rebounds and many blocked shots, and Steve Shoff of North Quincy, 13 points.

ENC started the five-game win streak with a 97-52 breeze over Nasson, followed with a 73-71 squeaker over Southeastern Massachusetts and pounded St. Joseph's of Maine, 101-72.

Bradley is averaging 23 points a game and is also averaging eight assists a game. Reyenger, 6-7 center, tops the rebounders with 13 a game.

Tonight [Thursday] ENC plays at Southeastern Mass and then rests until Feb. 16 when it plays Nyack in New York.

Girls Basketball

Quincy, North In Title Contention

The Quincy and North Quincy girls' basketball teams met for the second time Tuesday and the outcome may have been more important than it appeared.

Gale Palmer's Quincy lasses took a 9-0 Greater Boston League record into the game while Barbara Webster's North girls were 6-2 in the league [8-2 overall].

However, if a protest by North of its 48-47 loss to Revere is upheld [an incident during the final seconds of that game prompted the protest], North's record would be 7-1, making a Quincy win a "must" as far as the league championship is concerned.

In their first meeting the First Ladies had little trouble topping the Raiderettes, 59-38. However, Miss Webster, whose team has won six straight since the two losses, promised a far closer game the second time around.

Next Tuesday was scheduled as an open date for both teams but each will play off a postponed game. North will host Everett in a game postponed early in the season and Quincy will play at Chelsea in a game postponed last Friday.

Quincy and North are 1-2 in the GBL with Medford just behind North. A year ago Miss Webster's first North team tied for second place with a 6-4 record and Quincy was fourth with a 5-5 mark.

Last Friday North Quincy rolled over Malden, 56-33, as Leslie Runge scored 21 points and Denise Bereszniewicz had 18.

North's junior varsity squeezed by Malden, 15-13, to make its record 4-4, with Cheryl Walsh scoring six points.

Earlier in the week the Raiderettes, trailing by 15 points at the half, exploded for 31 points in the second half to top Thayer Academy for the second time, 43-39, in a non-league game. North is the only team to defeat Thayer.

Miss Bereszniewicz had 20 points and Miss Runge nine.

On the same day Quincy had its toughest game of the year as it trailed by 12 at the half but rebounded for 37 second half points and a 47-41 win over Revere.

Debbie Congdon scored 19 points and Jean Macchi 15 for the First Ladies.

O'Brien Club Edges Easton

The O'Brien Club of Quincy, the hard-luck team of the Cranberry Basketball League, finished its league season Sunday with an 87-85 win over the Easton Huskies.

The O'Brien's finished with a 3-11 league mark and have a 5-11 overall mark with a game coming up Sunday against the Haynes Bruins of Boston at the Roxbury Boys Club.

However, the Quincy team in its first season, lost seven league games by three points or less and was handicapped in many games by the absence of several players.

The O'Briens had only five men against Easton and nearly blew a 15-point halftime lead. Rick Starziak scored 34 points, Ted Stevenson 16, Leo Papile, Pete Varney and Tom Cairnes 14 apiece.

Last Friday the O'Brien Club, with only five men again, gave league champion Red Boot of Canton all it could handle before bowing, 101-90. Red Boot also won the title last year while playing as Beau's Place of Quincy.

Papile had the biggest night of his career as he scored 35 points. Stevenson had 21. Al Dalton was hitting from everywhere as he scored 40 for Canton.

Awards Presented At North Grid Luncheon

The North Quincy High football coaches recently held their annual luncheon for the members of the squad at Sherry's, where many awards were presented to the players.

Among the presentations was that of the Jack Donahue Award to Bob Morton as the outstanding North player in the Quincy game. Jack, retired coach, was on hand to make the presentation himself.

Receiving Greater Boston League All-Star trophies were Wayne Bell, Burt Bray, Mark Mulvaney, John Stevens and Paul Cadigan.

John Flynn, Joe Carroll and Bruce Stephanski were elected tri-captains of next year's Raider squad, succeeding Cadigan, Bell and Bray.

"We made presentations to every member of the varsity squad, many of them gag awards," Coach Ralph Frazier said. "We want to make sure every kid gets some kind of an award."

Among those present were Frazier and his assistants, Tom Fitzgerald, Dick Meyer, Ted Sadowski and Ken McPhee. Principal Peter Chrisom, Athletic Director Carl Leone and Boosters Club President Bill Schaetzel.

1972 World Series Film Available To Groups

Tom Sullivan of the Quincy Sun was among nearly 200 writers, radio and TV personalities, present and former Red Sox players, other major leaguers, umpires and Red Sox officials who viewed the first New England showing of the 1972 World Series film recently at Fenway Park.

The film, narrated again by Curt Gowdy, runs 40 minutes and is the best Series film yet. All of the close and controversial plays are featured and are shown in slow motion and all the emotions of the Oakland Athletics fans and management are clearly depicted.

This film is now available for groups at no charge through the Red Sox Public Relations Office and through Coca Cola distributors. It is well worth any local organization securing for banquets and sports nights.

Two other new films, the 1972 All-Star Game highlights and All-Star Batting Tips, will be available after Feb. 7.

Requests for these films should be sent to the Public Relations Office, Fenway Park, Boston 02215.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q - What is the amount allowed for each exemption claimed in 1972?

A - The deduction for each exemption is $750.

Q - What is the amount of the standard deduction for 1972?

A - If your adjusted gross income is $10,000 or more and you do not choose to itemize your deductions, the standard deduction is 15% of your adjusted gross income not to exceed $2,000. [$1,000 in the case of a married person filing a separate return].

Q - Who may use the Tax Tables?

A - Persons whose income is less than $10,000 and do not itemize their deductions may use the tax tables. The standard deduction and $750. for each exemption are already computed by the table before the tax is determined.

Q - What is the difference between the Tax Tables and the Tax Rate Schedules?

A -The Tax Tables are for people with incomes of less than $10,000 and who do not itemize deductions. The Tax Rate Schedules are for people who itemize deductions, or have income greater than $10,000 and take the standard deduction and $750 for each exemption claimed. The Tax Rate Schedule computes tax on taxable income [line 55 on 1040 or line 18 on 1040A].

Q - Where may I obtain the necessary forms to file my return?

A - If you do not receive the forms in the mail, you may obtain them at any Internal Revenue Service office and at many banks and Post Offices.

Q - Where do I file my return?

A - For taxpayers living in this area, all returns should be mailed to Internal Revenue Service Center, 310 Lowell St., Andover, Mass. 01812.

For your convenience, a pre-addressed envelope will be attached to the forms sent to you through the mail.

Q - When is my tax return due?

A - Normally for calendar year taxpayers on April 15, 1973; however, since April 15 is a Sunday this year and April 16 is a legal holiday in Massachusetts taxpayers living in this area will file on or before April 17, 1973. For fiscal year taxpayers, the due date is the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the tax year.

Q - I was married on December 30, may I still file as a single person since I was single for most of the year?

A - No., you are considered married for the entire year if on the last day of the tax year [December 31, in most cases] you are married. In your case, you must file a joint return or married filing separately.

Q - My mother-in-law lives with me and receives Social Security benefit payments. Will this have any effect on whether I can claim her exemption?

A - Yes, although Social Security benefits are not taxable to her, they must be included in determining the amount of support she furnished herself on support items, such as food, lodging, clothing, medical care, etc. She must meet the other dependency tests and you must have furnished over half of her total support. Thus, if the Social Security Benefits were the only support furnished by your mother-in-law or anyone else, you must have spent more than that amount on her support in order to claim her as a dependent.

Q - Our 10 year old son won $2,200 in a church raffle, should we report this on our tax return as income?

A - No, an unmarried minor must file an income tax return if he or she had gross income of $2,050 or more, during the tax year. A minor's income may not be reported on the parents' return.

Sex, Marital Status Should Not Have Bearing On Credit Standing, Says Brownell

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] appeared before the Committee on Commerce and Labor in support of legislation to make it illegal to discriminate in consumer transactions against individuals because of their sex or marital status.

Brownell said he believes a person's sex or marital status, by itself, should not have a bearing on the individual's credit standing or ability to obtain consumer services.

Yet, many times the mere fact a person is of a certain sex or is single, separated, or divorced will substantially prejudice their ability to obtain credit. This legislation, Senate 83, would make that illegal.

Brownell asked the Committee to approve the bill so that a person's credit standing would be established without regard to his or her sex or marital status.

"A credit standing has become such an important part of our modern society that it should now be determined without regard to old fashioned biases," Brownell said.

I liked skating because we had the whole pond to ourselves. The best thing I liked was when I was on the ice first and I was all alone. Then Fran Donovan came down to get me. Then Kevin McKinnon found a puck and we were shooting it on Jimmy. After, we came back to the school.

Dear Parents,

The sixth grade students of the Montclair School would like to thank all the mothers, students and teachers for their cooperation in helping the people of Managua. We are especially grateful to the teachers for letting us come into their classes during school hours. Many friends of Montclair helped with their donations also.

We appreciate the assistance of the mothers in baking and in letting their children bring money to buy our goodies and books, which helped ring up the total of two hundred and nineteen dollars.

Once again, our deepest thanks to all who helped us,

Thanks for letting us kids mess up your kitchens with our baking, and letting us stay up late at night, and putting up with us. Well, we did this because of an earthquake that killed lots of people in Nicaragua. They needed our help so we gave it, and so did you. The sixth graders helped, the teachers helped, the school helped, and you did, too. We thank you for donating money to us, to give to the people in Nicaragua. Little children and adults got hurt. Pets and houses were destroyed. And just think -- you saved some lives. Thanks to you, the people in Nicaragua can live. And you can say, I saved or helped them. Thanks for giving. Lionel Goldman Eulogized At Memorial Assembly

Mr. Goldman owned the Mutual Building at 1601 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Grand Rabbi Levi I. Horowitz, a close personal friend of Mr. Goldman, extolled his friend's unique personality, saying "the greatest characteristic of Lionel Goldman was that he was Lionel Goldman."

Rabbi Horowitz also announced the dedication of the "Lionel Goldman Seminary of Judaic Studies for Women", the first of its kind in the New England area.

He noted that it was appropriate that the Boston Lubavitz Yeshiva, the pre-school department of the New England Hebrew Academy, will bear Mr. Goldman's name in memorium.

LIONEL GOLDMAN

Rabbi Kalman Lichtenstein, the Rosh Mesivta of the academy, commented on Mr. Goldman's "extraordinary sense of Torah identity that prevailed even in the harsh business world."

Mr. Goldman's eldest son, Irle, described his father's legacy to his family:

"In almost prophetic fashion, Dad left circled on his desk a quote from the will of a pious Jew of the 14th Century, which I think would be of benefit to all of us to hear . . .

" 'These are the things which my sons and daughters do at my request . . . Their business must be conducted honestly, with Jew and gentile. They must be gentle . . . I earnestly beg my children to be tolerant and humble to all, as I was throughout my life . . . Seek peace and pursue it with all the vigor at your command. Even if you suffer loss thereby, forbear, forgive.' "

Delahunt Would Allow Rent Withholding For Code Violations

Rep. William D. Delahunt [D-Quincy], has filed legislation which would give tenants more leeway to withhold their rent.

The bill allows tenants to claim the defense of rent withholding for dangerous housing code violations. The tenant must prove that the violations existed when he began withholding rent, that the violations materially affect the tenants health, safety, and well-being, and the violations were not caused by the tenant.

Under the present law, the tenant also has to show that the local code enforcement agency had notified the landlord in writing about the defect.

"This often is an unnecessary procedural step," Delahunt said, "which keeps many tenants from asserting their legal rights." The proposed legislation would allow rent withholding without this procedural step if the code violation is one about which the landlord knew or should have known.

"Many landlords know very well when they have not complied with existing housing standards," Delahunt said. "Many tenants live in apartments with code violations, but aren't familiar with the law. This bill protects them, as long as they were justified in withholding rent, even if they don't follow the exact technical procedures the present law calls for. It will be up to the court to decide whether the conditions were serious enough to justify the tenant's rent withholding."

Between the Covers

Young Americans venturing abroad this coming tour season will find the going much more expensive than they may anticipate. They will do well to read and profit by Robert A. Listen's YOUNG AMERICANS ABROAD. [Messner. $4.50]

He frankly discusses the pitfalls of hitchhiking, ordering full meals, getting into drugs, etc., and offers sound advice on what to do if one does run into trouble.

The neglect of the elderly in our youth oriented society is deplored by Minna Field in THE AGED, THE FAMILY, AND THE COMMUNITY. [Columbia Univ. Press. $10] Actual case histories are cited to enrich the discussion. She believes medical, economic and family problems can be handled so that the older person may continue to participate actively in the life of the family and the community.

It is not too early to start planning if you intend to BUILD YOUR OWN SWIMMING POOL. [Drake. $5.95] Filters, fittings, covers and heating are covered by the author, Norman D. Wills. A word of caution - this is an English publication so New Englanders will have to be mindful of weather differences. However, it is a good introduction.

If you are mystified by the free school movement you will find a comprehensive examination of it in Allen Graubard's FREE THE CHILDREN. [Pantheon. $7.95] He compares his own experiences honestly with those of others in the field and reveals that all is not bliss. He is liberal with quotations from authorities and from the children themselves.

The dust jacket design for the book reveals his feelings without words. It shows a schoolyard with tiny, helpless children flitting about like insects with school officials dressed in black police uniforms in hot pursuit of them armed with butterfly nets to ensnare them and return them to their conformist educators.

In CAST FOR A REVOLUTION, by Jean Fritz [Houghton. $7.95] Mercy Otis Warren, sister of ardent Massachusetts patriot James Otis, introduces the reader to the lives of her personal friends - George Washington, Henry Knox, Samuel Adams, Thomas Jefferson and John and Abigail Adams. History comes alive through the eyes of this fascinating woman who was at the very center of the politics of her time.

Armchair financiers and capitalists will find REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT STRATEGY by Maury Seldin and Richard H. Swesnik [Wiley. $10.75] an excellent book for beginners and the more advanced. It gives the prospective investor a thorough guide to the fundamentals of successful real estate investment, including factors such as location, timing, and methods of financing. It is practical and easy to read and there is some emphasis on the risks and rewards one can expect in this business.

Anglophiles are all cognizant of the Illustrated London News which, incidentally, is much easier to carry home from the Library now that its overall dimensions have been reduced. Those who are also art lovers will enjoy APOLLO which is a magnificent magazine circulated from our Art Department.

It is published in England and is devoted to international art and antiques. It is lavishly illustrated in color. Even the advertisements are impressive. The cost to buy it at a stand is $4 per issue, so -- get it at the Thomas Crane!

Elizabeth Taylor Banned In Cairo

QUOTABLE, QUOTES: Producer STEVE SHAGAN commenting on "SAVE THE TIGER" which New England premiere's Feb. 14: "It's the story of a middle-aged man [JACK LEMMON] who finds himself trapped in a violent collision of the past and present. The film covers 36 consecutive hours in his life when he tries to find a reason for his existence"... Keeping abreast of the newest technical trends in the motion picture industry, the Cinemobile Mark III is a technical studio on wheels which contains all the equipment needed for local shooting...

Keep your eye on comedian RICHARD PRYOR. Appearing in "LADY SINGS THE BLUES" PRYOR proved so impressive in what was originally a 10-line role that his part was built up to feature proportions... WILL GEER and ROBERT REDFORD are members in good standing of the ecology conscious Sierra Club.... If you watch carefully, you'll catch GORE VIDAL and ANNA MAGNANI in guest starring appearances in "FELLINI'S ROMA"...

For the curious, SIR LAURENCE OLIVIER is celebrating his 50th year as an actor... For OLIVIER it all began in April of 1922 at the age of 15 with his playing "Katherine" in the London stage version of "THE TAMING OF THE SHREW"... In portraying this role he was following the Shakespearean tradition of having young males play female roles... In 50 years OLIVIER has built a solid reputation as one of the great actors, both on stage and film, of this century... His career zenithed with Oscar recognition in 1948 for "HAMLET". And he could still capture, if not an Oscar, then at least a best acting nomination for his "SLEUTH" performance. A masterpiece...

And speaking of Oscar, wouldn't it be more of a contest if the "public" were allowed to cast its vote for whom it considers the best of the year in the some 30 plus categories?... SOPHIA LOREN'S cookbook "IN THE KITCHEN, WITH LOVE" has been published in 17 countries... "THE HEARTBREAK KID" is the first film actress JEANNIE BERLIN has worked on with her mother, director ELAINE MAY... And of the same picture, sound mixer CHRISTOPHER NEWMAN and photography director OWEN ROIZMAN were each nominated Academy Awards for their work in "THE FRENCH CONNECTION"...

Still wondering how KEIR DULLEA'S career fizzled to a halt after his "2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY" triumph... Little known JULIUS J. EPSTEIN is one of the giants of Hollywood, although his name is less than a household. The writer and producer of "PETE 'N TILLIE" numbers among his producing and writing credits such all-time classics as "THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER", "THE MALE ANIMAL", "CASABLANCA", "ARSENIC AND OLD LACE", and "THE LAST TIME I SAW PARIS"... PAMELA SUE MARTIN, the ingenue in "THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE", slid into movie making much in the tradition of LANA TURNER...

Producers of "TO FIND A MAN" were seeking a "new find" when they came upon Pamela much in the soda fountain tradition of LANA TURNER... For the 19-year-old, grey-eyed, brunette, "POSEIDON" may well prove the next step [her second film to date] in a TURNER-sized career... JANE FONDA'S next outing will be "STEELYARD BLUES" which also features DONALD SUTHERLAND and PETER BOYLE... LOU GOSSETT ["TRAVELS WITH MY AUNT"] was pursuing a career in medicine, and to this end had gone so far as completing pre-med courses at New York University, before deciding on an acting career...

And in the same category, JANET MacLACHLAN [the black school teacher in "SOUNDER"] gave up a job with a New York public relations firm in order to chase her "star" as an actress... The Spaniards say that everyone in their country is part Sancho Panza, part Don Quixote; that is, half realist and half dreamer. JAMES COCO, who plays Sancho in "MAN OF LA MANCHA" took a different outlook... "I approached the role as if the two characters were one person, Sancho being the half based in reality but loving the mad side of his master and never wanting to change him"...

From Cairo, the Arab Boycott of Israel Office has reinstated its ban on celebrities ELIZABETH TAYLOR, FRANK SINATRA, JULIETTE GRECO, JERRY LEWIS, DANNY KAYE, PAUL NEWMAN and his wife JOANNE WOODWARD. The boycott prevents the above from making any personal visits, and showings of their films in Arab countries... According to Arab officials the above individuals are either sympathetic to Israel, or are members of Zionist organizations which paid considerable amounts of money to Israel and also played roles in anti-Arab motion pictures...

DINO DE LAURENTI'S said, "No, no, definitely NO" when approached by Columbia Pictures with a $5 million pact to sell them his rights to "THE VALACHI PAPERS"... And no wonder the producer of this film turned thumbs down on the deal. By the time this motion picture reaches the world market saturation point, the film will haul home an estimated $50 to $70 million...

"A HELLUVA LIFE", the biopic of the late singer HARRY RICHMAN, is in the works... Remember the name CHARLES GRODIN. "THE HEARTBREAK KID", scheduled for February release, will vault him to stardom... A tip of the ole' beret to JACK KEEGAN, Boston Paramount branch manager, recently elevated to eastern district manager...

Form Environmental Protection Group

Eleven Quincy residents have formed the Quincy Environmental Protection Society to help preserve the city's natural assets against builders and developers.

The society held its organizational meeting Jan. 27 at the home of Pat DiStefano, who was named chairman pro tem.

DiStefano, long an opponent of the proposed South Quincy MBTA station, is also president of the South Quincy Civic Association, which, he says, has no connection with the new organization.

But it was his concern with the South Quincy MBTA facility, he said, that led to the formation of the QEPS.

This concern, he said, "caused me to reflect upon what has happened in Quincy in recent years concerning the filling of wetlands and the direction we are headed with out environment.

"My research into this area revealed that our shorelines have been encroached upon, our marshlands have been filled and asphalt has been replacing much of our natural resources."

Such development, he said, has caused and aggravated serious flooding conditions in South Quincy.

"We have heard many promises of relief from this terrible flooding condition but as yet nothing has been done. Perhaps, through the formation of this environmental society, we can encourage our administrators to move more quickly."

DiStefano said the QEPS hopes to work closely with the Quincy Conservation Commission and similar groups on the South Shore to fight the desecration of natural resources.

Harold Supports Return Absentee Ballot Postage

Paul D. Harold of Quincy, President of the Massachusetts Democrats, testified last week before the joint Elections Committee in support of legislation that would require cities and towns to pay the return postage on absentee ballots.

The bill, H 4502, was filed for Harold by Rep. Thomas Brownell [D-Quincy] and sponsored by the Massachusetts Young Democrats.

"This isn't exactly an earth-shattering piece of legislation, but it deals with a detail that if corrected would make absentee voting that much easier for the voters, candidates, and groups such as the Young Democrats who run absentee voting drives, Harold said.

"Presently the federal government pays for the absentee ballot postage for servicemen and some federal employees and I think the cities and towns of Massachusetts should do the same for all its residents."

Speaking in opposition to the bill was the representative of the Town Clerks' Association.

Walsh's Restaurant Offers 'Symphony Cocktail'

Andrew Walsh, owner of Walsh's Restaurant, North Quincy, announces a unique beverage will be available there from Feb. 10 through March 6.

It's called "The Symphony Cocktail", to help publicize the March 6 Quincy Symphony Orchestra's "Youth Performs" concert.

A long time supporter of the orchestra, Walsh noted that hundreds of families from the Quincy and North Quincy area will be involved with the concert as both the Quincy High and North Quincy High's concert choirs are scheduled to appear at the performance March 6 at North Quincy High auditorium.

The drink, Walsh said, was developed by Ray Kelly his bartender. "We will only serve it for the three weeks before the performance", Walsh noted. "People can look for it again before the Mid Winter Concert in April".

Alan Petitpas Aboard Coral Sea

Navy Airman Recruit Alan W. Petitpas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Petitpas of 26 Walnut St., North Quincy, has reported for duty aboard the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea, homeported in Alameda, Calif.

A former student of Quincy Vocational Technical High, he joined the Navy in September 1972.

Quinn Vows More Cuts

Taxpayers Invited To Speak Out On $87.2 Million Budget

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy's proposed $87.2 million budget is going to get thorough scrutiny, not only from the City Council's Finance Committee, but from any citizen of Quincy who takes the trouble to go down to City Hall and be heard.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon dispatched the budget, which covers 18 months instead of the usual 12, to the City Council Monday after pruning $7.7 million from the original figure requested by department heads.

"We are going to scrutinize the budget carefully," said John J. Quinn, chairman of the Council's Finance Committee, "and we will make whatever cuts are fiscally possible within the scope and needs of the people.

"If there is any fat, it is going to come out."

And if the man on the street thinks he knows of some fat that might escape the eagle eye of the City Council, he is welcome to come down and point them out. All committee meetings will be held on Saturdays and will be open to the public.

"Any taxpayer or resident who wishes to be heard on the budget may do so at the public sessions," said Quinn. "All they

Two Weeks Delay Seen On 8-Ward Plan Vote

By PAUL HAROLD

No action is expected for at least another two weeks on Quincy's proposed eight-ward redistricting plan.

City Clerk John M. Gillis who drew up the plan and submitted it to the Council last week said "a couple of things have to be worked out first."

He said he expects the council to vote on the plan within two weeks and that the new alignment would still become effective for this year's city election.

Gillis said the present six-ward set-up is a violation of the "one man, one-vote principle".

Gillis has warned that the city faces possible court action if it does not change its ward lines on a balanced population basis.

The new eight wards would give Quincy an 11-member city council--eight ward and three at-large seats.

Presently Quincy has a nine-member council--six ward and three at-large seats.

The new eight-ward set-up is expected to trigger a rush of council candidates this fall if the plan is in effect by then.

An About Face?

Quincy Shipyard May Yet Be GD's 'Most Profitable Division'

The Quincy shipyard may yet be the flagship of the General Dynamics money fleet.

General Dynamics Chairman David S. Lewis says it is possible that the yard may be the company's most profitable division in a very few years.

Lewis' prediction came in the midst of an announcement that General Dynamics' net earnings for 1972 were the highest since 1968 and returns to stockholders would be up by 26 per cent.

The Quincy division has lost substantial sums in the past five years, Lewis said, but contracts obtained in late 1972 totaling $270 million for three Liquified Natural Gas tankers has assured that the yard will stay open.

"At the end of 1971," Lewis said, "we wrote off all the then anticipated cost to complete on-going contracts at Quincy under the expectation that we would obtain sizeable new contracts for Very Large Crude Carriers [VLCC] early in 1972.

"We did not receive the VLCC contracts, and because our LNG orders were obtained late in the year, the two ships in work had to absorb all of the overhead costs of the shipyard.

"To cover those costs and to charge off all development and sales costs incurred on the VLCCs, we wrote off a total of $8.8 million after taxes in 1972.

"We are confident we will receive additional LNG orders in 1973. The opportunity exists for Quincy to become our most profitable division in the second half of this decade."

'A Great Loss'

Services Today For Dr. Charles Djerf

Services will be held today [Thursday] at 2 p.m. at the Johnston Funeral Home in East Milton for Dr. Charles Djerf, Quincy pediatrician, civic leader and humanitarian, who died early Tuesday morning at Quincy City Hospital.

Dr. Djerf, who was 62, perhaps was best known publicly as a member of the School Committee who was not afraid of controversy, and as a founder of the city's drug rehabilitation program, Survival, Inc.

To hundreds--maybe thousands of parents--he was known as a doctor who would climb out of bed at any hour of the night to go anywhere to treat a sick child.

In fact, when The Quincy Sun was established in September, 1968, Dr. Djerf was asked to write a medical column.

DR. CHARLES DJERF

Appropriately, the column was called: "House Call".

And to the poor, Dr. Djerf was known and loved as a benelovent man who on many occasions--without fanfare--paid a fuel oil or grocery bill for a cold or hungry family or a taxi fare for a sick child to come to his office if he couldn't get to the child.

"His death is a great loss to the community," said Mayor Walter J. Hannon. "He was a very dedicated man who didn't mind getting into controversy. If he thought it was the right thing to do, he did it.

"He was a very warm human being who dedicated his life to others."

'We Wept Tears Of Joy'

"We wept tears of joy".

It was Air Force Capt. James C. Brudno speaking quietly but happily in a phone call Monday to the Buckingham Rd, Wollaston home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. James Brudno.

The captain was safe at last in The Philippines along with other American POW's after being held a prisoner by the North Vietnamese from October 1965 when he was shot down in his Air Force Phantom.

Now, talking to his father on the phone, he said his greatest reward was the reception he and other POW's got as they rode from Clark Air Force Base along the streets of Manilla.

"We wept tears of joy," he told his father, "as we heard the cheers of the crowds that lined the streets. We felt wonderful to be on American soil."

Captain Brudno who talked 45 minutes, said he "felt fine" and "has no problem".

No problem, he added "except for grey hair".

He said he was not sure what receiving hospital he would be assigned to but hoped it would be on the East Coast.

"His voice sounded strong and clear", Dr. Brudno said.

Meanwhile, the captain's mother, was in Florida. She caught a glimpse of her son as he left the plane at Clark Air Force Base.

She had been waiting up all night to see him.

Soon Brudno's hope to see and hear their son--in person.

'Celebration For Peace' Ceremonies, City Hall Open House Feb. 19

The city of Quincy will hold a "Thanksgiving Celebration for Peace" on the steps of the United First Parish Church Monday [Feb. 19] followed by an open house at City Hall.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon, City Council Members, clergymen, the Morrisette Post American Legion band, and the Eastern Nazarene College Choral Society will participate in the commemorative service on the church steps.

The high point of the brief service will be a flag ceremony, led by former Mayor James R. McIntyre, to mark the end of the war in Vietnam, with the color guard provided by the Houghs Neck Legion Post and the national anthem by the Morrisette band.

Clergymen participating in the 1 p.m. ceremony are the Rev. John R. Graham of United First Parish Church; Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue; and the Rev. Edward Flaherty, pastor of St. Ann's Church.

The open house in City Hall will feature an art display by the Quincy Art Association and the School Department in the Council Chamber and the Mayor's office.

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will play chamber music in the City Council chamber from 3:30 to 4 p.m.

Bar Association To Honor Judge Gertrude Halloran Feb. 20

A social hour will precede the dinner at 6 p.m.

Atty. James F. Reynolds, Jr. of Quincy, association president, is heading up the arrangements.

Other association officers assisting are:

James J. Collins and James M. Collins, both of Milton, vice-presidents; Harold R. Carter, Weymouth, secretary and Joseph T. Wood, Braintree, treasurer.

have to do is put their questions or suggestions in writing and submit them through their ward councillors."

"This is the people's budget and the people should be entitled to have some say about it."

Quinn said the first public session will be held on Saturday, Feb. 24, at 9:30 a.m. He predicted that the sessions will continue for at least seven consecutive Saturdays.

Normally, the City Council has 45 days to act on the budget but this time it has 60 days in view of the fact that it covers 18 months instead of 12 to bring the budget year in line with the fiscal year.

"This is a crucial time for Quincy," said Quinn.

"I am sure we will be able to do some cutting. In past years, the Council has averaged $300,000 in cuts. We will find at least $300,000 in this one – and probably more."

Actual expenditures for the calendar year 1972 totalled $54.1 million and the comparable figure for the 12 months ending on Jan. 1, 1974 is $59.3 million, an increase of $5.2 million or about 9 per cent.

Six Member Juries To Sit At Quincy

Six-member juries will sit in misdemeanor trials in Quincy District Court in April and May, announces Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke.

The experiment was tried for the first time in Quincy last year and it was pronounced a success.

Burke requested the Quincy Bar Association President James F. Reynolds to ask members to use the six-man juries as a way of saving time in these days of court congestion.

"It is quite apparent," said Burke, "that the guilties and not guilties run exactly in the same ratio as the 12-man jury sessions."

155 Wire Permits

Inspector William H. Pitts and his staff issued 101 certificates of approval, conducted 215 inspections, noted 18 defects and collected $612.50 in fees.

By PAUL HAROLD

Councillor John Quinn is giving serious thought to finally making a run for mayor.

* * *

Quinn, "dean" of the City Council from point of service, two years ago was a potential candidate but decided not to go.

The big problem then reportedly was the fact the firm he works for preferred that he did not seek the office - at that time, anyway.

Now, according to sources very close to him, he is "very serious" about making a bid.

Always a strong vote getter--even when some of the big powers were not behind him-he would have to be considered a real threat to anyone else running.

THE PROPOSED eight-ward plan for the city is expected to spark off a chain of ward councillor races.

One contest already shaping up is in the new Ward One [Houghs Neck, Adams Shore and Germantown] which promises to be one of the most explosive in the city.

Latest development in that race is that John McNally, candidate for state representative in 1971 and "unofficial" candidate for ward councillor this year, has bowed out to support his neighbor, Robert Denvir.

* * *

THE SPECULATION CORPS hears that two potential candidates for ward councillor are waiting in the wings: Vincent Nobile [in the new South Quincy-Hospital Hill ward] and realtor Sam Tuttle [in the new Wollaston Beach ward].

Both are Republicans.

* * *

WILLIAM O'BRIEN, president of the Quincy Citizens' Association, has proposed what is probably a "first" for Quincy. He plans to have a meeting of all the presidents of local civic and neighborhood groups.

Purpose of the meeting is to see if the various groups can work together for mutual goals, instead of sometimes having each working against the other. It would be a sort of civic "one for all and all for one".

* * *

SPEAKING OF THE Q.C.A., Thomas Mullaney, treasurer of the group is being mentioned as a candidate for school committee again this year.

* * *

ONE WOLLASTON MBTA COMMUTER who was delayed in getting home last week because of the fire in the South Station tunnel, reports his re-routing from Park St. was "less than direct."

From Park St. Station he was directed to take the trolley to Haymarket Station, where he boarded the Orange Line for Dudley St. Station. From Dudley he boarded a bus which dropped him off at Ashmont Station and then another bus to Quincy Center. And from Quincy Center he took the subway to Wollaston, for a total travelling time of three hours.

Did someone say rapid transit?

* * *

THE QUINCY DELEGATION in the legislature was evenly split last week on the controversial bill which would repeal the state's loyalty oath.

Voting against repeal were Reps. Joseph Brett and Clifford Marshall. Voting for were Reps. Thomas Brownell and William Delahunt.

* * *

THOSE WEREN'T all census cards in the Elections Department office at city hall, but birthday cards.

Two employees in the Elections Office, Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke and Agnes Curry, celebrated their birthdays last week.

"Cake-baker" for both occasions was Elections head, Ruth Pabst.

O.K. Tom, how old are you?

* * *

THE CITY HALL GANG sent a Valentine's Day box, full of cards and candy to Deputy Tax Collector Louis Simons, a patient at Quincy City Hospital.

* * *

CARL ANDERSON of Quincy Point, former Ward 2 Councillor and former councillor-at-large, joined the City Council last week at its meeting and was given a seat of honor, behind the railing, by Council President Arthur Tobin. Anderson has told friends he will make a political comeback.

* * *

MOST POLITICAL OBSERVERS feel the re-districting of ward lines by City Clerk John Gillis was one of the "fairest" plans possible.

And when Gillis presented the plan to the Council, with tongue in cheek, he said the wards were not gerrymandered, but rather, "Gillis-mandered".

REP. CLIFFORD MARSHALL reports he has two Quincy High School students working as volunteers in his State House office, three days a week: Nancy Bernstein and Matt Doukas.

* * *

CITY HALL OBSERVERS point out what is probably a first for Quincy: two brothers serving on the same advisory committee. Leo Kelly of Houghs Neck and Jack Kelly of South Quincy are both members of the Capital Outlay Committee.

- Stennis And More Ammo
- Resurrecting The SST
- Henry Kissinger To Wed ?

WASHINGTON — Senator John Stennis was cut down, apparently, by a blast of .22 caliber bullets from one of those pistols known to police as "Saturday night specials." Yet, even while the old Mississippian lay seriously wounded in a hospital bed, his colleagues on Capitol Hill have quietly agreed to cosponsor a bill that would boost the sale of .22 ammunition.

The National Rifle Association, for its part, offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the senator's assailants. But at the same time, the association has been working not to eliminate the handguns but to eliminate all restrictions on the sale of .22 caliber ammunition.

At present, anyone who buys ammunition for handguns must register their names with gun dealers at the time of sale. This gives police the opportunity to check whether convicted felons are buying ammunition illegally.

The gun lobby argues that .22 caliber ammunition is used in rifles. Since no record-keeping is required for the sale of rifle ammunition, the lobbyists say restrictions on the sale of .22 caliber bullets should be dropped.

The lobbyists neatly overlook the fact that .22 caliber is by far the most commonly used ammunition for handguns.

Despite the Stennis shooting, the bill is picking up supporters in the House. No fewer than 60 congressmen have quietly agreed to cosponsor the bill.

The gun lobby is now biding its time. The bill's chief sponsor, Bob Sikes, D-Fla., tells us he won't introduce the bill for another two or three weeks. Apparently, he is waiting for public concern over the Stennis shooting to die down.

SST Game Plan

One of the most memorable battles in recent years was the fight over the SST — the plane that could whisk people across continents faster than the speed of sound. The opponents finally blocked federal funds for the proposed superjet in 1971. But administration spokesmen have hinted that they hope to resurrect the SST.

Behind the scenes, the White House has been plotting a sophisticated strategy to change public opinion about the airplane and win federal funding for its construction. The first step in the plan is to guarantee the British-French version of the SST, the Concorde, landing rights in the United States. Now, many local noise control laws would prevent the big plane from setting down.

A flock of administration officials, including White House fix-it man Peter Flanigan, met secretly with British aerospace minister Michael Heseltime to discuss the problem. The officials reason that if the Concorde begins to service the United States the environmental objections to the jumbo aircraft will be undercut and the economic values of the plane will be emphasized.

On the congressional front, the administration plans legislation that would authorize millions for loans to private aerospace developers. The loans would be awarded much like defense contracts and would go to companies doing aviation research "in the public interest."

If the proposal passed, one of the first companies found to be doing work "in the public interest" would no doubt be Boeing, builder of the SST prototype.

The opponents of the SST may have won the battle in 1971. Whether they will win the war remains to be seen.

Headlines and Footnotes

KISSINGER'S SECRET? — America's secret negotiator Henry Kissinger may have a secret of his own. A federal education official, David McGinnis, has been telling colleagues that his sister Nancy has agreed to marry the White House troubleshooter. Miss McGinnis was Kissinger's date at the inaugural balls. When we checked with Mr. McGinnis at the Office of Education, he said he had "no comment."

ITT-WATERGATE LINK PROBED — Two separate Senate investigations are trying to link Howard Hunt, the mastermind of the Watergate bugging, with International Telephone and Telegraph. Senate investigators suspect — but haven't yet nailed down — that the giant conglomerate hired Hunt to spy on Chile. They believe he enlisted his "Mission: Impossible" team to break into the Chilean embassy and the homes of three Chilean diplomats in New York City in search of secret documents. Investigators have questioned ITT officials behind closed doors. But they got no answers.

SALT PREDICTION — Those close to the SALT talks, as the disarmament negotiations are called, tell us they will probably drag out over the next four years.

They predict an agreement will be reached, however, before President Nixon leaves the White House. He would like to leave the Presidency, they say, with a diplomatic triumph that would mark him in history as a statesman.

CHINATOWN PLOT — The FBI is investigating charges that a Chinese Communist assassination ring has committed at least a dozen murders in New York City's Chinatown. The assassins allegedly have been recruited from Chinese seamen who have jumped ship and gone into hiding in Chinatown. The killings reportedly have been revenge killings, rather than political assassinations.

NEW GOP BLACK AFFILIATE — Floyd McKissick is working with other black leaders to organize a national black affiliate of the Republican National Committee. The group will appeal to black Republicans who are gaining in affluence and growing more conservative in the process. The affiliate, however, will continue to emphasize civil rights enforcement and will seek solutions to the problems of the ghettos. The FBI, incidentally, has been keeping a close watch on McKissick. We have seen his confidential FBI file. Apparently, the G-men regard even black Republicans with suspicion.

VANIK ON VEAL — Representative Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, tells us he had a rancid experience at the grocery store recently. "After passing a galaxy of high-priced meats," relates Vanik, "I spotted several discolored veal cutlets at $3.53 a pound." Veal cutlets used to be available in generous quantities, complains Vanik. "Today, it's so scarce, we should preserve a supply at a special Smithsonian exhibit among the growing list of former foods of the American people."

Why Is State Government Being Reorganized?

"Why is Massachusetts government being reorganized?" asked a caller to the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone.

The Voter Information Phone explained the tremendous and rapid growth of state government in recent years and clarified the reasons for the new reorganization.

Over the years state government had grown to the point where there were 305 separate departments and agencies in the executive branch, 178 of which reported directly to the Governor. No one person could possibly supervise this number of agencies; therefore, the legislature and governor worked together to enact the Executive Reorganization Act in 1971 providing for a governor's cabinet of ten secretaries to consolidate and realign all executive agencies.

After a two-year period of assessment and evaluation each secretary must submit reorganization proposals for his secretariat to the governor who will file the reorganization plan with the legislature for its approval. All secretaries will submit their plans this year.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP Phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

McCormick 'Delighted' To Witness Vote On Hot Lunch Program

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I was delighted to be a witness to the unanimous vote of the School Committee on the Hot Lunch Program.

You may recall that the previous committee voted 6-1 for this same program in 1971.

The fact that the director of the program, Mr. Cole, will have to start hot lunches in 21 schools at once, was my reason in 1971 to have hot lunches in one school in order to get some experience in the serving of these lunches.

Quincy's elementary school children will be the gainers from this final decision to go ahead with this $400,000 plus program, not 10 million dollars that was thrown around during the elections of 1971.

James F. McCormick, Sr.
Former Vice Chairman
Quincy School Committee

A 'Thank You' From Quincy Red Cross Chapter

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The Greater Quincy Red Cross wishes to thank the Quincy Sun and its staff for the excellent publicity given this past year. Without this kind of service many of the projects undertaken in the chapter would not have been the success they were.

As Chapter Chairman I wish to extend to you and the staff of the Quincy Sun a year of Happiness, Prosperity, and Good Health.

A 'Thank You' From Postmaster

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The United States Postal Service Christmas operation for 1972 was the smoothest we have ever experienced due in large part to the cooperation of our customers in the Boston Postal District.

My sincere appreciation to you and your organization for the assistance rendered to the Postal Service in conveying our messages on programs, such as; mail early, banding and the use of ZIP Code.

The processing of vast volumes of Christmas mail on top of our every day mails would have been impossible without a properly informed public.

My very best wishes for a happy and healthy New Year.

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Tampering with odometers or speedometers or misrepresenting the number of miles traveled by a car is against the law in Massachusetts.

The auto fraud section of my Consumer Protection Division makes periodic visits to used car lots to discourage practices such as odometer turnbacks. Since April 1972 they have "raided" 20 used car lots checking for cars with suspiciously low mileage.

To prevent odometer kickbacks in the future and further protect the Massachusetts consumer, the Consumer Protection Division has proposed legislation requiring that all passenger cars registered in Massachusetts be equipped with tamper-proof odometers.

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles would set the standards for these devices. The Registrar would not require the inspection or approval of an odometer before initial sale of the vehicle if the device had been certified by the manufacturer in compliance with any federal or state law or regulation.

The proposed law would become effective January 1, 1974 and would apply to motor vehicles manufactured after that date.

In addition, the Consumer Protection Division has proposed legislation increasing the penalties for tampering with the odometer or speedometer of a motor vehicle.

According to the bill, any person who misrepresents the actual mileage of a car to a prospective purchaser or who turns back or readjusts the speedometer or odometer of a car would be punished by a fine of up to $500. imprisonment of up to six months or both for a first offense. For subsequent offenses a person could be fined up to $1,000 or imprisoned up to three years or both.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Must You Live By Crisis?'

When experience and scientific findings are conclusive evidence of better ways to live...ways which bring happiness and health...why do we persist in continuing to do those things which jeopardize the very things we say we want? For example...I was counseling recently with a family whose money habits have led them to financial disaster. They are at the point now where they pay their utilities just before they're to be cut off. The oil company will deliver only if they pay cash. You can imagine the traumatic quarreling which such living brings. Financially, they live from crisis to crisis.

Sam and Jeri describe their marriage as a series of crises..."many small separations and three big ones." Each one was precipitated by a crisis...always over Sam's drinking. He insisted on his right to drink [which usually ended in drunkenness]. Jeri insisted, "I don't want to live this way." Hence, the gap between them...and the separations. Often he had been violent with her...sometimes with the children. They live from crisis to crisis.

Why do we have to have cancer...emphysema...a heart attack before we will quit smoking? The scientific evidence and human experience are piled high against your chances of escape. Why must one go through the windshield before one is willing to wear the seat belt and shoulder strap? Why must one get cirrhosis of the liver before he/she will stop drinking? Must one have a crisis before correcting a life style which is destructive? Why must you live by crisis?

One reason is ignorance. Recently a man was telling me, "my grandfather chewed tobacco and smoked cigarets all his life. He's now 91." This was his evidence to support his smoking habit. I don't think it was too conclusive. Another common expression is..."When your number is up, you go," meaning you may as well ignore health and happiness rules...they make no difference. We're robots instead of persons with minds with which to think and direct our lives. Ignorance causes people to live by crisis.

Another reason is that we don't really love ourselves...have not learned to care for our emotional and physical health. It's not selfish to love oneself...it's foolish not to. Believe in yourself...like yourself...feel "I'm O.K."...do for yourself what brings health and happiness. You can't have one without the other. So love yourself...if you would avoid living by crisis.

Thirdly...it's tough to change. If you have a habit of being a slob...not caring for your clothes...your room...your car...chances are you've been allowed to live this way as a child...and now continue. Yes ...it's tough to change...but you can change. Otherwise, you'll probably create much unhappiness for yourself and the rest of your family. Change is necessary if you're to avoid living by crisis.

The motivation most needed for turning from a life of crises is to decide to be a growing adult...a reasoning mind...analyzing the events of your life. You learn to act on reason...not to be acted upon by outside forces. You decide...not have decisions forced upon you by crises.

Must you continue to live by crisis?

McCauley, delayed in getting to a School Committee meeting, learned that the board was deadlocked 3 to 3 on whether or not to open the sessions.

McCauley said he was in favor of the open sessions. And, they were opened.

Improvements Committee Approves

Mound St. Beach, Squaw Rock, Germantown Land Aquisition

The Quincy Capital Improvements Committee has approved three land acquisitions and an area development plan that would cost the city an estimated $253,000 under the park improvement program.

The acquisitions include 102,000 square feet of Mound Street Beach, Quincy Point, $50,000; 9.7 acres in lower Germantown, $126,000; and 17.1 acres of Squaw Rock, $130,000. Half the cost would be available in federal funds.

The development plan consists of road surfacing, street lighting, water and sewer installations, a new ball field and tennis courts on 49 acres of Faxon Park with an estimated cost of $100,000.

It is proposed that the land acquired at Mound Street Beach be added to 7.5 acres already owned by the city and used as a buffer zone between a park on city land and a nearby junk and salvage operation.

The lower Germantown site, off Bicknell Street, would be used for recreational services for about 1,800 children who live in a nearby public housing project.

Squaw Rock, currently owned by the city of Boston, would be used as a picnic area with tables and fireplaces, a beach area, and a geological study area.

"We should acquire Squaw Rock and maintain it as a passive recreational facility so as to preserve the natural terrain of the area," said John J. Lydon Jr., chairman of the Capital Improvements Committee.

The upgrading of Faxon Park envisions the improvement of existing features plus new recreational facilities so that the city can get the maximum use out of the area.

KEY TO QUINCY Memorial Stadium is presented by former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin [left] to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon as Carl Leone, director of Quincy school athletics looks on. The gold key was originally given to Burgin who was mayor when the stadium was dedicated Sept. 25, 1938. It will be kept as an historic memento.

Foreign Exchange Student

Senior Carl Leinonen In Denmark

By NORMAN GOTLIEB

Carl Leinonen of Quincy High is spending his senior year in Denmark.

Carl, who ranks among the top five percent of his class, became familiar with the American Field Service Organization at school. Through this organization, Carl was selected as a foreign-exchange student and is now living in Denmark.

The American Field Service Organization deals with foreign exchange students. This program gives qualified students the chance to spend from 10 weeks to one year in a foreign country.

The students are selected through a series of interviews by AFS. These interviews last a week and are based on the student's scholastic record; his extra-curricular activities; his school, community and church activities; and his personality.

Carl and Joanne Ahola were chosen in this manner. Last summer, Joanne also a senior went to Germany on the foreign-exchange program. AFS also welcomes and sets up activities for the foreign student coming to the school on this program.

CARL LEINONEN

In Denmark, Carl is living in the town of Skive, about 100 miles from Copenhagen. There he is staying with the Jensen family. Carl is enrolled in a school there and participates in activities with other Danish students. He speaks Danish fluently and has a knowledge of the Russian language. Carl has adjusted well to life in Skive ... his home away from home.

While abroad, Carl has had the opportunity to travel. He has seen different parts of Denmark and has been to Russia as well.

Soon Carl's exchange program will expire. The program began in June of 1972. At that time he spent four weeks in a school in Korinth, Denmark, where he learned the Danish language. From there he went to Skive where he met the family he is now staying with.

Carl will leave Denmark in July of this year to return home to his family and friends in Quincy.

On his return home, Carl will be getting ready for school in the fall. He intends to go to Bowdoin College.

A Part Of America Passes

Truman, Johnson Overcame Deficits Of Initiation Into Presidency

Following is the address of Senate Counsel James R. McIntyre, former Mayor and State Senator, to Quincy High Students on the passing of Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson:

The American Presidency is so awesome that it seems to be above the reach of mankind and yet our Constitution requires that a mere mortal fill the position.

Two Americans who were presidents are dead, Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson. Both born before our time; and one I am sure completely before your memory; but they will continue to affect your lives and generations to come.

Neither was first elected directly by the people. Both came to the exalted positions from the Vice Presidency, a most insignificant position in our federal structure. But they were thrust by a sudden hiatus of a beating heart into the role of Chief Executive of the most powerful country on this planet.

Both had been over-shadowed by their distinguished predecessors. Harry Truman by the overpowering presence of a domestic hero, the man who lead us out of the great depression. Lyndon Johnson by the charismatic, glamorous figure who seemed to bring Camelot into a modern reality. Yet these men overcame the deficits of their initiation into the Presidency and imprinted an indelible mark on our country and the world.

Harry Truman, flushed with victory in World War II, faced the critical decision of letting our enemies wallow in destruction or to rebuild them with compassion so that they could be potentially our equal and ultimately our friend. Today we see the wisdom of his decision. Japan and Germany are bastions of economic strength and balance our world position as allies in Asia and Europe. Strengthening our national posture in the post-war period in opposition to the gloomy spectre of communism, he gave a vitality and spirit to the first world organization of states which has lasted more than a generation, the United Nations.

Lyndon Johnson bore the ironic role of being the southern President bound by a conservative constituency who accomplished more for the blacks and downtrodden than any of his executive or legislative contemporaries. The Johnson Civil Rights legislation was the most far reaching in our national history. The "Great Society" was designed to give the despairing a hope that their future would be a brighter one. Some of his domestic programs succeeded and some did not, but we should remember that Lyndon Johnson tried to help his fellow man. In the tradition of a "Texas gunfighter", once he got into a "shoot out" he wanted to see it through, much to the disenchantment of his newly found liberal, intellectual constituency.

Thinking he could achieve victory in the bottomless pit of Asiatic land mass, he escalated and escalated and on one March day in 1968, he publicly was forced to admit to the entire country that he could no longer lead and refused to be considered for re-election.

While the pollsters will say today that the great majority of Americans conceded that Vietnam was President Johnson's greatest and lasting error, it will be left now to the future generations of history to acknowledge whether this sortie into Asia by the United States and his stubborn determination has brought a lasting and beneficial peace into Southeast Asia.

The bell has tolled for two American Presidents, Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson. It is true that no man is an island to himself, but it is also true that with the passing of these two great Presidential leaders a part of America has passed that shall never return again.

DON'T DIG GRAVE WITH SNOW SHOVEL

You can almost count on it the day following every huge snowstorm. The daily obituary columns will be peppered with sudden deaths of men who overexerted themselves while shoveling snow.

If you are in good health and have had a recent physical checkup, snow shoveling can be beneficial exercise says the American Medical Association, but be sure not to overdo it.

Use a small shovel, rub wax on it to prevent snow from sticking, and push or scoop the snow to the sides rather than lift it. Do the work, in stages and take frequent rests.

If you have any doubts about your physical capabilities, do not shovel snow. It can cause a collapse, especially with men who are middleaged, overweight or have heart conditions. If you're in one or more of these categories, hire someone to shovel the snow or use power equipment. We all have to go sometime - no need to rush it.

Are We Becoming a Nation of Hoodlums?

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Holbrook
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

A woman is raped and slain, a whistle and hammer lying beside her in mute testimony to her pitiful effort at self-protection. Hundreds of people ignore the screams of a girl being assaulted in a gangway.

Forty young trees, costing $10,000 and years of culture, are wantonly chopped down in a forest preserve. A white swan is nailed by the neck to the wall of a school.

These are random samples of the kind of violence and vandalism that is characterizing the American scene. What a national magazine describes as "the shadowy uncertainty of the criminal landscape" is encompassing all of us, wherever we live.

Few Americans today can take an evening walk without misgivings or drive home without qualms about the car that seems to be trailing them.

"It is dangerous to be on the streets at night in Hyde Park and in many other parts of Chicago and suburbs," said the Chicago Tribune in a recent editorial. "It is dangerous to be on some streets, by night or day, in many American cities.

"There is something wrong," says the Tribune, "when the streets are unsafe in the richest country in the world."

The indignation of many Americans is expressed by a veteran journalist, Patty Johnson: "I'm fed up with a people who have concluded that the only way to settle a quarrel is with a gun, or that the only way to get a 'kick' is to destroy.

"Has violence become our national pastime?" she asks. "Have we become a nation of hoods?"

The evidence is overwhelming that we are fast becoming ruled by forces of lawlessness and violence. National publications have been filled with articles reflecting the fact that crime has become a major U.S. problem.

The first national conference on crime called by President Johnson in Washington in March 1967 produced a massive study, "The Challenge of Crime in This Free Society," that revealed many shocking facts about the inroads of crime into all walks of American life. "When all was said," reported a news magazine, "the reality of the spread of crime, both organized and individual . . . hung like a dark cloud over the conference and the nation."

The Commission itself made the baleful observation that the fear of crime has "eroded the basic quality of life for many Americans."

Many persons, including those who like to discredit the Federal Bureau of Investigation, have scoffed at the FBI claim that crime has increased 30 to 40 per cent nearly every year for the past five years. Yet the President's Commission findings indicated that crime is much more extensive than indicated by the FBI index, which is based on reported incidents.

The Commission noted that the actual amount of crime is several times what is reported to the police.

Brownell Asks Prompt Action On Wollaston MDC Station

The recent death of a Wollaston man has prompted Rep. Thomas F. Brownell to again request establishment of an MDC substation on Wollaston Beach.

In a statement to the House Committee on Urban Affairs, Brownell said Quincy legislators have requested such a station for years.

"Yet despite the many incidents and fatal accidents....nothing seems to be done," he said.

The cost would be small, he said, because "existing cars, officers and equipment could be assigned to the new outpost.

"We have already delayed too long," he said, "another young life has been snuffed out and another seriously maimed. I appeal to this committee to act now."

He is a graduate of North Quincy High School, and member of the class of '74 at the Academy in New London, Conn. He will receive a bachelor of science degree upon graduation and be commissioned in the Coast Guard.

Between the Covers

This week we'd like to introduce a group of books that are sometimes overlooked by those who visit the library. These are the "oversize" books which require special shelving.

Their large format enables them to contain many colorful illustrations and useful diagrams as well as information on a wide variety of topics. If their size discourages you from borrowing the books, we suggest that you drop in and browse through them in the library. Or, bring a friend to help carry them home!

In one of these books, translated from the Italian, Paoli Riani makes a fascinating pictorial study of the works of the Japanese architect KENZO TANGE. [Hamlyn. $3.95]

The selection of Tange's design for the new Peace Center in the reconstruction program for Hiroshima brought him his initial fame, and the imaginative buildings he later built in Japan and elsewhere, make him a leader in his field.

Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift, James Dean, Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, the cream of America's special brand of film "rebel heroes", are portrayed with pictorial and written emphasis on the parts they played [on screen and off!] by Joe Morella and Edward Z. Epstein in their REBELS: The Rebel Hero in Films. [Citadel. $9.95] A section on "British Rebel Heroes" adds an international flavor, and the concluding chapter on the future of the rebel hero closes with a picture of Joe Namath!

STAINED GLASS IN FRENCH CATHEDRALS by Elizabeth von Witzleben [Reynal. $45] is a stunningly beautiful collection of black and white illustrations and luminous color plates of some of the most striking stained glass in France. The historical tracing of the development of cathedrals and the art of stained glass itself is accompanied by direct references to the illustrations that follow. The vibrant color reproductions make you feel as though you stand before the cathedrals themselves.

Grace Jane Treber's SANASESSION [Source. $10] is a collection of eight four-minute "sana", new exercise techniques that are unlike any isometrics, calisthenics, or yoga you have tried before. Helpful diagrams and large print aid the reader in following these simple exercises that promise to make the entire family feel younger, healthier, and more energetic.

Cartoons and comic strips, old woodcuts and modern photographs combine to form an appealing blend of imagination and facts about the history of the balloon in Erik Norgaard's THE BOOK OF BALLOONS [Crown. $7.50]

Every type of balloon is discussed and pictured from those used for travel, adventure and pure pleasure to balloons adapted for exploration, carrying mail, and as observation posts in war time. There is even a section on the fashions during the last heyday of ballooning, the gay nineties: balloon sleeves, of course!

WATCHES by Cecil Clutton and George Daniels [Viking. $30] is a gold mine of information regarding the decorative and mechanical aspects of watches, as well as a source of more technical data concerning the precision watches of the 1780-1830 period. Nearly 600 illustrations of both the exteriors and the interiors of the watches are found throughout the book.

Kemper Insurance Donates 'Stolen Bus' To Cape Cod School

The children of the Creative Eye Day School in North Eastham will be riding to school every day in a "stolen bus" donated to the school by the Kemper Insurance Group.

Until two weeks ago the non-profit day school, located in North Eastham in the Cape Cod area, had a bus to take the children to school and back everyday. Unfortunately, for the children and school operator, Donald Freeman, the latter purchased the bus not knowing it was a stolen vehicle, just seven months previously. Also, he had spent more than $700 to put the 1967 bus into good running condition.

Two weeks ago the stolen vehicle was discovered in his possession and impounded by Massachusettes State Police. Freeman legally had no claim to the bus. It now belonged to Kemper Insurance, which had reimbursed its original owner after the theft, which took place two years ago.

Though he knew he had no legal right to the vehicle, Freeman called Kemper's home office Public Relations Department in suburban Chicago. Within 24 hours, his phone call led to an executive decision in the home office Claim Department to give the van to Freeman.

A call went out to Kemper's New England Division Claim Department in North Quincy. A few days later, after working out the details, C. David Sullivan, Kemper's Assistant New England Claim Division Manager, notified Freeman that as soon as the bus could be obtained from the police and brought to the North Quincy office, both keys and title would be presented to him.

The presentation was made last week jointly by Kemper New England Division Manager, Richard R. DeMark, aifd Division Claim Manager, John J. Mooney, shortly after Freeman's call to the Kemper home office.

At the presentation, DeMark, who was recently appointed to the Massachusetts Committee on Auto Theft Prevention, said, "We appreciate the opportunity to help support the fine work being done by Freeman at the Creative Eye Day School. Efforts such as his certainly deserve reward."

The Kemper Insurance Group consists of stock and policyholder-owned companies providing most forms of insurance and a publicly held company, Kemperco, Inc., with 14 subsidiaries operating in such fields as insurance, reinsurance, mutual funds, consumer finance, and safety consulting.

North Could Clinch Tourney This Week

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's basketball team, coming down the home stretch of an amazing comeback and nearing another berth in the state tournament, could achieve its goal this week.

Three weeks ago the Raiders were faced with the task of winning eight of their last 10 games to make the tourney. Going into last Tuesday's game with Abp. Williams [a game added after the original schedules had been released], Bob Nolan's club had only to win two of four to make it.

If North defeated Williams in a non-league game, it could clinch a tourney berth by upsetting the Greater Boston League's undefeated leader, Medford, Friday at the North gym. If it fails to qualify this week, it still has two more non-league games at Brookline Tuesday and at home against Weymouth North next Friday.

The Raiders' big job Tuesday was to stop Williams' sensational Steve Mele of Quincy, son of Red Sox scout Sam Mele, who is moving in on 1000 points for his career. Steve was a standout last year, although playing in the shadow of the brilliant Bob Carrington, now at Boston College. Mele has proven himself one of the best in the state this season.

If North can upset Medford Friday, it will have defeated all four of the teams to which it lost. The Raiders have already avenged losses to Somerville, Malden and Revere.

Nolan's team, unbeaten GBL champ a year ago, has won six in a row since losing to Medford back on Jan. 19.

The Raiders continued their surge toward the tournament last Friday with a 74-57 decision over Revere, making their record 10-4 [9-4 in the GBL].

Again it was Jamie Doherty who sparked the big win. Nolan isn't one to single out any player for praise but he changed his pattern after the Revere win. Doherty has been outstanding in every game.

"Jamie is probably the best all-around player in this area," Bob said. Doherty scored 22 points against Revere and grabbed seven rebounds.

Ken Marsters had 14 points and Bob Morton 10 while Pete Bellotti, scoring eight points, came up with three big ploys when he passed to Morton for a hoop, and then scored twice himself to put the Raiders ahead, 29-24, after a Revere surge.

Earlier in the week the Raiders, holding Quincy to just eight points in the entire second half, topped the Presidents, 44-33, in a game halted with a minute to play when a free-for-all broke out in which the fans played a prominent role.

"Our defense was outstanding again, especially in the second half," Nolan lauded. "When you hold a team to three baskets in a half, the defense has to be doing something right."

The score was tied at 25-25 at the half but North had a 10-2 edge in the third period and a 9-6 bulge in the final session.

Doherty had 19 points and Marsters 12 for North, while the nearest any Quincy player could come to double figures were Ken Furfari and Mike Marvelle with eight points apiece.

Quincy came back Friday and gave Somerville a stubborn battle coming close to pulling a big upset despite the absence of its high scorer, Reggiannini.

Quincy, playing a cool, deliberate game, led, 19-14, after a period and had a 10-point lead midway in the second period before fouls began to take their toll and Somerville moved into a 41-35 lead at halftime.

The Presidents, who have never given up this year despite a rash of injuries and illnesses, cut the gap to two points in the third period and played the Highlanders even until the last three minutes when Chuck Arria scored eight of his 31 points to put the game on ice.

"I think we showed again that we aren't a team to be taken lightly," said Finnegan. "We of the coaching staff were especially pleased with the performance we got from the bench. Mike Kelly did well in his first start at guard and Marty O'Toole, the team manager a week ago, filled in and starred defensively."

ENC Wins 6th Straight

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, despite losing seven games, improved its chances for another post-season tourney invitation by defeating Southeastern Mass., 86-72, last week.

The win was the Crusaders' sixth in a row after losing three straight by a combined five-point total and made their record 12-7.

Ron Bradley, of North Quincy, one of the finest college players in the East, continued his sparkling performances as he scored 26 points and had 15 assists, but it was a balanced scoring attack which was the key to the second win over SMU.

Dave Eads scored 24 points, 18 in the first half, Quincy's Rick Reyenger had 13 points and 21 rebounds and Don Constantine of North Quincy had 11 points.

ENC had only two foul shots in the first half but hit on 17 of 19 attempts in the second half, including 10 for 10 by Bradley.

Friday night the Crusaders play at Nyack, N.Y. a Seaboard Conference game and Saturday play at King's in another conference game. ENC is 4-1 in the conference and defeated both New York Clubs at Quincy.

Green Team Holds Red To 3–3 Tie

In St. Joseph's Hockey League action at Shea Rink the Green team surprized the Red team by holding them to a 3-3 tie and the Blue team defeated the Gold team 6-4.

Led by their goalie Dick Masotta the last place Green team was able to hold on to the tie. Scorers for the Green team were Bob Panora, Gerry Barry and Mike Sullivan.

Scoring for the Red team were Jim Steen 2 goals and Mike McNalley one.

The second game proved to be a very open game, with numerous scoring chances for both sides.

QJC Has Chance For Tourney

The Quincy Junior College basketball team has only a mediocre record this year but it stands an excellent chance of again making the Mass. Junior College Conference playoffs.

Most of the Collejuns' losses have been to non-conference opponents and they clinched at least a tie for third place last week by edging Wentworth in a "must" game, 78-75.

Both Quincy and Wentworth had two games left this week and if Quincy wins one of its games while Wentworth loses one, QJC will have third place and a playoff berth clinched. The teams will tie for third necessitating a playoff if Quincy lost both this week while Wentworth won both.

Quincy faced the toughest assignment, meeting first place ITT and second place Grahm, the conference powers.

The Collejuns were paced last week by Jim Hurley with 19 points, Bill Gardner with 15 points, Mike Granahan with 13 and John Connolly with 13.

Dave Johnson Blanks 1st Place Bersani

Johnson Motor Parts' goalie Dave Johnson stunned the Quincy Youth Hockey Bantam House League Saturday by blanking the league-leading Bersani Brothers, 4-0, at Hingham Arena.

Farina was upset, too, pulling out a 5-5 tie with Blackwood Pharmacy.

Pat Downey and Dave Hurley, who was playing his first game since suffering a broken arm, each had a pair for Blackwood and Ronan Storer had the single.

John Fitzgerald, who leads the league's scorers, had two goals for Farina and Paul Lindenfelzer, Tom Wilkinson and Bob Page one apiece.

Girls Basketball

Looks Like Quincy, North In GBL Championship Race

The North Quincy girls' basketball team might not win the Greater Boston League championship, but this is a year for the Raiderettes to remember.

It appears the North team is destined to finish in second place behind Quincy, unless one or both is the victim of a big upset in their two remaining games.

However, Barbara Webster's team last week knocked Quincy from the undefeated ranks, 44-40, for only the second win in nine games in the intra-city rivalry started four years ago.

And, in the junior varsity game that day the North girls squeezed by, 28-27, for their first win ever over Quincy.

The North girls, whose title chances dwindled when a protest of an earlier last second 48-47 loss at Revere was disallowed, took a 24-18 lead over Quincy at the half and with time running out had an eight point lead. Quincy twice intercepted North passes and scored both times to narrow the final gap.

Leslie Runge and Denise Breszniewicz, as usual, paced the North scoring, while Debbie Congdon and Donna Brickley sparked the First Ladies.

In the junior varsity clash Kathy Walsh had 10 points for North and Terry Tucker 10 for Quincy.

Later in the week, while Gale Palmer's Quincy lasses had a day off, North avenged the earlier loss at Revere, which has come back to haunt it, by breezing, 55-38.

Miss Breszniewicz scored 24 points and Miss Runge 22 to lead the Raiderettes.

The jayvees were edged, 9-8, in the preliminary contest.

After last week's games Quincy was 9-1, all league games, while North was 8-2 in the league and 10-2 overall.

Both were supposed to be off last Tuesday but played off postponed games. Everett played at North while Quincy played at Chelsea. The rivals end their regular seasons Friday with Medford at North and Quincy at Everett.

It is possible one or both of the Quincy teams will be playing in their first post-season tourney this year. Officials of the Eastern Mass. Tournament have their eyes on both teams as they get set to send out invitations for the annual event.

GOLD MEDALIST APPEARS AT GARDEN

TRIXI SCHUBA, the 1972 Olympic Gold Medalist is making her professional debut with the 1973 edition of... Shipstads & Johnson's ICE FOLLIES which plays at BOSTON GARDEN Feb. 14-25. Miss Schuba, the Austrian beauty, scored the most points ever scored in Womens' Olympic Competition.

Guest, Powers Spark Junior-Frosh To No. 5

One of his outstanding players this winter is sophomore Ted Wiedemann, voted last year's Most Valuable Player in the Greater Boston Freshman League while sparkling for the Quincy junior high-freshman team, first place finishers in the league.

This year Ken Hayes' junior high-frosh outfit has two brilliant forwards who should fit nicely into the varsity picture in another year.

The Quincy team last week topped Chelsea, 6-2, to run its record to 5-0 and if it defeats second place Malden [3-1-2] Friday night at the Revere rink, it should wind up on top for the second year in a row.

And, as usual, it was Capt. Frank Guest and Jack Powers who sparked the victory.

Guest, for the second time, scored four goals, and Powers scored the other two.

Guest this year, with two games to play, has 19 points with 15 goals and four assists.

Powers has 14 points with 11 goals and three assists.

Both are ninth graders and Hayes feels both will help the high school varsity next year.

"These boys have great moves and are terrific skaters," Ken said. "And both are tremendous shooters. I don't see how they can miss making the varsity team."

Powers put Quincy in front against Chelsea with Brian Bertoni, a great looking seventh grader, assisting. Guest scored the next two goals, Billy Hamill assisting on the first and the second being unassisted. It was Powers' turn again with Hamill setting him up, then Guest finished up with his third and fourth goals, both unassisted.

"I used every one of my 21 players in this game and have used nearly all of them in the past few games," Hayes explained. "I think when a boy practices all the time, he should play and I don't like to see any of them riding the bench."

S.S. Men's Candlepin Tourney Semi-Finals Sunday

The semi-finals of the 20th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney, sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy, will be held Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St., Quincy.

The Quincy Merchants, Quincy Church League, Colonial Merchants and East Weymouth are the four remaining teams of the 28 teams entered.

Last Sunday's quarterfinal round set the stage for this Sunday's action, as the Colonial Merchants ousted Boston Gear Works 1736-1702, Quincy Merchants walloped Federal Auto Body 1648-1506, and Quincy Church League edged out Penn A.A., 1642-1610. East Weymouth drew a bye, bowling high pinfall in the opening round to qualify for the semi-finals as the fourth participant.

Colonial Merchants jumped off to a 43 pin first string lead over Boston Gear Works and held on as the Gearmen gathered in the second by 20 pins, but dropped the final by 11.

Dick Ewell led Colonial with 386 and was assisted by Jim Powers 363. Bill Early was top for Boston Gear with 375.

Quincy Merchants had little trouble in making a clean sweep over Federal Auto Body capturing each string easily for their 142 pin victory.

Paul Paton fired a 347 to lead the winners, Mike Valenti followed with 343. Vic Triconi was the only one to hit the 300 mark with a 346 for Federal Auto Body.

Quincy Church League could only win one string from Penn A.A., but the middle string proved the lucky one for Quincy Church with the 60 pin win enough for their 32 pin victory.

The championship team will receive a $100 cash award and team trophy from the Koch Club, Tourney sponsor for the past 20 years. More than 2,000 men have participated in the tourney since its start in 1953, representing the best of 20,000 bowlers.

S. S. Women's Candlepin Tourney Sunday

The 18th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy opens Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St., Quincy.

Twelve women teams will compete in the opening round with the remaining teams entered on Feb. 25. Sunday's starters include:

The Hi-Lighters, Roller-Ettes, Women Merchants, Weymouth Eagles Auxiliary, Hi-Nooners, Weymouth Landing Ladies, 8 O'Clock Rollers, South Shore Bowlerettes, Coffee Royals, Lucky Strike, The Defending Champion Pin Ups, and the Koch Club Women tourney host.

Deadline for filing applications is today [Thursday] at The Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

Teams from any organized Women's Candlepin Bowling League are welcome to enter. No pickup teams are allowed. The top five bowlers in the standings are eligible to compete with the sixth and seventh bowlers used at alternates. Bowlers entered must have bowled half the season thus far with their respective league.

The winning team will receive individual trophies, and a $50 team prize, and trophies also for high average, three, and single strings.

Quincy Mite A's Defeat Hull

Mike Boussy and Frankie Malone combined in goal to frustrate the opposition Sunday as the Quincy Mite "A" team beat Hull, 6-2, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game at Hingham Arena.

Richie Stevens had the three-goal hat trick, Paul McCabe had a pair of goals and Tommy Murphy a single.

Assists were recorded by Mike McNiece [two], Kevin Chase, Kevin Craig and John Cummings.

In a non-league encounter, the Quincy Mites tied Braintree, 2-2, at Ridge Arena in Braintree.

Atlantic-North Wins Championship

High-scoring Warren Jordan provided the firepower as Atlantic-North beat Point, 46-38, and Broad Meadows, 41-21, last week to win the Junior High School League ninth grade basketball championship.

Jordan collected 13 points [Feb. 6] in the win over Point and an even dozen Feb. 8 in decision over Broad Meadows. Atlantic-North's record is 10 wins and no defeats.

Mike Kelly also had 13 points against Point and Bob Coughlin also had 12 against Broad Meadows. Mike Carloni was high for Point with 14 points and Chuck McDermott's four points paced Broad Meadows.

The Broad Meadows eighth grade team handed Atlantic-North its first defeat in 10 games, taking a 13-7 lead at halftime and holding on to win 23-22 on Jack Uhlar's winning basket.

Uhlar wound up with 12 points for Broad Meadows and Ricky Robinson had seven for Atlantic-North, whose record is now nine wins and one loss.

In other ninth grade games:

Central trounced Broad Meadows, 38-28, with Joe Devlin and Ed Mahoney getting eight points each and Paul Kelleher seven. Kevin Donovan had eight and Paul Ferris six for Broad Meadows.

Central also won a close struggle with Sterling, 31-29, as scoring was evenly divided among Ed Mahoney, seven, and Scott Roberts, Paul Kelleher and Jack Browne, six apiece. John Riggs had 12 and James Duggan six for Sterling.

In eighth grade contests:

Dick Morrison collected 12 points and Jack Uhlar 11 for Broad Meadows in a 37-23 victory over Central. Central's Jim Smith had 10 points and Dan Cuddy had eight.

Atlantic-North overwhelmed Point, 33-13, as Ricky Robinson got 12 points for the winners. Ed Daley's six was high for Point.

Central came back to take a 27-12 decision from Sterling as Jim Smith had nine points and Dan Cuddy eight. Mike Murphy's six was high for Sterling.

In seventh grade action:

Broad Meadows held Central scoreless through the final quarter but Central had built up a big enough lead to win, 16-15, as Brian Watts, Steve Germain and John Timmons showed the way with four points each. Ronnie Donovan had nine for Broad Meadows.

Joe Dean's two points was high for Atlantic-North in a low scoring 6-4 win over Point.

It was John Wilkeson whose four points were high for Atlantic-North as they beat Broad Meadows, 16-10. Gerry Lumley also had four for Broad Meadows.

Sterling's John Sylva had six points as his team beat Central, 10-8. Brian Watts had four for Central.

Quincy, North Hope For Winning Season

With each out of the championship running and with their season's series completed, the Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams have only one goal--a winning season.

Both teams have two games remaining and must win both to have winning records. Quincy appears to have the best chance with only last place Chelsea coming up Friday at 6:30 at Boston Arena and Somerville in the final game next Monday at 2 o'clock.

North, in contrast, must beat Everett Friday at 9 and first place Revere in the finale Monday at 12:30. The Raiders surprised by tying, the upsetting Revere.

Monday night Quincy nipped Everett, 1-0, to make its record 7-8-3. North squeezed by Chelsea, 4-3, to run its mark to 6-7-5.

Quincy's victory margin was gained on a 50-foot slap shot by Jim Starkey with 52 seconds left in the game. John Prescott and Paul Campbell assisted.

North had all it could do to get by Chelsea and it wasn't until midway in the final period it could break a 3-3 tie and score the clincher.

Chelsea took the lead at 1:03 of the game but Ken Graham converted Robbie Henderson's pass at 8:57 of the first period.

Henderson scored at 6:38 of the middle period with Graham assisting, but Chelsea tied it at 11:44.

The Raiders regained the lead at 2:52 of the last period when Andy Colleran set up Paul O'Donnell. Again Chelsea knotted it at 3:46 but at 5:02 Henderson scored the clincher with Graham again getting the assist.

After two hair-raising finishes which saw both Quincy and North gain last second ties, the Presidents finally edged the Raiders, 2-0, in their rubber meeting last week.

In past years North had proven fairly easy prey for Quincy but Sylvia is convinced this had definitely changed.

"It is a different kind of rivalry now than it used to be," Bob said. "North is no longer an easy game for us and this shapes up as a great rivalry. I think Ron has done a great job with his kids and I expect some tremendous games in the future."

Erikson, who has never beaten Quincy since taking over as coach two years ago, felt sorry for his seniors.

"These kids haven't beaten Quincy in the three years they've played at North and I know how badly they wanted this one," he said. I don't think they had a letdown after being eliminated from tournament contention, they never let down against Quincy. My hope now is that they can have a winning season, something North hasn't had for so long."

Al Lancione scored the insurance goal at 8:58 of the final period with Sean Polley setting it up.

Both goalies, Glen Prescott of Quincy and Jim Fatseas of North, played outstanding games.

"We really played as a team tonight but you've got to give credit to our goalie, Glen Prescott, and to John Prescott, who played all the way on defense," Sylvia said. "We had a balanced effort from our lines and the defense played well."

On The Screen

By Vincent Puleo

BURT LANCASTER retire? The Academy Award winning actor is seriously thinking about it-but not this year, rather in '74. LANCASTER'S 1973 schedule is far too heavy for him to hang up the gloves... His next outing "THE MIDNIGHT MAN" calls for him to star in, and co-produce, co-direct and co-write the screenplay. And that's not all '73 holds in store for him... England's SIR LEW GRADE is awaiting word from him to star in six one-hour films, and LANCASTER is wanted on Italian TV to portray the life of Moses...

And on the retirement trail ROBERT MITCHUM'S wife of 30 years says NO, Mrs. MITCHUM has read of too many persons dying after retiring too early from their professions... "POSEIDON ADVENTURE" producer IRWIN ALLEN has a "thing" about water. ALLEN has quite a background in aquatic cinema, and the feature "CITY BENEATH THE SEA" as well as "THE SEA AROUND US"... Asked why this preoccupation with matters maritime, ALLEN replied: "I'm subject to seasickness and am trying to find a cure." [ALLEN hasn't found it yet]...

INGMAR BERGMAN'S "CRIES AND WHISPERS", which copped four awards from the New York Film Critics, won't be eligible for Academy Award honors. The film didn't make the showing deadline in Los Angeles for the obligatory engagement prior to the end of the year... GENE HACKMAN isn't all that impressed with director FRANCIS FORD COPPOLA. He walked out on COPPOLA'S "THE CONVERSATION" because the latter was "childish, non-professional, and immature in his approach"... Like this columnist has been drumbeating for some time now, CHARLES BRONSON is Numero Uno at the international box office. The Man packs clout... And TONY CURTIS, what happened?...

Flipping thru the pages of time, JAMES MASON, now appearing in "CHILD'S PLAY", made his film debut in the 1935 picture "LATE EXTRA"... Among his many Hollywood-produced films MASON regards only a few as worthy of survival, such as "FIVE FINGERS" [one of my favorites], "A STAR IS BORN", and "THE DESERT FOX" [should have received an Academy Award]... However MASON is disillusioned with the Hollywood scene. His better pictures, he notes, were European made, like "THE MAN BETWEEN", "A TOUCH OF LARCENY" and the then controversial "LOLITA"...

Several weeks ago this column forecast that "THE LAST TANGO IN PARIS" could very well be one of the more controversial films of the 1973 season. Well, the controversy is already raging... Magistrates in Rome and Bologna [Italy] have indicted in absentia MARLON BRANDO and femme lead MARIA SCHNEIDER on charges of obscenity... Already the "TANGO" sparks are flying... The film was banned last month in all of Italy, and a trial is forthcoming because of a scene in the film depicting BRANDO committing sodomy with Miss SCHNEIDER... Oh and yes, director BERTOLUCCI is also going on trial in absentia as all three persons have no intention of being around...

The upshot of the whole matter is that many of Italy's leading film critics have characterized "LAST TANGO" as one of the best films since World War II... Whatever the outcome of the trial, this type of "publicity" never hurt any motion picture. If anything the film should be worth catching if just to see if the plaintiffs in question deserve what Italian officialdom is dishing out... At least BRANDO and SCHNEIDER aren't being brought to court for poor "acting"... From what this column has been able to ascertain, each of the participants threw themselves into their respective roles with bravura and gusto... What can I say?????...

Quincy Sweet Adelines Have New Director

The Quincy Chapter of Sweet Adelines held a business meeting after their recent rehearsal at All Soul's Church, Braintree, with Alice Pizzano, President, presiding.

Ruth Walkama, corresponding secretary reported that a letter of appreciation had been received from Thomas H. O'Connor, in behalf of the South Shore Association for Retarded Children, thanking the chapter for the gift of money it had received. This was a portion of the proceeds from the Adelines second annual show "A Song for All Seasons".

Three new members were voted and welcomed into the Quincy Chapter. They are Ms. Kay Wright, Tenor; Ms. Joyce Flansburg, Bass and Vivien Sacco, a Lead.

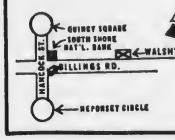
Any interested lady who would like to sing barbershop style is welcome to attend and visit with the Quincy Chapter on any of their Wednesday evening rehearsals. The chapter is always open to new members.

Cooking Meats

Meat cooked at low to moderate temperatures is more tender, juicy and flavorful than meat cooked at high temperatures, notes the Division of Markets, Massachusetts Department of Agriculture. There is more meat to serve because there is less shrinkage at low temperatures.

Beef may be cooked rare, medium, or well done.

Lamb is enjoyed either medium or well done, but veal and pork are usually cooked well done.



Broiling, pan-frying and roasting are recommended for tender meats only. Less tender cuts are more satisfactory if braised, pot-roasted, or simmered.

Frozen meat need not be thawed before cooking, but extra cooking time will be required if it is not thawed first.

RECITAL BY Rev. David F. Gallagher, Catholic priest, will be a highlight of dedication of rebuilt organ at Bethany Congregational Church, March 4.

Catholic Priest To Give Recital At Bethany Church Organ Dedication

An organ recital by Rev. David F. Gallagher, organist, will be presented at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center, at 4 p.m. on Sunday March 4.

The concert will mark the dedication of the newly rebuilt organ at Bethany Church. The public is invited.

Fr. Gallagher, a Catholic priest, is a member of the Stigmatine order, and former associate organist at Boston's Old South Church [Congregational]. He has played many recitals in Europe and the United States, in Protestant and Catholic churches and in Jewish temples.

Fr. Gallagher received his education in theology at the Stigmatine Fathers' Seminary, Waltham, and at the Pontifical Athaneum "Angelicum" in Rome, Italy. He earned a Bachelor and Master degree in Music at Boston University with organ as his major field and has studied at Saint Pius X School of Liturgical Music, College of the Sacred Heart, Purchase, N.Y., and at the Instituto Pontificio di Musica Sacra, Rome.

Among the selections to be played will be "Apparition de L'Eglise Eternelle" by Messiaen; "Fantasie and Fugue in G Minor" by Bach; "Variations on 'America'" by Ives; and "Prelude and Fugue on Sur Le Nom D'Alain" by Duruffle.

Rev. John D. Banks, pastor, will conduct the service of dedication. The organ was rebuilt with funds given by parishioners as a part of Project Advance, a major capital funds program begun three years ago.

The recital has been planned by the Music Committee of Bethany Church under the chairmanship of Mrs. John E. Krasinski. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Arthur R. Curtis, Mrs. Robert J. Caliri, Miss Mary Lou Glaman, Mrs. Irene M. Holbrook, Miss Barbara M. MacKay, Miss Leila Hunt, Mrs. Paul H. Miller Jr., Mrs. Richard E. Sprague and Stephen H. Byorkman. Miss Louise B. Forsyth, Bethany moderator, is publicity chairman.

The organ at Bethany dates from the building of the present structure at Coddington and Spear Sts. between 1927-1929. At that time the congregation moved from its old building at the site of what is now the South Shore National Bank.

The organ was the gift of the Misses Cora A. and Laura S. Hayward in memory of their mother, Mrs. Annie L. Hayward. All were active members of Bethany Church for many years.

The organ was built by William W. Laws of Beverly, a craftsman who operated his own organ shop, but who had parts manufactured to his requirements by larger factories. Some of the pipes from the old Ryder organ in the old church were incorporated into it.

Original cost of the organ was $25,350. The rebuilding of the organ which has just been completed by the Roy E. Carlson Company of Magnolia in collaboration with the Ernest M. Skinner Company of Newburyport, cost more than $40,000. The instrument is valued at a great deal more than that.

There are a series of organs, housed, for the most part, behind grilles in the chancel ceiling; the echo organ with chimes is located high up behind the screen near the west window. The console is visible in the chancel. The blower, which furnishes the wind for the pipes, is placed in a remote cellar below the chapel.

Organist for many years at Bethany Church was the late Mrs. Agnes Ruggles Allen. Present organist is Lambert W. Brandes of Eastern Nazarene College.

The organ at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy, was built by the Roy E. H. Carlson Company of Magnolia in collaboration with the Ernest M. Skinner Company of Newburyport.

The Bethany organ has a total of 51 stops, 2,654 pipes and 25 chimes.

'Future Shock' Movie At Quincy Community Forum

The first area showing of the highly acclaimed motion picture "Future Shock" will be shown at the Quincy Community Forum Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The showing will be at United First Parish Church [Unitarian], 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

Narrated by actor Orson Welles, the film is based on Alvin Toffler's best-seller. It brings to life on the screen social and scientific developments once considered bizarre and unbelievable. But it reveals that yesterday's fantastic predictions for the future are rapidly becoming today's realities.

"Future Shock" presents a stunning look at the collision between present and future occurring now.

Following the film presentation there will be a discussion period for the audience to react to the ideas portrayed in "Future Shock".

The program is open to the public.

Trinity Lutheran Church Selected For Parish, Ministry Pilot Test Project

Trinity Lutheran Church, 65 Roberts St., South Quincy has been chosen by the New England Synod of the Lutheran Church in America to be one of the churches involved in the Parish Life and Ministry Development Pilot Test Project.

Two hundred parishes throughout the United States and Canada of the Lutheran Church in America and American Lutheran Church will be selected to take part in this pilot test. The project is designed to help a congregation do a self study of itself and its community with the aid of resource people and test instruments.

The resource people for Trinity are Pastor Paul Kennedy, assistant to the President of the New England Synod, Pastor George E. Scheitlin, The Lutheran Church in America's liaison, and Pastor James Kimmell of Trinity Lutheran Church.

The time schedule for this pilot test will be the entire year of 1973. The results of the test will be "computerized" and if successful, used by all the churches of the Lutheran Church in America and American Lutheran Church.

All members of Trinity will be involved in the various areas of the pilot study. Rev. Kimmell, with a steering committee of Mrs. Hugh Rose, Mrs. Edmund Vaino, Mrs. Donald Robinson, Arthur Ahola, Mrs. Weikko Luoma and Thomas Whitworth will oversee the project at Trinity. Services Today For Dr. Charles Djerf

Said former Mayor James R. McIntyre:

"His monuments–the mended lives of many youngsters particularly the drug-inflicted, the Great Books discussion groups, the Quincy Symphony–will survive him as living memorials to this wonderful man."

Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, superintendent of public schools, recalled his own remarks at a testimonial given to Dr. Djerf in April, 1970, when more than 700 people honored him at an "Evening with Dr. Charles Djerf".

"Dr. Djerf is what we would hope every young person graduating from our public schools would be: a life-long learner," said Dr. Creedon.

"I don't mean that we seek to make every young person a scholar-physician- humanitarian as is Dr. Djerf, but we do hope to instill in them a love for learning.

"A citation from Henry Adams makes my point: 'What one knows it, in youth, of little moment; they know enough who know how to learn'.

"Charlie Djerf is a man who has carried on a life-long love affair with his fellow man and the most precious gift of man to his world: His children – our young people.

"In so doing, Charlie has shouldered many of the problems of the young, most frequently adding one more task to an already back-breaking burden."

Dr. Djerf was born in Quincy in 1910 of Finnish immigrant parents and he lived in Quincy for the rest of his life, attending the Willard School in West Quincy and Quincy High School.

He was graduated from Tufts in 1933, from Tufts Medical School in 1937 and interned in Worcester City Hospital. He was in the Navy during World War II and turned to pediatrics after the war.

Dr. Djerf was elected to the Quincy School Committee in 1953 and served for 16 years, during which time the school system expanded its programs for handicapped and gifted children and built Quincy Vocational Technical School.

After leaving the School Committee, he helped other Quincy people in the founding of Survival, Inc., in 1970, the same year in which he served for a month as a consultant aboard the CARE ship Hope off Honduras.

He was proclaimed "Citizen of the Year" by the Quincy Jewish War Veterans in 1966 and was the first to receive the Quincy Jaycees Distinguished Service Award in the same year.

He was chairman of the Citizens Transportation Committee which played a key role in bringing the MBTA rapid transit extension to the South Shore.

Dr. Djerf leaves his wife, Margaret, who lives at 872 Furnace Brook Parkway; a son, Charles Djerf of Quincy; and a daughter, Mrs. Midge Gordon of Hartford, Conn.; and seven grandchildren.

Dr. Frank J. Bauer of Wollaston Lutheran Church will officiate at funeral services. Burial will be in Blue Hills Cemetery, Braintree.

Bearers representing groups with which Dr. Djerf was actively associated, will be:

Sad Statistics On TB, Smoking, Pollution

More than 31,000 Americans will discover they have tuberculosis and about 3,500 will die from TB in 1973, according to John P. Dowling, president of the Norfolk County-Newton TB and Respiratory Disease Association.

Dowling offered these other predictions for the nation's health released by the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

* Of the new TB cases, approximately 40 percent will be found in cities with populations exceeding 250,000. Highest concentrations of the disease will be in areas of high density populations and low incomes.

* One million teenagers will take up smoking - 300,000 smoking-related deaths will occur. On the brighter, and healthier, side, two million smokers will kick the habit.

* Transportation will continue to be the chief cause of air pollution, spewing more than 100 million tons of carbon monoxide into the air we breathe. Cars, incinerators, factories and other sources will send an estimated 280 million tons of waste into the air, about one and one-third tons for each man, woman and child in the country.

* Emphysema will claim the lives of an estimated 21,300 persons and more than a half million new cases of the disease are expected.

* Bronchitis, emphysema and asthma, reported together by the National Center for Health Statistics will remain the ninth largest cause of death in the U.S.

* An estimated 265,000 Americans will enter hospitals for treatment of chronic bronchitis and emphysema.

* Acute respiratory conditions, primarily colds and influenza, will cause over 400 million bed disability days, 112 million school loss days and 137 million work loss days.

"These high tolls in illness and death can and must be reduced," Dowling said. "Each of us can help by supporting the work of the Norfolk County-Newton TB and Respiratory Disease Association.

Quincy Development At Stake

$1.8 Million For Projects 'Hopeful'

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy received $1.8 million from the federal government for community development in 1972.

And Geoffrey A. Davidson, director of the Department of Planning, Programming and Development, says he is "hopefull" that a similar sum will be forthcoming in 1973, despite federal budget cuts by President Nixon.

The $1.8 million was parcelled out, mostly by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Labor, a little bit at a time for specific purposes and projects.

The 1973 funds may come in the same way.

Or they may come as a block grant under special revenue sharing.

Or they may not come at all.

If, perish the thought, it is the latter and Quincy wants to continue its development programs, the city will have to ante up, by Davidson's estimate, between $1.5 and $2 million dollars a year.

That's up to $10 on the tax rate.

Most likely, though, Quincy will get a slightly lesser sum than last year through a special revenue sharing plan.

The plan has been proposed by the Nixon Administration but has not yet been introduced into the Congress. Consensus is that it will be passed eventually in some form.

"We anticipate getting the funds in a block grant," said Davidson. "Possibly we will not get as much as we did previously but we will not be drastically hurt if we are prepared for it.

"It will mean shifting gears for a different approach to federal funding. We will have to plan to get the maximum available and we will have to determine the priorities under which it will be spent."

Major items in his report for 1972 included $806,472 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and $856,724 from the Department of Labor for the emergency employment program.

The HUD grant went mostly [$729,372] to the Quincy Point Improvement project with $23,100 for open space land acquisition and $54,000 for other planning assistance.

'A Fitting Memorial'

Propose Naming New School In Memory Of Dr. Charles Djerf

Naming of the new Lincoln-Hancock School in memory of Dr. Charles Djerf loomed today as a strong possibility.

"It couldn't be a more fitting memorial to a man who dedicated his life to Quincy's children and to public service," School Committeeman Daniel Raymondi told The Quincy Sun.

"Dr. Djerf grew up in that area. He treated if not delivered many, many babies there. He served for many years with distinction as a member of the School Committee. A good part of his life was devoted to helping children."

Raymondi at last week's School Committee meeting suggested that Dr. Djerf's name be added to others for consideration for the honor.

School Committee Vice-Chairman Charles T. Sweeny, a personal friend of Dr. Djerf's, warmly supported the idea.

"I want to make it perfectly clear that there is no political motive here," said Raymondi. "I did not know Dr. Djerf personally. But I do know his record–what he did for this community and for its children.

"The new school is going to be a total community school. Dr. Djerf was totally commited to our community. I really think his name should be given main consideration."

The school is scheduled to open in the fall.

Other names suggested prior to Dr. Djerf's death Feb. 13 include former Norfolk County Treasurer Raymond C. Warmington who also served on the School Committee and attended the old Hancock School.

Warmington's name was suggested by School Committeeman Francix X. McCauley.

Other names suggested: Mayor Charles A. Ross, President John F. Kennedy, President Richard Nixon, Lincoln-Hanock Community School, James F. McCormick School, in honor of the former school committee vice-chairman.

"It's a little ironic," noted Raymondi. "They tell me when Dr. Djerf was a member of the School Committee he was opposed to naming schools after individuals.

"But I think we could overlook that. What more appropriate name for this school than the 'Dr. Charles Djerf Memorial School'? He is deserving of such a memorial."

Last Thursday friends and admirers from all walks of life filled historic United First Parish Church [Unitarian] to pay final tribute to Dr. Djerf.

The services were originally scheduled to be held at the

'Quincy Look Out' GD President's Topic At Annual Chamber Meeting

Hilliard W. Paige, President of the General Dynamics Corporation, will be the featured speaker at the South Shore Chamber annual meeting to be held in the evening March 1 at Valle's Steak House, Braintree.

Paige's subject is "QUINCY LOOK OUT".

A social hour will start at 6 p.m. with dinner served promptly at 7 p.m. Special item on the program includes a multi-media presentation on the 14 towns in the South Shore Chamber of Commerce. The meeting will adjourn at 9:10 p.m.

Paige's talk is expected to include a review of the corporation plans for the Quincy Division, which has in the past employed as many as 9,000. Currently employment stands at less than 4,000.

Paige was elected a Director of General Dynamics Corporation June 2, 1971, and President June 14, 1971.

Wollaston Woman , Gov. Wallace Have POW Bracelet In Common

Mrs. Marie Thornton of 760 Hancock St., Wollaston, and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama were watching for the same thing on television last week.

Both were hoping to catch a glimpse of Col. Robinson Risner of Oklahoma City, Okla., among the prisoners of war returned in Vietnam.

Mrs. Thornton and Gov. Wallace have been wearing bracelets dedicated to Col. Risner since 1971.

Recently, Mrs. Thornton received a letter from Col. Risner's wife, Kathie, in Oklahoma City, thanking her for wearing the bracelet on behalf of herself and her five sons, Robinson Jr., 23, Jeff 16, Paul 15, Tim 13, and Danny 10.

Mrs. Thornton, who is vice president of the Morrisette Post Auxiliary, said that she, like Gov. Wallace, plans to present the bracelet to Col. Risner as tangible proof that the people back home were thinking of him during his long years in prison.

Johnston Funeral Home, East Milton, but were shifted because the funeral home could not accommodate the huge crowd.

In a brief eulogy, Rev. Frank Bauer, pastor of Wollaston Lutheran Church summed up Dr. Djerf thusly:

"He was a real human being–a good, good, man."

Rev. Bauer added:

"His list of accomplishments is staggering, his services rendered to his nation, city and fellow man exhaust you just to read it.

"Long before 'getting involved' was part of our vocabulary, this man was living it–24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"He was always fighting for what was right–at least as he saw it."

Other clergymen participating in the services were Rev. Laurence M. Brock, chaplain Boston City Hospital; Rev. John R. Graham, minister United First Parish Church Unitarian.

Mrs. Gale Harrison was the organist and directed the Quincy High School Concert Choir in "America, The Beautiful" and "My Shepherd Will Supply My Need". The mourners sang the hymn "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God".

Forty Air Force Junior ROTC students from Quincy High School, commanded by Sgt. Edwin Frost, formed an honor guard into the church.

A 25-man detachment from the Ancient Honorable Artillery led by Col. James Lamphier also attended. Many nurses, doctors, and students were also present.

Bearers for the funeral represented the many active interests of Dr. Djerf during his life-time. They were:

Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, superintendent of Quincy schools; Richard Mann, Quincy Symphony Orchestra; Joseph Whiteman, Survival, Inc.; Charles T. Sweeny, Quincy Junior College and Quincy School Committee; Frank Vallier, Great Books Council; Edward Percy, president Quincy Rotary Club and also long-time friends, Louis Cassani and Henry Curtis.

Honorary bearers, all past presidents of the Quincy Rotary Club, were: Heslip Sutherland, Dr. Edmond Demski, A. Wendell Clark, Frank Bushman, Russell Scammell, Bert Eckblom, George Bonsall, Nissie Grossman and Joseph Pinel.

In a touching tribute, the funeral cortege drove along Furnace Brook Parkway to the Blue Hill Cemetery. It passed between the Willard School and Dr. Djerf's medical building.

Youngsters filled the Willard School yard to watch the cortege pass.

And in front of the medical building children he treated as a pediatrician stood at attention and saluted.

Finance Committee Begins Public Budget Sessions Saturday

The Quincy City Council, sitting as a finance committee-of-the-whole, will hold its first hearing on the proposed $87.2 million city budget Saturday at 9:30 a.m. in the Council Chamber.

The public is invited to be heard by submitting questions or suggestions in writing through their ward councillors.

Sections of the budget to be taken up Saturday include: city clerk, elections and registrations, vital statistics, auditor, assessors, treasurer, collector, central accounting.

Also general services payroll, workmen's compensation, personnel, civil service, retirement board, law department, purchasing, licensing board, and civil defense.

"We're going to take our time going through this," said John J. Quinn, chairman of the finance committee. "These requests involve several million dollars. We will scrutinize them very, very carefully."

Mayor Walter J. Hannon already has pruned $7.7 million out of the budget, which this year covers 18 months instead of the usual 12 months.

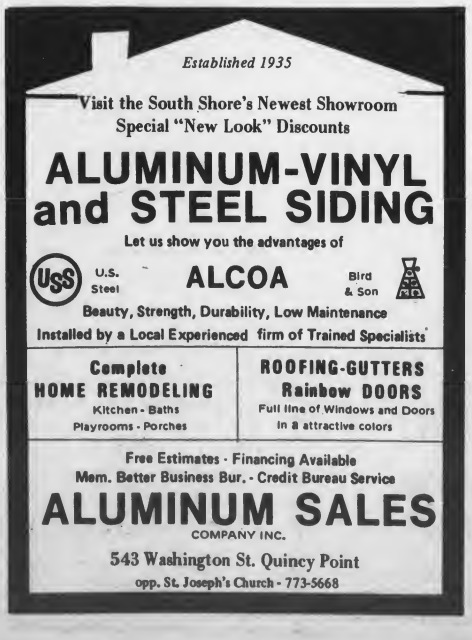
$1.8 Million From U.S. 'Hopeful'

[Cont'd from Page 1]

The city also got $115,787 from the Office of Emergency Planning for disaster relief assistance and $37,000 from the Department of Transportation for highway safety administration.

Also $29,215 from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for self-help conservation.

"There will be dramatic changes ahead for Quincy in obtaining federal funds as a result of policy changes proposed in Washington," said Davidson's report.



"Because categorical grant programs will be severely cut back or eliminated under the Nixon Administration, Quincy will lose programs such as the Quincy Point Improvement Project.

"However, it is anticipated that 'Special Revenue Sharing for Community Development and Improvement' will make block grants available."

Special Promotion, Fine Weather Make Cash Registers Jingle

Merchants credited fine weather and the special Washington's Birthday promotions with bringing a large number of people into Quincy Square. The promotion featured such items as a $200 diamond a $93 pair of skis, and a TV set for 22 cents.

"The special efforts made by Quincy merchants was greatly rewarded," enthused Robert Colman, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

"Traffic in the downtown area was very heavy but the flow was very well controlled by the police.

"We had customers coming in from outlying areas that are not normally ours.

"The promotion was a success. I hope that in the future merchants will participate in other promotions as they did in this one."

Colman said business was very good at his own store, Colman's Sporting Goods, particularly measured by the drawing in which the winner got a pair of $93 skis for 22 cents.

"We've had drawings before," said Colman, "but this is the strongest we've ever had."

Remo DeNicola of South Shore Television & Appliance said Monday in his store was a "fantastic day".

"This was the best single day we have had in two years," he said. "It was a better day even than any day during the Christmas shopping seasons of the past two years.

"We had wall-to-wall people in our store all day Monday."

As an added attraction, South Shore Television sold cherry and apple pies for 22 cents each.

"We sold out – 550 of them," said DeNicola.

Sumner Cohen of Kincaide's said it was "the best Washington's Birthday we've ever had. We haven't seen traffic like that downtown in a long while.

"One thing that pleased me was the number of people from out of town that came to Quincy. It shows that when people have a day off they are willing to travel to do their shopping.

Jason Feldman of Jason's Luggage and Music Shop estimated that business in his store was up by as much as 35 per cent.

Jerry Hurwitz of Sawyer's said sales figures for the day were almost double those of the previous year.

"We are quite pleased," he said. "Judging by the response to our 22 cent drawing [a $69.50 suede or leather coat] the day was very successful. By noon, the box was overflowing with applications."

Remick's general manager John Callahan said business in his store was "about the same as last year. It was a good day."

Ted Johnson of Granite City Hardware reported business down about 10 per cent below last year "but it was a good day. We were pleased with the promotion. There were a lot of people around and that's important in the long run."

Patrolman Ralph Bergonzi Receives Jaycees Award For Fire Rescue

Patrolman Ralph Bergonzi who rescued a Germantown woman trapped in her burning fifth-floor apartment, has been cited by the Quincy Jaycees.

The presentation was made by John H. Keeney, chairman of the Jaycees award committee and Jaycees President Charles J. Leonard.

Participating were Mayor Walter J. Hannon, City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

Bergonzi will have his name engraved on a large plaque that hangs on the wall at the police station. He received a smaller trophy at the ceremonies.

In addition, Bergonzi will receive a dinner for two, compliments of Dutton's Restaurant.

Last October he was given two days off with pay by Chief Finn.

"At 10:11 P.M. on April 17, 1972, Officer Ralph Bergonzi responded to a fire on the fifth floor of the Oceanview Apartments in Germantown.

"The fire was confined to the apartment of Mrs. Helen Melville. Unable to get in the front door of Mrs. Melville's apartment, Officer Bergonzi went through an adjoining apartment to a balcony and climbed a railing to Mrs. Melville's balcony. Through locked glass doors, he could see a woman lying on the floor of the burning apartment.

"With his police club, Officer Bergonzi broke the glass and entered the apartment, only to be driven out by heavy smoke. Again, he entered and was successful, dragging the woman into the corridor, closing a fire-door behind them.

"Mrs. Melville and Officer Bergonzi were both taken to the Quincy City Hospital by Police ambulance for smoke inhalation. In addition, Officer Bergonzi received a leg injury.

"For his exhibition of courage and the disregard of his personal safety, in removing this woman, Patrolman Ralph Bergonzi is hereby officially commended and awarded two days off without loss of pay."

By PAUL HAROLD

Everyone knows that today, Feb. 22, is George Washington's birthday, [even though we celebrated it Monday] but did you know that it's also Quincy's Birthday.

It was 181 years ago, in 1792, that Braintree's North Precinct was incorporated into the separate town of Quincy. The town was named for Colonel John Quincy of Mount Wollaston, one of the town's leading citizens, who served as Speaker of the Massachusetts Assembly, Colonel of the Militia and member of the Governor's Council.

Colonel John Quincy was John Quincy Adams' great-grandfather, for whom the sixth President was named. Colonel Quincy died on the day J. Q. Adams was christened.

At the first town meeting in May, however, a number of citizens were not happy with the name, and wanted to change it from Quincy to Hancock, in honor of the town's native-son, John Hancock. Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence was Governor at the time and was at the height of his popularity.

A stormy debate on the name change developed, but the move was finally defeated, and the name has remained Quincy, ever since.

CONGRESSMAN JAMES BURKE has invited Rev. John Graham of the First Parish Church to give the opening invocation at the U.S. House of Representatives on March 13.

ALSO TRAVELLING to Washington is Quincy teacher Margaret King, who with the Massachusetts Teachers' Association will protest President Nixon's proposed budget cuts, which reportedly would decrease federal spending in Massachusetts by $9 million.

MRS. RUTH ROSELAND of Merrymount has arranged for the visit of Dr. Ching Unyen Ting of China to Quincy. He will speak Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at 1000 Southern Artery on acupuncture.

AT LAST WEEK'S City Council meeting, Council President Arthur Tobin introduced a resolve, congratulating the Koch Club on its 25th anniversary.

It was founded by Richard of North Quincy, now executive secretary of the Park-Recreation Board.

Incidentally, the club's only honorary member was the late President John F. Kennedy. In 1958, when he was still a Senator, Kennedy was presented his membership card, baseball and T-shirt during ceremonies at Cavanaugh Field. [The photo of JFK at Cavanaugh Field can be seen in Koch's office in the JFK Health Center].

LISA McELANEY of North Quincy High School, an associate member of the School Committee, testified recently before the legislative education committee. SPEAKING OF THE School Committee, the flurry of bumper stickers seen around Quincy Square for "Kiley for School Committee" have nothing to do with Quincy's upcoming fall election.

She started out singing and dancing in mining towns of the Old West [where drunken miners would shower the stage with gold dust], and at the age of 17, she was known as "Lotta the California Diamond". She went on to become one of America's most famous actresses and when she died in 1924, she was Boston's second largest individual taxpayer, with assets of $3.3 million.

In 1905 she bought a stable in Atlantic with 20 horses and in 1911 she purchased the Burkhardt estate in Squantum.

On her death, her property was divided up into house lots, but a number of streets in Squantum retain names associated with the "California Diamond". Crabtree Rd, of course was named for Miss Crabtree. Sonoma Rd, was named for one of her favorite horses, "Sonoma Girl" and Livesey Rd was named after Lotta's mother's maiden name.

- Haldeman Watergate Target
- Vending Machines In Schools
- Methadone Scandal In Making

WASHINGTON — The top target in the Senate investigation of the Watergate scandal will be President Nixon's chief of staff, Bob Haldeman.

Senate sleuths, we have learned, have tracked Watergate clues to the bright young men around Haldeman. There is solid evidence that at least two of Haldeman's proteges, Dwight Chapin and Gordon Strachan, knew of the Watergate operation.

The investigators will be able to show that Haldeman and Chapin were particularly close. On his way to the White House in the mornings, Haldeman used to route his limousine past Chapin's house and pick him up.

Chapin has admitted to the FBI that he ordered payments made for espionage and sabotage against Democratic presidential candidates during 1971 and 1972. White House insiders say that Chapin took his orders from Haldeman and could never have issued these instructions on his own.

Gordon Strachan also operated under the direct supervision of Haldeman. Senate investigators will be able to establish that Strachan was in direct touch with G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt, Jr., who directed the espionage operation against the Democrats. Both Liddy and Hunt were convicted at the Watergate trial.

White House press spokesman Ronald Ziegler has denied that Haldeman knew anything about the Watergate intelligence-gathering activities. But Ziegler, too, works directly under Haldeman's control. And the tight little circle around Haldeman seems determined to protect him at all costs.

The slightest suggestion that Haldeman had any knowledge of the Watergate affair brings howls of indignation. But at least one witness has told investigators that Haldeman himself issued the orders to organize the Republican espionage and sabotage operation.

Haldeman is the most powerful man in the White House, second only to the President. The Democrats in the Senate would dearly like to entangle him in the Watergate scandal.

Food for Profit

The vending machine companies pulled a sleeper last year that will increase their profits at the expense of children's eating habits. Their lobbyists slipped a clause in the federal school lunch program, which will permit vending machines to be installed in schools. This means candy bars, potato chips and soda pop will be available to children with pocket change while school lunches are being served.

From a federal standpoint, the Agriculture Department merely has to wave the checkered flag and the machines will be rolled into the cafeterias to lure youngsters away from more nutritious food.

The venders, in a hurry to collect their new profits, are rushing efforts to install their machines in the cafeterias. Local soft drink bottlers in many states, for example, are writing governors advising them of the new law. A typical letter from Coca Cola advises the governor of New Mexico that President Nixon has signed the vending machine bill and that it will mean a boon to the state's economy.

What the soft-drink people don't say, of course, is that the money will come from the pockets of children who might otherwise drink milk rather than soda pop at lunch.

The competition from vending machines will also leave children with less money to spend on more wholesome cafeteria food. This could cause a serious setback for the federally-supported food service programs. These programs have trouble breaking even as it is.

Alarmed school officials, therefore, intend to raise a howl on Capitol Hill to get the law reversed. They will charge that Congress defaulted in its responsibility to encourage nutrition among school children. Even without the new lure of soda pop and candy bars in the cafeterias, one official told me, our schools are failing miserably to teach youngsters to eat the right foods.

Methadone Scandal

Medical officials have clamped the lid on a major methadone scandal in New York City. The scandal could discredit the nation's only widely accepted method of treating heroin addicts.

New York City, home of over half the heroin addicts in the nation, now treats 30,000 addicts in methadone programs. Methadone deaths have risen so meteorically during the past year that Gordon Chase, the city commissioner in charge of health services, has sought to quiet the criticism.

Competent sources tell me that Chase has ordered the city medical examiner's office to list the methadone deaths as "drug related" or "cause unknown" in an attempt to hide the methadone accidents. These sources say that 500 addicts died of methadone overdose last year. On at least one occasion, a young Puerto Rican was administered a fatal overdose by a physician in a New York hospital.

Many of the licensed methadone clinics are run for profit, sometimes by persons with no experience in the medical profession. A restaurateur and a building contractor, for example, operate methadone clinics.

At some methadone centers, doctors dish out the drug like short-order cooks, overprescribing methadone if the patients have the money to pay. Clinics closed for the weekends permit patients to take home extra dosages to last until Monday. Frequently, the patients resell the methadone to untreated addicts. Many heroin addicts supplement their "high" with other drugs. Experts consider methadone particularly dangerous when mixed with other drugs.

A spokesman for New York City's health services justified the practice of not mentioning methadone in all deaths that involve methadone. He explained that other drugs are also involved, so the examiners can't be sure that methadone caused the deaths. The spokesman acknowledged, however, that the methadone program in New York City is "looser than we would like."

● QUESTION OF THE WEEK

What About Executive Council?

Many questions have been received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone about the Executive Council. People have been reading that the Governor will appoint many judges this year to replace those retiring at age 70 and all those appointments require approval by the Executive Council. Callers want to know who are the members of the Council and how are they chosen.

The Voter Information Phone gave each caller the name of his councillor and explained that Massachusetts is one of only three states that have an Executive Council. Often called the Governors Council, it consists of eight councillors, plus the Lieutenant Governor, elected every two years from large districts composed of five contiguous state senatorial districts.

Their major function is to confirm judicial and quasi-judicial appointments made by the Governor, and to give consent to his granting of pardons. They receive $4,000, plus travel allowance, annually and meet once a week on Wednesdays at 11 a.m. at the State House. After a brief closed executive session the meeting is open to the public.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP Phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Students May Get SS Benefits After 22nd Birthday

Students who get monthly social security payments may now get checks for a time after their 22nd birthday, according to Frank Culkin, social security district manager in Quincy.

Under a change in the law, an undergraduate student can continue to get social security payments through the end of the semester or quarter in which he reaches age 22, Culkin said.

If the student's school does not use the semester or quarter system, payments can continue until he completes the course he's taking or two months after he reaches 22, whichever comes first.

"The change means students will no longer face the problem of having their benefits stop in the middle of a school term," Culkin said.

About 590,000 students are now getting monthly checks because a parent insured under social security retired, became disabled, or died. Checks for dependent children normally stop at age 18, but payments continue to 22 for young people who are in school full time and remain unmarried.

Under previous law, social security payments stopped when the student reached 22.

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

You expect your neighborhood service station operator to be honest, friendly and efficient. The vast majority are.

But inevitably there are those who "fill the bill" in a different sense–especially when dealing with strangers. These are the few unscrupulous dealers who practice a modern form of highway robbery, charging you for gas already sold to someone else.

It works this way: The motorist who precedes you buys only $1 or $2 worth of gas and, either deliberately or carelessly, the attendant fails to turn the meter back to zero.

He has "primed the pump" and when you pull in for a fill up, you end up being charged not only for the gas delivered into your tank, but that sold to the previous motorist as well.

Today there is a law to protect motorists from this kind of "double dealing".

According to this statute, which became effective in 1971, station retailers are liable for fines of fifty dollars when they sell or deliver fuel without first setting the pump back to zero. If they repeat the offense, they can be fined one hundred dollars.

The law also provides that the price the consumer is charged cannot exceed the price advertised on the gas pump. Station attendants who adjust the meter so that the customer pays more per gallon than indicated on the pump will be subject to the same fifty and one hundred dollar penalties.

With today's high costs Massachusetts consumers should not have to pay for more than they get. If any consumer feels that he has been charged for gasoline which he has not asked for, he should contact the Consumer Protection Division.

'Don't You Dare Disturb Me'

I once heard an old preacher say that his job in the pulpit was to comfort the disturbed...and to disturb the comfortable. In my 25 years in the pulpit I found there were many comfortable that I couldn't disturb...and indeed some disturbed whom I couldn't comfort. I tried hard to do both.

Right now I'm concerned with disturbing the comfortable...those men who are comfortable behaving as babies...because their mothers have always babied them they still expect to be babied by their wives. They need to be disturbed to grow up and act as men.

I'm concerned with disturbing the grown women who are uncommunicative with their husbands. Little wonder many men have affairs and spend more evenings in the bar rooms than in their own homes. There's someone in the bar room who will talk with them. Something needs to disturb these women...they don't need to continue the silent bit...it's not golden...it's not adult...it's devastating to a marriage. These need to be disturbed to start talking.

I'm concerned with the fellow who insists he's not alcoholic...yet every week becomes drunk...can't remember what he's said or done...nor why his family is cold to him. He needs to be disturbed...to face honestly his drink problem.

I'm concerned with the persons who don't want to think...who resent their partners asking why?...who refuse to analyze the various transactions of life and their relationship...who take an anti-intellectual attitude toward everything. I don't care if you did only go to the 10th grade...you can still learn. These need to be disturbed...to start learning again.

Now I recognize that there are some problems which will never be resolved in this life. I remember at age 14 a double murder that took place in our Kansas town...which to this day has not been solved. If I'd gone the route of law I think I'd have gone back to that little town...opened that thing up...shocked the "good" people who didn't want to get involved...nor disturbed. That will probably never be solved. Now...nobody got disturbed about it. And unless you get disturbed some of your personal problems likewise...may never be resolved. But if you're terribly unhappy with your situation look at these suggestions...

First...Get disturbed enough to do something about your problem. Understand it...get information...see how others are handling similar problems. This is what happens in therapy groups. Either you learn how to resolve the problem...or how to cope with it. But first you must be sufficiently disturbed.

Secondly...Be undaunted about your search for a solution. Don't be intimidated by threats...by ridicule...by demeaning words. These are games which people play who don't want to change. Let your disturbance run until it gets satisfied with corrective action.

I do not believe "where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise"...do you? I see little advantage to ignorance anywhere. Knowledge leads to freedom...to truth...to getting disturbed...and to new life.

Returns From Texas Caucus

'Women Interested In Bread And Butter Issues,' Says Mrs. Pleshaw

Mrs. Geraldine Pleshaw of Merrymount was among the 10 delegates from Massachusetts recently attending the first annual convention of the National Women's Political Caucus in Houston, Tex.

Active in community affairs, Mrs. Pleshaw helped organize the Quincy Women's Day and was one of the founders of the South Shore Women's Caucus. A former Democratic State Committeewoman, she is presently a special assistant to Mayor Kevin White, as well as an instructor at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard.

Purpose of the convention was to pick a chairwoman for the national caucus and to try to give it direction by developing policies and political strategies. Sissy Farenthold of Texas, runner-up for Governor of that state and candidate for the Democratic nomination for Vice President, was elected chairwoman.

Mrs. Pleshaw, who has been involved in politics for the past eight years, points out that it is only recently that women are getting together to form a block of interested and informed people.

"In Quincy and the nation," she said, "women are sick and tired of being laughed at because it's not traditional for them to be a part of the political process."

"You don't have to be a radical to be involved in the women's movement and you don't have to leave your home and children. For the most part, the group is interested in bread and butter issues, equal pay and equal job opportunity, guidance for mothers who wish to return to the work force after their children are grown, and programs to encourage women to continue their education."

At the Houston convention, Mrs. Pleshaw was elected Massachusetts delegate to the national policy council of the Women's Caucus, and will travel to Washington in April to work with that group.

She is a graduate of Boston State College with a master's degree from Northeastern University, a member of the Board of Directors of the Merrymount Association and a member of the Wollaston Women's Club Juniors. She is married to Atty. Robert Pleshaw.

Peace Corps - VISTA Recruiting Drive Here

A special Peace Corps/VISTA Community Recruiting Drive for the South Shore area will be held Feb. 26 - March 2, at the Carlton House Motor Inn, 29 Hancock St., North Quincy.

The drive, headed by Charles Murray, former Peace Corps Volunteer in Chile, will focus on the need for more skilled tradesmen and semi-skilled tradesmen.

"Most tradesmen don't realize that the Peace Corps and VISTA need their skills," said Murray, who put his training as an electrician to work in setting up an electrical shop in Temuco, Chile.

The fact is that 10 per cent of the Peace Corps Volunteers overseas have skilled trades backgrounds, and each year the number grows.

Some people would have you think the funeral director invented the funeral. Actually the funeral has existed since the beginning of recorded history. And in a world of constant change nothing endures long that has little value.

The funeral has always been the keystone example of the adage — "Grief shared is grief diminished." For the bereaved, the funeral can be that first, important step toward emotional adjustment to their loss.

There are many impelling reasons why the funeral has remained a ceremony of proven worth. Most of them are contained in a thoughtful brochure compiled by the National Funeral Directors Association. You ought to read it.

Five other NFDA brochures discuss: arranging a funeral, funeral costs, the presence of the body, the condolence visit, and children and death. You will find them all most helpful because they are based on experience, research and knowledge.

North Students, Teachers, Parents On Ski Trip To Italian Alps

By PAUL GOSLIN

A lot of people believe that a person has to be extremely rich to be able to take a weeks vacation skiing in the Alps. Not so at North Quincy High School.

Ralph Frazier of NQHS, has organized a ski trip to the Italian Alps. This week over 90 people are enjoying themselves in the mountains of Italy, thanks to his efforts.

Mr. Frazier started organizing this year's trip in early September. The original idea came from John Pierce, a former teacher at North, who organized the first of these February Ski Trips five years ago. This year Mr. Pierce will accompany the trip as a chaperone.

The cost to each person is $300. Mr. Frazier has organized a trip well worth the money. They are staying in Valtournach, Italy in the Hotels Bich and Punta Marguerita. From this area they can see and travel to many places of interest and beauty.

Only 10 kilometers away is Charmonia. Here they can ski down the mountains into Zurmat, Switzerland. They may also see the world famous Matterhorn. Immediately to the south is Aosta. This is an ancient Roman city with many examples of Roman Architecture. To the west is the Brenner Pass through which they may pass into France and the French Alps.

They plan possible side trips to Milan, Venice and Genoa although the primary intent of the trip is to ski.

The group left and will return on a 747 with a stop-over in Milan.

Mr. Frazier wished to note the cooperation of the School Committee and the Quincy Public School System for allowing the group to travel under their auspices.

Mr. Frazier, himself, deserves a great deal of credit for undertaking this project for the students benefit.

WARD SIX Councillor, J. Vincent Smyth, kisses his daughter Nancy as she prepares to board the flight.

Student ID Cards To Appear This Month

By MARY POOLE

During a recent interview with Mr. Collins it was revealed that the long-awaited student "membership" [identification] cards are scheduled to appear by the end of February.

Within a week or two the process of photographing all underclassmen will have been started, followed by the registration for the 1972-73 school year memberships.

The student ID, which was talked about for three years during the Walsh administration, never materialized; largely due to lack of funds for the appropriate photography equipment to carry out the original plan of inexpensive, "school-made" cards.

The alternative, to engage a commercial photographer was delayed by the problem of securing bid specifications that were agreeable to all the parties involved.

Student identification cards were thought of as a measure to regulate the flow of unauthorized persons entering and leaving the school, and thus reduce the amount of theft within the school.

They would also provide a positive means of identification for admittance to school dances and athletic events, as well as an age specification for special student discounts and travel benefits.

Cooperation Key For Tri–Hi–Y Variety Show

It has been the custom in this city to expect somewhat touchy or even violent reactions when North and Quincy students are together. The annual Girls' Tri-Hi-Y Variety Show however remains one of the few combined school events where cooperation and not competition is the keyword.

On last Wednesday and Thursday evenings, at 7 p.m., the Tri-Hi-Y Variety Show was performed before capacity crowds at the Quincy YMCA. This show is the production of girls from both North and Quincy High Schools, who are associated with the Tri-Hi-Y organization. Over the past 14 years, this organization and the annual variety show has been under the direction of Mrs. Roger Whitcomb. Along with producing this show, the Tri-Hi-Y organization tries to serve the community in many other aspects.

Upon entering the auditorium, one could find alumni, parents, friends and present students from both schools that made a most appreciative and congenial audience. Yet the laurels belonged to the girls of Tri-Hi-Y, who by their dedication and hard work, made this show a success.

The show consisted of 18 acts that were organized and performed by the various sophomore, junior and senior Tri's. The music ranged from vaudeville to rock and roll, the costumes from rolled up dungarees to hot pink leotards, all that was required for an evening of entertainment.

Many of the acts were commendable song and dance routines, yet two seemed to stand out as highlights of the show. "Monster Mash" performed by the NQH seniors, was a hilarious pantomine to the well known novelty song, and "Chantilly Lace", performed beautifully by Quincy seniors, was a nostalgic look at the 50's.

A sincere thank-you is extended to WJDA for taping all of the music used.

The finale consisted of all the girls singing "What the World Needs Now" and the expression on their faces seemed to reveal their thoughts. For some it meant the end of their involvement was near, to others, it was just beginning. Mrs. Whitcomb, whose hard work and dedication is ever so present, was presented with flowers and candy from the girls.

The proceeds from the show are used to fund four scholarships which are awarded to two North and Quincy High seniors on the basis of their dedication, hard work and over-all attitude. The winners of these scholarships will be announced sometime in April.

PICKWICK SYNDROME

There is a new malady in medical annals whose name is attributed to Charles Dickens' "Pickwick Papers" in which a very extraordinary boy could go on errands fast asleep and even wait on tables while he was snoring. It is called the Pickwickian Syndrome. It usually, but not always, affects obese persons. Sufferers from it live in an overpoweringly drowsy state and sometimes literally fall asleep standing up. For reasons as yet unknown, although it possibly involves a brain malfunction governing respiratory rates and depth of respiration, such patients are unable to exhale efficiently. They retain carbon dioxide in their lungs and circulatory systems, crowding out oxygen and creating a condition close to sleep or drowsiness. They are accident prone, since they may fall asleep while driving.

With a sound diet and more exercise, patients lose weight and increase oxygen intake thus finding it easier to stay awake.

On The Screen

By Vincent Puleo

Here today, gone tomorrow, that's how the 41st Annual Motion Picture Herald's poll of theatre owners reads for 1972... Up front where it counts, CLINT EASTWOOD is the number one box office draw in America today. EASTWOOD, and he alone, attracted more greenbacks through the turnstiles than any other personality in the film industry last year...

For some, 1972 was a bad year. A drop in popularity from the year before. For others a rebirth...a return to "status"...a signal of new found fan appeal. And for a few on this year's list a warning to get with it, or no longer be considered a box office star... In order of box office clout, the Top Ten Herald's poll goes like this: CLINT EASTWOOD, GEORGE C. SCOTT, GENE HACKMAN, JOHN WAYNE, BARBRA STREISAND, MARLON BRANDO, PAUL NEWMAN, STEVE McQUEEN, DUSTIN HOFFMAN and GOLDIE HAWN...

Some interesting results can be drawn from comparing the 1972 and 1971 Herald poll. ALI MacGRAW, WALTER MATTHAU, SEAN CONNERY and LEE MARVIN [1971 alumni] didn't make it in '72... Personally I never considered MATTHAU a "big" star. His not making last year's list came as no shock... But CONNERY missing it did. "DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER" was one of the big moneymakers of '72. So how do you figure it?... As for LEE MARVIN? Wheww! He has nobody to blame but himself... None of his pictures last year caused any ripples at the box office [but plenty of poor reviews]...

As for ALI? Well let's put it this way. If you're not on the screen, how can anyone go and see you?... The only film she was in last year was "THE GETAWAY", and that a December release. She is still a winner. A draw with fan appeal... The 1973 Herald poll will have her on it, and that's a four star prediction...

And PAUL NEWMAN'S in trouble. Last year he was number three on the list [1971], and in '72 he fell to slot position seven... Next year's poll [1973] could very possibly be a NEWMAN-less "unheralded" year... Tell ya why... For the last nine years he has been on the list. NEWMAN peaked in 1969 and 1970 when he ruled the roost as the number one star. He's slipping. To be honest, if he doesn't come up with a winner soon, PAUL NEWMAN may have to resign himself to being a director only...I don't think his ego could stand not being a superstar...

Ah, but for MARLON BRANDO a long awaited rebirth. The last time he made the Herald list was 14 years ago in 1958 when he placed fourth among the top money-earners... BRANDO was number six in '72, and could be a strong contender for number one in '73 with the much awaited "LAST TANGO IN PARIS"... This was the first time HACKMAN and HAWN drew Top Ten praise. HACKMAN will be around for years to come, but I have my doubts about GOLDIE HAWN... And DUSTIN HOFFMAN get with it. He went from slot six to nine in one year. Is he fading?

And perennial JOHN WAYNE was knocked out of his '71 position as America's top star. For anyone else going from one to four would read like a low score, but when your name is JOHN WAYNE, and you've made the Herald poll for a record setting 23rd appearance, like no sweat baby...

Compulsory Retirement Employer 'Cop Out'

By PUTNAM S. BORDEN
Executive Director
Quincy Council On Aging

Webster defines retirement as "withdrawal from ones position or occupation," and for some fortunate seniors, this is true. They do, at their own discretion, retire.

However, most, unfortunately do not have this privilege. Retirement today, for the many, is a euphemism, a polite way of saying something unpleasant. This is because it is preceded by the word compulsory.

What, really, is compulsory retirement? Well, we're told that it provides the individual, an opportunity to enjoy the leisure of his or her later years. The argument is also advanced that it opens up opportunities for advancement to the younger worker. These are some of the many reasons advanced by both business and government in justification of the procedure. However, the point on which no one cares to dwell is that it is termination not retirement and that it is compulsory not optional.

Are you familiar with the jargon of the young people? They have a very descriptive phrase, "cop out". In my opinion compulsory retirement is just this, a "cop out". I base this on long experience in the Personnel field with business and government. In making retirement compulsory, employers are using a convenient means to avoid dealing with individual problems.

They do not wish to face the very unpleasant task of determining which employees are no longer able to make, because of the infirmities of advancing age, a continuing contribution. While it is true that many elderly people are no longer capable of working, it is also true that at age 65 many, and possibly even more, can continue to do "a fair days work for a fair days pay". So we are faced with literally throwing out the baby with the bath water.

In my opinion, retirement should be optional, subject to a meeting of the minds between employer and employee. I believe the employer should establish reasonable criteria as qualification to continue work beyond age 65 such as a physical examination, capability to produce work at a level of reasonable expectancy and for any other objective measurements relating to performance.

However, for the individual meeting these requirements, the choice of continuing to work or retiring should be optional.

Why do I say this? Quite honestly, I have come to believe that compulsory retirement; enforced idleness, may well be as much a contributor to death as many of the major illnesses. Time and time again, I have seen older people, forced into retirement, vegitate and die.

When a working man or woman is told, "you must retire", they are being told, in reality, "you are no longer useful". One can argue this point but it is the essence of the retirement trauma, rejection by society.

Now, how do we deal with the problem? At this point, I am frank to admit I don't really know. Legislation is an obvious avenue and I would strongly suggest that Senior Citizen organizations address themselves to this. I believe another possibility lies in developing channels and resources in which the talents of the retired can be utilized and this, as I have said before, is a major priority of my office, the bringing together of skills, resources, and needs which will involve our active seniors.

The Council on Aging is, at present, actively exploring with other concerned agencies, available avenues of voluntary service. In doing so, we hope to, in some small way, alleviate the injustice of compulsory retirement.

Brownell Seeks Property Tax Relief For Elderly Homeowner

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] appeared before the Committee on Taxation last week to seek property tax relief for the elderly homeowner.

"In 1972 property taxes increased $199 million over 1971's total of $1.85 billion," Brownell said. "This increased levy hit the elderly the hardest since they are on fixed incomes. The elderly now find themselves in dire need of legislation to cushion further property tax increases.

"My bills House 3179 and House 2385 are designed to help the elderly who are struggling to hold on to their homes. House 2385 would allow married couples over 70 to earn up to $9,000 and still qualify for a $4,000 exemption. The companion bill House 3179 would lower the age for qualifying for an exemption from 70 to 65."

Brownell said the qualifying age should be lowered from 70 to 65 because 65 is the year when most people in private industry retire. This is when they most need the exemption.

"Today, at age 65 many people cannot retire and are forced to continue working merely because the property taxes on their homes are so high," he said. "House bills 3179 and 2385 would help prevent this from happening."

The legislation also provides that Social Security benefits will not be considered as income in determining eligibility for exemptions.

"Social Security benefits should not be considered as income because they are merely a return of capital," Brownell said. "Furthermore, up to only a few years ago, Social Security benefits were not considered as income in determining whether an elderly person qualified for an exemption. The fact that these modest benefits are considered as income disqualifies many deserving senior citizens from the exemption which they desperately need to maintain a respectable retired life."

Quincy Junior-Frosh Clinch Top Spot In GBL Ice League

The Quincy Junior High-Freshman hockey team has clinched first place in the Freshman Greater Boston League for the second straight year.

Ken Hayes' icemen assured themselves of the top spot last Friday with a 6-0 win over runnerup Malden.

Quincy finished the regular season yesterday with a game against Everett.

The playoffs get underway Friday at the Revere Rink, where all league games are played. A year ago Medford handed Quincy its only loss of the season in the playoff finals.

Capt. Frank Guest, the young Presidents' top scorer, added two goals as his team ran its record to 6-0. Nick Cyr assisted on both goals.

Jack Powers, number two scorer, had an unassisted goal and assisted on Paul Gustafson's goal, Dennis Bertoni had one goal with John Mitchell assisting and Walter Pimental scored the final one unassisted.

The Quincy team was late in arriving for the game due to bad driving conditions and had some key players missing but had little trouble getting the win.

Frank Guest Named Frosh MVP Powers, Hamill, Cyr All-Stars

For the second year in a row a Quincy hockey player has been chosen most valuable in the Greater Boston Freshman League.

The award will be presented to Frank Guest of the Quincy Junior High-Freshman team Friday [Feb. 23] afternoon just before the start of the league playoffs at Revere Rink.

Last season the award went to Ted Wiedemann of Quincy.

Guest was also named to the league's all-star team along with teammates Jack Powers, Bill Hamill and Nick Cyr.

Chuck Condos Named To All–East Hockey Team

Chuck Condos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Condos of 59 Merrymount Rd, Quincy and a former Quincy High standout, was named to the fifth weekly Division II All-East hockey team of the ECAC.

Condos, junior wing, was cited for his third period hat trick which led Bowdoin to a come-from-behind 6-5 win over Williams. The ECAC also noted that Condos helped kill three penalties against Williams and scored a goal earlier in the week in Bowdoin's 4-1 win over Merrimack.

Chuck had won honorable mention on two of the four previous 1972-73 weekly All-East squads.

Already holder of records for most goals in a game, five, most assists in a season, 29, and most points in a season, 44, he broke the record for most assists in a career with his 66th and he had six games remaining to add to this record. He also had a chance to break Ed Good's career record of 114 points, needing only five in those six games to do so.

Quincy Gym Team Looks To Future

The Quincy gymnastics team finished its Suburban League season last week and although the Presidents failed to win a league meet [it did have one non-league win over Bridgewater-Raynham], Coach Peter Gallagher was pleased with the performances of several of his competitors.

With a number of underclassmen on the squad, Gallagher is looking forward to next season with high hopes.

"Every team in the league has had gymnastics for years and this was only our second formal season," Gallagher said. "The far greater experience of all our opponents proved too much for us."

In their next to last meet the Presidents bowed to Weymouth North, 77.5-75.2. Mike Priscella, the top performer all year, had 26 points with a first in high bar, second in side horse and fifth in vaulting.

Tom Campbell, another outstanding performer all year, had 21.1 points with third in vaulting and fourths in floor and rings.

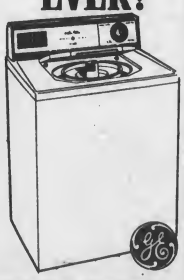
Bob Gordon had 9.2 points with fourth in high bar and fifth in parallel bars, Tom McMahon and Bob McMahon had 8.05 points each.

In the final meet the Presidents lost to Newton, 84.45-73.4.

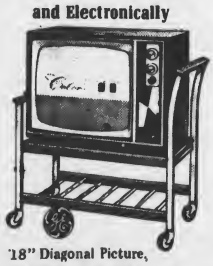
Campbell scored 21.3 points, Priscella 15.95 and Tom McMahon 15.45.

ENC Still Has Shot At Title

Although its seven-game win streak was snapped last Saturday, the Eastern Nazarene College Basketball team is still in a good position to win its third straight Atlantic Seaboard Conference championship.



After defeating Nyack, N.Y., 87-59, Friday night at Nyack in the first of two weekend New York contests, ENC was toppled Saturday by King's, 86-79.



The split gave the Crusaders a 5-2 conference record with Gordon the lone remaining conference opponent Saturday at Gordon. This is the final game of the regular season. Friday night ENC plays at Suffolk.

The Crusaders then will play in the annual King's Tournament on March 1, 2 and 3.

In the win over Nyack last week Don Eads scored 26 points, 24 of them in the first half when ENC rolled to a huge 52-24 lead. The starting five played only a few minutes of the second half. Ron Bradley had 15 points and his ball handling was superb, while Don Constantine added 11.

Quincy, North Icemen Finish Season Strong

The Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams had nothing to gain but improving their records and trying to beat each other out in the Greater Boston League standings.

But showing great pride, both teams finished the season in banner style with wins in their final two games and North, enjoying its finest season in years, edged Quincy by one point in the final standings.

Ron Erikson's Raiders, missing out by only one win or tie of qualifying for the state tournament for the first time, also had the satisfaction of knocking Revere out of the title. In their three games with Revere, the Raiders won two and tied one. These five points would have given Revere the crown over Malden.

Revere lost only two other games and finished second with 29 points, Malden winning again with 33 points. North placed fourth with an 8-7-5 mark, the first winning season in a good many years, and 21 points. Bob Sylvia's Presidents were .500 for the second year in a row [9-9-2 for 20 points] to finish fifth.

Early season losses to underdog Chelsea and Somerville were fatal to North. The real jinx team for the Raiders was Malden which swept the three games, 7-0, 5-0 and 4-0.

The league finished up Monday night with North surprising Revere for the second time, 4-2, as junior varsity goalie Rick McGue, making his first varsity appearance, turning in a superb game with 47 saves, including three beauties off high scoring Tom Guarino from closeup.

Junior Robbie Henderson scored the first of his two goals at 8:31 of the first period with Jim Mullaney and Ken Graham assisting. Graham made it 2-0 with Henderson assisting at 1:41 of the middle period. Steve McKay scored unassisted at 11:45 of the same period and Henderson scored the final goal at 11:19 of the final session with Graham and Mullaney assisting.

"The boys did a terrific job this year and it is a shame they didn't make the tournament," Erikson said. "I was pleased at the way they finished and didn't give up after being eliminated from tourney contention."

Quincy wound up with a 4-2 victory over Somerville as Junior Al Lancione scored twice and had an assist.

Lancione put the Presidents ahead at 2:54 of the opening period with Pete Janis assisting, Chuck Crews made it 2-0 at 8:31 of the period with Paul Campbell and Ted Wiedemann having assists, Janis converted passes from Pete McNally and Lancione at 3:57 of the finale and Lancione scored the last goal at 5:32 of the last period with Janis setting it up.

"This was a pretty frustrating season for us but the boys improved and played much better hockey late in the season," Sylvia said. "Although I'm disappointed in our record, there were some fine performances by individuals and we will have several of the boys coming back next year."

Raiders Make State Tourney The Hard Way

Faced with the necessity of winning eight of its last 10 games to qualify for the state tournament again, North reeled off eight straight wins, capped by last Friday's stunning 65-47 win over previously unbeaten Medford, the Greater Boston League champion.

The win qualified the Raiders for the tournament and they now are pointing for two wins this week over non-league opponents to give them a better placing for the tournament pairings.

North finished with a 10-4 league record and took a 12-4 overall mark into Tuesday's Brookline contest.

Quincy, meanwhile, finished its league season with an 86-79 win over Everett Friday, giving it a final 5-9 league record and a 5-11 overall mark. Considering that three starters were on crutches for several games and other players were hit by the flu and other ailments, this was a creditable league record for the never-give-up-Presidents.

Quincy hosted B.C. High Tuesday and completes its season Friday when it entertains Weymouth South.

A major reason for North's eight straight wins and tourney qualification was its ability to defeat all four teams to which it had lost. The Raiders had bowed to Medford, Malden, Revere and Somerville, all of whom lost in the return meetings.

"These kids just never gave up and I'm certainly proud of them," Coach Bob Nolan said. "After our loss at Medford, which meant we had to win eight of our last 10, I promised we'd make it and I wasn't kidding. These kids knew what they had to do and went out and did it."

As usual, the Raider defense sparked the big win over Medford and in the first period they held the Mustangs, one of the highest scoring teams in the GBL, to just two points, an unbelievable feat.

North had an 11-2 lead after a period but Medford cut the gap to 27-23 at the half. Going into the final session the Raiders led, 46-38, and pulled to a comfortable lead by outscoring the Mustangs, 19-9, in the last period.

Jamie Doherty had another great night for North, scoring 18 points and Ken Marsters was outstanding with eight points and excelled in ball handling. Pete Bellotti and Bob Morton had eight points apiece and Don Small, John Stevens [seven offensive rebounds], Billy Shea, Pete Quinn, Steve Miller and Bernie Holleran all contributed heavily to the cherished win.

Doherty, although only 6-2½, out-rebounded much bigger opponents, as he had done all season.

"This was by far our best ball game of the season," Quincy Coach Marty Finnegan said after beating Everett. "The kids perservered through hard times and it paid off. Our guards were just tremendous." These guards, John Reggiannini and Mark MacLeod, led the scorers with 26 and 20 points respectively.

Five Presidents hit double figures as they continued their balanced scoring. Jim McKinnon scored 16, Mike Marvelle 12 and Ray Papile 11.

Merchants, East Weymouth Clash Men's Candlepin Title

The Colonial Merchants and East Weymouth will square off Feb. 25 in the championship match of the 20th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney, sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy, at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

The stage was set Sunday afternoon in the semi-finals, when Colonial Merchants squeaked out a 1,679-1,673 win over Quincy Church League; while East Weymouth edged out the Quincy Merchants 1,664-1,648.

Colonial Merchants proved themselves the best comeback team in tourney history, when losing the first two strings by 8 and 28 pins, they came from behind midway in the third string, to catch up and ease out the six-pin victory. In the opening round Colonial edged out Hull 1,703 to 1,700 after trailing by 30 pins in the last string again the deciding one.

Dick Ewell for the second straight week led Colonial with a 390 high for the day. Jim Powers followed with 349 for the winners. Marty Martell 343, Bob Shannon 312, and Bill Nickolson 285.

Quincy Church showed consistency as Steve Miller topped with 359, Bill Collins 335, Dave Bates 333, Jack Hammill 331, and Buddy Crowell 315 to no avail.

East Weymouth fell behind by six pins at the close of the first string, but put on a spurt in the second for a 29-pin win, putting them 23 pins up entering the last string. This was enough to hang on for the win, as the Merchants had the same honor as the church league, losing only one of the strings, but dropping the match by total.

Quincy Merchants, as their losing counterparts, displayed an even scoring effort. Ron Johnston and Mike Valenti led with 337 each, Sal Fanara 329, Paul Vickers 328, and Paul Paton 318.

In tourney competition Colonial has a 114 average a man, while East Weymouth is 113, the two teams remain of the 28 teams entered.

18-Year Olds Drink Today

Creedon Sees 'Social' But Not Serious H.S. Liquor Problems

By TOM HENSHAW

Eighteen-year-olds can legally drink strong liquor in Massachusetts starting today [Thursday] but the new right is not expected to cause any new problems around Quincy and North Quincy High Schools.

"We feel that the existing rules laid down by the School Committee are tight enough," School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon told the Quincy Sun. "We don't see the need for any additional regulations."

Current rules forbid the use, sale or carrying of alcoholic beverages on school grounds by any one on any occasion -- even by adults at such festivities as the inauguration of a mayor.

But what of the 18-year-old who might feel the need to slip away from the school grounds for a pop or two during the school day?

"If it happens during the school day then you have more than just a school problem," said Dr. Creedon. "Then you have a serious problem drinker on your hands."

"Also you have to remember that most young people don't start turning 18 until they are in the second half of their senior year which means that we are not talking about the whole school population but less than a third at the maximum."

"We are, however, anticipating more difficulty monitoring social events in the evening," Dr. Creedon continued, "We expect that there will be more potential offenders to the rule.

"We used to be able to put out young people when we smelled alcohol on their breaths. We won't be able to do that anymore. All an 18-year-old has to say is that he stopped for a few pops at the corner bar.

In Aftermath Of Fires

Work Begins On PA 'Alert' At Quincy, Other MBTA Stations

Work has begun on a public address system at 27 MBTA stations, including three on the South Shore line, and 17 additional platforms to keep the riding public informed about delays and emergencies on the line.

The $486,215 contract with Lord Electric Co. of Medford specifies that work at the North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Center stations be started first and be completed within 60 days.

The MBTA acknowledged the cooperation of State Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] "whose deep concern for the safety of the MBTA riders did much to expedite the acquisition of the new public address system."

The contract also directs that work on the Washington St., Park St., and Andrew Square stations be finished within 90 days and the remaining work, including connections to Central Control on High Street, Boston, within a year.

The South Station area has been the scene of three fires, including one fatal to a Milton man.

The system, said MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelly, "will enable either local supervisory personnel or our central dispatcher to make public announcements to all 34 locations ... either individually or by groups.

"Also included in the contract is an emergency communications center at Park St. Station as a backup to Central Control.

"In addition to this backup, there is a final backup system which may be operated from Harvard Square Station for announcements to 10 of the 14 stations on the Cambridge/Dorchester and South Shore lines.

"Presently there are 168 cars on the Red Line and 138 of these have been equipped with train-to-wayside radios. The remaining 30 are being worked on as they are available and should be completed by March 23, 1973.

"This will mean that every train that travels from Harvard

Title I Funds Cut Would Hurt 750 Youngsters

Federally funded programs that affect 750 pre-school and early school age children at 10 Quincy schools are in danger of being curtailed by the economy-minded Nixon Administration.

The Quincy Title I Parents Advisory Council warned of that danger in urging Quincy citizens to write about it to Sen. Claiborne Pell [D-R.I.] and Rep. Carl Perkins [D-Ky], congressional education committee chairmen.

The warning came from Mrs. Charlotte Jolle, chairman, and Mrs. Gail S. Kilcommins, co-chairman Quincy PAC.

Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, under which the funds are distributed, is due to expire June 30 and needs Congressional approval to continue.

Quincy schools received $245,061 in Title I funds for the current school year [1972-73].

Schools eligible for the funds are Hancock, Snug Harbor, Webster, Lincoln, Willard, Pollard, Broad Meadows, St. Joseph, St. John and St. Mary's.

Title I programs operating in Quincy include: Teacher Aides, Social and Psychological Services, Early Childhood Learning Disabilities and Pupil Personnel Services.

The Early Childhood Program takes in 100 Quincy pre-school children and the Learning Disabilities Program enrolls about 650 in Grades K-3 at a per pupil cost of $300.

Wollaston Minister Speaks Out For Abortion

'Motherhood Should Be A Privilege-Not A Penalty'

REV. LLOYD F. MARTIN

A Wollaston minister has spoken out frankly in favor of the recent Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

Rev. Lloyd Martin, minister of Wollaston Congregational Church, says:

"Motherhood should be a privilege and not a penalty. The backbone of a healthy society is a cherishing quality in motherhood.

"Giving birth to a child does not necessarily make a woman a thoroughly good mother. Bearing an unwanted child will do even less, if not the opposite.

"Removing the romantic, rosey glasses, we discover that much of societal sickness can be traced to or around our unloved 'accidents' ".

Rev. Mr. Martin took that stand in a sermon delivered to members of his church at services Feb. 18.

A resume of that sermon by Rev. Martin follows:

"I choose to approach the recent Supreme Court Decision on Abortion from the view of a healthy society with harmony between and among people who have a sound sense of well being.

"Motherhood should be a privilege and not a penalty. The backbone of a healthy society is a cherishing quality in motherhood. Giving birth to a child does not necessarily make a woman a thoroughly good mother. Bearing an unwanted child will do even less, if not the opposite. Removing the romantic, rosey glasses, we discover that much of societal sickness can be traced to or around our unloved "accidents".

"For a people who basically recognize man's real sin as estrangement from God and not a separate tally of sinful acts, we do an awful lot of nit-picking. While it has only been in the last 25 to 30 years that we have generally been able to grasp the concept of sin on a societal basis, let us not now dwell in the illusion that our modern American culture is immune. May we not perpetuate any system that is hurtful to a good and healthy society. Pulling our heads out of the sand is the first step and we must acknowledge that abortion has been with us for a long time. It has been used immorally as well as illegally, unsoundly as well as unsanitarily.

Wollaston Minister Favors Supreme Court Abortion Decision

"Whether through illegal abortion or being forced to give birth to an unwanted child, far too many women have been hurt physically, psychically or both. They have been penalized!. The implication is that we are a confused and vindictive society.

"Are we really listening to ourselves? Common vulgarities announce our chaotic confusion. Are we not saying that we hate what we love, that we depreciate what we desire? Our patriarchal system has insisted that a woman be such and such and then be penalized for submission. In this light, legalizing abortion can be seen only as one possible step toward helping women entrapped in a society that crudely misinterprets the sexual nature of humans. Perhaps this ruling will force us to reappraise our present assumptions regarding the place of sex in human life.

"Unfortunately making abortion legal will not remove the tendency to abuse the law, even though many would have come about illegally anyway. Emotional insecurity has and does lead people into clandestine relationships that are hurried, harried and hurtful. And unloved, unwanted children just seem to go on perpetuating unlovingness.

"Even with the probability of abuses, I cannot imagine any sensible woman deliberately setting out to make abortion a practice. The purpose of legalization is to help those women trapped in impossible situations, not to give license.

"The ruling of the Supreme Court is written toward the better qualities in women, not the worst. It is saying that she is a significant person in herself and not the property of others. It also is saying that she has a responsible, free choice to make with the help and guidance of her doctor.

"Freedom and responsibility have an acute correlation and thus, a woman freed as a whole person, has a great measure of accountibility to God and herself, to family and society. More credibility and significance is then brought to those dear women who choose to give birth. Allow them to stand tall with real meaning and not mere sentimentality. Further, the ruling seems to be pointing toward more significant, responsible relationships in the family.

"Much has and will be said about "killing", but considering the entire reproductive process, I would consider abortion as another means - even though most drastic and questionable - of choosing when and where to give life rather than the taking of a form of life that we would not recognize as human during the first trimester. How long shall a woman deny life from within herself is the significant responsibility, not when and where she may "kill".

"But if we would push further on the matter of "killing", let us not avoid the whole realm of child-care. There is more than one way of choking off life.

"The bodies of more children than we would like to think have been maimed and crippled. The human spirit of so many others has been broken, dwarfed or perverted. This kind of "killing" brings an even greater ache to my heart. A healthy society cannot tolerate it.

"The Court's decision says once more that we are free, but being free we have an awesome responsibility. It is an honest decision and I submit that it can be hopeful. There is no easy answer for you in the pews but you are free to make your own decision, be glad. Let us stand by our women and with those who choose motherhood. God bless those who recognize and choose the privilege."

Work Begins On PA 'Alert' System At MBTA Stations

to either Quincy Center or Ashmont will have direct and constant communication with Central Control by train radio and with wayside personnel by portable radio."

The latest move by the MBTA was hastened by a letter from Sen. Tobin to General Manager Kelly expressing concern over recent emergencies in the system's tunnel's and asking for a status report on the public address system.

Explaining that he and former Sen. James R. McIntyre twice co-sponsored legislation calling for the installation of a PA system, Tobin wrote:

"I have been fearful that when passengers are stranded in a smoke-filled tunnel with much confusion that possible panic could erupt because they have no idea which way to turn or which direction to go in.

"I have also been concerned about other commuters who are stranded at station platforms because of a disaster happening in another station and crowds begin to appear, but no one is aware of why the trains have stopped running.

"Both Sen. McIntyre and I were informed by the MBTA that this legislation was not necessary and that the MBTA was very much interested in this type of system through Federal funding.

"It is incredible that since Dec. 21, 1972 and Feb. 6, 1973, we have had five serious happenings on the MBTA rapid transit lines leading to the South Shore, and there is still no public address system to calm people's hysteria."

Said Kelly in his status report to Tobin:

"Concerned public officials such as yourself and former Sen. McIntyre have been very influential in advancing this program certainly by many months and possibly by years."

[Cont'd from Page 1]

"We can only see to it that they are not smashed or that they not become nuisances."

Dr. Creedon is not inclined to view the new law with alarm.

"But I don't think it was a wise piece of legislation, either," he said. "Young people today are more mature than a generation ago but that does not mean that they are ready to assume all kinds of responsibilities.

"The use of alcohol is one that I am doubtful about."

He doesn't expect the young people to go running out to use, overuse and abuse their new right, right away.

"I've never seen many young people with an urgent feeling to go out and drink the moment they turn 18," he said. "But I sure have seen kids chafing at the bit to get a driver's license and hop into the car at 16.

"I don't think the first thing a kid will do when he turns 18 will be to walk into a bar and say: 'Set 'em up!"

Mayor Urges Removal Of Dead Trees From Furnace Brook Area

Mayor Walter J. Hannon has urged that dead swamp willows near the Furnace Brook School be removed as soon as possible.

In a letter to Recreation Board Chairman Richard J. Koch, Hannon said the trees are "a hazard to children going to and from school or using the winter skating and coasting facilities.

"Children and adults walking along the sidewalk adjacent to these trees or children playing during recess could be jeopardized by falling branches," he said.

"I realize that the jurisdiction may be in question as to MDC or city property, however I request that the ownership be resolved and that these trees be removed as soon as possible," he said.

7 More Budgets To Get Council Scrutiny Saturday

Seven more City Department budgets come up for scrutiny by the City Council Saturday starting at 9:30 a.m.

The Council, sitting as a finance committee-of-the-whole, last Saturday arrived at suggested cuts of about $18,000 from 17 sections of the proposed 18-month $87.2 million budget.

Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the finance committee, said the actual cuts will be made in the final two sessions.

"As we go over the budget requests," he said, "we are taking amounts under considerations and advisement."

Items due for consideration Saturday include: Youth services, parks, forestry, gypsy moth, dutch elm, cemetery, library, recreation, civil defense, and health.

The public is invited to attend the committee sessions and submit questions or suggestions in writing through their ward councillors.

QCBPA Opposes Parking Ban On Westerly Side Of Hancock St.

The directors of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association have voted to oppose any parking ban on the westerly side of Hancock St.

What Quincy needs is more parking spaces, not fewer, the association said in a letter to Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

The association said it would rather have limited parking [a half hour or an hour] on the westerly side of Hancock St. to allow customers to park and dash in and dash out of stores.

Currently, westerly side parking is limited to an unmetered hour, but a move has been underway to eliminate all parking from the westerly side.

The association also suggested that the pedestrian cross walks on Hancock Street be painted in bright colors so that motorists can more easily see them and stop for shoppers.

The Post sponsors both a Sons of the Legion Squadron and a Girls Club, for teenage boys and girls.

City Hall observers are hinting the City Council may postpone action on the adoption of the new eight ward re-alignment. If such is the case, the present six ward set up would be used for this fall's city elections.

One thing the council has to consider, however, is the court's reaction to such a delay. If the new wards are not set up in time for the upcoming elections, there's always the remote possibility that the court might order all councillors to run at-large. An idea that is, to say the least, unpleasant for the incumbent ward councillors.

If all 9 of the present city's councillors were forced to run at-large, the result would probably be a political "donnybrook", with dozens of candidates.

Under the former Plan E government, all of Quincy's councillors were elected at-large. Under the present Plan A, three are elected at-large and one from each of the six wards.

WASHINGTON – A federal grand jury, as you may know, refused to indict my associate Les Whitten after FBI agents arrested him on the streets. We now have evidence that the FBI deliberately tried to set up Whitten and withheld the facts from the Justice Department. The grand jury really should have indicted the responsible FBI officials.

Whitten embarrassed the FBI by locating stolen Indian documents that the FBI had been searching all over the country to find. Whitten also wrote the story of the documents, which was highly embarrassing to the government. The word came down from the White House to retaliate.

Whitten was arrested, therefore, as he was covering the return of the documents to the government. Indian leader Hank Adams had been negotiating to get the documents back from the Indians who stole them and return them to the government files. The FBI knew about Adams' intentions but didn't mention this to the Justice Department.

The prosecutors, therefore, began picking up the facts in the case, not from the FBI, but from the newspapers. The FBI, for example neglected to tell key Justice Department officials that their undercover man had been present when Adams told the press of his intention to return the documents. Even more embarrassing, the FBI's undercover man was shown on an ABC-TV film sitting only four feet from Adams while Adams was talking about returning the papers.

Neither Whitten nor Adams, of course, had anything to do with stealing the documents. And it is not a crime to assist the government in recovering stolen documents. In other words, the FBI knew Whitten and Adams were not committing a crime when they were arrested.

The prosecutors, nevertheless, allowed the FBI to present its case to the grand jury. It's rare that a grand jury won't indict people that the FBI wants to bring to trial. But the FBI's case was so bad that the grand jury refused to indict Whitten and Adams.

Meanwhile, Whitten's constitutional rights were knowingly violated by the FBI. Maybe the grand jury ought to be called back into session to indict the responsible FBI officials.

Creaming the Public

For months, news stories have linked the dairy industry's huge Republican campaign contributions to President Nixon's decision to increase price supports for dairy farmers.

We have now seen a letter, intended for the eyes only of dairymen, which offers further evidence that the contributions were a political payoff to the President. The letter was written by William A. Powell, the president of Mid-America Dairymen, to one of his members.

The text reads:

"On March 23, 1971, along with nine other dairy farmers, I sat in the cabinet room of the White House, across the table from the President of the United States, and heard him compliment the dairymen on their marvelous work in consolidating and unifying our industry and our involvement in policies. He said, 'You people are my friends, and I appreciate it.'

"Two days later, an order came from the U.S. Department of Agriculture increasing the support price of milk to 85 percent of parity, which added some $500 to $700 million to dairy farmers' milk checks. We dairymen cannot afford to overlook this kind of economic benefit. Whether we like it or not, this is the way the system works."

The day after the dairymen sat down with the President, they made a large contribution to the President's campaign. Another day later, price supports were raised over the objections of the secretary of agriculture.

All told, the dairymen contributed $147,500 to Nixon. In return, the taxpayers gave the dairy farmers an added $500 million to $700 million. This was good business for the dairy farmers, if not for the American taxpayer.

Military Sweatshop

The Pentagon wastes millions each year in overpayments to big contractors. It spends millions more selling itself to the American public. And, of course, the generals and admirals are lavished with luxuries.

But with all of the money it throws away, the Pentagon apparently is paying sweatshop wages to the people who embroider military insignias. A Labor Department investigation has revealed that some Pentagon subcontractors are paying unlicensed home workers in New Jersey as little as 72 cents an hour to finish military insignias.

The workers are usually poor, Spanish-speaking people unable to find steady employment. They are desperate for work and wages. So they take in the illegal work, putting the finishing touches on the badges that servicemen wear on their sleeves. Investigators have found case after case in which a whole family – father, mother and children – work for as little as 33 cents an hour.

The investigators charge that the manufacturers are not only paying substandard wages but are using their illegal operations to dodge taxes, as well. And since the work is being done illegally, the manufacturers don't pay social security or unemployment taxes.

The Pentagon, typically, claims it has no knowledge of the labor violations and continues to buy the insignias despite the Labor Department's findings.

Meanwhile, many military men are wearing badges made by illegal labor under sweatshop conditions.

A Tribute To Dr. Charles Djerf

Note: Rev. John R. Graham, minister of United First Parish Church [Unitarian] paid tribute to Dr. Charles Djerf with this poem at the conclusion of the Feb. 18 Sunday service at that church.

The poem was written by John Haynes Holmes, who was minister of Community Church of New York City for many years.

"The poem certainly applies to Dr. Djerf", says Rev. Mr. Graham.

It follows:

Death this year has taken men
Whose kind we shall not see again.
Pride and skill and friendliness,
Wrath and wisdom and delight,
Are shining still, but shining less,
And clouded to the common sight.
Time will show them clear again.
Time will give us other men
With names to write in burning gold
When they are great and we are old,
But these were royal-hearted, rare.
Memory keeps with loving care
Deeds they did and tales they told,
But living men are hard to spare.

Youth Speaks Out

● It's Spring, when a young man's fancy turns to contract disputes.

● Many people claim that the war on poverty and the programs which aided blighted urban areas didn't work and should be scrapped as President Nixon is doing; but when was the last time a city was burned down or a riot broke out?

● Let's hope that our new relations with China aren't like that myth about Chinese food only staying with you a short while.

● Today the eighteen-year-old in Massachusetts becomes a full-fledged adult. Before, he could only do the trivial things like vote and die for his country; now he can get drunk like the big people and make a fool of himself.

● If that competition on TV last Sunday was supposed to be a battle of the superstars, somebody goofed. Most of those "athletes" looked like they would have trouble walking and chewing gum at the same time.

● Wouldn't it be refreshing to hear a coach say at the start of a season that he didn't have much talent and he didn't expect to do well.

Gacicia 'Surprised' At McLelland Voting On MBTA Station

Editor, Quincy Sun:

"These guys want to play the great political role of being crusaders against this station and I'm extremely surprised that Mr. LaRaia should table a motion opposing it," Councillor of Ward 3 McLelland-Quincy Patriot Ledger 2-21-73.

Let us see who should be surprised at whom.

Councillor LaRaia's resolve introduced several weeks ago was to put the Council on record as opposing the MBTA station in South Quincy. This motion was tabled and sent to the Transportation Committee. The Ward 3 Councillor voted in favor of tabling this resolve. I am more surprised that the Ward 3 Councillor would vote to table a motion opposing the MBTA station in South Quincy.

At a later date this resolve was requested to be brought out of committee. Amendments to it were proposed and moved to be referred to the Mayor. The Mayor is in favor of the MBTA station in South Quincy.

On February 20 the Ward 3 Councillor proposed a resolve that the Council support a legislative bill requesting the MBTA station be placed in South Braintree. This resolve was tabled. The Ward 3 Councillor supported the tabling of his own resolve.

I am surprised at the Ward 3 Councillor's voting. Verbally he opposes the South Quincy MBTA station but when it comes to a matter of voting he votes to table the resolves against the MBTA station in South Quincy.

It is my opinion that if the Ward 3 Councillor should go on record now by voting in the Council in support of a resolve opposing the MBTA station in South Quincy it will not reflect leadership on his part but will indicate a sudden awakening to the long known fact that the people of South Quincy are serious about not wanting this station.

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Even though Massachusetts has some of the most progressive consumer laws in the nation, the laws regulating franchises need much improvement.

Many citizens, who may have invested their life's savings have been victimized by unfair and deceptive business practices in this area. To prevent fraudulent business practices in the future, my Consumer Protection Division has submitted a bill which will regulate the advertising, offering and sale of franchises.

Under this bill the franchisor must give a factual description of the franchise, the business experience and financial history of the franchisor, a description of the franchise fee; the number of franchisees doing business; a statement of the conditions under which a franchise may be terminated or under which the franchisee may sell, lease or assign the franchise; the territorial protection granted by the franchisor, and any other relevant information.

The franchise protection act would require this information to be given in writing to a prospective franchisee at least five business days prior to execution of a contract. As a result, the franchisee will have a reasonable period of time in which to make his final decision to purchase. The bill further protects the franchisee by allowing him to cancel the contract and obtain a full refund of all money paid within 10 business days after signing.

The bill requires that a franchisee be given 60 days written notice prior to termination, cancellation or failure to renew the franchise unless he has abandoned the franchise or has been indicted for an offense directly related to running the business.

The act also provides that when a franchise is terminated the franchisee shall receive fair and reasonable compensation including good will. Cause for termination would be limited for failure of the franchisee to comply with reasonable and non-discriminatory requirements imposed by the franchise.

This bill does not allow a franchisor to impose unfair burdens or restrictions on a franchisee. If any franchisee is victimized by an unfair or deceptive practice, the franchisee will be able to sue the franchisor for up to treble damages. The act also provides of a fine of up to $10,000 or imprisonment of up to 10 years or both.

Tax Booklet At Post Offices

Postmaster George K. Walker announces that the official Internal Revenue Service guide, "Your Federal Income Tax", is on sale again this year at all Post Offices in the Boston Postal District.

The booklet provides assistance to taxpayers filing separate or joint returns. It contains sample completed forms with entries keyed to appropriate pages and many clear examples of allowable expenses, deductions and contributions.

Walker said this year's revised edition, priced at 75 cents, is expected to be another "best seller".

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Clutter....Junk....Family Chaos'

The couple who sat before me were in their middle forties. "Our problem is not ourselves...Doctor...it's our daughter. We never had a bit of trouble with our son. But this 15 year old daughter of ours is driving us crazy. She's absolutely the worst slob in the world. Her room is piled high with clothes...old papers...books...even games and dolls from her childhood. We tried everything to get her to clean it...have threatened to throw it all out the window. But she just doesn't seem to care. We're at our wits ends. We can't stand it...but we don't know what to do about it."

I suppose in one way or another this story can be multiplied thousands of times over...parents who feel they must tolerate conditions because their children don't care about their parents' standards.

Fathers especially get uptight about cluttered rooms...members of the family not caring for possessions he's bought with hard earned money...waste of food...spoilage through neglect...disorder so that duplicates are purchased to replace what may be at the bottom of a heap...or back of a drawer.

Fathers often turn into monsters in their attack upon clutter. Too many over-react to the disorder...lashing out and hurting unnecessarily. Putting one's foot down to run a tight ship is one thing...frightening and destroying relationships is quite another.

When a father is so devastating he may create defiance in the minds of the members of the family. In a recent family conference I watched a 16 year old girl practically refuse to speak with her father because of the overbearing and unreasonable demands of her father...starting with the length of her dress. The shrug of the shoulders gesture often gives caring parents great anxiety. She does poorly in school...excels in nothing. She just "doesn't care"...or so she says. This is the sort of thing that can result from the father who is so rigid...so unreasonable. A father doesn't need to be unreasonable...nor turn into a vicious animal to get his house in order. A man can be strong without being destructive. Love is not weakness.

Of course...many wives put up with a lot of men's clutter because they're married to men who as boys were spoiled by their mothers who picked up after them...catered to them...required nothing of them...not even to hang up their p.js. Now as married men...they walk into the house with mud on their shoes...leave soiled underwear in the corner...Sunday paper all over the living room floor...setting a poor example for their children...creating unnecessary work for their wives who want to keep a nice house. Mothers...don't spoil your sons.

The basic problem of clutter rests with the lack of agreed upon goals between a husband and wife. If you both agree to have an orderly home...then see that it's done. Let children know your agreed decision...better still, bring them into the decision. Then get the Goodwill and Salvation Army bags filled with garments you won't wear. You help people who need clothes...you help yourself to be rid of the clutter. You may even end the family chaos.

When Mommas and Poppas want to go away on an overnight or extended trip, sans enfants, they can take advantage of a babysitting service that sends young married couples in to take care of the children and the house. University Home Services of Needham screens couples for moral character, responsibility and good judgement, then sends them to your home for an interview and approval. Most couples are college age or graduates. They prepare all meals, do the laundry, maintain the house and manage details such as garbage disposal and snow plowing. Tri—Hi—Y Show Raises Funds For Scholarships

By S. LEE

On Feb. 13-14 a variety show was held at the Quincy YMCA auditorium.

The show was presented by the Tri-Hi-Y groups [girl's service organization] of Quincy High School and North Quincy High School. The junior and senior girls of Quincy High and the sophomore, junior and senior girls of NQH worked long and hard in rehearsing and creating the acts. The show consisted of many original acts such as pantomimes, dances, and skits.

Mrs. Jackie Whitcomb, the club advisor of Tri-Hi-Y also deserved much credit. Without her organization, suggestions, and most of all patience, the show would have never been possible.

The money made from the show will go towards four scholarships for four senior members of Tri-Hi-Y. Two scholarships will consist of $100 each and the other two scholarships will consist of $50 each. The scholarships will be presented to two deserving girls of each school at the Tri-Hi-Y banquet in late April.

Some of those who participated are:

Pauline Tissell, Barbie Hoder, Nancy Swanson, Janice Donahue, Heather McLeod, Marianne Lewis, Lynn Mullaney, Suzy Lee, Sue Bataglia, Mal Blinn.

Sue O'Leary, Eileen Jackson, Joan Wiedaman, Joan Pagnano, Patty Kelley, Jean Taylor, Carol Finnegan, Paula Hanratty, Kathy Hannon, Carol-Anne Oriola, Susan Toshes.

Senior Class Dance Success

By SYLVIA PATTAVINA

The senior class recently held their second dance, which again was a success. Everyone appeared to be enjoying the band "Rush".

This has proven to be an excellent way of raising money for the Senior Class Treasury. Contrary to the problem other classes have had our Senior Class is a very spirited group, and has been the first class in three years to make profits from dances.

We would like to thank all that attended these dances, and special thanks are given to those teachers who have been chaperones.

The next dance will be in March and will feature the band 'Horizon'. They are an excellent band which played at our first dance Jan. 6. So we hope to see you all there.

Interview With 'Greatest' Athlete'

Vincent Finds 'Acting Is An Education'

By JODY GANOE

Members of high school newspaper staffs from all over the Greater Boston Area were invited to MGM Studios in Boston to view the pre-release screening of "The World's Greatest Athlete", starring Jan-Michael Vincent.

After the movie, students had the chance to meet and talk with the handsome, blond, blue-eyed star of "World's Greatest Athlete".

ABOUT THE MOVIE:

"The World's Greatest Athlete" is an amusing Walt Disney comedy about a college coach named Archer [John Amos] who has never had a winning team in any sports event until he makes a trip to Zambia, Africa with his assistant coach Milo [Tim Conway].

Here he discovers the superior athletic skills of Manu [Jan-Michael Vincent] a jungle boy who proves his talent by out-running a cheetah.

After several unsuccessful attempts, Milo and Archer finally succeed in stealing Manu from his witchdoctor godfather. They bring him back to the U.S. to play for Archer's hopeless team.

Immediately, Manu displays his "boy-wonder" talents by transforming Archer's team into one of champions. He also enters the NCAA track and field competition, as a one man team. Manu triumphs in all events and in fact, becomes "The World's Greatest Athlete".

ABOUT THE STAR:

Jan-Michael Vincent is by no means a new-comer to the movie and television screen. His motion picture credits include "Los Bandidos", "Journey to Shiloh", "The Undefeated", "Going Home", "The Mechanic", and most recently, "The World's Greatest Athlete".

Some of his television appearances were made on "Dragnet", "Tribes", "Lassie", "Bonanza" "The Survivors", "Gunsmoke", "Sandcastles", and on Feb. 6, he starred on Marcus Welby M.D., as a teenage alcoholic.

During the interview, Jan-Michael was asked many questions concerning his education, personal life, and plans for the future.

He told us that he had finished high school in California, and was on the swimming team there. After graduation he attended Ventura City College [Calif.] as an art major. He lasted three semesters before deciding to travel. He and a friend took off for Mexico.

About Mexico he replied, "It was a great life. I was free from tensions and had no desire for material things. It was an experience free of prejudices."

The idyll ended six months later when Jan-Michael got his greetings from the army. After completing his military duty, he didn't know exactly what to do. With much encouragement from another friend, he thought he might try acting.

When asked if he believed that someone should give up an education for acting he answered by saying that "acting is an education." It had given him a better knowledge of people, and it forced him to become more aware of himself.

His social activities include much traveling and surfing. He enjoys being among friends, but also likes time to himself at his place on Malibu.

Jan-Michael Vincent is truly a sensitive and friendly person. There's no doubt he is an up and coming star destined for a successful career as an actor.

Between the Covers

Who can think snow and ice this winter? Youngsters in grades five through eight can when they read these wintery books!

STRANGE BUT TRUE HOCKEY STORIES by Howard Liss takes readers right into the action and into some of this sport's zaniest moments. Eighteen short stories tell about the fastest hat trick, a season of disaster, the shutout goalie, and hockey's worst fight during which one star's career was ended. Here are lots of hockey's heroes, including Boston favorite Bobby Orr, lots of photos and lots of action.

Before you step into your bindings take a look at LET'S LEARN TO SKI by Gene and Barbara Tinker. The authors emphasize safety as they give you tips on clothing and equipment, getting into your skiis, standing and walking on skiis, getting up after a fall, even riding the lift. And then it's the techniques themselves--snow-plow, traverse, side step, stem christie and parallel turns--all illustrated with photos. There's a glossary, too, and a list of summer camps for skiiers. It's a good introduction for beginning skiiers and a good review for experienced skiiers.

If you want to try one of America's fastest growing winter sports borrow LET'S LEARN SKI TOURING by Gene Tinker from the library. The author gives background on ski touring, details clothing and ski equipment needed for trips cross country, and describes the techniques of waxing, walking, gliding, turning, and stopping. Many photos illustrate the text.

For children who want adventure, but don't want to strap on a pair of skiis for it, there's plenty of excitement in Emma Smith's NO WAY OF TELLING. The story takes place on a snowbound Welsh hillside where Amy and her grandmother are settled comfortably in their cottage to wait out the storm.

This comfort is quickly shattered when a wild looking man bursts in, takes some supplies, and then flings himself out into the storm again. In a short while two skiiers appear and enter the cottage. Very soon Amy must find a way to escape the cottage and go through the storm for help.

Picture book fans can curl up with some delightful stories on a winter's day, too. For the very youngest there's a simple tale of a chick who says "Me too" to everything a duckling says--until it's time for a second swim! The pictures are cheery and bright, and the words are fun to hear and to say in THE CHICK AND THE DUCKLING by Mirra Ginsburg.

A merry little bun rolls along the countryside escaping almost all his hungry pursuers in THE BUN, a Russian folktale illustrated by Marcia Brown. The artist's sunny pictures invite you to roll along with the bun past the old woman, the hare, the wolf, even the bear. But just like the gingerbread man the bun is finally fooled by a sly red fox.

Superviser of Children's Services

MATERNAL DEATH RATES

The United States is the safest country in the Western Hemisphere in which to have a baby, but half a dozen European nations have even lower maternal mortality rates.

The World Health Organization recently compiled figures from 36 nations on deaths related to pregnancy, childbirth, and confinement after labor. The U.S. maternal mortality rate of 29.1 per 100,000 live births showed a 57 percent decrease in deaths in the last 15 years.

Sweden ranked safest, with 11.3 per 100,000, an 84 percent decrease in the same 15 year period. Four other European countries - Denmark, Belgium, Ireland and the Netherlands showed better rates than the U.S.

The worst record was in Chile, with 272 deaths per 100,000 live births. Columbia and Ceylon had maternal mortality rates almost as poor.

Quincy Girls Win GBL Basketball Title

By TOM SULLIVAN

You've come a long way, baby.

This phrase can be used when speaking of the Quincy and North Quincy girls' basketball teams, which really arrived this year.

The intra-city rivals dominated the Greater Boston League as Gale Palmer's Quincy team won the championship with an 11-1 record and Barbara Webster's North club was second with a 9-3 league mark and a 11-3 overall record.

A year ago the North girls tied for second in the league while Quincy was fourth.

The Quincy girls ended its most successful season on a disappointing note last week when it lost to Franklin, 45-30, in the opening round of the ninth annual Southeastern Mass. tournament at Brockton.

The First Ladies, the first Quincy or North girls' team ever to appear in a tournament suffered a bad first half against a tourney-wise Franklin team and it was costly.

Trailing, 25-9, at the half, Quincy rebounded to outscore the Hockomock League co-champions, 21-20, in the second half and had an 11-4 edge in the final period.

The Quincy lasses had a bad first half from the foul line, were continually beaten off the boards by the taller Franklin girls and time after time threw the ball away. They appeared to recover from their "tourneyitis" in the second half and made an excellent showing.

"Our team didn't give up despite Franklin's big lead and taller team," Miss Palmer said. "Their 3-2 zone was something we hadn't met up with this year."

Jean Macchi and Kathy Ilacqua paced Quincy with eight points apiece.

Several of the North Quincy girls, who handed Quincy its only loss, were among those cheering the Quincy girls on.

Quincy wound up its regular season with an easy 59-24 win over Everett to clinch the league crown.

Jean Macchi was outstanding with 12 points and many assists, while Betsy Witt also had 12 points and Kathy Ilacqua, Debbie Congdon and Debbie Spillane also stood out. Kathy Bennett shone defensively.

North finished its season with a disappointing 39-29 loss to Medford, ending an eight-game winning streak.

"It was just a bad day and we had a couple of players missing," Miss Webster said. "But it was a fine season and I am very pleased."

Denise Bereszniewicz sparked the Raiderettes in a losing cause.

Jean Riley scored 21 points, high for a junior varsity game, to pace North's jayvee team to a win, evening its record at 5-5.

There was a Quincy touch to the Medford win as the coach, Julie Doherty, lives in Quincy and is the sister of North Quincy standout James Doherty.

Earlier in the week Quincy rolled over Chelsea, 51-32, surging in the second half after trailing, 17-16, after two periods.

Miss Congdon scored 13 points, Miss Ilacqua 10, Miss Bennett and Donna Brickley nine points each.

Quincy's junior varsity also won handily, 33-8.

North had easy sailing over Everett, 63-24, as Miss Bereszniewicz had 16 points and Diane Smith 13. All of the North girls played well in the romp.

The North jayvees also breezed, 32-15, led by Cheryl Walsh's 12 points.

"I felt we could go all the way this year," Miss Palmer said. "We had our entire squad back and the girls played outstanding ball. Our worst day from the foul line cost us our only loss to North Quincy as we hit on only two of 18 shots. But North had a fine team and it is a shame it had to have that one-point loss to Revere. We didn't have too much trouble beating North in our first game.

The veteran Quincy squad included Misses Congdon, Ilacqua, Macchi, Spillane and Witt, all seniors and three-year veterans; Misses Bennett and Brickley and Susan Higgins, juniors and two-year veterans.

North also had a veterar squad with only two newcomers and the Raiderettes did an excellent job. The 48-47 loss to Revere was hotly disputed but a protest centering around an incident in the final seconds was disallowed.

"The girls did an excellent job and I'm proud of them," said Miss Webster, who piloted the Raiderettes to their excellent 11-3 record in only her second year."

The North veterans were Misses Bereszniewicz, Runge and Smith, Lynn Tabor, Nancy Laing, Debbie Matson, Terry Fitzgerald, Donna Zenker and Cathy Conroy. The newcomers on the varsity squad were Nancy Willard and Terry Conroy.

Quincy Teams Gain Experience In International Tourney

Two teams from the Quincy Youth Hockey Association took part in last weekend's second annual Weymouth Kiwanis International tourney at Weymouth Arena.

Although the Quincy teams won only one of four games played, the Bantams and Pee Wees made good showings and gained valuable experience facing Canadian and New York teams.

Weymouth won the Bantam championship while Kitchener, Ontario, captured the Pee Wee title.

Playing in the tourney were 28 teams, 16 in the Pee Wee division and 12 in the Bantams. They included Canadian teams from Owen Sound, Ingston, Leaside and Kitchener, Ont.; Oromocto, N.B., and Lunenburg, N.S. "This is a very successful tourney and when our rink opens, hopefully on July 1, we plan to stage similar tourneys there," said Harry Messina, president of the Quincy Youth Hockey Association. "These events create a good deal of good will between the teams from around here and those from Canada and New York State."

Saturday night the QYHA sponsored a dance at St. Mary's Hall in West Quincy at which all the Canadian players, coaches and parents were special guests. Hockey sticks with gold-plated blades were presented to the Canadian coaches and assistants.

Messina's Overtime Goal Puts Bantam A's In Tourney

Paul Messina's goal in the second overtime gave the Quincy Bantam "A" hockey team a 6-5 victory over Pittsfield last week and qualified the Quincy team for the state tournament.

Goalie Dave O'Hare had 37 saves in the Quincy nets.

Messina's overtime goal completed the three-goal hat trick for him while Paul Radzik, Jack Powers and Joe McConville had the other goals.

In a Bay Colony Association game Saturday [Feb. 24], Quincy defeated first place Columbia, 3-2.

Tonight [March 1] the Quincy Bantams play South Boston at 6:15 p.m. on Rink C, Hingham Arena, and Saturday [March 3] they meet Scituate at 5:45 p.m., also on Rink C.

Colonial Merchants Men's Candlepin Tourney Winner

The Colonial Merchants won the 20th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling tourney Sunday, defeating the East Weymouth entry 1711-1704, in the final round at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

The winners grabbed a hard fought first string by 7 pins, and caught fire in the second string as Dick Ewell tossed 150, and Jim Powers a 135. At the end of two Colonial led by 97 pins.

East Weymouth fought back in the last string, as Barry Lang fired a 134, Bob Kaukola 127, and Hal Larson 126, while Colonial went cold. But it was too little and too late for the losers and when the score was posted it was a seven pin win for Colonial.

Powers led his Colonial team to victory with a 401, high for this year tourney, Dick Ewell chipped in 374, Bill Nicholson 326, and Marty Martell 312.

The East Weymouth losers displayed consistency: Barry Lang 365, Bob Kaukola 351, Hal Larson 337, Mike Fardy 336, and Bob Parker 315.

The Colonial Merchants were presented with a team trophy and $100 cash award, by Richard J. Koch tourney director, and executive director of the sponsoring Koch Club of Quincy.

Twenty eight teams were entered in the 20th Annual Event, that has attracted 2,000 bowlers, representing the best of some 20,000 bowlers in the Greater Quincy area during the past 20 years.

Blue Team Hands Red Team First Loss, 6—5

In St. Joseph's Hockey League action at Shea Rink, the first place Red team lost it's first game of the year, 6-5, to the second place Blue team.

Scorers for the Blue team were Mark Walker with two goals, Charles Gibbon, Dick Kelley, Rick Della Barba and Bob Connelly, each one. Rick Brunstrum with three goals, John Duffy and Jim Steen with one goal apiece tallied for the Red team.

The win by the Blue team enables them to pull within one point of the Red team.

The first game was a goaltenders duel with John Marani posting the first shutout for the Gold team downing the Green team, 1-0. Dick Marotta had 31 saves in a losing cause for the Green team. John Bagin scored the lone goal.

Crime Is More Widespread than People Realize

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association

Evidence that the incidence of crime in the United States is much higher than is officially reported has been uncovered by a prestigious national research agency.

A survey conducted by the National Opinion Research Center, making a random sample of 10,000 households, showed that — burglaries occur some three times more often than reported,

— forcible rapes occur some three and a half times more often,

— "white-collar" offenses are probably the most underestimated of all crimes.

The Research Center found that more than 20 per cent of the 10,000 households surveyed were victimized during one year. Here is what happened to 2,100 offenses uncovered in the survey:

— In over 50 percent of the offenses the police were not notified. (Half of those not reporting stated that they had no confidence that anything could be done by the police or the courts.)

— The police interviewed 77 per cent of reported offenses, the incident was considered a crime in 75 per cent of the interviews, an arrest was made in 20 per cent of the cases, a trial took place following 42 per cent of the arrests, and a conviction occurred in 52 per cent of the trials.

— Thus, of the 2,100 criminal incidents, the police were not called in half of them, and of the 1,100 incidents where the police were called, there were only 50 convictions!

Independent research has convinced Robert Emmett Burns, professor of law at DePaul University, that these statistics are not unrealistic. In an article, "Why I'm Not So Liberal Anymore," Professor Burns writes:

"In 1965, there were 32,000 cases of burglary reported in Chicago. But in that same year there were only 30 jury trials for burglary. The attrition in the legal process from incident to conclusion represents a clear and present rationale for widespread distrust and suspicion of police, lawyers, judges, and the legal process."

When we think of criminals, we usually have in mind murderers and rapists, dope addicts and juvenile delinquents. But, noting that some 90 per cent of serious crimes are directed against property (burglary and various types of theft), Michael Fooner, chairman of the Metropolitan Crime Prevention Project of the American Society of Criminology, points out that "the majority of all such offenses are committed by persons whose behavior otherwise is within the norms of the community."

In fact, Fooner observes, "successful thieves and burglars are successful because they look and act like ordinary people."

Much more disturbing is the discovery by the President's Commission that people with criminal acts in their backgrounds are far more numerous than we realize. One of the surveys undertaken by the Commission, a random sample of 1,700 Americans, revealed that 90 per cent admitted they had committed a jailable offense!

A high proportion of these offenses are of the "white-collar" variety, being committed by otherwise noncriminal citizens of professional or business status who break the law while pursuing a legitimate and highly respected occupation.

The attitude of the average U.S. citizen toward such crimes helps to account for their scope and magnitude. As Rhode Island criminologist Ralph W. England observes,

"Americans are by no means uniformly opposed to such offenses and the laws pertaining to them are often ambiguous and weakly enforced. . . . It may be . . . that the white collar criminal finds motivation, aid, and comfort from the very society he exploits."

Quincy Finishes Winning

Fighting Raiders Out Of Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy basketball team, which went through the pressure cooker to qualify for the state tournament [won nine of its last 10 games], bowed out of the tourney in the first round Monday, but, like all Bob Nolan's teams, went out fighting.

After battling a big Durfee team of Fall River on even terms for most of the game, the Raiders lost out, 68-57, at the beautiful new Braintree High gym before a packed house.

North surged to a 15-8 first period lead but led only 29-27 at the half. Durfee had a big third period spree to go ahead, 48-42, in the third period and North couldn't move nearer than five points the rest of the way.

Over the last four minutes North missed shot after shot, enabling Durfee to pull away to a safe lead.

"We just couldn't hit in the last period and it seemed that every time we missed, they went down and scored," said Nolan. "But I'm very proud of these kids and when your biggest man [Jamie Doherty] is a 6-2 center, it is a tribute to them that they could come this far."

Bud Mosa, 6-5 center, killed North in the first half and Tom Gastall was the big cog in the second half. Mosa scored 23 points before backing out and Gastall scored most of his 15 points in the second half.

Doherty had 17 points, 14 of them in the first half, for North, while Don Small had his biggest night of the season with 15 points.

Both North Quincy and Quincy finished the regular season with impressive wins last Friday.

North built up a big first half lead and walloped a good Weymouth North team, 78-53, to finish 13-5 for the season [10-4 in the league].

"We wanted this one as it gave us better placing in the tourney pairings and because we wanted to end with a win to give us confidence after losing to Brookline," Nolan said.

The game proved one thing, North doesn't fall apart when its ace, Doherty, is not playing. When Jamie left the game with three fouls in the third period, the Raiders were ahead by nine but while he was on the bench they opened the gap to 18.

Doherty had 20 points, Marsters 16 and Rico Orlando, a senior reserve with very limited service, had seven points. His entrance into the game drew loud cheers.

Marty Finnegan's Quincy team topped Weymouth South, 58-51, to finish 6-12 overall and 5-9 in the league, a creditable showing for a team hit hard by injuries and illnesses. The Presidents never once gave up despite their troubles.

Leading scorer John Reggiannini completed a tremendous year with 19 points and Ken Furfari had 16.

Earlier in the week, North, apparently suffering a letdown after qualifying for the state tourney, bowed to Brookline, 67-57, ending the Raiders' eight-game win streak.

"We were just flat and there is no excuse," Nolan admitted. "They shot better and rebounded better and we had to play cathup all night long."

North had a cold first period and fell behind, 14-6. It trailed, 27-16, at the half and 45-33 going into the last period.

Mark Young, 6-7 center, had a field day for Brookline with 31 points, most coming in the first half.

For North Marsters exploded for 25 points and Doherty scored 14.

The North junior varsity edged Brookline, 47-45, sparked by Mark Reale.

Quincy lost to B.C. High, 80-69, after leading at halftime, 41-34. The Eaglets, sparked by Walt Kazmierzek's 34 points, out-scored the Presidents, 25-11, in the third period and 21-17 in the finale.

Quincy again had balanced scoring with Reggiannini scoring 19, Mark MacLeod 17, Furfari 16 and Mike Marvelle 13.

Bowling Bugs High Rollers In Women's Candlepin Tourney

The opening rounds of the 18th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy continued Sunday afternoon with the remaining 12 teams bowling in competition at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

The Bowling Bugs bowled high for the day to defeat the Perkettes 1510-1442, the Classie Lassies walloped Norwell Women 1480-1266, the Queen Pins edged Keglerettes 1466-1465, the Rag Dolls ousted the Alley Kats 1456-1417, the Socialites squeezed by Junior Women 1411-1402, and the Ocean Rollers downed the Woodshooters 1381-1341.

The Bowling Bugs won their first string by only 9 pins over the Parkettes, but captured the second by 26, and the third by 33 pins to sweep to a 67 pin victory.

Celeste Maloney with 316 led the Bowling Bugs to triumph, assisted by Shirley Carbonneau 307, Kathy Gropp 306, Joan Healy 293 and Barbara Hensley 288.

Ellie Bertrand led the Parkettes with 313 while Edna Walker followed with 366, and Dot Welch 295.

The Classie Lassies jumped off to a 93 pin first string lead over Norwell and had little trouble in capturing the last two for their 220 pin one-sided victory.

Sandy Hammill led the consistent effort by the Classie Lassies with 310, Jen Magnarelli 301, Connie Williamson 296, Marge Crowell 294, and Joyce Jacobson 279.

Linda Yout with 273 was top for Norwell.

The Queen Pins jumped off to a 19 pin lead at the close of the first string, but watched a strong Keglerettes combine bounce back to win the second by 29 pins, and carry a 10 pin lead into the final when a controversial and well fought third string had ended and the smoke cleared the Queen Pins had a one pin victory.

Bev Putnam's 324 was top for the winners, followed by Ellie Iacobucci 293, Nan Magee 287, Mal Adams 285, and Hazel Crocker 277.

Elaine Brodie led the Keglerettes with 320, Bonnie Damore 300, and Pat Chiavarolli 296.

The Rag Dolls took a 30 pin lead over the Alley Kats in the first string saw a stand off 493 each in the second string, and the Rag Dolls clinched in the final adding 9 pins to their 30 pin first string lead for a comfortable victory.

Barbra DiChristoforo, Rag Dolls alternate led her team with 309, assisted by Marie Tidwell 300, and Jean Doherty and Lou Wilson 293 each.

Marie Ford, fifth bowler for the Alley Kats was high with 327, followed by Milan Nestor 286.

The Socialites lost the first string by 9 pins to the Junior Women, but bounced back to win the second by 32 pins and needed the lead as the stubborn young opponents put on a last string splurge to cut the victory to 9 pins.

Anna DiNardo was high for the winners with 302, while Alice Faiella had 292, and Helen Pomarico 279.

Saralee Cobban with 295 was top for the Junior Women, Adrienna White 291, and Joanne Flynn 285.

In the lowest scoring match of the day, the Ocean Rollers won by 6-29-5 pins for their easy tourney win.

Edna Guilfoy was high for Ocean Rollers with 287, Barbra Frazier 281, and Anna Hutchings 280.

The six winners from yesterday will meet last Sundays survivors in next Sundays qualifying rounds at 1 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

Mite A's Bow, 8–6

The Quincy Mite "A" team lost an 8-6 Bay Colony Hockey Association game to Bridgewater Sunday despite the scoring fireworks of Richie Stevens and Mike McNiece.

Stevens and McNiece each collected two goals and two assists while Tommy Murphy had a goal and two assists, Kevin Chase had a goal and an assist and Kevin Duff had an assist.

Next Sunday [March 4] at Hingham Arena the Quincy Mites play Duxbury at 11 a.m. on Rink B.

Mite B's Drop Pair

It was a bad week for the Quincy Mite "B" team which dropped a close-checking 2-0 decision to the Abington Terriers Feb. 22, and a wild 10-5 scoring fest to Duxbury Saturday.

Quincy goals in the Duxbury game came off the sticks of Mike Marshall, who had a pair, Duane Wilcoxin, Dave Clifford and Rick Reardon.

Marshall and Wilcoxin also collected two assists apiece while single assists went to Mike Chiochio, Dave Hickey, Dickie Tapper and Paul Egan.

The Quincy Mites meet Cohasset on Saturday [March 3] at 11:15 a.m. on Rink B, Hingham Arena.

Dunphy Brothers Score

There are just too many Dunphys playing for Rich's South Shore Express in the Quincy Youth Hockey Midget House League.

The Quincy Sun reported last week that Kurt Dunphy scored two goals, one in a game against the Fire Department Local and one in a game with Tiffany Realty.

Now it turns out that Kurt only got one and his brother, Mike, got the other.

Cavanagh Stadium Out

Atlantic Tennis Courts May Be Flooded For Ice Skating

The Quincy Parks and Recreation Board has ruled out Cavanagh Stadium in North Quincy as an outdoor skating rink.

But the Board decided Monday night to look instead into the possibilities of preparing the tennis courts at nearby Atlantic Junior High School for skating next winter.

The action came on receipt of a petition, forwarded by City Councillor William D. Delahunt, requesting that a portion of Cavanagh Stadium be flooded in the winter for ice skating.

In a letter to the Board accompanying the petition, Delahunt said:

"I understand that Cavanagh Stadium was resodded four or five years ago and that there may be some concern that considerable damage might be incurred by flooding a portion of the bowl area.

"I have personally examined the field and would repectfully suggest that the benefits of the last resodding no longer exist because of natural erosion and continued use by the North Quincy High School for athletic purposes.

"I would also point out that there is no other natural skating field in the general vicinity to serve its area residents."

Richard Koch, executive secretary of the Parks-Recreation Board, said that Transit Seeding, the company that resodded the stadium a few years ago, advised against flooding it for skating purposes.

"Transit Seeding warned us that the drainage at Cavanagh Stadium was inadequate to handle so much flooding," said Koch. "It might turn it into another dust bowl that drew so many complaints back in the 1960's."

Koch also pointed out that it is necessary to have eight to 10 inches of frost to create a skating rink on bare ground and there is only one or two inches right now at Cavanagh Stadium.

"There are only about 12 to 15 good skating days a year," he said. "We don't want to jeopardize the nine or ten months that Cavanagh Stadium is used for other recreational purposes."

Koch said that the Board needs only to build a burm around the asphalt-covered tennis courts at Atlantic Junior High School and install a solid cap on the drain to convert them into a skating rink for the winter months.

Right now, there are 19 outdoor skating rinks in Quincy, 14 of them on asphalt, three on gravel or loan foundations, and two on natural ponds.

"It is interesting to note," said Koch, "that even with the number of indoor rinks around the city, people are still looking to their neighborhood areas for natural ice."

The Easton Squirt "B" team scored a goal with 36 seconds left in the game to defeat Quincy, 1-0, Saturday in an Alamo Hockey League contest at Hingham Arena.

Assists went to Mike Doherty, who had a pair, Tommy Heffernan, Paul McConville, Fred Palmer, Mark Boussy, Mike Panico, Bob Beniers and Joey Rathgeb.

6-Ward Set-up May Stay

8-Ward Plan Stalled On U.S. Supreme Court Decision

By PAUL HAROLD

Question of the week: How many seats on the Quincy City Council are up for grabs in next fall's election?

Dozens of potential candidates, who have been standing around for weeks with their hats in their hands, would like to know as soon as possible.

And so would the City Council itself.

Many of the candidates-to-be showed up at the Council meeting Monday night in the belief that the Council was going to vote on a plan to divide the city into eight wards, instead of the current six.

There was even a map on display in the Council Chamber, with the eight wards colored in, but the Council failed to take a vote on the matter.

The fact is, the Council didn't know what to do.

After the meeting, Council President Arthur H. Tobin directed City Clerk John M. Gillis to get in touch with the Massachusetts Legislative Research Bureau and find out what happens now.

The villain in the piece – or the hero, if you don't like the present six ward setup – is the United States Supreme Court.

Several years ago, the High Court established the "one man, one vote" principle in ruling that Congressional districts should be equal in population, insofar as is practical.

Later interpretations by lower courts appeared to extend the "one man, one vote" principle to other elected bodies such as state legislatures and city councils.

Since Quincy's Ward 1 had 21,119 people and one councillor and Ward 2 had 8,861 people and one councillor the city was under the threat of a court order to redraw wards of equal size.

The City Council, with six members elected from wards and three at large, was moving slowly toward an eight-ward,

Kelly Calls It 'Fiscal Juggling'

Hannon Asks Week's Delay In $2.5 Million To School Teachers

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Walter J. Hannon has asked the Quincy School Committee to withhold the teachers' final paycheck of the school year for one week and save the city an estimated $6 on the tax rate.

The final paycheck, which includes pay for the summer months, customarily is given the teachers in the last week in June. It comes to about $2.5 million.

The week's postponement amounts to moving the figure from one budget to another.

School Committee Vice-Chairman Paul C. Kelly said he would oppose the delay, called the move 'fiscal juggling' and warned it could lead to collective bargaining problems.

Kelly told The Sun that he would vote against the requested delay and warned that if the payment was delayed even a week it could lead to a possible suit.

Said the Mayor in a letter to School Committee Vice Chairman Paul C. Kelly:

"On Friday, March 2, 1973, Gov. Sargent signed the fiscal law changes. One of those changes was to enable school committees to withhold teachers' salaries which would normally be paid the last week of June.

"This amounts to some $2½ million and could save us some $6 on the tax rate.

Often times, local school committees are unjustly accused of not caring about the problems of local government and using their autonomy as a shield for unresponsive actions.

"I think this is an excellent opportunity to destroy this myth.

"Therefore I am urging you to look with favor on voting to delete this $2½ million from the 1973-74 budget. I will try to reach you by phone before Wednesday's meeting and ask you for your favorable consideration on this matter."

Kelly declared:

"I am going to vote against it because it is money owed the teachers. We owe it to them in June–not at some later period. If we delay it, it could be a problem for collective bargaining. I don't think it is a good policy to follow.

"I know the teachers are unanimously opposed to this kind of legislation. They feel that their money should be paid to them when it is earned and not delayed for any purpose like this which would amount to fiscal juggling.

"What they would have to do each year thereafter is to pass legislation to delay teachers'

Council Opposes Any New MBTA Station In Quincy

The Quincy City Council has gone on record in opposition to the proposed MBTA station and parking facility in South Quincy – or in any other part of Quincy.

The vote Monday night was 8-0 with one councillor absent, Clifford H. Marshall, who was unable to attend due to illness in his family.

The resolution, which has been on the council's table for some time, was brought to a vote on the motion of Councillor Theophilis McLelland III.

On motion of Councillor Albert R. Barilaro the word "South" was stricken from the resolution; thus extending the ban to all Quincy.

Passage of the resolution drew immediate praise from Pat DiStefano, president of the South Quincy Civic Association and a vehement opponent of the station plan.

The Association is in favor of the station being located in South Braintree.

"One has only to examine the facts at hand to see that the pressure is heavily mounting throughout our city against this ridiculous plan," said DiStefano.

"The South Quincy Civic Association is proud to have led the fight against this proposal and is now ready and willing to relinquish that leadership to the Quincy City Council, who have by last night's critical vote, put themselves on record against those who would prefer progress over people."

Elks May Buy Land For Home

Stockholders of the Quincy Elks will meet March 13 to decide whether to appropriate money for the purchase of about five acres of city-owned land on Quarry St., West Quincy on which to build a new Elks home.

McCormick Urges School Be Named For Dr. Djerf

Former School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick Sr. has added his voice to those who are urging the School Committee to name the South West Community School for the late Dr. Charles Djerf.

"My many years as an associate of Dr. Djerf's on the School Committee gave me an insight to the many and varied interests of this man," said McCormick.

"Children and youth of all ages have benefited from his having been here."

Dr. Djerf, a pediatrician, former school committeeman and civic leader, died Feb. 13.

8-Ward Plan Still Hanging

[Cont'd from Page 1]

11-councillor plan when the Supreme Court dropped the other shoe.

Two weeks ago, the Court ruled that "one man, one vote" applied to Congressional districts but not to districts represented by state legislators. But does it apply to city council districts?

That's what Council President Tobin wants City Clerk Gillis to find out from the Legislative Research Bureau.

If the bureau is of the opinion that "one man, one vote" does not apply to the local wards, Tobin predicts that Quincy will go on being a six-ward city, despite the population imbalance.

Even if it rules the other way, some City Hall observers feel that there is little chance that the eight-ward setup will be adopted in time for the fall elections.

The recent Supreme Court decision also injected more confusion into the Quincy case from another direction.

Previously, it held that election districts had to be as equal as possible on population. Now, they can vary up to 16.4 per cent and even more if the reason is valid [that is, to keep neighborhoods together].

So, even if "one man, one vote" applies to the ward level, is there a valid reason for keeping 21,119 people together in Ward 1?

A lot of potential candidates for the Quincy City Council would like to know – and soon, before their hats get too old and worn to be thrown into the ring.

Hannon Asks Delay In Teachers' Salaries

[Cont'd from Page 1]

salaries for one or two months rather than a week.

"Another problem is that it could seriously affect the amount of the Quincy entitlement under the Nesdec formula which includes all teachers' salaries.

"So, we don't know what our entitlement would be lowered by this manipulation of funds.

What I think they [the legislature] could do would be to pass legislation that would allow the second six months of the 18-months cycle to be figured into the tax rate of that period rather than this year's tax rate. It would accomplish what Mayor Hannon is looking for."

William Connolly Appointed

New Youth Coordinator To Develop Job Bank

One of the duties of Quincy's new youth coordinator will be to develop a "job bank" for the young people of the city.

William J. Connolly, 24, of 11 Shepard St., Squantum, was named to the $8,226 post Monday. The money covers his salary through Dec. 31.

The salary, Mayor Walter J. Hannon pointed out, is 100 per cent refundable by the Massachusetts Department of Youth Services.

Connolly's other duties include finding foster homes for young people who need one, developing counseling programs for youth and coordinating existing programs.

He is to work with various groups around the city, including the Neighborhood Youth Corps, Donner House, and Eastern Nazarene College.

Connolly was selected from a field of 24 applicants, some from as far away as Vermont, New York and Nova Scotia.

The selection committee included Mayor Hannon, Youth Commission Chairman John W. Mahoney, Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, director of pupil personnel in the Quincy schools, former Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti.

Also Richard Venna, Quincy district court probation officer; Daniel Lyons of the Quincy Police Juvenile Division; City Recreation Director William Ryan, and two interested citizens, Thomas Hughes and Robert Fitzpatrick.

If the name Connolly is familiar to you it may be because the new youth coordinator is a former captain of football teams at Scituate High School and American International College.

He has worked with disturbed Puerto Rican boys at the Springfield YMCA and has been for the past two years a teacher in the Boston public school system.

Second Quincy POW Released

Comdr. Stratton Due Back In U.S. This Week

Another prisoner of war from Quincy is expected back in the United States this week – but Quincy probably will have to wait a little longer to greet its native son.

Navy Cmdr. Richard A. Stratton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stratton of 54 Bowdoin St., Quincy, but his wife and three sons live in Palo Alto, Calif.

Cmdr. Stratton looked fit and he laughed and joked with other returning POWs when a hospital plane brought him to the Philippines Sunday after six years imprisonment in North Vietnam.

There was no explanation of a 1967 statement Cmdr. Stratton made in captivity in which he admitted dropping anti-personnel mines on civilian areas of Hanoi.

A photograph of him released at the time showed him looking stooped and drawn, leading to a debate over whether he had been brainwashed into giving the statement by his captors.

Section Of Sea St. To Be Repaved

Repaving of a section of Sea Street in Houghs Neck will begin in the spring, Mayor Walter J. Hannon announced Tuesday.

Low bidder on the work was Capone Bros., Inc., of Roslindale, who bid $132,317.50.

LaRaia Seeks Review Of 'Excessive' Supervisor Overtime

City Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia leveled criticism this week at what he called "overly excessive and apparently uncontrolled" use of overtime by some supervisory city employees.

LaRaia in a letter to City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Finance Chairman John J. Quinn called for a "serious review" by the City Council.

He said excessive overtime occured during the last calendar year.

In a prepared statement he declared:

"The use of overtime by some supervisory employees during the last calendar year was overly excessive and apparently uncontrolled and requires a serious review for its continued use.

"At least two supervisory employees earned over $11,000 during the past year which suggests a complete review of this practice by supervisory staff.

"Although the control over the use of overtime is directly the responsibility of the Mayor's office, the City Council should exercise its influence by suggesting ways in which controls can be effectuated.

"Supervisory employees of a municipality are similar to management of private industry whereby they are paid substantial salaries for their supervisory responsibilities. The use of paid overtime should be primarily for the working staff and limited to exceptional occasions for higher ranking personnel.

"I am requesting that the City Council review the use of paid overtime by supervisory personnel and make recommendations for its control.

"In view of the fact that the City is confronted for the first time with an 18 month budget, it is extremely necessary that the City Council approve only those services that are necessary and cut appropriations where possible."

Independent Study Program Offered At Quincy Junior College

For the first time this semester Quincy Junior College is offering selected courses under a newly established Independent Study Program.

The development of this program is another step in the on-going effort of the college to increase and broaden its services to the community, according to Richard T. Mula, Dean of Continuing Education. He said that the Independent Study Program was initiated to make college more available to more people.

Mula explained that many people are prevented from taking college courses because they are unable to meet the inflexible demands of the traditional, classroom oriented college curriculum. Because of factors such as home or work commitments or confinement due to illness, for example, they either cannot attend classes or lack the time to properly complete the course requirements. This new program is designed to help people with these or similar problems.

The Independent Study Program is similar in concept to Great Britain's Open University. Instructors package their courses enabling a student to work at home. Making use of taped lectures, readings and other audio-visual material, the student can work at his own pace under the direction and with the assistance of an instructor-advisor. If he needs to, he may take up to eighteen months to complete a course.

Courses taken under the Independent Study Program carry the same credit as those taken in the traditional manner. Up to 30 credits towards a degree may be earned through the program. Students may enroll in Independent Study courses at any time during the academic year.

For further information concerning the program contact Edward J. Tumavicus, Division of Continuing Education, Quincy Junior College. The telephone number is 471-0100, extension 274.

Finance Committee's Third Budget Pruning Session Saturday

The Quincy City Council's finance committee will make its third assault on Mayor Walter J. Hannon's $87.2 million at public hearings Saturday in the Council Chamber beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Thus far the committee, which is actually the Council sitting as a committee-of-the--whole, has made no actual cuts in the budget but Councilor John J. Quinn has predicted that as much as $600,000 may be trimmed.

Before the hearings started, Quinn, who is chairman of the finance committee, said that cuts will not be decided on until the final two sessions.

Use Of Bands Will Speed Delivery Of Local Mail

"Improved mail service is being initiated in Quincy to expedite the processing of locally deposited mail designated for delivery within our immediate community", Postmaster George K. Walker announces.

Under the old system, all mail deposited in collection boxes was transported into the main distribution center in South Boston Annex, Boston, for processing and then returned to Quincy, for delivery by Quincy letter carriers.

"On occasion", Walker said, "mail did not receive next-day delivery due to weather conditions, vehicle breakdowns or other related problems."

The new procedures will retain within the local post office area all locally deposited mail addressed to residents of Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy.

Pressurized bands stamped Local will be used to band all mail addressed to local customers. The banded mail may be deposited in any collection box in town. Collectors will separate all local banded mail and deposit it at the local post office for processing and next-day delivery.

Bands will be supplied to all doctors, dentists, businessmen, professional, social and fraternal organizations who generate large mailings to local residents.

In addition, a collection box marked "FOR LOCAL MAIL ONLY" has been set up in front of the local post office. Customers are urged to deposit locally addressed mail banded or loose in this special box for next-day delivery.

Last election year at this time there were at least a dozen candidates campaigning for School Committee. By June, a record number of 23 persons had filed for the office.

In contrast, so far this year, the political scene as far as school committee is concerned is unusually quiet. Three members of the committee up for re-election in September's primary: Paul Kelly, Charles Sweeny and Frank Anselmo.

Political observers predict at least one open seat on the board, with Kelly expected to be a candidate for councillor-at-large. Sweeny [completing his 14th year on the board] is expected to seek re-election, while observers are discussing the possibility that Anselmo may either [1] run for re-election [2] retire, [3] run for councillor-at-large or [4] run for Ward Four [new Ward Five] councillor.

TWO NEW NAMES are being mentioned this week for ward councillor in North Quincy and Wollaston.

Joseph Gildea of Montclair, chairman of the Ward Six Democratic Committee and former vice chairman of the Park-Recreation Board, is being urged by friends to make a run in what is expected to be an open seat, when Councillor William Delahunt runs for councillor-at-large.

Rick Morrissey, son of Richard [Dee Dee] Morrissey of Wollaston, has expressed an interest in running for council from the new ward that is proposed for the Wollaston Beach area. Morrissey, the former football star at Archbishop Williams H.S., is scheduled to graduate from Harvard this year.

MONDAY WAS BOSTON Massacre Day. It is of particular significance to Quincy, because it was John Adams who accepted the job of defending the Captain of the British regiment who fired on the crowd.

Boston was worked up into such an hysteria of anti-British feeling that almost no lawyer in the colony would take the case.

Although he deplored the action of the British soldiers, Adams agreed to represent them out of principle; "..the very last thing that an accused person should want in a free country was the right to counsel."

RICHARD KOCH, Executive Secretary of the Park and Recreation Board and trustee at the Norfolk County Agricultural School, attended the 25th annual banquet of the Future Farmers of America last week, at the school in Walpole. Richard Morrissey Jr. of West Quincy is chaplain for the club.

The steak dinner for the 280 people was prepared by the students, from start to finish: they had done everything from raising the steer to finally cooking it.

While it's still called an agricultural school, Koch points out that the program at the school has been completely re-vamped, and it now offers courses in meat cutting, landscaping, floral design and a veterinary program.

About 35 of the school's 300 students are from Quincy, with the Whitman family of Germantown now sending their third son to the school.

- The Oil Pickpockets
- Sedatives That Kill
- Military Sticker Ban

WASHINGTON — The term "energy crisis" has pushed its way uninvited into our everyday vocabulary with the help of a massive media campaign financed by the oil industry.

Certainly the oil companies would like the government and the public to think there's an energy shortage. Then they can use the emergency as an excuse to end government regulation and to raise prices.

But whether the energy shortage is a genuine problem or a scare campaign remains undetermined.

David S. Freeman, chairman of the Energy Policy Project, recently called the energy crisis "a smokescreen for a massive exercise in picking the pocket of the American consumer to the tune of billions of dollars a year."

The speech predictably made Mobil Oil President William Tavoulareas to erupt like a new-found oil well. As a member of the project's advisory board, he successfully forced the Ford Foundation, which finances the project, to call Freeman on the carpet and tongue-lash the oil industry critic.

Freeman particularly enraged the oil industry when he criticized oil quotas. These quotas keep large amounts of foreign oil off the American market, thus making the oil supply low and the price artificially high.

This "drain American first" policy helped create heating oil shortages in some parts of the nation this winter and has slowly drained our energy resources, says Freeman.

Instead of repealing the quotas, Freeman notes, the oil companies are demanding that the government keep them. The oilmen want the government to lift the price restrictions on natural gas and to allow them more environmental liberties in drilling, mining and exploration.

Freeman has excellent credentials. He was an adviser to both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. But his latest advice has not impressed the rich oil barons.

Drugs That Kill

The crackdown on the distribution of the drug speed has apparently been successful enough to trigger a counterphenomenon. An unpublished federal report claims drug users are switching from speed and psychedelics to sedatives.

In this report, the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs warns that many of the sedatives now in vogue among thrill seekers may lead to a trip to the morgue. Unknown to many users, the sedatives can be addictive and can cause convulsions leading to death. Such drugs as Qualudes or Sorpors can be deadly when combined with alcohol. Ironically, these drugs are often pushed as an aphrodisiac to the naive, even though they are renowned for producing a sedentary, trance-like state in the user.

Qualudes and Sorpors have been labelled as dangerous drugs in England since 1966. Yet they are still classified with aspirin on the Food and Drug Administration's danger scale here in the United States.

The sedatives are easily obtainable, either with or without a prescription. There is no underground manufacturing, as with LSD or mescaline. The pills found on the street come straight from the nation's booming pharmaceutical companies. Usually, they are obtained in large numbers by sellers who forge prescriptions. But there are also a few greedy druggists who are willing to compromise their integrity for a few dollars.

The unpublished study comes on the heels of our own report that the Food and Drug Administration is top-heavy with officials who have worked in the past for pharmaceutical companies. The FDA, true to form, has been reluctant to crack down on the black market in sedatives.

Congress, however, might force the FDA to take action. Some congressmen concerned with the new drug craze are preparing legislation that would force the FDA to tighten its controls. Meanwhile, the FDA still operates on the risky premise that a once-approved drug is innocent until proven guilty.

Around and About

GUMMY BUDGET — President Nixon's budget cuts apparently have left about 200 old people in Houston toothless. A program run by Model Cities provided dental care for senior citizens, many of whom recently had their bad teeth pulled. The old people expect to get their dentures, but Houston Model Cities director Jack Matthews tells us that the oldsters now may never get their false teeth—due to Model City program economy cuts.

FLYING IN STYLE — Georgia's Air National Guard chief, Joel Paris, is up to his old tricks again. Last fall, General Paris was caught taking a weekend trip to Florida in the Guard's old C-47 cargo plane. Now, the general has gotten a new plane to ferry him around the country. The general admits he is converting a newly assigned Air Force T-29 plane into what he calls "an administrative aircraft." This means the general is taking out the navigational and radar equipment and replacing it with a galley, an icebox and other plush equipment.

STICKER BAN — Commanders on U.S. military posts are cracking down on bumper stickers. Any bumper sticker on a car registered at the base is carefully scrutinized for political overtones. On many posts, for example, the bumper sticker—Nixon's Had ITT—is strictly taboo. At Fort Bragg, N.C., GIs have been ordered to remove even small flower decals from their cars. Fort Bragg officials, apparently, regard the little flowers as symbols of peace.

Broadmeadows Instructional Exhibit March 13

The latest books, materials and audio-visual aids will be on display along with a variety of teacher-made learning aids.

Purpose of the exhibit is to offer an opportunity for local educators to view current teaching materials and exchange ideas and information on current educational topics, according to David P. Tenney, principal of Broad Meadows Junior High School.

The coordinating committee for the exhibit includes teachers Allen E. Goldfarb, George W. Burke, Vincent E. Quagge and Principal David P. Tenney.

● QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Public Hearings Required On Revenue Sharing Funds ?

"Are public hearings required on the use of revenue sharing funds in my town?" The answer is "NO" according to the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone.

The Voter Information Phone explained that there are certain limitations on the use of revenue sharing funds which were first received in December. The money cannot be spent on maintenance and operating expenses for education, for general administration of the community or as local matched funds for federal grants.

It is recommended that the money be used for certain priority areas such as public safety, environmental protection, transportation, recreation, libraries, health, social services for the poor and elderly, etc. The actual allocation, however, is at the discretion of local officials without public hearings.

There is a certain amount of public approval required in a town since the town meeting must approve the budget and transfers from the revenue sharing fund. If the town meeting chooses to place those funds elsewhere in the budget, it may do so subject to the legal limitations. In a city, the mayor and council in regular budget procedures determine how to spend the money.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP Phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Hopes Peace Thanksgiving Celebration Will Be Annual

Editor, Quincy Sun:

My husband and I were delighted to be part of the Thanksgiving Celebration for Peace held at the Open House of City Hall.

It is our fondest hope that this celebration instituted by Mayor Hannon will continue in the future. If for no other reason than to honor the Quincy boys that have lost their lives not just in this war, but any war!

The flag ceremony was very moving especially when one considers what our home town POW had to suffer for his country.

We earnestly hope that this will not be a one time celebration for peace, but one that stretches from year to year not only for Quincy, but for everyone.

He Likes To Travel On Foot

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Traveling on foot is quite a recreation in itself. It is surprising what one will see by taking his time. This is something I have been doing since 1923. I hope some day to cross the country on foot and make a travelogue with pictures of such a trip.

This can be an inexpensive way of travel. One meets some of the most interesting and friendly people as well as learn what you have around you. Through the friendliness of people, I made a five-day trip with 45 cents in my pocket. Every so often, I am offered money on my travels, other times a meal and sometimes a place to stay.

PEOPLE LIKE YOU HELPING PEOPLE LIKE YOU

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Offers of freezer and frozen food plans that will bring savings of up to one-third off regular retail prices are extremely tempting with today's ever-increasing cost of food.

However, many consumers have found that comparable freezers could have been purchased in appliance or department stores for as much as $600 less.

My Consumer Protection Division warns consumers who are considering purchasing a freezer through a "package deal" that salesmen may mislead them. Many consumers have complained that salesmen have explained how bulk buying can cut costs over a long period of time and provided an itemized list of foods needed by a family but have not mentioned the cost of the freezer.

Often these salesmen pressure consumers into signing a contract immediately by telling them "this offer ends today". In their rush to take advantage of a "real bargain", consumers often deprive themselves of lower prices offered elsewhere.

In addition, consumers who sign up for food and freezer plans frequently find that the food is a disappointment. Consumers assume that they will receive high grade meats and brand name products. But when the food is delivered, it often consists of inexpensive cuts of meat and large supplies of peas and french fries.

Consumers should remember that meat can be bought in bulk from meat companies which do not require their customers to buy a freezer. Families that buy from these companies can save on their food budget and still ensure some control over the quality of the meat.

Any consumers interested in subscribing to a food freezer plan should check into other prices and other means of bulk food buying before signing a contract.

Consumers should also check the grading and quality of food and the price and the warranty of the freezer and then shop comparatively.

Poet's Corner

Prayer

Oh Lord, bring me through my periods of doubt;
Doubts about whether you exist;
Doubts which assault me,
Telling me I'm here all alone.

Reinforce my faith in you,
And in my self;
For only in this way will I be
Of any use to you, or to my fellow man.

I know not what work you have cut out for me;
I'd like to have a flair for interaction,
And to take a shine to socializing;
Someone who needs me -
This is my quest.

A function, a purpose, a spot
On the map of life;
Someone who figures in
The grand design
Of decision-making;
Thus does my heart yearn -
But your will, not mine, be done.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Do I Really Have A Choice?

"Why have you taken this for nine years?" ... I asked. What's with you? Do you enjoy his nightly drunkenness? ... his lack of attention? ... his sexual inadequacy? ... his total failure to be a man to you and father to the children? Why do you put up with this? How long will you go on this way?" Don was a spoiled child. Gay was continuing the same indulging treatment his mother had given him.

"What choice do I have ... Dr. Knox? ... Gay replied rhetorically. "With two children ... no income ... out of my hygienist field for the nine years ... do I really have a choice?"

I felt sorry for her. She felt so trapped. This thing of feeling trapped in a marriage ... feeling stifled ... limited ... used ... unloved. Even the birds do better. At least they can fly away. (Read Jonathan Livingstone Seagull by Richard Bach in your leisure.) Gay felt trapped ... that's an awful way for a free soul to feel. Trapped. Not free.

"You have several choices ... Gay" ... I said thoughtfully trying to restore hope in her heart. "First ... would Don be willing to ENTER INTO COUNSELING WITH YOU AND ME?" This is always the best choice.

"He won't ... I just know he won't. He says he won't reveal his private life to any stranger ... hates even for me to come. His father's from the Old Country and doesn't believe in these 'new things' like counseling." I thought he might ... wives aren't always right about this.

"Your second choice ... Gay ... is to JUST LIVE WITH IT. Find your own compensations in life ... do things you like ... see that your own personal needs are met ... make new friends ... male and female. We will help you in the THERAPY GROUP to become more secure in yourself ... to regain your lost self esteem. You do need to love yourself more ... Gay. Do you feel under these circumstances you could live with the situation.

"I know one thing ... Gay said ... "I can't stand any more hurts ... being hit ... called names ... being so lonely ... that's the worst of it."

"Gay ... your third choice is DIVORCE. Not many find it easy to make this choice. Divorced people are often lonely ... feel ignored. It isn't always the solution to happiness. But when gangrene has set into a foot ... or cancer has advanced beyond milder therapy in a breast ... surgery may be the answer. So it is in a marriage ... severance may be necessary. So ... Gay ... you have three choices ... some kind of HEALTH ADJUSTMENT OR CORRECTION of the relationship ... or LIVE WITH IT MAKING YOUR OWN COMPENSATIONS ... or GET OUT THROUGH DIVORCE. We'll help you with whatever you choose ... but you have to make the choice."

Four years have passed. Gay couldn't make her choice. She's still there ... two more children ... suffers from ulcers ... Don still gets drunk ... beats her ... says "I'm sorry" the next day ... (a game he plays) ... seldom does she leave the house ... hope is gone from her. Her predicament has greatly worsened in the passing of the four years.

Why did she stay? Let Gay tell you ... "Because I was afraid ... I couldn't make the choice ... I thought he might change ... I couldn't face the unknown. Besides I thought divorce was wrong. It was what I should have done when he refused counseling. Now with broken health and four emotionally disturbed children, I have to do it."

Not a pretty story ... but a common one. Everyone does have a choice ... but each person must make his own.

For your comments ... for Group Therapy ... for private counseling you may write Dr. Knox at 628 High Street, Dedham, Mass or call 326-5990 or 545-5947 or 659-7595.

Norfolk County Costs $9.20 Per Person To Run Government

Norfolk County costs its residents less to run than any other county in Massachusetts.

So says County Commission Chairman James J. Collins, quoting from an analysis of the cost of county government in the Bay State.

The cost of Norfolk County government in 1971 was $5.5 million, or $9.20 per person.

Or, if you deduct the nearly $1 million that was returned to individual cities and towns, that is $7.56 per person.

"The average taxpayer," says Collins, "paying approximately $1,200 per year in property taxes can trace less than 3 per cent of the cost to the cost of running Norfolk County government."

Sister Veronica Julie Art Exhibit At Main Library

Sister Veronica Julie of Notre Dame School of Fine Arts in Milton is exhibiting her paintings in the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy.

Sister Veronica spent 17 years in Japan, mostly in Hiroshima, the city levelled by the 1946 atom blast, though now rebuilt. She returned to America in 1968. Her life in the Orient subconsciously affects her work, she believes.

The nun-artist is highly versatile, working in virtually all media; oil, water-color, acrylic, wood-engraving, tissue collage, and others. Though not an abstractionist, she believes the subconscious should have free rein in executing an art work. Her work has an intensely personal quality, expressing symbolically inner values and ideals.

Among her exhibits are those at the Milton Hill House, Women's City Club, the Braintree Plaza, R. H. Stearns, the Winthrop Art Festival, Temple Shalom on Blue Hill Avenue, Jordan Marsh's 42nd Annual Show, the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, and the Lobby of Cinema I and II, Braintree Plaza.

They're right. Because, without enough electricity, a lot of the things that make a mess of our lives would be piling up on us at the rate of 3.5 million tons a year. It takes a lot of energy just to clean up after ourselves.

Take the recycling of waste materials. Discarded cans, papers, bottles, old automobiles—in fact, most of the refuse that fills our trash barrels and litters our landscape—can be converted to useful ends by electric energy.

We will also be using more and more electric power to purify the water we drink and to clean the air we breathe.

That's why we're working now to provide the kind of facilities it will take to not only clean up the world we live in but to keep it that way. Remember, it's as important to us as it is to you... because we live here, too.

People like you working to make life a little better.

Rent-A-Parent

When Mommas and Poppas want to go away on an overnight or extended trip, sans enfants, they can take advantage of a babysitting service that sends young married couples in to take care of the children and the house. University Home Services of Needham screens couples for moral character, responsibility and good judgement, then sends them to your home for an interview and approval. Most couples are college age or graduates. They prepare all meals, do the laundry, maintain the house and manage details such as garbage disposal and snow plowing. It's arranged for the sitters to become acquainted with the children beforehand so they won't be strangers when the parents leave.

The Agency can also provide housewatchers, chaperones, tutors and home caretakers.

Memories Of Italy Linger

We Love You, Cervina

By MARY BUCKLEY

When last we left our foreign-bound friends, they were at Logan Airport bidding their family and friends goodbye and boarding their plane on their way to an Italian excursion.

The students and their teacher-chaperones were enroute to a week of fun and frolic in the Italian Alps.

On their 7-hour trans-oceanic flight the travelers conducted their own bon voyage party and took in an airborne movie, "What's Up Doc?"

Upon their arrival in Italy, the tourists roomed in two separate hotels in Valtournache, Punta Marguerita and Etoile de Neige. Friendships developed easily between the American tourists and their Italian hosts. When all other methods of communication failed, small bowls called "friendship cups" were exchanged between the newly-made friends.

Each morning, those who wished to ski were bused to Cervina where they skiid for hours on the rolling hills that backed up to the Matterhorn. There were long tunnels in the Alps in which the skiers entered on one side of the mountain and exited moments later on the other side. Skating was also another popular pastime for those who didn't wish to ski.

The night life was spent at the American discotheque in the Hotel Cervina and other night spots in the Alpine City. American girls were easy to recognize on the wintry streets, because Italian girls are not allowed on the streets during twilight hours without a chaperone.

Side trips were made to the cities of Aosta and Torino where the tourists shopped and snapped photograph after photograph.

All in all, the trip was a great success and each and every one had a marvelous time. After an eight-hour flight home to Logan [in which a massive pillow fight took place] the week-long Italian tourists greeted their families and friends with a feeling of happiness and possibly a tinge of regret.

AIR BOUND for week's skiing vacation in Italian Alps are Kathy Mahoney, Chris Madden and Elaine Veasey with other students peering out airliner windows.

RESTING AFTER SKIING are Debbie Matson, Beth Lagadimos, Don Martucci, Donna Crifo, Barbara Deyeso, Nancy Flynn, Billy Chigaris, Joe Joyce and Steve Pagnaraui.

North Debating Team In Wins Around New England

This year the North Quincy High School Debating Team has been exploding all over the New England area with wins.

The team, led by co-captains Mark Petracca and Paul Goslin and by Coach David Bergman, has participated in tournaments from New Hampshire to Pennsylvania.

In a debate one team takes the affirmative side of a question and the other team takes the negative. The affirmative will argue that the present system must be changed in order to correct some harm caused by it. The negative will argue that the present system is capable of handling the problem and that the problem, in fact, is non-existent.

The affirmative must also propose a plan to correct the problems and defend that plan. The negative will attack that plan in the areas of its workability, whether the plan will actually eliminate the need presented, and disadvantages to the plan which make it undesireable.

A judge must decide who will win the debate on the basis of the arguments presented during the eight speeches in a debate. These speeches are the four constructives, each eight minutes long, and the four rebuttals, each four minutes long. Each speaker receives time for one constructive and one rebuttal. On the higher levels of debate cross examination is added. This allows each team a chance to draw information from each other in a lively manner.

There are three levels of debate, novice, intermediate, and varsity. Normally a team will compete in four man units of one affirmative and one negative team. At the end of a tournament their combined record is used to determine their position amongst the participating teams. On the varsity level a team must often debate switch-side. In alternating rounds they will debate both sides of the question. This demands much more skill and preparation.

Having this information one can understand better some of the accomplishments of this year's N.Q.H.S. Debating Team.

The varsity team of Mark Petracca and Paul Goslin has won first place at tournaments at Bishop Connolly H.S. and Melrose H.S. They were also quarter-finalists at the Dartmouth University tournament this year being eliminated by Catholic Memorial High School. At Rockland they were in the final round broadcast by WBET Radio in Brockton. They lost this final to Silver Lake Regional H.S. Mark and Paul took second place.

Mark and Paul have also received numerous awards for speaking. Paul received third speaker award at Bishop Connolly while Mark has taken awards at Bishop Connolly, Melrose, Boston College High and Catholic Memorial.

Mark and Paul along with Amy Matthews and Joe Carroll set out this weekend to try to win the State Championship. This weekend is qualifying rounds for the semi-final tournament to be held next weekend.

The novice team has also been out at tournaments at Lexington and Melrose. They've also done well in the South Shore Debate League of which North Quincy is defending Varsity Champions.

In the future everyone will be hearing much more from these many excellent novices as they move along.

All in all debate at North has become a highly successful venture.

Health High-Lights

By Jack Silverstein

Women And Heart Disease

While statistics show that far many more men than women suffer heart attacks [at age 45, the mortality rate from heart attacks is five times greater for men than women] after menopause, however, the statistics begin to get closer. By age 70, the percentage for women approaches that of men. What can a woman do to increase her chances of avoiding a heart attack? Here's some advice from the American Heart Association:

When cooking, use liquid vegetable oils and poly unsaturated shortenings in place of other fats. All of these lower the level of blood cholesterol.

Get regular health checkups. If detected, high blood pressure can be controlled in many cases.

If you smoke, cut down, or better yet, stop.

Bear in mind that sedentary living is an additional risk. Inactive individuals run a higher risk of heart attack than those who exercise regularly.

Between the Covers

This week we will feature 4 P's: pets, photography, periodicals, and pictures.

Pets first. If you are thinking of adding a dog to your menage you will appreciate the help you can get in selecting the breed from GOOD DOG, BAD DOG by Mordecai Siegal and Matthew Margolis [Holt. $6.95].

Most of the book is devoted to dog training at home and is very good but the section on breeds is extremely useful in that positive characteristics, negative characteristics and specific training problems are spelled out explicitly for each type of dog. The West Highland terrier gets our vote.

Even if you hate pigeons you will have to admit that some of them are very beautiful if you judge them from the many color illustrations in a new edition of HOW TO RAISE AND TRAIN PIGEONS, by William H. Allen Jr. [Sterling. $5.95] Oh to see a Frillback, a Jacobin or even a Scandaroon on our front lawn!

The story of a man who takes care of pets is ALL CREATURES GREAT AND SMALL, by James Herriot [St. Martin's. $7.95] described on the jacket as "The warm and joyful memoirs of an animal doctor." Dr. Herriot is a Scot and the scene of his practice is the Yorkshire dales.

For photography we have Rachel Johnston Homer's THE LEGACY OF JOSIAH JOHNSON HAWES; 19th Century Photographs of Boston [Barre. $12.50] These are interesting views of Boston taken around 1865 to 1875. For ancient senior citizens, photographers and local history buffs.

For a striking contrast look at the photographs of a modern artist: DIANE ARBUS: an Aperture Monograph. [Museum of Modern Art. $15.]

The January issues of four periodicals new to our list have finally arrived. One is the new SATURDAY EVENING POST which, except for its size, resembles the old Post. It is now issued only six times a year. Another is TROPICAL FISH HOBBYIST, an excellent aquarium magazine which is profusely illustrated in color.

For winter sports fans we now have SKIING, a very popular ski magazine. The January issue has gorgeous pictures of the ski areas of the French Riviera. Having particular appeal to women but with columns "For Teens Only" and "For Men Only" is WEIGHT WATCHERS MAGAZINE.

In an attractive format it features gourmet recipes for the diet conscious, fashion and beauty, and articles of general information. The history of the use of the fork appears in the January issue. We are reminded again that Henry VIII of England declared that fingers were more efficient than forks.

Now for pictures. Many of you readers have seen a framed print of a master or an original painting by a local artist on the wall of a friend's home or office. Many a child's bedroom wall features a print from the "mini-gallery" collection of the Junior Library. All may be borrowed on your library card free of charge. But, do you know that we have a collection of about 23,000 pictures on many subjects mounted on heavy cardboard. These pictures which are very popular with school children and teachers are most frequently used to supplement text books in the classroom.

Volunteers Needed To Increase Senior Services

By PUTNAM S. BORDEN
Executive Director
Quincy Council On Aging

In recent columns, I have discussed some of the problems faced by the elderly in our community and by the community resources providing services.

We are all aware that, despite the many services now available, much still needs doing and that which is done must involve minimal financial commitments. Which brings us again, to the question of volunteer service.

When we reflect upon the obvious needs of our senior population, it becomes apparent that the approach must be twofold. Many older citizens require things to be done, things such as transportation, nutritious meals, medical care, supportive services and socialization. These are the very obvious needs which we all can easily recognize.

However, there is another set of needs of equal importance - the need to return the large body of elder residents who are still physically and mentally active to the mainstream of community life, to re-employ their skills and talents in meaningful ways which will restore their sense of dignity and worth.

In both areas voluntarism can provide an appropriate vehicle.

In past years, we who are in the business of providing services have, because of the prolification of state and federal programs and the availability of monies, become oriented to think in terms of buying the things we require.

It now appears we will no longer enjoy that luxury at least in the foreseeable future. Therefore, we must now become creative. We must do some real thinking as to priorities and realistically, how to impact upon these priorities with restricted financial resources.

We, at the Council on Aging, are convinced that effective use of volunteers is one answer, an answer that should be explored in depth.

Now, before we go any farther, let me say, to prevent those of you who are concerned from calling and asking "what can we do", at this instant in time, we don't honestly know what you can do. We only feel that, with so much to be done, there is an important place for you who will help.

Right now, we have recognized the potential for volunteer service. We must communicate our perceptions to our colleagues in the field of human services. We must identify with these broad areas and specific tasks which through the use of volunteers, would permit continued or expanded services.

In addition, when we have determined these areas, we must initiate training programs for the trainers, so to speak; training in effective recruiting techniques and most important of all in the actual training of the volunteers themselves.

By laying a proper foundation, incoming volunteers can be utilized with maximum impact upon our programs. But, and it is a very large but, this foundation is essential to ensure that you who do volunteer your time, are used in ways which provide both necessary services and personal satisfactions.

So, all of you, think about things which might be done by volunteers, things such as rides for those who need them, visits to shut-ins, work which could utilize your skills and talents.

Be ready, because we will be calling for your help.

First Group Numbers 30

150 In 'Project Bright Eyes'

"Project Bright Eyes is on the road. The first group of 30 participants will be bussed to University Hospital's Gunderson Clinic March 20," said Putnam S. Borden, Executive Director, Quincy Council on Aging.

"We have been extremely fortunate, because of the large response among older residents, in obtaining a total of five dates. This will enable us to extend the service to 150.

"Unfortunately, as we anticipated, we received many more applications than we could place and had to make assignments on a first come first serve basis. However, every applicant will be sent notification of the time they have been scheduled or an apology for our limited capability."

Project "Bright Eyes" is a program providing for a complete eye examination at no charge and is sponsored by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Blindness in conjunction with the Gunderson Clinic. Involvement of Quincy residents was arranged by the staff of the Council on Aging.

Through staff efforts the number of participants has been increased from an initial 60 to the present 150.

'Have Made Their Contributions'

Weymouth Legislator Would Freeze Property Tax For Elderly

Rep. Robert B. Ambler [D-Weymouth], Chairman of the Committee on Government Regulation, is sponsoring legislation which would freeze the property tax rates of certain elderly homeowners.

He appeared recently at a public hearing of the Committee on Taxation to testify in favor of the legislation.

Ambler's proposal, [House 3567 of 1973] requires that property tax assessments for senior citizens now eligible for tax abatements be frozen at the level of the tax paid in the year prior to the year in which they became eligible for the abatement.

Present law allows persons over age 70, and whose income does not exceed $6,000 [$7,000 for married couples], and whose real and personal assets do not exceed $40,000 [$45,000 for married couples], to receive a property tax abatement. These same persons would be eligible for Ambler's proposed tax level freeze.

Ambler declared: "Persons who would become eligible under my legislation are people who live on fixed incomes, and who are currently unable to cope with the ever increasing spiral of property tax assessments.

"Senior citizens have made their contributions to society. They do not utilize, to the same extent, the municipal services required by younger members of the community. Their children are grown: over 40 per cent of local tax revenues are now dedicated to the maintenance of school systems, yet these people no longer make demands on such services."

Ambler also noted that this type of legislation had a positive advantage to a community.

"Senior citizens on fixed incomes who cannot afford to keep up the financial burdens of home ownership must inevitably sell their homes," he said.

"This results in ever greater demands on the already inadequate supply of elderly housing. This, too, costs a community."

Ambler closed his testimony by stating that "although passage of my bill might result in a slight shifting of the burden to other taxpayers, I feel that the individual and societal advantages to be achieved far outweigh any possible disadvantages."

Nellie Gorham Entertains St. Ann's Senior Citizens

Nellie Gorham entertained the senior citizens at St. Ann's Youth Center at their February meeting and if you can't place Nellie Gorham's niche in American life then let the senior citizen who reported the event to the Quincy Sun do it for you:

"Nellie Gorham, you see, entertains at gatherings of senior citizens, at nursing homes and hospitals. Nellie is 67 years old, South Boston-born, and if not the best entertainer around, she's certainly the most loved.

"Nellie and her friends, many, many years ago, started a band called the "Daffy Doodles", you name it and they play it – a wash tub with stick and string, washboards, maracas, kazoos, tambourines, harmonicas were their instruments.

"The group from St. Ann's had the time of their lives, singing, hully gullian, kicking up their heels and just having a ball. Come back to Quincy soon, Nellie. We love you!"

Jordan had 10 of his points in the first quarter in pacing Atlantic-North to its 11th consecutive victory. Rich Mahoney had six points for the winners.

John Riggs was high for Sterling with 10 points and Sid Cedrone had six points, all of them in the first half.

In other ninth grade games:

Sterling downed Broad Meadows, 30-24, as Andy Gore sank five consecutive free throws. Riggs and Cedrone each had 10 points for Sterling; Bob Dacey had nine and Paul Sutherland five for Broad Meadows.

Point ran up a 28-1 lead at halftime and then coasted to a 45-25 win over Central as the losers used their subs mostly in the first half. Mike Carloni, 13, and Dwight Anderson, 10, for Point; Paul Kelleher, 12, and Scott Robert, 6, for Central.

In eighth grade action:

Broad Meadows outscored Sterling by 14-0 in the third period en route to a 38-19 victory. Kenny Belliveau, 11, and Jack Uhlar, 10, for Broad Meadows; Arthur O'Connor, 4, and Dominic Piccarini and Scott Boldi, 3 each, for Sterling.

Central defeated Point, 24-20, with Dan Cuddy getting nine points and Phil Sprague six for Central.

The McGinley brothers, Walt and Jimmy, teamed for 13 points in Atlantic-North's 30-22 win over Sterling. Mike Murphy, 7, and Arthur O'Connor, 6, paced Sterling. The victory gave Atlantic-North the title.

Gold, Blue Teams Tie, Brunstrom Scores 5 Goals

With a disputed goal in the last seconds of play the Gold team tied the Blue team 3-3 in St. Joseph Hockey League action at the Shea rink.

In the other game the Red team defeated the Green team 9-1.

Having pulled their goalie for an extra skater the Gold team after a mad scramble in front of the net scored the tieing goal with no time left. After a heated argument it was ruled by the referee that he did not hear the time-keeper's whistle and therefore the goal was allowed.

Scoring the tieing goal and also one other goal was Pete Bertrand. John Alfano had the other Gold tally. Mark Walker had two goals and Dick Kelley one for the Blue team.

ENC Wins Kings Tourney Title, Eyes National Berth

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, which was red hot over the second half of the season, holds the Kings Tourney championship for the third year in a row and now will try for another berth in the National Christian College Tournament in Chattanooga, Tenn.

ENC has finished second and fourth in the national tourney but must survive two big hurdles to qualify again this year.

ENC will face King's in a playoff for the Seaboard Conference title and if it wins will take on Messiah, the Seaboard Conference Division 2 champ, next Tuesday, for the right to play in the NCC finals in Tennessee.

Jim Smith's Crusaders, who missed a second invitation to the NAIA District 32 tourney [Roger Williams, which split with ENC, received the final spot], clinched their third straight King's title with a 74-64 win over Gordon last Saturday.

ENC, which won 13 of its last 14 games for an 18-8 mark [Smith's three-year record is now 68-21] was again paced by All-American candidate Ron Bradley, who had 26 points in the finale and 79 points for the three tourney games and was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Howie Briggs had 14 points and Quincy's Rick Reyenger scored 10 and the 6-7 center made the tourney all-star team on the basis of 60 rebounds in his three games.

In the semifinals ENC nipped Messiah, 59-58, and in the opening round pounded Houghton, 87-49.

The Crusaders had ended its regular season with a clutch 88-68 win over Gordon to tie King's for the conference crown.

Bradley, former North Quincy captain and all-scholastic and one of the finest small college players in the country, dominated the game with 31 points, 23 in the second half. This brought his four-year total to 2,461 points, a 24.5 point average.

"There isn't a guard in the country who can boast of an all-around record like Bradley's," Smith said. He averaged 10 rebounds and nine assists a game this year. Bradley, already drafted by the New York Nets, plans to give the pros a try in either the NBA or ABA.

ENC, incidentally, not only won the basketball crown in the King's tourney but also received the all-sports trophy. Several other sports besides basketball are played during the three days.

Youth Hockey Talented 'Farm System' For Schools

By TOM SULLIVAN

Anyone who feels youth hockey doesn't pay off for high school teams has only to look at the Quincy and North Quincy High rosters this year to see how wrong he is.

Nearly every player on both squads, which recently finished up their Greater Boston League seasons, has played with the Quincy Youth Hockey Association or other youth teams.

These include the only two sophomores to be named to the GBL all-star team, Quincy's super-soph, Ted Wiedemann, and North's Paul O'Donnell, each of whom starred in the Quincy Youth Association.

Both Quincy and North rebounded from slow starts this year and had fine records over the second half of the year. If the season were starting then, things might have been different.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents, finishing with a .500 mark [9-9-2] for the second year in a row, was 7-3 in the second half and won its last four games.

Ron Erikson's North sextet, posting the school's best record in many years [8-7-5] and missing its first state tourney berth by just one game, was 6-2-2 for the last half of the campaign.

One of the brightest spots in the Quincy picture was the outstanding performance of young Wiedemann, who led the Presidents in scoring with 34 points.

A year ago Ted was the high scorer for the Quincy Junior High-Freshman team and was named the Freshman Greater Boston League's Most Valuable Player.

"This kid is just terrific and is going to be one of the great ones," Sylvia said. "He has all the moves, is an excellent skater and has a good shot. It is really something to be picked on the league all-star team as a sophomore and you are certainly going to hear from him in the future."

His junior high coach, Ken Hayes, echoes Sylvia's comments. "I'm not surprised at his outstanding performance this year," Ken said. "He is a cool player, keeps the puck in front of him and has some terrific moves. He has a fine attitude and I feel he will be one of the finest players ever to come out of Quincy."

Ted was a standout last fall for the unbeaten Quincy sophomore football team after excelling at Broad Meadows Junior High and he also was one of BM's best in baseball. He will be trying out for the Quincy varsity baseball team in the spring.

Sylvia has never had a team below .500 in his eight years as coach and until last year had taken his team almost every season into the state tourney.

Bob had praise for his seniors, defenseman John Prescott and wing Paul Campbell, named to the all-star squad with Wiedemann; defensemen Jim Starkey, Russ Corner and Shawn Polley and forwards Pete McNally and Chuck Crews.

"They had a tough job," Sylvia pointed out. "We went through a lot of combinations and changes early in the year trying to put things together and they held us in there until we got some experience into our younger kids. They never gave up, even though we were out of the tournament early. They led us back to respectability".

Bob paid tribute to the North team which finished above Quincy for the first time in many years, having 21 points to 20 for the Presidents. "North did a tremendous job and it is too bad they just missed making the tournament," he said. "They deserved the higher finish because they had the pressure on them on the final day, having to defeat a powerful Revere team to do it and beat them they did."

Although naturally disappointed at missing a tourney spot by just one loss, Erikson was extremely pleased with his Raiders.

"I'm ecstatic with the way our kids went out," he said. "We have improved so much over the early part of the year that I just wish the season had a long way to go. I think our seniors exemplified in our final game what they did for us all season. They gave me everything they had and I couldn't ask for more."

North's future took on a much brighter hue in the season's finale. With three regulars suspended by Erikson for breaking rules and forced to face Revere, quarterfinalists in the state tourney a year ago, Erikson called up junior varsity goalie Rick McGue, a junior, who proceeded to turn in one of the season's masterpieces.

He made 32 saves, many of them unbelievable, and time and again gave his mates the lift they needed. "He came through in fantastic fashion in his first varsity game and it couldn't have happened to a more deserving boy," Ron said.

"He has been going double sessions, varsity and jayvee, all year, meaning four and five early morning workouts a week and no one has worked harder than Rick. He's certainly going to be a big help to us next season."

Erikson, who looms as a top candidate for Coach of the Year honors in the GBL, took time out to thank his seniors, goalie Jim Fatseas and center Ken Graham, named with O'Donnell to the all-stars; defenseman Mike O'Hanley and forwards Joe Lannan, Steve MacKay, Kevin Jago and Robbie Henderson.

"They will be hard to replace, not just as hockey players, but as people--as the guys who were the backbone of a great group," he lauded. "Thanks to them we are at least starting a winning hockey tradition at North. We are happy for them because they achieved success for themselves and their school. I am proud of them and they should be proud of themselves."

Young O'Donnell, a stickout on the Quincy Youth Association's midget team last year while also starring for the North Junior High-Freshman team, proved himself a fine two-way defenseman.

Paul also ran on North's winter track team, co-champion of the GBL, and was rated by Coach Bob Gentry as his fastest man. He will be one of the key men on the spring track team.

In rounding up the season, the coaches thanked their assistants, Jack Scanland and Rick Hutchinson of Quincy and Bobby Troup of North.

St. Ann's CYO Junior Team Winds Up With 11-3 Record

St. Ann's CYO junior basketball team finished its season with an 11-3 record, losing 52-48 to St. Francis of Weymouth in the Quincy Deanery Championship game.

Trailing by 12 points with three minutes to play, Steve Martinelli sparked the Wollaston team in its comeback bid.

The St. Francis lead was cut to two points but the rally just fell short. Tim Clifford, with 15 points and Paul Kellerher with 14 points were high for the losers while Steve Madden and Paul Whiton led St. Francis to its championship victory.

It was a good season just the same for St. Anns, who won a playoff game against Immaculate Conception of Weymouth to earn a spot in the championship game.

Coach Brian Buckley congratulated his players "for the fine team efforts throughout the year."

Players moving into the senior division next year are Kevin McElaney, Tom Conti, Frank McHugh, Tim Clifford, Brian Gilfeather and Steve Martinelli.

The future looks bright for St. Anns as regulars Mike Holleran, John McElaney, Paul Kellerher, Dan Cuddy and Joe Devlin will be back as well as Steve Roche, Paul Radzik, Chris Phelan, Kevin O'Leary, Marty Mulvey and Paul Keenan.

Quincy Jayvees Complete Season With 12-5 Slate

Joe Amorosino, after four successful years as North Quincy assistant and junior varsity basketball coach moved over to Quincy this season and piloted his team to a 12-5 record.

This record included four losses by less than three points and eight wins in the last 10 games.

"We stressed excellent defense all season as the most important phase of our game," Amorosino said. "We allowed our opponents only 30 points a game and the boys took great pride in the fact they held a strong North Quincy team to 20 points as they beat them, 33-20, after being edged in overtime, 47-44, earlier.

"The Quincy win was only the second in the last 10 games with North. Team play and a disciplined offense were also emphasized as all 15 players contributed in some way with no player averaging more than eight points a game and at least 10 men scoring in most games."

The games with North had more meaning than usual for Amorosino, as many of the North players played with him last year.

Juniors on the Quincy squad were Bob Benn, Mike Cullen, Charlie Djerf, Mike Donovan, Mark Dwyer, Bill Joyce, John MacFarlane and Tom McKinnon.

Sophomores were Bill Breen, Pres Carroll, Don Conners, Bill Dacey, Wayne Lamie, Mike MacKenzie and Dick Spargo.

"All 15 players were responsible for the successful season with their total dedication, hard work and determination to improve," Amorosino continued. "I am very proud to have coached these young men, they all came to play and as a result we had a very exciting season and shared in many thrilling moments."

Marshall Urges MDC To Keep Shea Rink Open Until May 27

MDC Commissioner John W. Sears announced that Shea Rink will close for the season April 29 – and Rep. Clifford H. Marshall [D-Quincy] immediately lodged a protest.

Noting that four other MDC rinks, including the Connell Rink in Weymouth, will remain open until May 27, Rep. Marshall wrote to Sears:

"Due to the geographic location and close proximity and the Southeast Expressway to the Shea Rink and the thousands of people that this rink services, I urge you to keep this rink open until May 27."

Junior High-Frosh Take It All

A year ago the Quincy junior high-freshman hockey team won the Greater Boston Freshman League title but was defeated in the finals of the playoffs by Medford.

This season Ken Hayes' Quincy club again won the league crown but this time went all the way and added the playoff championship last week with a 2-1 over Everett, avenging its only defeat of the regular season.

Quincy missed a second straight unbeaten league season when it bowed to Everett, 4-2, in the final game, but rebounded to bomb Somerville, 8-1, in the opening of the playoffs.

Quincy finished 6-1 for the regular season and 8-1 overall and received two trophies, one as league champ and the other for winning the playoff title.

In the playoff clincher Paul Gustafson scored the first goal with Frank Guest and John Mitchell having assists, and Jack Powers scored the winner with Guest again assisting.

Guest, the league's Most Valuable Player, was the top scorer with 27 points. He had 17 goals and four assists in regular season play and added two goals and four assists in the playoffs.

Powers was the number two scorer with 20 points. He scored 12 goals and had four assists during the regular season and added two goals and two assists in the playoffs.

"I am glad for the kids that they went all the way this year, they really put out for me and deserved it," Hayes said. "Jeff Nord, who played well in goal all year, was outstanding against Everett, as was Billy Hamill, a steady performer who didn't receive the notice he deserved.

"I want to thank all the parents who helped so much this year, seeing their boys attended the early morning practices and made the games. Harry Bertoni, whose sons, Dennis and Brian, played outstanding hockey for us, had to enter the hospital two days before the playoff final and I'm glad we could win it for him."

Guest, Powers, Hamill and Nick Cyr were named to the league all-star team as were Steve Cronin and Jim Maibach of the North Quincy team which finished with a 2-5 record.

Quincy ninth grade players who are expected to help the varsity in another year are Hamill, Guest, Cyr, Powrs, Brian Flemming, Dennis Bertoni, Walter Pimental and Paul Morris.

Eighth graders are Mitchell, Nord, Gustafson, Larry Calley, Rick Boyle and Tom Bamberry, while seventh grade players are Mark Ciordini, Brian Watts, Dave Lewis, Brian Bertoni, John Yaxter, Jeff Gavin and Pat Bamberry.

Billy DeWolfe Rib Tickler In 'World's Greatest Athlete'

Veteran character actors CHILL WILLS, SLIM PICKENS and JACK ELAM have important supporting roles in the western-adventure "PAT GARRETT AND BILLY THE KID"... And what of ROSSANO BRAZZI and EDMUND PURDOM you quiz? You can catch them in the March release of the horror-chiller, "THE HOUSE OF FREAKS"... Remember the name EILEEN BRENNAN. She recently signed for a principal role in the PAUL NEWMAN–ROBERT REDFORD starrer, "THE STING"... A lady on the road to stardom...

The New York Cultural Center will pay a homage retrospective look-see to JAMES CAGNEY March 3 - June 14 with a showing of 22 of his motion pictures ranging from his early "PUBLIC ENEMY" classic to CAGNEY'S last picture, the fun tickler "ONE, TWO, THREE"... And speaking of JAMES CAGNEY, the man has no intention of coming out of retirement. For years now he has been turning away scripts at a once a month clip...[but Tinseltown producers haven't given up]...

STEVE McQUEEN'S first western since "THE MAGNIFICENT SEVEN" [1960] will be the soon-to-be-lensed "THE JOHNSON COUNTY WAR"... JULIE HARRIS has been contracted for the 1973-74 TV pilot, "THICKER THAN WATER"... In a poll taken by the 19th Annual London Film Critics, "YOUNG WINSTON" won in a breeze as the best British film of 1972... Just when I was beginning to wonder whatever became of TIPPI HEDREN, she turns up in the soon-to-be-released "THE HARRAD EXPERIMENT"... Oh, and if her name doesn't ring a memory bell, she was billed not too many moons ago as the "new" GRACE KELLY via her launch in ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S "THE BIRDS"...

Another plus reason to go and catch the frolic and fun of WALT DISNEY'S "THE WORLD'S GREATEST ATHLETE" is the rib-tickling performance of Quincy's ever talented BILLY DeWOLFE. In the role of Maxwell, the frustrated alumnus who wants his ole' alma mater to be a sports winner, DeWOLFE is sheer perfection... The remake of MGM's "TRADER HORN" finds JEAN SOREL in the role of Emile, the characterization made famous in the original 1930 production by DUNCAN RENALDO who went on to gain even greater fame as TV's "THE CISCO KID"...

Quick now, who was the "first" king of the cowboys, ROY ROGERS or GENE AUTRY?... And you go back a decade or four if the names BOB STEELE, KEN MAYNARD and HOOT GIBSON were the big heroes of your Saturday afternoons... Oops, and the legendary, Mr. Whiskers GABBY HAYES... JOEL GREY ["CABARET"] looms as the man to beat in this years Oscar race for best supporting actor...

Action enthusiasts won't want to miss "ACROSS 110TH STREET". The ANTHONY QUINN starrer has a climatic shoot-out scene that has one biting their nails. See this flick-you'll like it... Three directors lined up to form the six man United Directors Company include ARTHUR PENN, GEORGE ROY HILL and FRANKLIN SCHAFFNER. The man who is putting together the Company is film impressario FREDDIE FIELDS... GOLDIE HAWN and BEN JOHNSON are topbilled in the chase-suspense yarn, "SUGARLAND EXPRESS". The picture concerns the kidnapping of a state policeman, and the subsequent chase across expansive Texas...

YMCA NOTES

The Quincy YMCA Floor Hockey League which recently wound up the season saw 200 boys ages 8 to 15 in action with 10 grade-school teams and four junior-high teams.

The leagues were coordinated by Paul Harvey, Program Director at the "Y" and programmed by George Cobbett and George Winters.

After a season of nine games the playoffs followed and in the Grade School League the first place Rangers coached by David Anastasi squared off against the third place Golden Seals coached by Dave Hurley and William Goslin.

In the second game, the second place Flyers coached by Ronnie Cobbett faced the Redwings coached by Gerry O'Reilly and George Winters. The Golden Seals and Redwings earned themselves a shot at the Playoff Championship Title.

During YMCA Open House Sunday, the two teams met in a highly close checking game. Goals by Kevin McGue [3] and Danny McDonald [2] proved to be too much as the Seals won 5-3. Goals for the Redwings were tallied by Dean Zoia [2] and Tim McDonough [1].

The Junior High Playoffs followed with the first place Bruins coached by Paul Conti meeting Skeeter Thomas' Rangers. The game was close with a lot of hard hitting and excellent puck controlling. Due to two quick face-off goals by David Anastasi and a lot of penalties to the Rangers the Bruins prevailed 4-2. Chuck Winters was excellent in the Bruins goal.

At the annual Awards Presentations parents from both leagues were in attendance.

The Rangers were the League Champs with a superb record of 9-0.

Receiving trophies from the Rangers were: Richard Newcomb, Richie Wright, Jim Froio, Paul Dunphy, Terry Thrower, Gary Wilcox, Bret Wilcox, Mark Sullivan, Kevin Powers, Tim Hall, Steve Richards.

The Grade School Playoff Champions Golden Seals receiving trophies were: Dennis Carr, Bobby Matthes, Danny McDonald, Kevin McGue, David Gore, Martin King, Billy Thomas, Billy Eaton, Mike Fall, John Mahoney, Brian Murphy.

The first Grade School individual trophies were to the league high scorers Danny McDonald and Gary Wilcox. The top goal getters were: Dan McDonald, 19; Gary Wilcox, 19; Mike Soldano, 17; Dave Donovan, 16.

The Most Valuable Player Trophy, probably the most coveted by all the players, went to Mike Soldano.

The Grade School Coach of the Year Award was presented to David Anastasi. David's team the Rangers went undefeated for the third regular season but lost in the playoffs.

Despite Changing Times

This Year's Bride Wants As Traditional Wedding As Her Grandmother Had

During a period of changing mores, rock concerts attended by hundreds of thousands, and greater independence among youngsters, it may come as a surprise to some people that the 1973 bride, with few exceptions, will want as traditional a wedding as her grandmother had.

Strangely, it is the older generations who seem to believe that the traditional ideas of weddings are passing and younger people have vetoed the idea unanimously.

Always the unconventional few

True, there are communes and unconventional weddings. Recently, one couple was married in Central Park in New York, and the city was deluged by over 400 requests from others who wanted to follow suit. They were refused permission, but these are the exceptions who are only noticed because their exhibitionism makes them stand out from the millions of others who are marrying in more traditional ways.

The great majority of brides-to-be look forward to a formal wedding and spend considerable time planning it. They dream of a long white formal gown complete with flowing veil, a beautiful bridal bouquet, and everything the word "wedding" brings to mind — bridesmaids, striking in their dresses, the groom and his groomsmen in formal attire, music, floral decorations and happiness.

Sweet dreams

They dream also of their wedding reception, filled with a joyous spirit of dancing; a fine meal with family and friends gathering to help the new couple celebrate this most joyous occasion.

Today's bride-to-be begins her planning almost a year in advance. Hand in hand, and mind in mind the future Mr. and Mrs. carefully plan their honeymoon and their home together.

There were 2,300,000 marriages in 1972, and this figure is estimated to climb an additional 190,000 within the next three years. Marriage is definitely not on the wane. In fact, today's brides and grooms may be more serious about marriage than the previous generation.

"Aware" generation

They have matured during the Vietnam War, they have fought for civil rights, they have confronted the "Establishment" on the campus, they have watched marriages dissolve in divorce, they are aware of the women's liberation movement and they have had their voices heard at the polling places. They may indeed be more alive to what the union of two people really means.

Their new independence is prized. They are deeply appreciative of all the fine wedding gifts they receive from family and friends. Today's new brides may properly be called the "detail generation" for never before have there been newlyweds so concerned with placing every piece of home furnishings precisely to highlight and accent the surrounding decor.

Almost half of them have been to a four or two year college, and, along with the general knowledge gained, they have come to respect the individuality of others.

Then, too, housework is no longer considered unmanly. For this the bride and groom can be thankful since it will allow them to share in a richer, fuller life.

Since they are better educated and more aware of the world and what's happening, a greater number of brides will continue to work after marriage. Only one-third will remain at home.

Increased interest

The new couple will also have an increased interest in their home. They will be working harder than any generation before to insure themselves a comfortable environment both inside and outside their dwelling.

A surprising forty percent of the new couples will have household incomes of more than $10,000 a year at the very beginning of their life.

Most young couples will first rent an apartment or a house, but more than fourteen percent will own their own homes. They expect to lead the good life, for they were brought up in an affluent society and have the determination to work hard to maintain and increase the level of comfort to which they have become accustomed.

In the months preceding and following their weddings, they account for $5 billion in retail sales.

Love and peace is their thing. These are the couples who create their own vows of loving each other forever. Most clergymen of all faiths approve of this, for they believe it makes the wedding ceremony more meaningful to the bride and groom.

Time must be made for . . .

Planning the wedding

Weddings take organization and forethought. The bride-to-be who ignores preliminary lists and timetables may find herself in a panic, searching about for the nearest Justice of the Peace. A sensible schedule, however, can make all her plans go smoothly.

Here are the major points to consider:

■ THE WEDDING BUDGET. The bride and her family must decide how much money to spend on the wedding. With that figure as their guide, they choose the type of wedding and reception they can afford. The ceremony itself may be simple or formal.

Receptions range from a buffet at home to a lavish sit-down dinner at a first class hotel or club.

Church and reception facilities should be reserved as soon as the wedding date has been set. Often, at peak wedding seasons, the date has to be reset to suit their availability.

• • •

■ THE WEDDING TRIP. If the couple is planning to visit a very popular spot with limited hotel space, reservations should be made as early as possible.

It's wise to consult a travel agent. His services can be invaluable, and they don't cost the bridegroom a penny.

• • •

■ BRIDE'S AND ATTENDANTS' GOWNS. Wedding gowns should be ordered early. They're practically custom-made and can take weeks for delivery. Then there are still several fittings before a gown can be taken home.

Attendants' dresses should be ordered at the same time as the bridal gown. While the bride selects these dresses, the bridesmaids pay for them, so their pocketbooks as well as their figures should be kept in mind.

• • •

■ THE FIRST HOME. While other plans are in progress, the bride and bridegroom select a house or apartment and begin buying furniture for it.

Many engaged couples discover they haven't the foggiest notion what kind of home they would like. Reconciling tastes and figuring out a budget can take a great deal of time and thought.

A good place to start looking for a place to live is at a local real estate agent's office. He can show the new couple a listing of homes and their prices. He will also usuallly take a young couple to inspect houses. This is a good way for a new couple to determine the going value of homes.

• • •

■ THE GUEST LISTS. This can be a delicate area. Dealing with it involves time and tact. Since the bride's family pays for the reception, they set the number of guests and tell the bridegroom's family how many they may invite. Often a little give-and-take and frank discussion is needed.

Plans should be completed early to avoid pressure and strain.

Invitations to the ceremony seldom cause any friction. As many people can be invited as the church will hold.

It's the reception list that sometimes causes problems.

• • •

■ INVITATIONS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS. Order them early and ask for envelopes right away. They must be hand addressed, and this is a laborious job even if the bride can press family and friends into service. Invitations should be mailed three weeks before the wedding. Announcements may be sent shortly after the wedding.

• • •

■ BRIDAL GIFT REGISTRY. Many brides file a list of china and silver patterns and most-wanted household effects with the bridal gift consultant at a favorite store. The consultant then can advise the guests and head off duplicate gifts.

As soon as gifts start arriving, the bride should begin writing thank you notes. Often this is the only way that people who have sent gifts can know they have been received.

These notes are a very serious social responsibility and smart brides make time to acknowledge gifts as they arrive. Being too busy to say thank you is inexcusable.

• • •

■ FINAL ARRANGEMENTS. As the wedding day draws closer, the following details should be attended to: flowers for wedding and reception; music for the ceremony; formal and candid photography; and transportation to the ceremony and reception.

• • •

Bride and bridegroom must go together for a marriage license and arrange for medical tests. At this time, they should also select their personal gifts to their attendants.

One way to remain in calm control of all this activity is to keep a running check on the people you are depending upon — church sexton, banquet manager, florist, photographer, musicians, and limousine rental.

Brides should remember, in scheduling time, that during the pre-wedding period, they will also be entertained at showers and other festivities. Time must be reserved for sufficient rest and also attention to grooming.

Everyone expects an engaged girl to look her best. Most do—for they have the strength of ten.

Bridal registry and her mother best ways to zero in on gifts

There have probably been jokes about the gifts a bride receives for as long as there have been brides — duplicate presents, ostentatious family heirlooms, and other gifts that are displayed only while the persons who sent them are being entertained.

This kind of gifting is completely unnecessary today.

The best intentioned guest in the world cannot guess what a bride really needs. Therefore, a wise bride will make up a list of those things which she would like to receive, and her mother should be given a copy of this in case friends call to ask.

There is also a better way for the bride to make her preferences known so that her mother does not seem to be asking for specific and perhaps expensive gifts. The bride can register her preferences at local stores after selecting her china, silver and glass patterns and other, perhaps more prosaic housenoid items.

Now, her mother can refer friends to the bridal gift registry. With a bride's preference card before her, the gift consultant can tell people exactly what the bride needs. They can choose a gift within their means that will be exactly right. It is the easiest solution to an often ticklish problem.

Importantly, the person sending the gift is pleased to know that the bride actually wants what is sent, and the bride receives gifts that she does not have to exchange or hide in a closet.

Wise brides suggest early bachelor bash

The bachelor dinner is supposedly the groom's last fling. It is his special entertaining for the groomsmen and other friends.

The dinner can be held at the best man's home or at a restaurant or banquet hall. If it is to be held at a public facility many friends and relatives are expected to attend. The groom, his dad, the future father-in-law, grandfathers and the men in the bridal party may be seated at a dais.

The best man takes over as the master of ceremonies and to start the evening off, he can call upon each of the men present to give their own special "good wishes" to the groom-to-be.

The menu for the evening need not be extravagant. Usually the dinner is served buffet style, if the number expected is sufficient, and the budget adequate.

Actually, everyone invited usually chips in to pay for it.

A wise bride will suggest that it is not held the night before the wedding. A dulled groom doesn't add to the ceremony or the reception.

RECEIVING LINE

First in line is the bride's mother. Alongside her are the mother and father of the groom, followed by the bride and groom and maids. The bride's father is free to mingle.

Color TV high on bride's 'most wanted' list

Looking for a special wedding present for that favorite young couple on your gift list?

Then, by all means, go electronic ... with the gift of a color TV.

The color set is high on the list of "most wanted" items for the new home. It is also a product with a cost that has dropped drastically over the past 20 years or so while its value has soared. New developments such as brighter screens ... remote control ... solid state components ... integrated circuits ... transistorization ... simplified tuning and others have contributed in making the modern color set even more attractive.

Helpful Hints

To help make your gift selection of a color TV easier, here are some guidelines

First — do your shopping in a store that displays brand name merchandise with a reputation for quality and value.

Next — determine where the set will be located. In a spacious home, average size house or small apartment? Is space for the TV plentiful or limited? Is the set primarily for large ... average ... or small group viewing? Will it be a stay-put? Or will the set see service in more than one room in the house?

With answers to these questions firmly in mind, then match your requirements to what is available in the dealer store.

Important Features

Sets range from portables and table models to a wide array of furniture-styled lo-boys, credenzas, full-door consoles, plus 3-way combinations.

Period or Modern

With TV the most looked-at item in the home, cabinet design is also important. Portables and table models are generally smartly modern. In consoles and combinations, all the most popular furniture styles are represented.

With the basic requirements of the new home in mind, compare screen sizes, quality of picture and sound, features, and cabinet styles. Then, with value and quality as guides, make your final single selection from the color TV receivers you have seen demonstrated.

CAKE CUTTING

The first slice of the traditional bride's cake is cut by the bride assisted by the groom. This symbolizes their sharing a new life. After this, the cake is sliced by a waiter.

Groom's attire determined by bride's

Until a few years ago, the groom's attire was certainly seldom mentioned in the press. The bride's gown and veil, her attendants' dresses, even the flowers they all carried would be described in great detail.

There was no need to write about what the groom wore. Everyone knew. Then came the "peacock revolution." The groom in his ruffled shirt, trousers and, sometimes, bare feet or, in direct counterpoint — Edwardian splendor — became newsworthy too.

That period of individuality was short lived. Today's groom takes his place at the altar once again in traditional garb.

The lapels may be wider, the waist suppressed, the dinner jacket in a subdued color and the dress shirt somewhat ruffled, but wild flights of fancy are over.

The old rules of formality never really changed.

The formality of the bride's wedding gown still determines what the groom and all the men in the wedding party will wear.

If the bride's gown is semi-formal, the men will also be less formal in single-breasted Oxford stroller coats and striped trousers before 6 P.M.

After this hour, dinner jackets, perhaps colored, and black formal trousers are the correct attire.

For an informal summer wedding before 6 P.M., the men wear either white jackets with Oxford grey trousers, dark blue jackets with white flannel trousers or white suits. Afterwards, white dinner jackets with formal black trousers are worn.

Since the maj ity of men rent their wedding attire, they do not have to be concerned about the correct accessories. The formal rental wear shops they patronize will supply these — along with the proper clothing.

Best man busiest on wedding day

Probably the busiest person on the day of the wedding is the best man. The groom has only to appear. The best man has a full day ahead of him. His duties are many indeed including the following:

- Helping the groom dress and waiting with him in the vestry.
- Giving the clergyman his fee.
- Getting the wedding party off to the reception.
- Making the first toast to the bride and groom.
- Dancing with the bride after she's danced with her father-in-law.
- Collecting the groom's wedding attire and checking to see that he has all the necessary honeymoon tickets and reservations.
- Getting the newlyweds' luggage into the hidden getaway car.
- Finally, sending the bride's parents a thank-you telegram for the reception in the groom's name.

A very full day indeed.

HIS NAME

When a man marries a woman he gives her his name, first and last names. They are intended to be used for all formal and official purposes. Important matters — charge accounts, insurance policies, etc., should be signed Mrs. Bruce Jordan, not Mrs. Barbara Jordan.

INVITE CLERGY

If there is to be a wedding reception, even just for the immediate families and close friends, the clergyman (and his wife, if applicable) should always receive an invitation.

Flowers add splashes of beauty to wedding day

Can anyone imagine a wedding without flowers? The bride's bouquet, the bridesmaids' flowers, the floral decorations are all an integral part of the traditional wedding. A creative florist can help make each wedding unique, but a word of caution is in order for the bride who is thinking in terms of exotic flowers.

Unless money is no object, the intelligent girl will think in terms of more or less local, seasonal flowers. Their abundance and availability makes them less expensive. When placed on an altar and buffet or dining tables at the reception, they will look equally beautiful.

In order to achieve a truly impressive effect, the bride would be wise to work closely with her florist almost from the beginning of her planning.

Make way for groom's mom

While a wedding generates tremendous togetherness for the bride and her family, there is often one concerned person who feels completely left out of the excitement an engagement brings.

Too often the mother of the groom is ignored by the bride. Yet, her son is getting married, too.

Including the future mother-in-law in some of the pre-wedding plans from the time of the engagement party, if there is one, is a gracious and courteous idea. Of course, she'll be asked to a shower of the bride-to-be. That's standard.

The next thoughtful step could be to ask family and friends to invite both parents of the groom to parties that are being given.

New Mr. and Mrs. can enjoy centuries of Bermuda's beauty

ST. GEORGE, BERMUDA — Weddings celebrated in St. Peter's Church in this British colony's first capital have an aura of permanence about them.

St. Peter's is the oldest Anglican church in the western hemisphere in continual use. Completed by Christmas of 1612, shortly after the island chain's first permanent settlers arrived, the simple church has been enlarged several times.

Hundreds of marriages have been performed before the cedar altar, which was constructed in 1624 and remains the oldest piece of furniture in Bermuda.

The church also is a favourite sightseeing spot for visitors — especially honeymooners, who make up about a fourth of the island chain's visitors each year.

Bermuda is almost 600 miles due east of North Carolina in the Atlantic Ocean.

DUBLIN BOUND – North Quincy High School band steps off down Hancock St. in North Quincy in this photo but on Saturday they'll be stepping off down the main streets of Dublin, Ireland, in the St. Patrick's Day Parade. They leave tonight [Thursday] for the Irish capital.

174 Head For Dublin

It's Off To Ireland, St. Patrick's Parade For North Band

By TOM HENSHAW

The North Quincy High School band, 119 strong and accompanied by 55 chaperons and friends, is off for Ireland tonight [Thursday] on the great musical adventure that has been planned since last summer.

The Raider musicians, majorettes and color guards will march in the St. Patrick's Day parades in Dublin on Saturday and in Limerick on Sunday with a couple of extra days for touring the Emerald Isle.

The trip matches one made last New Year's Day by the Quincy High School band to Dallas for the annual Cotton Bowl parade.

The North Quincy party, headed by Band Director David Watson, is scheduled to leave Boston's Logan Airport at 10:25 p.m. tonight aboard Aer Lingus [Irish Airlines] Flight 7116 on the six-hour and 45 minute flight to Dublin, with a brief stop at Shannon.

The actual arrival time in Dublin will be 10:10 a.m. Friday [5:10 a.m., Quincy time], meaning that a lot of sleep will be lost, which is why the kids will spend most of Friday resting up for Saturday's performance.

The six-day tour schedule goes like this:

TODAY

- 7 p.m. - Arrive at North Quincy High School with luggage and carry-on bag.
- 7:25 p.m. - Board five buses for Logan Airport.
- 8:50 p.m. - Arrive at Logan Airport.
- 10:25 p.m. - Leave Logan aboard Irish Airlines Flight 7116 with dinner and a light breakfast served in flight.

FRIDAY
[Dublin Time]

- 8:50 a.m. - Arrive at Shannon Airport for a 45-minute layover.
- 10:10 a.m. - Arrive at Dublin Airport and transfer to the Burlington Hotel on Upper Lesson Street, Dublin.

The remainder of Friday will be spent resting up and catching up with what is known as "jet lag" since there is a five hour time difference between Quincy and Dublin.

SATURDAY

- In the morning, the band will do its thing – march in the most famous St. Patrick's Parade of them all in the heart of St. Patrick's land itself. After lunch, they are off either by special coaches or by train through the picturesque Irish countryside to Limerick.

Burger King Plans Restaurant At Old Hancock Bank Building

Burger King has plans to convert the old Hancock Bank building in downtown Quincy into a family sit-in restaurant, at a cost of $500,000 or more.

Disclosure was made Tuesday at a meeting of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association by Quincy Atty. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr., representing the firm.

Keefe said the facility, a pilot program, would seat 125 persons and would be extensively renovated inside and out.

He noted that the building, at the corner of Cottage Ave. and Hancock St., has been vacant for the past two and a half years.

The Hancock Bank is now located in larger modern quarters once occupied by the Sheridan Store.

Keefe said that the building has become "unattractive" during its idleness and said there is no other potential user of the building than Burger King, a subsidiary of Pillsbury Flour Co.

Keefe said if approval is given by the City Licensing Board, the facility would become a pilot program for Burger King as the first of its sit-in type family restaurants as opposed to drive-ins.

He said the company feels that the downtown Quincy area offers "a potential for the future."

Public Info Meeting On S. Quincy MBTA Station

A second public informational meeting on the proposed South Quincy MBTA station will be held Tuesday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. in what amounts to enemy territory – the Council Chambers at City Hall.

The Quincy City Council last week voted unanimously [with one absentee] its opposition to the station, not only in South Quincy but in any other part of the city.

Brett Would Subject Assessors To Council Confirmation

The Massachusetts House has passed a bill that would subject the appointment of city assessors to the majority vote confirmation of the City Council.

It now goes to the Senate.

The bill was filed by State Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] at the urging of a number of his constituents.

'God Is The One Who Is Giver Of Life'

Priest Takes Issue With Minister On Abortion

REV. JOHN J. TIERNEY

A Quincy Catholic priest today took sharp issue with a Wollaston minister over the latter's stand in favor of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision legalizing abortion.

Rev. John J. Tierney, pastor of St. John's Church, said he was "upset" by the sermon of Rev. Lloyd F. Martin, minister of Wollaston Congregational Church, which was printed in the March 1 issue of The Quincy Sun.

Fr. Tierney declared:

"Although he [Rev. Mr. Martin] considers abortion 'as another means of choosing' when and where to give life, this seems to me to be denying that God is the one who is giver of life.

"It bothers me to have one of God's representatives say that a woman should take this perogative away from God and choose 'when and where to give life' ".

In his sermon delivered to his congregation Feb. 18, Rev. Mr. Martin said:

"Motherhood should be a privilege and not a penalty. The backbone of a healthy society is a cherishing quality in motherhood.

"Giving birth to a child does not necessarily make a woman a thoroughly good mother. Bearing an unwanted child will do even less, if not the opposite.

"Removing the romantic, rosey glasses, we discover that much of societal sickness can be traced to or around our unloved 'accidents' ".

Rev. Mr. Martin said he chooses to approach the Supreme Court decision on abortion "from the view of a healthy society with harmony between and among people who have a sound sense of well being."

Fr. Tierney's statement in rebuttal, follows:

"The article about abortion in the Quincy Sun edition of March 1st upset me. I would like to quote from the article:

"Rev. Lloyd Martin, an ordained representative of God, chose to approach a moral problem 'from the point of a healthy society.'

"I think that one of God's ministers should look at moral problems from a theological point of view, rather than a "healthy society" point of view. Although he considers abortion "as another means of choosing" when and where to give life, this seems to me to be denying that God is the one who is giver of life. It bothers me to have one of God's representatives say that a woman should take this prerogative away from God and choose "when and where to give life."

[Cont'd on Page 2]

Catholic Priest Takes Issue With Minister On Abortion Stand

"Rev. Mr. Martin says in his article "much of our societal sickness can be traced to and around our unloved 'accidents'." Is it right to place the blame for our societal sickness on the shoulders of 'unloved accidents'?

"Or should we say that society is sick when it is unable to cope with 'unloved accidents'? Many wonderful families with retarded children have shown great strength and loyalty when such a child was given to them. The new arrival was not a source of 'societal sickness'.

"The article continues: "Whether through illegal abortion or being forced to give birth to an unwanted child, far too many women have been hurt physically, psychically or both". I wonder if the Rev. Mr. Martin has read the statistics about the number of women who have needed psychiatric treatment after they have had an abortion. Psychiatrists tell us that the guilt feelings tormenting these women drive them into a neurotic state. I wonder if Rev. Mr. Martin has considered this when he speaks about a "healthy society" or "societal sickness."

"Rev. Mr. Martin uses the word "kill". He puts that word in quotes, implying that he does not believe that abortion is a form of killing an embryonic child. However, in the next sentence he says that abortion is a "drastic and questionable" means of when to give life. It is a "questionable" means then it is "questionable" whether it is killing or not.

"Rev. Mr. Martin speaks of a "form of life we would not recognize as human during the first trimester". If he does not recognize the embryonic child as human that is his opinion. It contradicts the Judeao-Christian tradition that life begins at the moment of conception.

"So if the Rev. Mr. Martin wishes to take the view of the abortion-on-demand group who say the growing fetus is not human until three months then his putting of the word "killing" in quotes might be permitted.

"I find it inconsistent to say "I would consider abortion as a means of choosing when and where to give life" and to say "there is no easy answer for us in the pew". It is very pious to conclude with the words "let us stand by our women and with those who choose motherhood."

"The sermon previously said "giving birth to a child does not necessarily make a woman a thoroughly good mother. Bearing an unwanted child will do even less."

"Now that I have taken Rev. Mr. Martin's talk bit by bit I would like to add some further comments:

"Senator James Buckley will soon introduce a constitutional amendment covering the subject of abortion. His remark concerns the "societal sickness"...."If we find the taking of human life acceptable for purposes of social convenience under some circumstances, are we not going to pave the ground for the taking of human life under other circumstances in order to meet other objectives of social convenience?"

"The National Review for February, in an article by John Noonan, said: "It is a matter of irony that the ninth amendment of our Constitution reads "The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

"The people had already spoken on abortion through the Legislatures of 50 states. Who would contend that what Justice Blackmun and his six associates legislated could be passed as law in Congress or in any popular referendum. How could the rights of the people be more effectively "disparaged" by an elite than for seven members of a court to pronounce their efforts at controlling assaults on life to be unconstitutional?"

"Many humans are threatened with possible classification as beings lacking the "capability of meaningful life". The infant suffering from genetic deficiencies, the retarded child, the insane or senile adult....all of these potential victims of a "quality of life" mystique could be threatened with extinction.

"Cardinal Wright, in a recent newspaper piece about abortion as the first step to mercy killing, said: "The next life you save may be your own because the next step in this anti-life campaign is euthanasia." "A court capable of authorizing abortion-on-demand should have no trouble permitting eventual death-on-demand. It is particularly shameful to belong to the nation whose judicial branch turns out to be the first in the world to collapse under anti-life pressures. But no nation has ever proposed so shocking a denial of the rights of the unborn as has the United States speaking through its Supreme Court."

"I trust that the Quincy Sun, since they gave the Rev. Mr. Martin front page and total-page spread, will do the same for the opposing opinion. This, in my opinion, would be granting me "equal time."

Hannon Urges MBTA Turn Over 'McIntyre Plaza'

Mayor Walter J. Hannon has urged the MBTA to turn over to the city of Quincy as quickly as possible a piece of land next to City Hall known as "McIntyre Plaza".

"It would be a terrible shame for spring to come with no improvements made to this area," the mayor said.

The plot of land, which used to be the McGillivary Block, is named for the late Police Capt. William F. McIntyre, father of former Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Quincy Eligible For Flood Insurance Program

Quincy is one of 60 cities and towns in Massachusetts that are eligible for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon was reminded of the program by a letter from U.S. Sen. Edward W. Brooke [R-Mass].

Brooke pointed out that only 25 per cent of the eligible communities are participating in the nationwide program, under which insurance is provided in flood-hazard prone areas.

"With the imminence of the spring flooding season, I hope you will investigate the program as soon as possible," said Brooke.

"The Federal Insurance Agency informs me that they are able to make flood insurance available in a community within three weeks after their receipt of a complete application."

[Quincy Sun Photo]

Ronald Mendler, 37, manager-sales manager of Station WPEP, will succeed John R. Murray April 1.

Murray, on loan from the South Shore National Bank to the QCBPA since its inception last July, will return to the bank on a full-time basis as an assistant vice-president.

Mendler, hired by a vote of the QCBPA Board of Directors after a number of applicants had been considered by a special committee, was introduced to the general membership at a meeting Tuesday.

Mendler told the group he was looking forward to coming to Quincy and said he believed that Quincy offers considerably more as a shopping-business area than any community he knew.

"I hope to be working closely with each and everyone of you," he said.

Mendler has had 15 years experience working with retail merchants, industrial and professional representatives and government officials.

Robert J. Colman, president of the downtown association said:

"The QCBPA feels this will be a mutually beneficial relationship which will result in many participants and a much larger promotional effort to increase the customer traffic in the urban area."

Permits For $30,670 In Wiring

The Quincy Department of Wire Inspection made 150 inspections and found 12 defects during the month of February, Inspector of Wires William H. Pitts disclosed last week.

The department also issued 85 permits and collected $384.25 in fees for wiring estimated to cost $30,670. The major project was wiring the new American Legion Post building at 38 Weston Ave.

Fifty seven certificates of approval were issued and eight reinspections and one fire call were made.

Hearing Tonight On TV Antenna

Mayor Walter J. Hannon is holding a public hearing tonight [Thursday], to permit representatives of Cablevision Corporation of America [CCA] to discuss plans for constructing a community antenna television system in Quincy.

CCA will also answer questions concerning the system from interested residents.

The hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers, City Hall.

Hannon granted CCA a license to construct a CATV system in Quincy last September following a public hearing on CCA's application and the investigation of CCA by the Mayor's CATV Advisory Commission.

Following the announcement of the grant, the Massachusetts Community Antenna Television Commission raised several questions concerning the license and filed with the Federal Communications Commission a petition opposing the issuance by the FCC of a "Certificate of Compliance".

Hannon said that he had discussed the State Commission's actions with members of his staff and with officials of CCA, and that it was agreed that in light of the State Commission's objections, CCA should make itself available to answer questions from the community concerning its construction plans and its ability to meet the construction schedule set forth in the City's license.

The Mayor emphasized, however, that he was satisfied with CCA's qualifications and with the terms of the license. The hearing is being held, Hannon said, to provide information of interest to the community and not to revoke or renegotiate the terms of the license.

Budget Session Resumes Saturday

The City Council's Finance Committee will continue its pruning of Mayor Walter Hannon's proposed municipal budget Saturday.

The session, open to the public, will be held in the City Council chamber starting at 9:30 a.m.

Events on the political scene came to a screeching halt when the City Council failed to vote on the proposed eight ward re-alignment. The talk is that the present six ward set up will be used for this fall's municipal elections. And maybe indefinitely.

Some of the potential candidates were caught off guard and many will have to reconsider their chances of running in the old wards.

For a few, however, it's too late for them to reconsider. Even though they may now have second thoughts on their candidacy, they've committed too many people and twisted too many arms to back out now.

* * *

Everyone who deals with the Quincy court admits that Ryan runs one of the best courts in the Boston area. He had almost everyone's support to be named judge. Everyone except the Governor's.

Despite his qualifications and years of experience at the district level, Ryan's shortcoming [in this case] was the fact that he's a Democrat.

But it's not over yet, or so they say. Courthouse sources are now predicting that presiding justice, Robert Prince, may be in line for promotion to the Superior Court. And if that's the case, the intrigue surrounding judicial appointments will start up again in Quincy.

Student Council President Ronald Iacobucci. The proposal would make it easier to conduct voter registration sessions in high schools. Linda DiSalvio, Lee Wardle and Carl Deyeso, Co-ordinator of Language Arts, also testified in favor.

Jack Harrington, chairman of the social studies department and teacher John Scanlan also arranged to have the entire hearing video-taped to be used to teach legislative process. And if the bill is passed to become law, they plan to video-tape the Governor signing it.

The bill was filed by Senator Arthur Tobin and worked on by Robert Cerasoli of Quincy Point, Tobin's legislative aids.

THIS YEAR IS THE 70TH ANNIVERSARY of Sacred Heart Church in North Quincy. Originally it was designated as mission of St. John's in 1878, by the then Archbishop Williams. By 1903 it had grown to such a degree that it was set aside as a new parish.

The first church stood on the corner of Hancock and Hunt Sts. In 1924 a new building was erected on its present site, which was subsequently destroyed by a fire in 1948. The new church was built on the same site and of similar design. It was dedicated in 1948 by Most Rev. Richard Cushing [later to be named archbishop and cardinal].

During the two year period when the parish was without a church, Masses were said at N.Q.H.S. auditorium, while confessions were heard Saturdays at the old North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

- Kissinger & 'Mission Impossible'
- Beefing Up Meat Prices
- Spy In Russia's Sky

WASHINGTON — The most secret group in government is called the Forty Committee. It meets once a week in the White House under Henry Kissinger's command. This is the group that must approve all the "Mission: Impossible" operations — the so-called dirty tricks that could embarrass the United States if the government were ever connected directly with them.

At the latest supersecret meeting, the Forty Committee discussed what action could be taken to strike back at the Black September terrorists who killed United States Ambassador Cleo Noel and diplomat George Moore in Khartoum.

The Central Intelligence Agency has identified the Black September movement as an instrument of al-Fatah, the largest of the Palestinian guerrilla groups. Al-Fatah calls its intelligence service "Jihaz Al-Rasd." This in turn, has a "special services section," which is responsible for assassinations, kidnappings, sabotage and terrorism.

The special services section goes by the nickname Black September, taken from the month of September 1970 when Jordan's King Hussein began his successful drive to crush the Palestinian guerrillas in Jordan. The first priority of the Black September group has been to assassinate Hussein.

Only a few hundred terrorists belong to the Black September group. It isn't certain how much control al-Fatah has over them, but the CIA is positive that the Black September group at least was founded by al-Fatah as its dirty-trick department. Its leader has been identified by the CIA as Fakhri al-Amari, who for awhile operated out of a guarded building in Beirut. At least four guards, with drawn guns, accompanied every visitor who called on him to his upstairs apartment.

Lebanon has now cracked down on the terrorists. But they still have high-level contacts in Egypt, Syria, Iraq and Libya. America's own dirty-tricks department, meanwhile, is discussing what dirty tricks to play on the Black September group.

Beefing Up Prices

Runaway meat prices have hit every American dinner table. Yet the Price Commission has quietly freed the country's largest beef company to move its prices up largely as it pleases. The company, Iowa Beef Processors, does a beef business of over $1.3 billion a year.

The company has been granted a so-called "volatile pricing exception, permitting it to adjust its prices up or down" without having to notify anybody.

With great patriotic flourish, the government has asked the rest of us to tighten our belts, plant victory gardens and add fish and cheese to our diets.

President Nixon and domestic economic czar George Shultz insist they are trying to slow the food price surge. Yet the Price Commission has let millions of cows out of the barn with a special price-control exception. In the background, Iowa Beef Processors recently retained the law firm of former Treasury Secretary John Connally as special counsel. Connally is a cattleman himself, raising herds in Texas and Jamaica.

Meat prices, meanwhile, shot up nearly four per cent in January. At a yearly rate, this would amount to a staggering 40 per cent. The jump in food prices was the greatest in 22 years. This was accompanied by rent hikes and higher social security taxes. Together, these increases have outstripped the wage gains and reduced the buying power of the average American family.

This means that the average family is now growing poorer in terms of what his money will buy.

Spy in the Sky

Every 90 minutes, a spy satellite swings over Russia photographing everything below. The film packets are dropped over the Pacific and snagged out of the air by waiting Air Force planes. The photographs show Soviet missile silos, nuclear plants, submarine pens and other military installations.

Photo analysts have been able to pinpoint where every Soviet missile has been installed, where those that haven't yet been installed are stored and where those that haven't been stored are manufactured. From an exhaustive study of factory characteristics and car loadings, our photo analysts can also tell where every factory in Russia is located, what it produces and how much it produces.

But these spy satellites are expensive. Each one costs a reported $20 million. And White House sources tell us the cost overruns on these satellites are horrendous. One reason President Nixon appointed James Schlesinger as the new CIA director was to cut down the staggering cost of modern spying.

Schlesinger formerly served in the White House as a systems analyst for the Office of Management and Budget. He reorganized the national intelligence apparatus and showed how millions could be saved. Now the President has put him in charge of the CIA to carry out his own plan.

The danger is that the United States has become reliant on these expensive spy satellites for most of its hard intelligence. The budget slashing has also left no new development in case the Russians or Chinese should decide to shoot down our satellites.

Cloaks and daggers, of course, are a lot cheaper than $20 million satellites. But in this technological age, our space cameras are more effective.

Letter Carriers May Wear Bermuda Walking Shorts

In another move to provide for the comfort and well-being of its employees, the U.S. Postal Service has authorized the wearing of Bermuda-type walking shorts for letter carriers and other employees who meet the public.

The walking shorts will be worn with black, knee-length hose.

The authorization is effective April 1. The walking shorts will be an optional uniform item, and will be worn at the option of the employee.

Wearing of the uniform cap has also been placed on an optional basis provided employees are otherwise in full uniform.

Reader Remembers Dr. Djerf, Michael Walsh As 'Generous Men'

The policy of The Quincy Sun is not to print anonymous letters or letters with pen names. However, because of the nature of the following letter, we are making a rare exception to our rule.

Editor, Quincy Sun:

First let me congratulate you on your expansion, and fine work in relating the Quincy news. I have lived in Quincy since childhood until a few years ago when I moved to the West Coast, where I now live, except for a quick visit to Quincy to see some friends who mail me your paper regular.

I have read of the deaths of two outstanding Quincy men this past year. Dr. Djerf and Michael Walsh, owner of Walsh's Restaurant in North Quincy. Two kind generous men who gave of themselves to others less fortunate.

Mike Walsh as he was known came to this country at the age of seventeen, got himself into the Army during World War One, came back a badly wounded purple heart young man, having lost the use of his left arm. Spent many months in Veteran's Hospitals but came out determined to make a place for himself in this world, he went into vocational training and took sign painting which he mastered and was most successful at it until he went into the restaurant business.

He had bought the building now the restaurant, a very old run down property but with a lot of hard work and determination he made it what it is today.

I never knew Mike Walsh to refuse a human being of any thing within his means, he made jobs for men with familys during the depression and no one was refused a meal who could not afford to pay for it, his left hand never knew what his right hand gave. That went too for his generosity to his church.

We need more men like Mike and Dr. Djerf and some of our fine Quincy men who have passed away.

An Ardent Reader of The Quincy Sun

Maybe you will have a small corner for this tribute to two of my best friends.

Concerned About Crime Increase

Editor, Quincy Sun:

A new year has started and maybe we the citizens should take a new look at our city, its leaders, policies and departments. The tax rate jump had such a devastating effect on this city's residents, other issues were pushed off the front page of the local newspaper. One item of news which every resident and property owner reads about night after night is the increase in crime in our city. Homes and businesses fall victim to continuous vandalism. Residents fear to walk the streets after dark because of purse snatchers, youthful thieves and attackers.

Quincy certainly has a large enough police force for a city this size; yet vandalism, destruction of property and incidences of assault appear to be on the increase. Is there anyone in the police department who could show documented proof of exactly what percentage of all crime committed in this city is terminated and persons responsible brought to justice?

More concern for the security and safety of the citizens is needed. Whatever happened to the old days when policemen "walked the beat" of your local neighborhood?

Drug abuse and crime were major issues during the last election, but how many of the politicians who made it into office followed up on their promises?

Take a new look at your city officials and ask them what they are now doing for your safety and protection. You might be in for a few red faces.

I would like to apologize to the many concerned citizens who seek me out for help, but you can't fight a political machine.

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Labor charges on repair bills often total more than the actual parts needed for repairs.

These charges are generally determined by one of two methods. The repairman may simply record the number of hours he worked on the repair and multiply this by his hourly charge. Or, the repairman may set standard labor charges according to the kind of work done. This charge is often determined by a "flat rate manual" which states the amount of time each repair should take.

My Consumer Protection Division receives many complaints from persons who feel they have been charged unfair prices for repair work. Some consumers complain that they would not have authorized repair work if they had known they would be charged exorbitant rates–for example, a $15 labor charge for work on a $25 iron.

In addition, consumers report that they have been charged for additional repairs deemed "necessary" by mechanics working on authorized repairs.

To avoid such unexpectedly high repair bills, consumers should take precautions when delivering an item for repairs. The consumer should ask the repairman for a written estimate of the probable cost. He should also leave his telephone number so that the repairman may consult him if unexpected problems arise. These advance measures will ensure that the repair costs will be acceptable and agreeable to both the consumer and the repairman.

PEACE

The D-o-v-e
The true and gentle spirit
Of truth and peace
Upon us has descended,
Blessed with Christ's love wand;
Sparked with hope, faith, and charity.

Faced with a new era are we,
As we make History ...
To cease-fire and end war,
With a Peace-pen Pact:
Strengthening the Cause with a
Graceful, national dedication,
Gilded in Prayer, Peace and Thanksgiving.

The world will always be
Shadowed by war and chaos,
But what now counts is the
Forward right step, creating
Good-will and Understanding,
Among individuals and nations,
Bringing us closer to the Heart of Universal Brotherhood.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Can Personality Change?'

Kurt and Lois had been married seven years. They were just not making it together. They quarrelled ... they punished each other with silence ... they called each other ugly names with four-lettered modifiers.

"I know I'm a slob" ... Kurt said rather indifferently ... "but I'm no better nor worse than the next guy. She's just upset ... always something wrong ... I can't do anything right."

"I'm not going to be his mother" .. Lois said. "His mother just did everything for him ... now he expects it from me. I have two children. I don't need my husband for a third."(His mother had babied him ... pampered him ... indulged him ... required nothing of him.)

Upon further counseling we found that Kurt and Lois had many differences. For one thing ... he had a double standard ... "men can do certain things a woman can't" ... he insisted. "A woman's place is in the home." (That's where his mother stayed.) He strongly opposed Lois having a job. (His mother didn't.)

What chance does Lois have of changing Kurt's personality to that of a man she can enjoy as she lives with him? NO CHANCE AT ALL. By age 5 the patterns are set for life ... attitudes toward people ... neatness ... slob ... being a taker ... being a giver. If Kurt changes his personality it will be because KURT WANTS TOCHANGE If Kurt wants to change KURT CAN CHANGE. How?

First of all ... Kurt will NEED SOME REASON TO CHANGE. Without motivation ... without the will to change one will not be conscious of any advantage in changing. LOVE is often a motivation ... a man loves his wife so much that he'll "do anything to be more pleasing to her." If what she wants is rational ... helpful ... represents positive development of personality, that's solid MOTIVATION. He has a reason. Yet ... IT MUST BE KURT'S DECISION ... Not Lois' decision.

Secondly ... Kurt must DISCIPLINE HIS MIND to break the pattern of conduct which he has followed for many years without thinking. Now HE MUST THINK. If he's unwilling to think, he'll continue the same negative attitudes ... laziness ... being rigid instead of being free. One can change one's personality ... IF ONE THINKS.

Thirdly ... Kurt must transfer the THINK energy into KENETIC energy ... that means TO MOVE. To lie there in bed ... snoozing after the alarm has sounded ... without moving ... continues the same lazy pattern. Move it. Get going. Transfer from Mind to Muscle. If Kurt refuses to TAKE ACTION on his slob habits ... they will continue as long as he lives.

On can change one's own personality. Reading such books as Dr. Harris I'M O.K. ... YOU'RE O.K. ... or my own PEOPLE ARE FOR LOVING will help one's own self therapy. Personal counseling and Group Therapy can be big boosts for change. But in the last analysis ... one changes only if one does it himself.

• • • •

For your comments ... for Group Therapy or private counseling, you may write Dr. Knox at 628 High Street, Dedham, Mass. or call 326-5990 or 545-5947 or 659-7595.

8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursday's

In many ways, Americans abet the criminal society they profess to deplore. Organized crime, described as "the second largest business of the nation after government," derives its greatest revenue from syndicated gambling, according to law enforcement officials. The net take is placed at $7 billion, probably twice as much as comes from all other crime combined.

Whether they indulge in simple lotteries or bookmaking on horse races and sports events, Americans thus indicate their willingness to support a criminal organization which Robert K. Woetzel declares, "has infiltrated the political process and has bought governors, mayors, police chiefs, judges and district attorneys." Woetzel, professor of international politics and law at Boston College, writes that U.S. citizens have made organized crime "part of national life . . . a pillar of the community."

Americans can be blamed for fostering crime in still another way, according to Michael Fooner, chairman of the Metropolitan Crime Prevention Project of the American Society of Criminology. Fooner cites national surveys in 1960 and 1965 which disclosed that American people lost enormous sums of cash through sheer carelessness. "Not only do people lose, in the aggregate, enormous sums of money," he writes; "in effect, they offer incentive and aid to offenders."

The 1960 survey found that Americans lost cash at a rate exceeding $700 million per year. The 1965 survey showed that the amount had increased greatly. "Carelessness in handling cash is so persistently a part of everyday living," noted the report, "it must be deemed almost a national habit."

Americans are as casual with other possessions as they are with cash. Two out of five auto thefts, according to the Uniform Crime Reports, involve a turned-on ignition or keys left in the car. In one of three residential burglaries, a door or a window is found open by the burglar.

"Although society is injured in the aggregate by the effects of victim-induced opportunities for crime," says Fooner, "society does not condemn particular instances of carelessness or imprudence.

"Very little attention is paid to the effect on police morale of cases where the victim behaved with evident foolishness, nor is thought given to the role of insurance when victims frankly substitute expectation of reimbursement for the exercise of personal vigilance."

We have made the point in various ways through these columns that thrift is not only a systematic saving of a portion of one's financial resources. It also requires good husbandry of the possessions we have.

Like gambling or the careless handling of cash, indifferent attention to household appliances and other possessions is at odds with intelligent financial management.

Friends Worked Together To Raise $27,000 For North Band

It started last August when the first chances were sold on a 1973 Chevrolet Vega.

It ended this week with about $27,000 in the kitty to send the North Quincy High School band to Ireland.

Mrs. Vito Barressi, whose husband supervised the raising of the money, gave this preliminary report on the highlights of the fund raising:

- The biggest moneymaker was the automobile drawing – about $9,000 after expenses.
- Two tag days, Feb. 3 and 17, brought in $3,800.
- The North Quincy students themselves turned in about $2,500 from car washes and other small projects.
- A country fair, held near the end of November at Quincy High School, raised $1,100.
- A dinner dance for adults at the Quincy Armory in February brought in $1,597.
- A collection during the Christmas Festival Parade - split with the Quincy High School band.
- Bumper stickers were worth $577.
- Football programs sold at the Stadium in the fall came to about $500, which usually goes to the Boosters Club. The club gave it to the fund.
- The North Quincy Merchants donated $500 from the proceeds of their Mardi Gras.
- Individual donations came to some $3,000.

All told, said Mrs, Barressi, the seven-month drive collected about $30,000 with about $3,000 going for expenses.

In addition to paying the band's expenses, the fund raisers were able to provide each student with $20 spending money, Mrs. Barressi said.

Yes Or No
Legalized Gambling

By KEN FURFARI

A bill has been proposed in the legislature to legalize betting on sports events in a similar setup to our present sweepstakes or "The Game".

The tickets or cards you buy would be set up in point spreads just like the illegal football cards. The big question surrounding all of this is that with all the money around on these cards would the athletes throw games?

Aside from this question there are many good points to this proposal. For example the state would take in millions of dollars of desperately needed income which could be spread through different areas.

Another good point in this plan is that it would cut off some of organized crime's income by taking the betting away from the syndicate and putting it into the hands of state officials, which may not be much of a difference but that's another thought altogether.

Opponents of the bill question whether athletes will be tempted to throw games. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn argues that to legalize gambling would be a severe injustice to the ideals of sport.

Others from the state say that Massachusetts would become the next Las Vegas, all of which seems pretty foolish. The one major complaint is that athletes may throw games. Why, if gambling became legalized would an athlete be more tempted to throw a contest than before, provided of course that he would still be prevented from betting on events which he was a part of.

It may not be the best answer to our financial crisis, but it could work.

New Main Dishes A Hit At Quincy Cafeteria

By LINDA FALVEY

At every school, there are invariable complaints about the Cafeteria food.

The complaints at Quincy High this year have disappeared to a large extent because of the new and the different types of main dishes being served.

Mr. George Cole has instituted the new meals, some of which are, turkey a la King, Chicken Fricassie, Chicken Chow Mein, Salisbury steak, Syrian bread sub sandwiches, etc.

While some students would like to stick with peanut butter and jelly, most students have responded by trying and enjoying the new dishes.

Filet mignon anyone?

Quincy Student's Bill Paves Way For Voter Registration In High Schools

By LINDA DiSALVIO

On Tuesday, March 6, members of the community affairs classes of QHVTS visited the State House in Boston.

Their purpose was not that of a mere tour of the historic building, but more important, to attend a hearing. The purpose of the hearing was to review a legislative bill submitted by Ronald Iacobucci, Student Council President of Quincy High and Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

The bill's content referred to voter registration of 18-year old high school students. If approved, it would make it possible for any high school in the state of Massachusetts to submit a petition to its city or town clerk, requesting a voter registration session take place within the high school. The petition would need a minimum of 25 unregistered students' signatures and the sessions would occur no more than three times during any one calendar year.

RONALD IACOBUCCI .

Those who testified in favor of the bill included students, and city and state officials.

Ron first addressed the committee of six men and explained the purpose and advantages of his bill. He was then followed by such officials as Sen. Arthur Tobin, Rep. Clifford Marshall, and Coordinator of Language Arts of Quincy, Carl Deyeso. Student endorsers were Linda DiSalvio, Secretary of the Senior Class at QHVTS and Lee Wardle, a member of the senior student body. Small opposition to the bill came from one member of the hearing committee.

The main advantage of the legislation is the fact that students would be assuming the responsibility as 18 year olds to register on their own at city hall. But favorable action on this bill would facilitate the process of registration, and thus increase student awareness of civic responsibility.

Whether this legislation will be passed is difficult to assess. But the fact that any high school student is allowed to file such legislation is of great importance. The student responsibility, which is so decisively needed for the success of the bill, is already present in those students who believe in increasing their education outside the classroom by becoming involved with civic education and awareness.

Woodward Ave. Sometimes Like Dragway

By BRUCE CORWIN

As the warm weather draws near, many of our high school students are cleaning up their cars.

For some of them it means putting away the snow tires and putting on the new "wide ovals" and the new mags. For others it may mean a new engine or transmission so that the "old bucket" is quicker.

For the past two years that I've gone to Quincy High School, every day Woodward Ave., the street between the High School and the Voc-Tech becomes New England Dragway south. Everyone who thinks his car is "it" is out there showing off. The week ends with more rubber on the road then on the tires.

WOODWARD AVE. looks peaceful here but when school's out, it becomes New England Dragway South.

Woodward Ave. is heavily travelled, not only by cars, but by students going between the two schools. Combine that with the parked cars and Woodward Ave. becomes narrower than my garage door. It can't be too far off before an accident happens, either wrecking up a car, or killing someone.

It might be a good idea to close this part of the street and make it a mall, with benches and walkways.

It also might be a good idea to use the old Squantum Airbase runways for this type of drag racing rather than a public street.

'Sissy' Farenthold Enjoys Quincy Visit

Frances [Sissy] Farenthold of Texas, president of the National Women's Political Caucus, visited Quincy Sunday for a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pleshaw of Merrymount.

Geraldine Pleshaw, co-ordinator for the South Shore Women's Caucus, arranged for her to come to Quincy to meet with some of the women who have been working to organize the local caucus.

Mrs. Pleshaw first met "Sissy" last month in Houston, where the Quincy woman was a delegate to the National Caucus's convention.

"Sissy was particularly interested in coming to Quincy," Mrs. Pleshaw said, "because the South Shore caucus has been one of the most active in the state."

Mrs. Farenthold had dinner with the Pleshaw family and then met and spoke to the 75 guests who attended the evening reception. It was a relaxing affair for her. The night before she addressed the A.D.A. dinner in Boston.

"I'm delighted to be in Quincy, the City of Presidents," Mrs. Farenthold said. "It's a welcome change from the big cities and hotels."

The open house was attended by people from all over eastern Massachusetts, men as well as women, young people as well as old. School Committeeman John Xifaras of New Bedford accompanied his wife MarDi, Democratic State Commiteewoman from the Bristol district. Alan Lupo, writer for Boston magazine, formerly with the Channel 2 "Reporters", attended with author Carol Rivers and Marjorie Schiller of Hingham, special aide to Senate President Kevin Harrington.

Also Jane Malne from the Mass. League of Women Voters and Marlene Goldstein from South Shore National Women's Organization.

Those from Quincy included: Peter and Virginia Dindy, Marilyn Hanabury, Kathy Hanabury, Pat Toland, Grace Rutan, Madeline Cohen, Joseph and Linda Lurie, James and Jean Sullivan, Kathleen O'Donnell, Mary Jo Riley, Lisa McElaney, Kathy Fornaro, Edward and Ruth Roseland and Ruth Martell.

Mrs. Farenthold talked to each of the guests individually and then gave a short talk on her experiences working at the grass roots level of the political process.

A soft-spoken woman, she gained national recognition when she ran for Governor of Texas and placed second in a four way race. At the Democratic National Convention in Miami last summer she was nominated for vice president, coming in second to Senator Thomas Eagleton.

"She's different from most politicians," one of the men attending the reception pointed out. "She doesn't project herself, but rather the people listening project themselves to her."

Mrs. Farenthold was also the guest of Geraldine Pleshaw at Harvard, Monday where she spoke to Mrs. Pleshaw's class on "Women in Politics".

The next program of the South Shore Women's Caucus will be held March 27 at the First Parish Church in Quincy. The topic will be "Women in the Work Force".

Anyone interested in joining the caucus is asked to contact Mrs. Pleshaw on Shore Ave.

Broad Meadows Guidance Staff Available To Parents Evenings

The counseling staff of the Broad Meadows Cluster is continuing with the service of maintaining evening hours for parents of pupils currently attending the school and the five feeder elementary schools.

March 21 will mark the fourth successive Wednesday evening that two counselors will be at Broad Meadows Junior High School from 6 to 9 p.m. The staff assigned for that evening will be Carol Lee Griffin, Director of Pupil Personnel and Lillian Clayman of the Merrymount School.

This is the time of the year when many parents may appreciate facts concerning program selections for next year, services available with the school system and community, descriptions of learning materials available to pupils, ways in which the home and school can share the responsibility of child growth and development etc.

If parents wish to discuss specific concerns about their child, it is suggested that an appointment be made by calling the guidance office at the junior high school. Parents may walk in unannounced if they are seeking general information.

The Wednesday evening hours will continue for the next three weeks with the following staff:

March 28 - Althea Sawyer, Broad Meadows; Ena Fredette, Snug Harbor.

April 4 - James Sullivan, Broad Meadows; Carol Lee Griffin, Director, Pupil Personnel.

April 11 - Cornelius Sheehan, Broad Meadows; Alice Guilmartin, Coordinator, Elementary Guidance.

174 Off To Ireland Tonight

[Cont'd from Page 1]

* After dinner at the Parkway Motor Inn, the kids will have the evening off to do as they wish.

SUNDAY

* After breakfast and church services, band members will participate in Limerick's St. Patrick's Parade and International Band Competition with other musical aggregations from the United States, Ireland, Britain and Europe.

The winner of the competition gets the "Treaty Stone", a silver replica of the stone on which Irish hero Patrick Sarsfield made peace with William of Orange after the siege of Limerick in 1691.

But there are no losers in the Limerick competition. Each band receives a miniature placque of Limerick's coat of arms and an inscribed scroll from the mayor of the city.

After lunch the bandsmen will be free until dinner, then they will either attend a band recital at Limerick's City Theater or join in a traditional "Irish cabaret" featuring traditional Irish entertainment at the Inn.

MONDAY

* The whole day will be taken up with a trip to Killarney by way of Tralee, a tour which includes the legendary Three Lakes of Killarney, returning to Limerick for a special farewell banquet at the Inn.

TUESDAY

Albert Marchionne Heads CP $10,000 Fund Raising Drive

Albert J. Marchionne, President of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. has been named General Chairman of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc.'s annual fund raising campaign scheduled to begin in May.

Announcement was made by Arthur Ciampa, Executive Director of the local organization, who said Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. hopes to raise $10,000 in the drive which is conducted in non-federated communities.

Marchionne called for the assistance of many volunteers whom the agency is currently recruiting. Men and women who wish to devote some of their free time to help in the clerical work at the voluntary health agency are urged to telephone CP Headquarters, 36 Miller Stile Rd, Quincy, 479-7443, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. for specific information.

Marchionne noted that the services and programs offered by the agency for individuals with multihandicaps are limited only by the financial resources available. He said that Cerebral Palsy clients come to the association from every part of the South Shore Area for treatment in the care and management of their problems.

Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. provides the following services:

A Treatment Center Clinic located at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy provides speech, physical and occupational therapies administered under the supervision of a Medical Director who is a skilled pediatrician. Psychiatric and psychological evaluations are conducted through the facilities of the South Shore Mental Health Center which works jointly with the Clinic which is supervised by a trained Medical Social Worker-Program Coordinator.

A Special Class for cerebral palsied children of school age is held daily at the Furnace Brook School in Quincy and is a model in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

An Adult C.P. Class meets once a week in the evening at Furnace Brook School and offers courses in arts and crafts, education, recreation and socialization.

A Nursery School for C.P. children of pre-school age is located at the Trinity Episcopal Church, 241 Broad St., Weymouth and operates from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. five days a week with afternoon sessions on Tuesday and Thursday from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Summer Residential Camp facilities for C.P. children and adults are available at Camp Jabberwocky on Martha's Vineyard, Camp Sea Haven in Newburyport and Camp Jollee in Goshen, all in Massachusetts.

The campaign will be run on the slogan "Happiness Is Helping" and will still be known as the "53 Minute March on Cerebral Palsy" because a child is born with Cerebral Palsy in the United States every 53 minutes.

Quincy Hospital Gets Three Accreditations

The Quincy City Hospital has been informed by the Joint Commission on Accreditation that as a result of a survey of the hospital in September of 1972, it has been awarded a two-year accreditation.

In a letter to Director Harlan L. Paine, Dr. John D. Porterfield, Director of the Joint Commission, said:

"The Commission wishes to commend you for maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for your constant efforts to improve the quality of patient care."

The hospital also received notification from the National League for Nursing, Inc., that it had accredited its School of Nursing as a result of an evaluation conducted by the league last fall.

The school will not be due for a re-examination before 1979. Commenting on the accreditation, Frances K. Peterson, Secretary for the League, said:

"The board of review commends all who addressed themselves to the ever present responsibility of improving the educational offerings of the school."

The American Dental Association has, as of Jan. 23, granted full approval of the dental services at Quincy City Hospital. In a letter to Paine, the association said:

"On behalf of the Council on Hospital Dental Services of the American Dental Association, I am pleased to inform you that approval of the dental service at Quincy City Hospital is continued as a result of the revaluation visit and consideration of the report by the Council."

Point Junior Students Get Facts On Social Security

Mrs. Mary Higgins, representative from the Social Security Office in Quincy was guest speaker at Quincy Point Junior High School Feb. 14, as part of the program to better relate mathematics and civics to students. The program was initiated by Mrs. Louise Schofield and Patrick Pappalardo, faculty members, in cooperation with Frank Culkin, manager of the Quincy Area Social Security Office.

Mrs. Higgins presented the ninth grade students with a concise history of Social Security since 1935 with emphasis on the broad changes recently enacted in this legislation. Stressed was the importance of students awareness and participation at as early an age as possible. Mrs. Higgins also indicated the need for a person to have only one social security number during his lifetime in order to avoid a "garbled claim" in later years.

In a continuing effort to prepare students for their adult roles as consumers and citizens, arrangements have been made for future speakers in the areas of banking, credit ratings, personnel work and non-government insurance.

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley is scheduled to address Point Junior students in the near future on "Cooperative Banks as They Effect Students Now and in Later Life."

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR MEDICARE

Most Americans age 65 or over are eligible for at least part of Medicare coverage. The exceptions are some federal workers and their dependents who - though not eligible are covered instead by the Federal Employees Health Benefits Act Plan begun in 1959.

Also excluded are: Aliens who haven't been admitted to the U.S. for permanent residence or who have not lived here continuously for five years just before filing for Medicare. People convicted of certain crimes, such as sabotage, espionage and sedition are also excluded from Medicare coverage.

Medicare is divided into two parts and eligibility requirements differ for each. Part A covers hospital insurance. You're automatically eligible if you are entitled to social security benefits. You don't even need work credits if you became 65 before 1968.

Part B of Medicare covers medical insurance. It's available even to those without work credits. This part is voluntary, though, and you must sign up within a definite enrollment period.

Bartley Tells Kemper PAC House Will Be Reduced To 160 Members

House Speaker David M. Bartley [D-Holyoke] predicts that the Massachusetts House of Representatives will be reduced from the current 240 members to 160 within two years.

He told members of an employees' Political Action Committee at the new Kemper Insurance Headquarters in North Quincy that the size of the House probably will be a question for referendum in the 1974 election.

But any change in the size of the House will not be effective until the 1978 elections [even if the proposal is passed] in the 1974 referendum, Bartley said.

Bartley also assailed Gov. Sargent's executive re-organization plan which he said has been oversold without proof that it will guarantee savings of more than $100 million a year as predicted.

The Political Action Committee at Kemper is a non-partisan group of employees interested in government who invite political leaders to speak at their meetings several times a year.

Miller Pleased

North Jayvees Wind Up With Impressive 14-4 Slate

Eddie Miller, who starred for Bob Nolan's first two North Quincy High basketball teams, returned to his alma mater this year as assistant and junior varsity coach and led his first jayvee team to an impressive 14-4 record, ending up with five wins in a row.

Miller, who excelled at Boston State and this year was one of the top scorers in the Cranberry League, a strong semi-pro circuit, succeeded Joe Amorosino as North's jayvee coach. Amorosino, following four successful seasons at North, took over as Quincy's junior varsity coach and the intra-city rivals broke even.

"We were rolling along with a 5-1 record when we played Quincy for the first time and this was one of our greatest wins of the year," Miller said. "We were sky high for the game but Quincy also was up for it. Trailing by five points with less than two minutes to play, we began clicking with Steve Miller and John Flynn leading the way.

"A Mark Reale foul shot and a Tim Clifford basket cut the lead to two points with less than a minute remaining. Miller then stole the ball at mid-court and scored on a layup to tie the game at 43-43 and send the game into overtime.

"In the overtime Miller made the first basket followed by Flynn's two clutch free throws to give us a 47-44 win. Miller had 13 points, Clifford 12 and Flynn nine, while Clifford and Reale controlled the boards and Jed Phalen did a great job directing the offense against Quincy's press."

The young Raiders had their worst night of the year in the following game and bowed to Medford, 45-31 and also lost their next game to Somerville, 39-34, to drop their record to 6-3.

After winning the next three games North was defeated by Amorosino's Quincy jayvees, 33-23. "The Quincy kids played a real fine game and put it all together for the win," Miller said.

Then North went on to win the next five games for the final 14-4 mark.

"Of our last five games our sweetest victory was over Medford," Miller explained. "Our boys put together a super offensive and defensive effort to win, 50-38. Clifford again led the scorers with 18 points, while Jack Rabel and Flynn had eight each and Carl Leone did a fine job on the boards."

Clifford led the team in scoring with an average of 13 points a game while he and Reale were the squad's top rebounders.

The North squad was made up of Juniors Flynn, Steve Maloney, Phalen, Frank Schuler, Leone, Steve McLaughlin, Jim Kenneally, Bill Berberan, Dick Coughlin and Miller, and Sophomores Clifford, Reale, Steve Martinelli, Bruce Shea, John Powell, Rabel, Jim Driscoll, Mike Bray, Bill Cenga, Dick Cobban and Walter Melton.

"I enjoyed my first year of coaching at North Quincy very much," Miller concluded. "I had a great bunch of kids and they worked as hard in practice as they did in the games."

ENC Captures Division I Crown, Seeks 2nd Title

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, hot as a firecracker over the second half of the season, gained one of its objectives last Saturday and Tuesday sought a second major goal.

The Crusaders last week toppled King's College of Briar Cliff Manor, N.Y., 80-70, at Quincy Voc-Tech gym in a playoff for the Division I National Christian College A.A. title. The teams had tied for the Seaboard Conference crown.

Tuesday they were scheduled to face the Division 2 champion, either Messiah College of Grantham, Pa., or Malone College of Canton, Ohio, the winner to play in the NCCAA National Tourney in Chattanooga, Tenn., Friday and Saturday. Tuesday's game also was at Quincy Voc-Tech.

ENC played in the national tourney the last two years, placing second two years ago and fourth a year ago. It became the first team from the Northeast ever to win a tourney game two years ago.

As usual, the sensational Ron Bradley of North Quincy was the difference in the win over King's. Bradley, one of the finest small college players in the East, and possibly the entire country, turned the game around when King's threatened.

At halftime the teams were tied, 40-40 as Bradley was pretty well contained by King's. But he exploded in the second half to finish up with 34 points [he is averaging close to 30 points a game], eight rebounds and five assists. And it was he who pulled the game out of King's reach in the last three and a half minutes.

King's trailed by only four points but Bradley, who had been taking a rest on the bench, came back to take personal control of the game.

King's tried a full-court press but the first time Bradley got the ball he zig-zagged the length of the court and sank a swooping layup. The next time he did the same thing, then he fed Howie Briggs for a short jumper and then dribbled out part of the clock before drawing a foul. That was that.

"It's real nice to have a player like Ron whom you can rely upon in a tight situation," Coach Jim Smith said. "Those two driving shots turned a tight game around and gave us a little breathing space."

Dave Eads and Briggs had 12 points apiece, Quincy's Rick Reyenger had 10 and 18 rebounds and North Quincy's Steve Shoff had 12 assists. Dave Constantine, also from North Quincy, was brilliant on defense.

Junior High Wrestling To Expand

This winter for the first time all Quincy junior high schools had wrestling teams and competed in a league as they do in other sports.

This program will be expanded next year and in two more years the sport will be introduced in the two high schools.

Pioneering wrestling in the junior high schools was Carmen Mariano, a teacher-coach at Sterling, who began the sport two years ago when he first began teaching there.

"I had about eight or 10 boys and we had one meet with Braintree Junior High," Mariano said.

"Last year we had about 30 boys here and we had four meets, two with Milton, one with Braintree and at the end of the year I approached Jack Oliva at Atlantic and we had a meet with them, the first such intra-city meet in history."

Mariano went on to explain that Carl Leone, Quincy's athletic coordinator, became interested in the program and this year all schools added wrestling.

The turnout at each school shows the interest in the sport.

Sterling had 20 boys, Broad Meadows 30, Atlantic 20, Central 25 and Point 15.

Although the sport is supposed to be on an intramural basis, each school faced the other once this winter. Next year two meets are planned with each school and an all-city meet will climax the season.

"I have always been interested in wrestling and I think it is a fine schoolboy sport," Mariano, a Quincy resident said. "I attended Archbishop Williams High School where there is no wrestling. [He was on the track team.] I wrestled at Catholic University in Washington and as sson as I began teaching at Sterling I was determined to start wrestling.

"There had been talk of starting it in the high schools next year but Mr. Leone and I agreed that at least three years of junior high wrestling was necessary before it was started on the high school level."

The coaches are Mariano at Sterling, John Bogan at Broad Meadows, Bob Schiess at Central, Brooks Maloof at Atlantic and Jerry Mulvey at Point.

"I am very enthused about this program and Carmen deserves a lot of credit for getting it started," Leone said.

"He is a very dedicated teacher and coach and all the other wrestling coaches are all dedicated and interested in the sport. I'm looking forward to adding wrestling to our high school program and think it will be a very worthy addition."

Many schools in the area including Weymouth, Braintree and Milton have had wrestling for years and several smaller schools have started the sport.

Sterling won this year's championship with a 4-0 record, followed by Broad Meadows, 3-1; Atlantic, 2-2, Central, 1-3, and Point, the smallest school in league, 0-4.

Jack Lemmon At His Best In 'Save The Tiger'

GEORGE JESSEL swings back into the cinema groove with a lead role in the soon-to-be-lensed comedy-satire, "FAREWELL TO A NAKED LADY"... With the ERROL FLYNN retrospective wave now catching vogue with today's nostalgia buffs watch for the handsomely muscled JAN-MICHAEL VINCENT to emerge as the 70's now generation answer to the swashbuckler of the 40's... For the curious, director GORDON PARKS SR. is an accomplished musician, professional artist, and still recognized as one of America's top fashion photographers...

Because of its sporadic use of street language the Rockumentary "WATTSTAX" was slapped wristed with an R-rating... BERNARDO ["LAST TANGO IN PARIS"] BERTOLUCCI is currently scripting his newest project "1900"... Still haven't seen "CABARET" yet?... KAREN BLACK has been added to the cast of "THE GREAT GATSBY" and LEE J. COBB, JACK WARDEN and GEORGE HAMILTON have been penciled in for important parts in the BURT REYNOLDS topliner "THE MAN WHO LOVED CATDANCING"...

If he so desires playwright NEIL SIMON can retire like right now. From all his sources of income, movies, stage plays, records, et al, SIMON is averaging $40,000 a week in feedback... DONALD SUTHERLAND explaining his role in "STEELYARD BLUES": "The part I play is not that of a criminal, but of an outlaw"... And there is a difference to the two as this calculating comedy shows. In the film Sutherland plays the black sheep in the family, a prominent one for sure, who would rather win automobile destruction derbies than elections for his District Attorney brother... "STEELYARD BLUES"-offbeat, escapist cinema frolic...

QUOTABLE, QUOTES: MEL STEWART the star of "TRICK BABY" discussing the first time he's been starred in a movie: "I accept stardom as recognition for my work through the years, in films, on TV and the Broadway and off-Broadway stage"... "CRIES AND WHISPERS" was INGMAR BERGMAN'S first film that was shot entirely on location, rather than in the confines of a studio or on lands closely surrounding his own home...

JACK LEMMON is sheer brilliance in "SAVE THE TIGER" and a definite frontrunner for an Academy Award in 1974... LEMMON throws himself heart and soul into his role of Harry Stoner, a middle-aged man who, in one 36-hour period, is confronted with his life and all he has worked for... "SAVE THE TIGER" raises some interesting questions about American values and the hypocrisy involved in the contemporary setting of "getting ahead" at any cost... "TIGER" blazes new frontiers of the American social conscience...and already one of the most talked of pictures of the new season...Must see viewing...

In the other two matches the Queen Pins ousted the Hi-Nooners 1494-1435, to qualify for the semi-finals next Sunday and will meet the Hi-Lighters who defeated the Rag Dolls 1464-1445 in Sundays rolloff.

The Queen Pins jumped off to a 33 pin first string lead, saw the Hi-Nooners only able to gain 2 pins back in a second string; but the Queen Pins put it safely out of reach in the final string with a 479 to the Hi-Nooners cold 452.

Jini Seaver topped the losers with 299, while Barbra Santry bowled 288, Barbra Gilfeather 287, Sheila Ritchie 281, and Flo Stevens 280.

In the closest match of the day, the Hi-Lighters bowling high team single pinfall for the day with a 522, opening string to the Rag Dolls 474, dropped the second string by 30 pins, but held off the losers in the last string losing the string by one, and winning the match by 19 pins.

Chrisey Petrelli led the winners with 333, followed by Jane Dupont 309, Barbra Worden 291, and Shirley Sickorez 272.

Marie Tidwell's 304 was tops for the losers, trailing behind Lou Wilson and Jean Doherty 295, and Barbra DiChristofaro 283.

y 10-1 Inches Of Snow

nowless' Winter Saves Taxpayers Over $200,000

By TOM HENSHAW

An almost snowless winter apparently is going to save the city of Quincy more than $200,000.

Spring arrived at 1:33 p.m. Tuesday and it was discovered that Quincy had spent only $113,533.71 on snow removal since the season began in October.

And $15,000 of that is stashed away in the form of left over salt and sand that the Department of Public Works is saving for next winter.

On an average winter, Quincy would have spent about $310,000 by this time of the year.

When spring had sprung Tuesday, City Auditor Alexander Smith provided these figures on snow removal costs from Oct. 1, 1972 to date:

Labor: $39,684.47.
Expenses: $73,849.24.

From Oct. 1 through Dec. 31, the total cost was $50,605.21; from Jan. 1 until 1:33 p.m., March 20, it was $62,928.50.

And if dollar signs don't impress you, consider these figures from the U.S. Weather Bureau at Logan Airport:

This winter: 10.1 inches.

John J. Lydon First City Election Candidate

The first hat is in Quincy's 1973 political ring.

It was tossed in Wednesday by John J. Lydon, who lives at 468 Beale St., Wollaston, and is president of the Lydon-Russell Funeral Home.

Lydon is running for the Quincy City Council but he hasn't decided if he'll run from his home Ward 5 or at-large or from some other ward if the city is forced to reapportion.

Lydon, a 15-year resident of Quincy, is an associate member of the Ward 5 Democratic Committee and treasurer of the Young Democrats of Quincy.

He has served as chairman of the Capital Improvement Committee for Quincy, vice chairman of the Quincy Rent Grievance Board and capital budget advisor for the Quincy City Council.

He is also a director of the Wollaston Business and Professional Association, an officer in the North Quincy Knights of Columbus and the Wollaston U.C.T., and vice president of St. Ann's Holy Name Society.

A graduate of Northeastern and the New England Institute, Lydon is married to the former Diane Hall. They have four children, David, Janet, Carol and Michelle.

Non-Smokers Insurance

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has spoken out in favor of a bill that would reduce life insurance rates for applicants who have not smoked for more than one year.

"There is no question in my mind," said Brownell, "that the non-cigarette smoker is a better life insurance risk. He should be entitled to a better rate.

Quincy Group Sees Archbishop Become Prince Of Church

'There Was No Doubt To Whom He Was Talking'

Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, attended the Consistory elevating Archbishop Umberto Medeiros to a Cardinal--a Prince of the Church. Here is his eye-witness account of the colorful traditional ceremonies and his impressions of Rome itself.

By REV. JOHN J. McMAHON
Pastor St. Mary's Church

When the news was announced that Archbishop Medeiros was nominated for the College of the Cardinals I had no idea of how it would affect my life.

The thought that I would be there in Rome with him never entered my mind.

Then two weeks before the Consistory I saw the ad in the papers announcing a pilgrimage from Boston to Rome. The price was very right. Even then I had no thought to join the group.

On Wednesday Feb. 14, I said the 9 A.M. Mass at St. Mary's. As I entered the sacristy Monsignor John Mullarkey, as is his usual welcome, was waiting to say Mass. [illegible] Consistory I [illegible] pilgrimage. About two hours later Monsignor Mullarkey called and asked if he went, would I go. That was all I needed.

The delightful Mullarkey sisters, Nora and Margaret, naturally were in. Two mornings later Sister Joanice, the principal of St. Mary's School, came into the rectory. I invited her along. After I picked her up from the floor she said she thought she could get permission. She did. I mentioned it to Mary and Eva Neely. After much

Free 'Make-Up' Measles Clinic Saturday

City Health Commissioner Alfred V. Mahoney announces there will be a "make-up" measles vaccine clinic Saturday from noon until 2 p.m., at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The clinic is for Quincy residents only and will be free of charge.

Dr. Mahoney said measles vaccine has been offered at the Well-Baby Clinics for pre-school children, and in the schools for children up to and including grade eight.

"However, we now have an additional supply of the vaccine", he said, "and would like to immunize students in grades 9, 10, 11 and 12. The Saturday clinic will be open to children and young adults from age one year and older.

Dr. Mahoney advises "when in doubt, have the booster". For the most part, there are no reactions to the vaccine and no harm can come from a child receiving a booster dose who has received the vaccine earlier in life. Junior High and High School students are urged to have the measles booster, he noted. Dr. Mahoney expressed concern about the fact that there have been over 20 cases of measles in the 12 to 17 year old age group, during the past two weeks. Cases have been reported at Quincy High School, Quincy Vocational Technical School, North Quincy High School, Central Junior High and Broad Meadows Junior High School. Vaccine is now available for this age group.

If parents have any doubts about previous immunization against measles, Dr. Mahoney recommended that the child be re-vaccinated. Some parents thought their children did not need the vaccine because they "already had the measles". Many of these same children are presently ill with a genuine case of measles.

The danger of complications of measles is more serious than the disease itself. "Measles is so unnecessary today", said Dr. Mahoney, "as protection against the disease is available."

"We have now made the vaccine available to all Quincy residents of all ages," Dr. Mahoney said. "To-date, since January 1973, over 6,068 shots have been given. Hopefully, before the anticipated outbreak of "Spring Measles", the City of Quincy will be completely protected."

25-Cent MBTA Fares Off Hours

Fares on the MBTA's South Shore line are going down – but only between certain hours and only for 90 days.

General Manager Joseph C. Kelly has announced that fares from the three Quincy stations to Boston will be reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday through Friday beginning April 2.

The fare from Boston to Quincy between those hours will go down from 25 cents to a dime and passengers riding between the Quincy stations will pay only 10 cents instead of the usual quarter.

The fare reduction will be in effect during a 90 day experimental period in an effort to attract riders to the MBTA during the off-peak travel hours.

Tourists Top Objective

Improving the tourist flow into the South Shore as well as attracting conventions to the area are of prime concern to the South Shore Chamber of Commerce according to Rev. John R. Graham, Quincy, Chairman of the Chamber's "Tourist Attractions" inventory committee.

Rev. Mr. Graham said his group has inventoried all the tourist attractions on the South Shore and is currently planning several land and water tours to attract tourists and conventions. High-light of his committee's activity will be an all-day land and water tour of these attractions by his committee and other interested citizens in the middle of April.

Traffic Supervisors To Be Honored By HN Legion Post

School Traffic Supervisors Dorothy Rae and Eleanor Tobin will be given citations of appreciation by the Houghs Neck Legion Post Saturday night at the post home.

The ceremony will follow an 8 p.m. initiation of new members conducted by Commander Willard J. Timcoe and his officers.

Mrs. Rae, a Houghs Neck resident for more than 30 years and one of Quincy's first women supervisors, has been on duty for 17 years at the Atherton Hough School. A life-long resident, Mrs. Tobin has been stationed at the Great Hill School since it opened in 1956.

Each has three children and several grandchildren. In 1965 they were honored as "Good Neighbors" by the Houghs Neck Community Council.

The program is open to the public.

Park-Recreation Board members are scheduled to be re-appointed next week. No change in the board's make-up is anticipated.

Five of the seven members are appointed by the Mayor, two by the City Council.

William Mitchell of North Quincy will be signing the city clerk's register to begin his 31st year on the board. He's serving the longest consecutive term in the history of the city. [The late Ernest Collins served for a greater number of years, but they were not consecutive.]

Mitchell was appointed in 1942 by Mayor Charles Ross and has served under five other mayors: Thomas Burgin, David McIntosh, Amelio DellaChiesa, James McIntyre and Walter Hannon.

Secretary of the board, Miss Katherine McCoy of Montclair, will be sworn in for her 22nd year and Gerard Coletta, Jr. of West Quincy will begin his 11th year. Incidentally, Coletta was appointed in 1962, the year that the Park Board and the Recreation Board merged.

Other members serving on the board include: Joseph Burke of Wollaston, chairman; Theodore DeCristofaro of Quincy Point, vice chairman; Joseph Brophy of Houghs Neck; and School Committeeman Daniel Raymondi of Quincy Point.

- POWS Marked Men?
- Meanwhile, Back In Vietnam
- Hard To Say No To 'Godfather'

WASHINGTON — The news stories have focused on the happy return of U.S. forces from Vietnam. But the confidential cables from our embassy in Saigon tell another side of the story. The departing Americans are leaving behind hordes of former employes who are now out of work, thousands of shops and businesses that depended upon American purchases, endless rice fields that have been devastated or abandoned because of the war.

The United States has pumped billions into the South Vietnamese economy. Now the sudden American departure, according to our embassy, could create an economic crisis more serious than the Communist military threat. Communist agitators can be expected to exploit the economic unrest.

In human terms, the U.S. forces employed 150,000 Vietnamese in administrative and service jobs, trained another 300,000 as secretaries and truck drivers. This doesn't include the uncounted cooks, maids and handymen who worked for the Americans. There's the untold story, too, of the tens of thousands of bar girls, prostitutes and mistresses who have also been left out in the cold.

Some of the legitimate workers have filed claims for more money. But U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker has arranged with the Saigon government to pay the minimum separation that the local labor laws allow. A confidential cable to the State Department states: "The Foreign Service Act requires that U.S. forces establish wages and benefits for local employes based on local laws, customs and practices. . . . The Ministry of Labor has formally asked us to pay the claimants (the legal minimum)."

In 1971, the U.S. forces paid out more than $400 million for everything from barbed wire to service contracts. This outlay has now been reduced to a trickle, leaving many businesses destitute. And the war has put more than a million acres of rice land out of production.

The American pull-out, in other words, could cause a dangerous depression and leave South Vietnam vulnerable to the Communist takeover that the United States fought to prevent.

Grain Forecast

Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz has just returned from Moscow where he discussed expanding Soviet-American trade. He brought with him intelligence reports forecasting that the Soviet grain shortage will continue throughout this year.

White House sources admit privately that the Soviets skinned us in last year's great billion-dollar grain deal. The Soviet negotiators kept overstating their needs and implying, therefore, that they could buy their grain elsewhere if they didn't get the right terms. They wound up buying more grain, however, than was available from any other source. Such a huge purchase, of course, drove up the price of grain. So the American housewife is now paying more for bread than it should cost in Russia for bread made from American wheat.

Before Shultz opened the new round of bargaining, therefore, he made sure that he received the best available estimates on Soviet grain needs.

Last year's crop failure, it is estimated, reduced Soviet seed grain reserves from a normal 30 million tons to half that amount. Of course, the Soviets replenished their stocks partially from the American purchases. But deep frosts, without sufficient snow cover to protect the seedlings, will force the Soviets to resow millions of acres in the Urals and Siberia.

Seed grain reserves are estimated to be critically low in Russia. This means the Soviets once again must turn to the United States for enough grain to feed their people.

Marked Men

Our returning POWs are getting deserved, first-class treatment from the government. Uncle Sam has picked up the tab for the travel and rooms of the families who have come to meet the returning men. President Nixon has even sent corsages to the POWs' wives.

The outpouring of public sentiment has taken the form of other gifts for the men. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, for example, has promised all POWs a lifetime pass to all major league games. Ford has offered the use of a free car for a year, hotels have offered vacations and breweries have offered free beer. A national "Welcome Home" extravaganza is now being planned to take place in the Texas Cotton Bowl.

But the National League of Families of POWs and MIAs feel that all these gifts may actually be psychologically damaging to the men and they also cause resentment among the families of those men wounded or killed in the war.

The Veterans Administration has listed 23,000 who are 100 per cent disabled because of the war — young men who received no special treatment when they returned from an unpopular war.

None of this is the fault of the POWs. But some families have expressed concern that the special attention may make the returning prisoners marked men, who receive deference wherever they go. This could slow the painful process of getting back into the mainstream of American society.

The outpouring of the nation's heart to the men is gratifying. Certainly, they deserve our respect and honor. But some experts believe they need — even more — privacy and time to readjust.

Couldn't Refuse

It's hard to say no to the "Godfather," as the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences found out recently.

The Academy chose the theme from the "Godfather" as one of the five finalists for best film score of the year. After the choice was made, the experts learned that 13 minutes of the score were not written by the announced composer, Nino Rota, but by another Tin Pan Alley artist. (To their further chagrin, the Academy learned that another section of the "Godfather" score was heard in the film "Fortunella" several years ago.)

Many Academy board members wanted to drop the "Godfather" score from the list of finalists, but in the end, as in the film, the Godfather's word was law.

● QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Extra Property Tax This Year ?

"Will I be paying an extra six months property tax this year because the cities and towns are adopting an 18 month budget?" asked on caller to the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone.

"No", reports the League but many people are confused about the process of changing municipal budgets from a calendar year to a fiscal year to conform to state and federal budgeting procedures.

The Voter Information Phone advised callers that the changeover would not cost them more in taxes; it would only allow one earlier collection date for the last six months period. For example, town meetings this spring will adopt a budget to carry them from January 1973 to June 1974. However, the entire tax for this period will not be collected at one time.

The January 1973 to December 1973 tax bill [or two-thirds of the tax bill for eighteen month period] will be due and payable as it always has been on July 1, 1973. Taxpayers will continue to have until November 1, 1973 to pay this amount. The only change is that the next six month period January 1974 to June 1974 [or the final one third of the eighteen month tax] will be due and payable May 1, 1974.

Town meetings in the spring of 1974 will then be able to discuss their next budget in advance since it will not go into effect until July 1, 1974 and will pertain to the coming twelve month fiscal year.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP Phone Monday through Friday between 10:00 and 2:00 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

Urges Passage Of Bill For Mental Illness Insurance Coverage

Editor, Quincy Sun:

H.2292, sponsored by Rep. Charles Flaherty, would provide insurance coverage for mental illness in all health insurance policies. It would apply to both in-patient and out-patient care and would end the discrimination against the mentally ill in existing health insurance policies.

In 1972 the South Shore Mental Health Center, Quincy, treated 2,000 children and adults, only 20 clients were fortunate enough to have mental health insurance coverage.

We urge our representatives in the legislature to support H.2292 which was heard by the Insurance Committee on March 13. It covers mental illness on the same basis that physical illness is now covered in health insurance policies. This would be at a minimal cost to the consumer and would result in real savings to the taxpayer and to state government which would be reimbursed by third-party payments for treating mental patients.

Nearly eight million federal employees have this kind of coverage, under Aetna Insurance and Blue Cross contracts. Over three million Auto Union members and their families are covered by a similar plan. Their utilization rate is less than two percent. Thus both in costs and in use rate mental illness has proved insurable and in line with sound actuarial practice.

Mental illness is insurable at a reasonable cost. Such coverage may also reduce or prevent hospitalization as demonstrated among federal employees in Washington, D.C. For the past five years Massachusetts Blue Cross has provided such inpatient and outpatient coverage as a rider on its Master Medical Contract, at a cost of only $17 a year for a family, or less than 2% of total Blue Cross coverage which is now about $700 a year.

We urge our South Shore legislators to speak to Senator Daniel Foley and Rep. Raymond LaFontaine, Senate and House Chairmen of the Insurance Committee, within the next two weeks, and urge them and other members of the Committee to approve H.2292.

Mrs. Kathleen Arnold, Chairman
Public Affairs Committee
South Shore Mental Health
Association, Quincy.

Offers To Debate Wollaston Minister

Doctor Calls Abortion 'Murder In No Uncertain Terms'

A former Quincy physician, speaking out against abortion, today called interruption of life of the fetus "murder in no uncertain terms."

Dr. Vincent Pattavina, now of Braintree, voiced strong opposition to the stand taken by a Wollaston minister favoring the U.S. Supreme Court's decision legalizing abortion.

Dr. Pattavina said he would be glad to debate Rev. Lloyd F. Martin, minister of Wollaston Congregational Church, "at Quincy High School or any high school or at his church or anywhere."

Dr. Pattavina said that according to the International Conference on Abortion, Washington D.C., human life begins at conception.

He said that contrary to Rev. Mr. Martin's contention, the fetus during the first trimester [up to 12 weeks] is recognizable as a human being.

"Interruption of life of the fetus is murder in no uncertain terms," Dr. Pattavina declared. "We of the Judeo-Christian [Orthodox Jews and Christians] ethic are agreed on the issue."
